By a united effort on the part of those who supported the democratic nominees in the state election last year a constitutional convention can be ordered by the next session of general assembly and a new constitution can then be framed and adopted.

Such a united effort can be secured by the adoption of a platform dealing alone with state issues.

Without such a platform there is no hope of securing unity of action on the part of the men who hold to different financial views and who voted for Gov. Johnston in the last state election.

There is no sacrifice of principle for both sides to agree to keep national issues out of the state campaign, and it is perfectly clear to our mind that it is the very best thing that can be done for the party and for the state of Alabama.—Hot Blast.

Coosa Advocate. The Populites are trying to revive the stale song about the Democrats advocating "virtue and intelligence controlling the government." This argument too is weak. Such "stuff" as this will subject them to the ridicule of the people. The people in the state mean business. Our populist friends will learn that prejudice argument won't take in the next campaign. The party that indorses issues that will reinstate this government to its normal condition will be the party that the voter will cast his ballot for. If the populists desire a fighting chance in the next election they will have to lift themselves above such absurd assertions as this and fight for principles.

CITY COUNCIL.

The City Council held a regular meeting on Tuesday night at which some important business was transacted. The mayor announced the standing committees, after which the school question was discussed at some length. It was decided that it was of the greatest importance to the city that the Public school system should be extended and improved, and that comfortable and commodious school buildings should be erected as soon as practicable. With a view to this end the council adopted a resolution by the unanimous vote of all the members present, to issue bonds for this purpose, and in accordance with the provisions of the charter of the city, called an election for the purpose of submitting the matter to the vote of the free holders of the city, said election to be held on the 9th day of August next. Other matters pertaining to finances, good order, and the general improvement in the city's affairs were discussed and received attention. The members of the council gave every evidence that they were not at all discouraged by the failure to secure the Agricultural school for our town, but that they proposed to put forth every effort possible for the upbuilding of the educational interests of our city.

MEETING OF SHELBY COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY.

Dr. Sanders, State Health Officer, Present, and gave Able Counsel.

Selby Springs, Ala., July 7, 1897.

ERRON SENTINEL. One of the most important meetings of the Shelby Co. Medical Society held for years convened in Columbiana yesterday. Quite a number of physicians were on hand as the decision about the existence of smallpox was to be determined by the State Health Officer, Dr. Sanders, of Mobile.

After an elegant dinner at the White House, given in honor of the physicians by Dr. James Williams, the Society met in the grand jury room of the court house and proceeded to business.

Dr. C. C. Oliver was unanimously called to preside over the meeting. While Dr. Sanders was presenting the necessity of strict vigilance—in epidemic diseases and backing up the County Health Officer in protecting the public from contagious diseases—before the County Commissioners, the Society was discussing the subject of Variola in all its stages, etc. After Dr. Sanders had finished his remarks before the Commissioners he was introduced to the Society and addressed them.

Dr. J. R. Morgan, the worthy Secretary, made a motion to quiz Jim Neely, a colored man who resides near the reputed cases of smallpox, whereupon it was done. After hearing what he knew of the cases, there existed some doubt as to the real existence of the disease, especially of Dr. W. S. DuBose's case who treated the suspected cases, and who was reported to have a case of varioloid in his own person. To cut matters short, Dr. John Williams made a motion to ask Dr. Sanders to go at once to see Dr. DuBose and render his decision in his case. Upon his return, the Society was notified that he did not think that Dr. DuBose had varioloid. So the people who were more largely interested in the determination of his case—were greatly relieved of their apprehensions. Dr. Sanders, after visiting the suspected cases with Dr. Roe—and the cases which Dr. DuBose had treated—returned his decision in the affirmative, i. e. that they surely had it. The Society, after thanking Dr. Sanders for his visitation and his wise counselling in matters pertaining to the interests of the profession, adjourned sine die.

Mr. Lanham heard the window sash fall as the party or parties made their exit, and jumping out of bed he seized his pistol and ran out in pursuit. As he got outside of the house he thought he saw the form of a man disappearing in the darkness and fired upon the fleeing figure but without result so far as he could ascertain. This is the second time that Mr. Lanham has been visited by burglars within a month, and he has been a heavy loser each time. He is taking active steps to catch up with the thieves and the police are on the alert, and it is hoped that they may be successful in effecting their capture.

PLEASURE and PROFIT

—OUT OF—
<WHO A AND WORRY>

Try it. We Guarantee.

If any Break should occur in the Castings the Part or Parts Will Be Replaced Without Charge.

This implement we place before the public with pleasure. A new invention; a Revolving Plow Fender, a labor saving implement to the farmer. Something that he has long needed, and one that gives desired results, not obtained from any other fender.

How you obtain these results you will see in part, from the above cut, and a description of how it performs its work.

You will observe that the Fender is disc that rolls between the plow and the plant, and only the amount of soil desired is allowed to pass from plow to plant. By adjusting it to suit the work and the upward motion of the rear part of the disc all the rocks, clods, etc., are thrown in the rear of plow and only the pulverized soil allowed to pass to the plants in a uniform and regular quantity.

All farmers know that it is the overturning dirt and clods, the plow upheaves, that knocks down and covers up small plants. We effectually avoid this trouble by the disc intercepting the overturning soil, allowing the pulverized dirt to pass to plant on an undercurrent, under the rear circle of the disc, thereby preventing the plants from being knocked down or covered up.

The rolling disc passes over any stalks, litter, etc., that it comes in contact with, which gives it the best anti-clogging qualities of any Fender on the market. The construction of the Fender is such, that it can be adjusted in any way desired, and works equally well on either side of the plow.

The tilting motion enables it to adjust itself to the unevenness of the surface without interfering with the depth of the plowing, in the least, as the plow works as free and easy as it would without it.

It is complete within itself, and can be attached and adjusted without the use of extra tools.

WE GUARANTEE—1st. To practically do away with the usual annoyances, such as having to use the slowest horse for the first running around, stopping to uncover, straighten up, etc. 2nd. That if the Fender is properly applied and used, it will save one-third the amount of hoeing over any implement now in use. 3rd. That you can do as much plowing around small plants as you can in the middle. 4th. That you can plow your crops from two to three weeks earlier with it than you can without it.

All these advantages we give you for the sum of one dollar and seventy-five cents and when you have tried it two or three days, if you think you have not made a good investment you can return it and we will refund your money.

TESTIMONIALS.

Mr. J. H. Frost—Dear Sir: I used your Plow Fender the past season, and find it to be the best invention I ever saw, and would not be without it for twice its cost. Yours truly, A. J. WOOLLEY.

Mr. J. H. Frost, Calera, Ala.: Having thoroughly tested your Plow Fender cheerfully say that no farming implement has given so much value for the investment. Don't believe now I could make a crop without them. There is more genuine service in your money than any implement I ever used. Yours, resp'y A. J. KERSH.

Six Mile, Ala., Jan. 13, 1896.—This is to certify that I have lived on a farm 40 years, and have used a great many fixtures for plowing small plants, and I hereby certify that the Frost Fender is the only thing of the kind I ever used, that would do the work just to suit me. J. M. HAYES.

Randolph, Sept. 28, 1895.—Mr. J. H. Frost, Calera, Dear Sir: Having used your Plow Fender, we certify that it is all you claim for it, and more, it being the best thing we have ever used for the protection of small plants while plowing them. As ever, yours, T. J. & F. J. FITTS.

Trio, Ala., Sept. 26, 1895.—J. H. Frost, Dear Sir: Having used your Plow Fender we find it to be the very thing. It does excellent work, and every farmer needs them and ought to have them, and would not be without them after once trying them. E. H. ELLIOTT & SON.

Ashby, Ala., Oct. 15, 1896.—Mr. J. H. Frost, Calera, Dear Sir: Having used your Plow Fender the past season, it affords me pleasure to add my testimony of its good merits. It is one of the few implements I ever saw that would do perfectly and satisfactorily all that was claimed for it. Yours truly, J. GEE OAKLEY.

Flillusters Land in Cuba.

The Spanish gunboat, Reina Maria Christina, which was cruising about the coast, endeavored to intercept the expedition but without success.

Anarchists Arrested in Rome.

A special dispatch from Rome says that eight Anarchists have been arrested there on suspicion of complicity in the attempt upon the life of King Humbert, made by Pietro Acciarito, on April 23. Acciarito attempted to stab his Majesty while on his way to the races, and after trial and conviction was sentenced on May 29 to imprisonment for life in the galleys.

Imprisoned in a Cave.

A few days ago a party went from Spring City, Tenn., to explore the grassy bowl cave near Crossville. One of the party, James Anderson, fell about 40 feet to the bottom of a hole in one of the caverns. The messenger who brought the news to Chattanooga, Thursday, said that when he left Anderson had not been rescued, though his cries could be heard in the bottom of the pit.

Race Across the Atlantic.

The American Line steamer St. Louis, from Southampton, and the Cunard liner Campania, from Liverpool via Queenstown, arrived at New York quarantine Friday evening, the former at 8:16, three minutes ahead of her rival, the Campania. Both steamers had had a most exciting race for 16 hours, the American liner winning by only three minutes. The St. Louis made the passage in 6 days 10 hours 37 minutes, and the Campania's time was 5 days 15 hours 16 minutes.

American Cruiser Arrives at Tangier.

The United States cruiser San Francisco has arrived at Tangier, Morocco, and the United States cruiser Raleigh was expected there Friday. The San Francisco and Raleigh have been sent to Tangier to support the protest of United States Consul General Burke against the discrimination of the authorities of Morocco against Americans in refusing to permit them to employ native help, a privilege which is allowed Europeans. American citizens, in consequence have suffered inconvenience and loss.

Warning to Turkey.

The semi-official Fremdenblatt, of Vienna, Austria, warns Turkey that the harmony of the powers is not impaired, and that the policy of the Turkish government is doomed to failure if it counts upon a disagreement. The Fremdenblatt adds: "Russia and France, like the other powers, have agreed that the negotiations must be brought to a close, and the Porte will become convinced that its attempts to deduce extreme consequences from the Turkish victories are vain and must fall before the firm will of Europe."

A Test of Civil Service Rules.

As a result of the announcement by United States Marshal Kenchal that all the Democratic deputies in that office would have to retire in favor of Republicans on August 1, Charles P. Taylor, a deputy, asked Judge Baker, this morning, for an injunction against his chief. The case will afford a test of the civil service law. A Democratic attorney preeral has declared that the duties are in the classified list. It was later agreed that Kercheval would retain Taylor till September, when the application will be heard.

A Thrice-Stricken Family.

News of a deplorable accident in the family of Frank Warden, a well known farmer, living near Compton, in the Gaither mountains, Ark., has been received. Two of his children, a boy aged 7 and a girl aged 9, were in the barn yard gathering eggs. In one hen's nest they discovered a huge rattlesnake and were badly bitten. Their mother, hearing the children scream, hurriedly put her baby on the floor and ran to their assistance. Both children bitten by the rattlesnake died in terrible agony, and while the mother was absent from her babe it fell into a tub of water and was drowned.

Holocaust of a Family.

Hugh Joeson and family of five, who lived fifteen miles northeast of Pineville, Ky., were burned to death Tuesday night, being unable to escape from their cottage, which was fired over their heads. The dead are: Hugh Joeson, the father; Mary Joeson, his wife; Fannie Joeson, a daughter 14 years old; John Joeson, a son, 10 years old; Maggie, a daughter, 6 years old. The remains of all six were found in the debris. The fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin, and the Bell county officers are taking steps to discover the guilty parties.

Weyler Again Recalled.

The Sun's Havana cable says: "Gen. Weyler has been recalled by the central government. As soon as the Captain-general enters Havana from Santo Espiritu he will tender his resignation. It is likely he will not turn over the government of Cuba to his second in office and start at once for Spain, as many Captain-generals have done, but will remain in office until his successor arrives. Cable dispatches from Spain, received by way of Key West, say the government intends to replace Weyler with Gen. Ramon Blanco, Marquis of Pena Plata, who was Captain-general of the island in 1878, and who held the same office in the Philippines when the revolution began there.

Desperate Duel in the Dark.

A dance was held at the home of Frank Finn, a miner, near the Austrian camp, Greenwood, Ark., Thursday night, at which beer flowed freely. Tom Stergule and Antonio Dollar became involved in a difficulty over a woman. When the dance was over Stergule followed Dollar to his room and a bloody fight began. Stergule used a long knife and Dollar defended himself with his razor. The candle was extinguished and they fought in the dark until Stergule lay dead, literally cut to pieces and Dollar was fatally wounded, having received fifteen knife thrusts. The room in which the fight took place presented a gruesome sight when the duel was over, blood being spattered all over the floor, walls and furniture. Dollar's razor blade was found imbedded in the body of his victim.

UNCLE SAM'S MINT.

Millions Idly Lying in Its Vaults at New Orleans.

Mr. Caleb Whitehead, assayer of the mint department in Washington, D.C., who arrived in New Orleans about ten days ago to count the money in the United States mint, completed his count Thursday and left for Washington Friday evening. Although Mr. Whitehead does not make any official report until he returns to Washington, it is understood that he found all the moneys deposited in the mint correctly accounted for. The following sums, in round numbers, are now on deposit at the mint:

Held for the Murder of Thomas.

Zack Hollans, Chas. Clark and Joe Williams were Saturday bound over by Justice Benners, of Birmingham, Ala., for the murder of Jas. Thomas, colored. In default of $1,000 bonds they went to jail. The dead man and the defendants lived at Blossburg, near Birmingham. Last Thursday night an unknown negro entered Hollans' house and tried to assault his wife. She screamed and the negro fled. The next day Thomas stated that he could point out the criminal, and spent part of the day with a posse of white men looking for him. The next morning his dead body was found in a gulch near town, and the negroes charged his death to the white men, believing they killed him on suspicion of him being the criminal. The testimony showed that the defendants were seen with Thomas near the gulch Friday night shortly before 7 or 8. Shots were heard there. The case has excited intense interest, as the negro's death almost provoked a race war at Blossburg. The negroes employed good counsel to prosecute the defendants and are delighted.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

THE TARIFF BILL PASSES THE SENATE BY A VOTE OF 38 TO 28.

Thursday's Session was Uneventful—The House, by a Party Vote, Adjourned Monday until Wednesday—The House Sends the Tariff Bill to Conference.

SENATE.

MONDAY.—In some respects the senate made good progress to-day, disposing of two important amendments, that placing a stamp tax agreed to with little or no opposition and without the formality of a vote, while the Spooner amendment proposing a tariff investigation was withdrawn, after a protracted struggle. The stamp amendment, as agreed on, fixes the following rates on bonds, etc.: "Bonds, debentures or certificates of indebtedness issued after September 15, 1897, by any association, company or corporation, on each hundred dollars of face value or fraction thereof, five cents; and on each original issue, whether an organization or reorganization, of certificate of stock by any such association, company or corporation on each hundred dollars of face value or fraction thereof, five cents and on all transfers of shares or certificates of stock in any association, company or corporation on each hundred dollars of face value or fraction thereof two cents." Exemptions from the stamp tax are made in the case of State, county and municipal bonds and stocks and bonds of co-operative building associations. At 5:30 the bill was laid aside and after an executive session of ten minutes the senate adjourned.

TUESDAY.—The final vote on the tariff bill will be taken in the senate before adjournment to-morrow, a definite agreement assented to by all parties, having been reached at the close of the debate to-day. The agreement is as follows: "That debate on the tariff bill shall proceed under the five minute rule after 1 p.m. to-morrow and that the final vote on the bill shall be taken before adjournment to-morrow." During the day the anti-trust question was debated at length and Mr. Pettus' amendment on the subject was defeated, 33 36. At 6:10 the senate adjourned.

WEDNESDAY.—The tariff bill was passed in the senate to-day. The early part of the day was spent on amendments of comparatively minor importance. By 4 o'clock the senators began manifesting their impatience by calling for "vote," "vote," and soon thereafter the last amendment was disposed of and the final vote began. There were many interruptions as pairs were arranged, and 4:55 the vice-president arose and announced the passage of the bill: Yeas 38; nays 28. Tariff vote in detail: Yeas—Allison, Baker, Burrows, Carter, Clark, Cullom, Davis, Deboe, Elkins, Fairbanks, Foraker, Gallinger, Hale, Hanna, Hawley, Jones of Nevada; Lodge, McBridge, McEnery, McMillin, Mantle, Mason, Morrill, Nelson, Penrose, Perkins, Platt of Connecticut; Platt of New York; Pritchard, Proctor, Quay, Sewell, Shoup, Spooner, Warren, Wellington, Wetmore and Wilson; 38. Nays—Bacon, Bate, Berry, Caffery, Cannon, Chilton, Clay, Cockrell, Faulkner, Gray, Harris of Kansas; Jones of Arkansas; Kenney, Lindsay, Mallory, Martin, Mills, Mitchell, Morgan, Pasco, Pettus, Rawlins, Roach, Turner, Turpie, Vest, Walthall and White; 28. An analysis of the final vote shows that the affirmative was cast by 35 Republicans, 2 silver Republicans, Jones of Nevada, and Mantle, and one Democrat, McEnery; total 38. The negative vote was cast by 25 Democrats, 2 Populists, Harris of Kansas, and Turner, and one silver Republican, Cannon; total 28. Eight Republicans were paired for the bill and eight Democrats against it. The senators present and not voting were: Populists 6, viz: Allen, Butler, Heitfeld, Kyle and Stewart; Republicans 2, viz: Taylor and Pettigrew. Following the passage of the bill a resolution was agreed to asking the house for a conference, and Messrs. Allen, Aldrich, Platt, Conn, Burrows, Jones of Nevada, and White were named as conferees on the part of the senate. At 5 p.m. the senate held an executive session and then adjourned.

THURSDAY.—The session of the senate to-day was uneventful, the deficiency appropriation bill being considered throughout the day. Among its provisions is one accepting the invitation of France to participate in the Paris exposition of 1900. A new committee amendment was agreed to, appropriating $5,000 in full indemnity to the heirs of three Italians lynched in Louisiana in 1896, as was also one appropriating to the widow of the late Representative Cook, of Illinois $5,000. At 5:20 the bill was laid aside and after an executive session the senate adjourned.

FRIDAY.—The senate adjourned out of respect to the memory of Senator Harris. Resolutions were adopted for a public funeral in the senate chamber to-morrow, to which the president, cabinet, supreme court and diplomatic corps will be invited. After the senate adjournment the vice-president appointed the following named senators to attend the remains of the late Senator Harris to Memphis. Messrs. Bate, Walthall, Berry, Turpie, Allen, Deboe, Pettus, Chilton and Wetmore, HOUSE.

MONDAY.—The house by a party vote, without transacting any business, took a recess until Wednesday, to be ready for the tariff bill, if completed then by the senate.

FRIDAY.—The house to-day sent the tariff bill to conference. Chairman Dingley, Payne, of New York; Dazell, of Pennsylvania; Hopkins, of Illinois; and Gosvenor, of Ohio, Republicans, and Bailey, of Texas; McMillan, of Tennessee; and Wheeler, of Alabama, were appointed conferees. The house spent the afternoon, under the special order, adopted last week, listening to eulogies on the life and public services of Judge Holman, of Indiana. At 5 o'clock, as a further mark of respect, the house adjourned.

A STARTLING DISCOVERY.

Simple Process of Converting Ore Into Steel.

Mr. Charles W. Stanton, a young man of Mobile, Ala., Thursday exhibited ingots of soft and hard steel, which he asserts he had converted direct from crude hematite ore of the Birmingham, Alabama, mineral district by a single furnace manipulation and without the aid of fluxing. His specimens exhibit a fine, close grain, are easily and permanently magnetized, and withstand all the tests of chemical analysis.

The city was startled recently with the announcement that he had turned into cash nearly a quarter of a million of dollars of active capital. It transpires that these transactions were for the purpose of securing capital to perfect a system of patents upon a process which, if his claims be correct, will revolutionize the iron trade of the world in a manner more startling even than has resulted from the success of Sir Henry Bessemer's pneumatic process.

The possibilities of such a discovery as Mr. Stanton now claims are so amazing that they are received with skepticism and ridicule, such as assailed Sir Henry Bessemer when the English inventor in 1856 announced the result of his process to the British Institute. Conservative men of science here, however, believe that Mr. Stanton has found the philosopher's stone.

HORRIBLE RELICS OF A CRIME.

A Human Body Parrelled and Buried in Mud.

A special from Quitman, Ga., says: Jacob Wooten, while fishing Friday on Mule Creek, in the upper part of the county, in company with several others, discovered a barrel buried upright in the mud and containing a human body. The body had been cut in pieces, placed in the barrel and mud had been thrown in, filling the barrel, which was then headed and buried. Mr. Wooten and his friends first removed the head of the barrel, then the dirt, which had formed into a hard cake, and to their horror beheld a switch of black human hair neatly plaited, about two feet in length and evidently belonging to the head of a young white woman. Next pieces of flesh and clothing were taken out, all in a fairly good state of preservation. The flesh, while partly decomposed, had dried and the skin had a mummified appearance. The dress was a knit undervest and an undershirt of bleached homespun. The identity of the murdered woman is unknown. No one from the vicinity is missing.

The University of Alabama.

The new President, Dr. Jas. K. Powers, reached Tuscaloosa at noon on the 1st day of July and went immediately to work. He called the faculty together, and appointed a committee to revise the courses of study, for presentation to the board of trustees for approval on the 8th. These courses as arranged and approved are up to date in every particular. While certain things are required for any degree, considerable latitude is allowed in the matter of election. This latitude increases as students advance in the courses.

EXPENSES REDUCED.

The fees were materially reduced. A year's expenses were cut from $172.50 to $130, exclusive of uniform.

YOUNG LADIES

may now enter the freshman class. Such board in private families and pay no college fees except in the several laboratories. The University is now open to women, but they must be 18 years old. It is hoped they will take advantage of the fact.

JUDGE W. S. THORINGTON.

has been chosen as Dean of the Law School, and he will devote his entire time to the duties of his position. Prof. Ormond Somerville is his assistant. These gentlemen are now preparing a course of study.

In a few days a supplement to the catalogue will be issued, setting forth these facts, as well as other necessary information. This, together with the catalogue, can be had on application to the President, whose address is University, Ala.

SENATOR HARRIS DEAD.

IN THE MIDST OF FAMILY AND FRIENDS HE PASSED PEACEFULLY AWAY.

Outline of His Life and Public Services—Was the War Governor of Tennessee, and an Active Participant in the Great Struggle.

Senator Isham G. Harris, of Tennessee, died at his residence in Washington City a few minutes before 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The senator had been growing constantly weaker for several days past. There were times when he would rally slightly, which gave his family hope that he would be able to regain strength sufficient to be removed from the city, but his vitality had become too much exhausted to withstand the strain.

Thursday morning the senator revived somewhat, but only temporarily. During the afternoon he sank rapidly and passed away peacefully.

There were present at his bedside his son, Edward K. Harris, and the latter's wife; Representative Benton McMillan, of Tennessee; Miss Polk, a friend from Tennessee; and the members of the household where the senator had lived for some time. Another son, Charles S. Harris, had left the house a short time before death came. James E. Harris, residing in Tennessee, another son, was expected to arrive in the city Friday, and a fourth son, Isham G. Harris, Jr., was on his father's ranch and stock farm at Abilene, Texas.

HIS REMARKABLE CAREER.

None have been identified with more of the history of this country than had Senator Harris. He had almost completed his seventy-ninth year, having been born in the year 1818, and first became a member of congress in 1849. His congressional career thus began earlier than that of any member of either house. Mr. Harris had, when he was elected to the national house of representatives, acquired considerable reputation in Tennessee, having the year previously served as a presidential elector on the Democratic ticket, and two years later been elected a member of the legislature. Mr. Harris represented the ninth Tennessee district in congress for two terms ending in 1853, when he declined a renomination. He then moved to Memphis, where he had since resided. Here he was engaged in the practice of law until 1857, with the interruption necessary to allow him to become a presidential elector in 1856. He was three times in succession before the war, beginning in 1857, elected governor of his State, and was serving in that capacity when the war broke out. He took a pronounced stand for the Southern Confederacy, and was known as one of the southern war governors.

He was often with the army in the field. He attached himself at different times to the staff of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnson, Beauregard and Bragg. Albert Sidney Johnson fell from his horse into Senator Harris' arms when he received his death wound. After Lee's surrender Mr. Harris was one of a small party of political refugees who escaped to Mexico, going across country on horseback. Parson Brownlow, who had become military governor of Tennessee offered a large reward for his capture. He remained in Mexico for several months, going thence to England, where he resided until 1857, when he returned to Memphis and resumed his practice of law.

Mr. Harris was allowed to follow the pursuits of the private citizen until 1877, when he was elected to the United States senate defeating Hon. Mr. Hawkins. He has remained a member of the senate ever since and would have completed his twentieth consecutive year in that body on the 4th of next March if he had lived to that date. He had been four times elected to the senate, the last time in 1895 and his term would not have expired until 1901.

Death of Mrs. T. R. R. Cobb.

A special from Athens, Ga., says: Mrs. T. R. R. Cobb died at her home there at 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning, aged 76 years. Her illness had been protracted and her death was not unexpected. Mrs. Cobb was a daughter of the late Chief Justice Joseph Henry Lumpkin, of the supreme court of Georgia, and the widow of Thomas R. R. Cobb, the younger brother of Howell Cobb, the statesman, who was a brigadier-general in the Confederate army and was killed while fighting behind the famous stone wall at the battle of Fredericksburg, Va., December 13, 1862. One of Mrs. Cobb's daughters is the wife of ex-Secretary of the Interior Hoke Smith.

Pension Agencies' Order Revoked.

The order of President Cleveland, issued last February reducing the number of pension agencies in the United States from eighteen to nine, will be revoked by President McKinley within a few days, probably early next week. As the original order was not to go into effect until September, next, the only result of the revocation will be to continue in force the present arrangement, allowing all eighteen of the agencies to remain in operation.

PROF. M. C. WILSON

Elected President of the State Normal College.

A meeting of the trustees of the State Normal College was held here Wednesday afternoon, the chief business being the election of a president of the college to succeed Prof. J. K. Powers. Those present were: Hon. Geo. P. Jones, of Florence, Chairman; Hon. W. I. Bullock, of Russellville, Secretary; Gen. John D. Rather, of Tusculum; Hon. Chapel Cory, of Montgomery; Hon. J. Kirk Jackson, of Montgomery; Hon. John F. Proctor, of Scottsboro.

There were a number of applicants for the presidency, including prominent educators outside of the state. After mature deliberation, the board selected Prof. M. C. Wilson, of Florence, to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Wilson is a graduate of the University of Virginia, and has filled a chair in the faculty of the college since 1881. He is an accomplished scholar, a polished gentleman and possesses the necessary qualifications to maintain the high standard of the school and further advance its usefulness. The fact that he was chosen out of the number of prominent educators whose names were before the board is, of itself, ample evidence of his eminent fitness. The Standard-Journal, from the first, urged his election, and we are confident that under his wise, prudent, progressive management, the institution will extend its influence and usefulness, and continue to grow in popularity.

The chair of mathematics will be filled later on.—Florence Standard-Journal.

Judge Thorington.

Judge Thorington's selection as dean of the University of Alabama will no doubt give general satisfaction.

William S. Thorington was born in Montgomery July 30, 1847. His father was Col. Jack Thorington, a distinguished citizen of Montgomery. William Sowell Thorington was educated at the private school of William F. Slaton at Oak Bowers, at Auburn, and at the State University. While he was still at the University the corps of cadets of which he was adjutant, took the field for active service. Colonel Thorington served about a year, being stationed principally at Mobile, at Blakely, and at points in north Alabama. He was engaged in forming a company of cadets to join the army of Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, when the war came to a close. Immediately after the war he began the study of law under the late Chief Justice Chilton, and in January, 1867, was admitted to the bar of the supreme court after passing an examination whose excellence is still a tradition of the court. He was associated at various times in practice with Judge W. P. Chilton, with Senator John T. Morgan, Hon. W. L. Bragg, and Hon. Lester C. Smith. Col. Thorington has held various offices of dignity and profit. He was for many years a trustee of the University of Alabama. He was judge advocate general on the staff of Gov. O'Neal during that governor's administration, 1882-86. In 1886 he was elected city attorney of Montgomery, and by continuous re-elections held the place until 1892, when he resigned to accept a much higher post. When Justice David CLOPTON, of the supreme bench, died in the early part of 1892, and Gov. Jones saw fit to appoint Col. Thorington to fill out his unexpired term, the appointment was received everywhere throughout the entire state as an eminently proper one to have been made. Judge Thorington's discharge of the duties of this high office was marked by his customary devotion to a high ideal of duty, and his work marked him out as one who is more than likely to be called upon to assume judicial honors in the future. He was not a candidate to succeed himself, and after the expiration in November, 1892, of the term he was fulfilling, he returned to the practice of the law in Montgomery. His services on the supreme bench merely followed repeated designations of him by various governors to act as special judge of the court where one of the judges was disqualified to hear the particular cause. Judge Thorington was married on October 24, 1867, to Miss Chilton, daughter of the late Chief Justice Chilton. He has a large family of children.

This brief sketch ought not to be brought to a close without a tribute to Judge Thorington's exceptionally high character. He is a man of scrupulously sensitive integrity, and is universally esteemed for the entire probity of his nature. He has throughout life acted on the knightly principle that, when his honor was concerned, a stain was a wound. No man in Alabama is better entitled to the designation of being the state's Chevalier Bayard, sans peur et sans reproche.

Mortality in the Lake City.

Eighty-seven have died from the heat in Chicago since July 1. Six have been drowned while bathing, six have been driven insane and a like number committed suicide, while 137 prostrations more or less serious, have occurred. The health department reports show a great increase of mortality among children and sufferers from chronic diseases.

Hot Wave at Boston.

During the past six days 27 prostrations by heat have been reported at Boston, Mass., four of which resulted fatally.

N. A. GRAHAM,.....EDITOR.

CALERA, ALA., JULY 15, 1897.

A prominent English physician claims that a plentiful diet of onions served in various ways will protect children from diphtheria, scarlet fever and worms.

An old physician once said: "If people fully realized what it meant to themselves to laugh, and then laughed as they should, ninety per cent of the doctors would have to go out of the business."

The Senate has passed General Pettus' amendment putting bagging on the free list. That will be worth thousands of dollars to the south and is about the only piece of legislation affecting our section favorably that has passed that body in many a day. But we fear it will never pass the republican House.—Selma Times.

Senator Isham G. Harris, Tennessee's most distinguished citizen, died in Washington on the 8th inst aged 80 years. For more than fifty years he has been one of the most prominent figures in public life, in the Volunteer State. His death is a loss not only to Tennessee but the whole country.

A change is to take place at an early day in the management of the Birmingham State Herald. Mr. J. Asa Rountree has sold his interest and tendered his resignation as director and general manager, and will devote his entire attention to the publication of The Dixie Home, an Industrial and Manufacturing Journal. Mr. E. W. Barrett, of Atlanta, Ga., an experienced and able journalist, it is stated has acquired a controlling interest in the State Herald and will at an early day assume the management. Under his control it is expected that Birmingham will have an up to date first class morning paper.

Judge W. S. Thorington of Montgomery has been elected Dean of the law school of the University of Alabama, and has accepted the position. The trustees certainly made an excellent selection in placing Judge Thorington in this honorable and responsible position. He is, The Sentinel believes, the very man for the place. He is a lawyer of acknowledged ability—aman of high moral character. He will discharge the duties incumbent upon him conscientiously and faithfully, and will beyond doubt reflect credit both upon the University and him self. The Sentinel congratulates both the state and Judge Thorington.

We print elsewhere an article from the Anniston Hot Blast with the caption "Political Signs in Alabama," which strikes the key note of the situation. If we are to have harmony in the democratic party in our state in the future, and if we expect to present a solid front in our conflict with the enemies of democracy at the next state election no national issues must be injected into the campaign.

Numbers of democrats in this section, true and tried, who have always been at the front in every political battle that has been fought in this state for the last thirty years, supported the last national ticket although they did not then and do not now endorse the Chicago platform. They do not accept the free coinage of silver at sixteen to one. They do not, however, believe that national issues have anything to do with state matters—particularly the financial question. And while they may not agree on the financial question with Gov. Johnston and a large number of other democrats in the state—yet they are perfectly willing—indeed they think it absolutely necessary for the well being of the state and the continued ascendancy of democratic government in state affairs, that this national issue—the money question—should be left out of the state platform. If the overzealous advocates of free and unlimited coinage of silver should persist in an effort to force this issue into the state platform and run it down the throats of these sound money or gold standard democrats who have up to this time stood firm and true by the party organization in spite of free silver, they will raise a storm they little dream of in their philosophy. Extremists on the free silver question had better heed the warning of the Hot Blast in time and adopt the policy it has marked out. They cannot force measures.

As the Hot Blast says, "a platform dealing alone with state issues means a united party." If it is otherwise—if national issues, and especially the financial issue, is incorporated therein, the breach will be widened and division, discord and contention will prevail in the ranks, and certain defeat follow. Now if ever, is the time for display of sound judgement and wise discretion on the part of the democratic leaders in the state. The Sentinel commends a careful perusal of the Hot Blast article.

The first bale of cotton from this year's crop has been received at Houston, Texas, and its reception was the cause of great festivities the other day at the Cotton Exchange. The bale will be shipped to the New York Cotton Exchange to be sold there for the benefit of the poor. This is no indication that there will be many more bales received in July. About this time every year a forced bale of cotton from Texas gets onto the market.—Mont. Adv.

A well known specialist thinks that, while women need a different gymnastic training from men, they need as complete and harmonious development, [and that physical is as essential to moral as to mental soundness. He further says, that experts testify that gymnastics, suited always to the individual and the sex, are not only a valuable intellectual stimulus, but render the girls so trained better fitted for wives and the general duties of life.

A perceptible smile overspread the features of Treasury officials yesterday and the cause was made apparent by the announcement that $23,000 had been received from the United States. This amount is Alabama's share of the National Morrill fund. It is to be divided among the schools of the state which teach agricultural and mechanical arts.—Mont. Adv. 11th.

COOLER.

There has been a decided change in the temperature in this section during the past few days. The Birmingham News gives the following as the record of the past week:

The temperature changed for the better last week by an average of several degrees. Last night the coolest point in more than a month was reached, the thermometer going down to 69 degrees. According to the official observations at the local Weather Bureau at Ben M Jacobs & Brothers, the average highest temperature for the week ending with yesterday was 92 degrees, the average temperature was 83 degrees, the average minimum temperature 74 degrees. The rainfall was .58 inches. The lowest high temperature was reached last Monday when the mercury could climb no higher than 87 degrees, and the highest point was 95 degrees, touched on Tuesday and Friday.

POLITICAL SIGNS IN ALA.

Anniston Hot Blast.

If we read the signs of the times aright, there is greater intensity of feeling on the currency question among Alabama democrats today than there was last year; and as we see it, matters political in this state have reached the stage where the greatest caution and conservatism should be exercised by the party leaders.

Take as an example the newspapers in the state which are opposed to the free coinage of silver but which loyally supported Bryan last year, and we find these papers talking as they have never before talked on the approach of a state cam paign. These papers did their duty last year in standing by the democratic nominees who were nominated upon a platform in which they did not believe, and as little as the Birmingham State Herald may think of it, they are worthy of great consideration; and we believe that great latitude should be exercised in meeting their reasonable wishes and desires.

These papers, and those for whom they speak, are willing to enter the primaries and again take up the fight for the democratic nominees, but ask, as there is no connection between the state election next year and the national election in 1900, that the state platform next year deal only with state issues. Both national and state committees recognize the currency issue as a great economical question and one upon which democrats can differ, and we see no sacrifice of principle in meeting the desires manifested by the large and respectable number of voters referred to above.

With national issues left out of the state platform, we will have one of the quietest campaigns held in the state for a number of years. Gov. Johnston will be nominated without opposition and will be elected by a greater majority than he received last year. With national issues injected in the platform, from present indications, the campaign will be characterized by more bitterness and strife than any ever held in the state and the people will be torn asunder by dissensions in such a manner as that great injury will result to the material interests of the state.

Further than this, unity of action on the part of those who supported Gov. Johnston and the state ticket last year means a constitutional convention and the untold benefits to accrue to Alabama from the adoption of an up to date constitution.

To insert national issues means great injury to the state from the bitterness and strife of a heated political campaign and death to the efforts to secure a new constitution.

A platform dealing alone with state issues means a united party, a quiet and peaceful campaign and the adoption of a new constitution.

Which do you prefer, and which is best for the democratic party and the state of Alabama?

CASES FOR CONFEDERATE RELICS

PLACED IN THE CAPITOL BY SOPHIE BIBB CHAPTER, D. C.

Yesterday, says The Montgomery Advertiser of Sunday morning last, the carpenters finished putting in four handsome cases in the rotunda of the capitol and also the catafalque on which rested the remains of President Davis. In regard to these cases the following announcement has been made.

We have four handsome cabinets ready for relics. Three of them are of historic interest, being constructed out of a gun case, generously given by the Independent Rifles of this city to the Sophie Bibb Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy. The fourth has been made expressly to hold the catafalque on which rested all that was mortal of Hon. Jefferson Davis, when he lay in silent state in the capitol, on the last grand march of mourning through the south. These are ready for your contributions.

Patriots, comrades, friends, fellow citizens! To each and every one of you, all over our beautiful State, this earnest appeal is made for relics of that sacred past, to preserve for coming generations.

However humble the offering, it will be gratefully accepted and sacredly guarded. It may cost you a sigh, it may be a tear, to part with these things, but they shall be safely kept under lock and key.

Is there a better place for these treasures than the capitol built for the archives of the state and the spot where the Southern Confederacy first drew breath?

It is surely the fitting place for the rusted sword, the battered canteen, the bullet torn hat, the time-worn blood stained banners, that waved over our heroic dead and the living remnant of the bravest of the brave.

Every paper in the state is requested to copy this appeal.

Any relic sent to the care of Mrs. J. A. Kirkpatrick, president of the S. B. Chapter, U. D. C., Montgomery, Ala., will be held sacred and placed in position. Yours in Confederate bonds, INA M. PORTER OCKENDEN, Cor. Sect. and Historian Sophie Bibb Chap. D. of C.

The Selma Times announces the intention of its management to establish an afternoon paper at Montgomery. It adds: "We shall continue to publish the Morning Times here. All the editorial, telegraphic matter and State Capital news will be electrotyped in Montgomery and sent down to Selma by express on the midnight train, thus making this paper much more readable and materially reducing the expense of getting it out. Full details will be made at the proper time."

The Montevallo correspondent of the Montgomery Advertiser furnishes last Sunday's issue of that paper with the following interesting items:

Montevallo, July 8.—The citizens of Montevallo are waking up to the importance of having a first class male school. To this end a meeting was held last night at which a committee was given instructions to investigate and report on the conditions and requirements. The discussion indicated a disposition on the part of the community to make a complete success of the proposed school.

Work on the hotels is progressing rapidly and they will both be in operation soon.

Contractors are daily arriving and conferring with Captain Reynolds in relation to the work to be done on the Industrial School property.

Machinery for the saw mill and wood working establishment has been placed, the yard has been stocked with logs, and the plant will soon be at work. Mr. McKibben proposes to erect a gin in connection with the mill and have it ready for this season's crop.

The catalogue of the Girls' Industrial School, the issuance of which has been unduly delayed by the printers, is just out and will be widely distributed. President Reynolds, who has taken great pains in the publication, has shown fine taste in illustrating some of the picturesque spots around "picturesque Montevallo." The text is well written and arranged, and from every standpoint shows up a school of irresistible attractions.

Messrs. H C and W B Reynolds have let the contract for the erection of a bank building, which will be erected on Main street. The building is to be of brick with plate glass and iron front, and will be an ornament to the town. A strong company has been organized to run it, with Mr. Burgess Little at its head.

A BEAUTIFUL HOME.

A Times man, while at Montevallo Wednesday, and having four hours of idle time, was invited to the hospitable home of ex-Congressman Aldrich.

After a three mile-drive through the beautiful and picturesque country, we arrived in the mining town of Aldrich, known far and wide throughout the union for the splendid coal which is secreted underneath in the bowels of the earth.

Mr. Aldrich's residence can easily be called the handsomest in Alabama. Situated on top of a high hill and surrounded by magnificent flower gardens with here and there a fountain gushing forth silvery streams, a visitor is forcibly reminded of the homes of the English royalty in the mountains of old Scotland. Its tall spires, glistening in the sunshine and looming up high over the stately oaks, can be seen from a distance and shout welcome to the approaching visitor.

Mr. Aldrich has about recovered from his recent severe illness in Washington, and outside of a little lameness he shows no traces of having been at death's door. We found him busily engaged in getting up the briefs for his contest which, he expects, will come up in December. After a pleasant chat with him and Maj. Tom Theodore Partlow, we were invited to partake of dinner, and Mrs. Aldrich, the accomplished hostess, made us feel at home. After dinner, which we enjoyed immensely, we took a stroll out to the mines where from 600 to 700 men are employed almost the year round. We went a little way down the shaft, which is a quarter of a mile deep and contained at the time 125 miners digging coal, each with a tiny burning lamp fastened to his cap. We saw powerful machinery drawing loaded coal cars out of the darkness, and on top of a high hill a monster engine pulls up the refuse coal and slate, which is worthless, and dumps it down the hillside where it will remain for ages to come.

After seeing all the sights and taking a parting view at the lake stocked with gold and silver fish and at two hot houses in which tropical flowers emit bewildering aroma, we bid Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich adieu, promising to come back again.

In Montevallo we met Dr. Pratt, formerly of Burnsville, who does a lucrative practice in his new home. Montevallo is on a boom, buildings are going up everywhere and the music of the carpenter's hammer and saw proclaim to the world that Montevallo "is a-comin'"—Selma Times.

 3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
 4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
 5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemic dysentery.
 6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
 7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
 8. Because it produces no bad results.
 9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.

Mrs. Pond and Mrs. Cecil Browne of Shelby Springs were visitors to the city yesterday.

A good number of our citizens went over on the excursion to Talladega Springs on Tuesday evening.

"They don't make much fuss about it." We are speaking of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness, and all stomach and liver troubles. They never gripe.—Dial Bros.

The number of guests at Shelby Springs is increasing every day.

Edgar Holcomb is spending a few days at Talladega Springs and Oscar Pilgreen is now representing him behind the counter at Holcombe's store.

Don't nauseate your stomach with teas and bitter herbs, but regulate your liver and sick headache by using those famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers.—Dial Bros.

Prof. Shaton of Jemison was a pleasant visitor to the city this week. He is an educator of ability and has been doing excellent work in the educational line in the state for the past several years. He paid the Sentinel an appreciated visit while here.

"I crave but One Minute," said the speaker in a hazy voice; and then he took One Minute Cough Cure, and proceeded with his oratory. One Minute Cough Cure is unequalled for throat and lung troubles.—Dial Bros.

The rains of the past week have made a wonderful change in the crop prospects in this section. The corn and the cotton prospects are very fine now, generally speaking. There are a few dry streaks reported where very little rain has yet fallen, and as a result the crops in those streaks are not so promising.

John Griffin, of Zanesville, O., says: "I never lived a day for thirty years without suffering agony, until a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured my piles." For piles and rectal troubles DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequalled.—Dial Bros.

On last Monday evening quite a number of our young people, in response to dainty invitations, gathered at the residence of Mr. J. B. Hill. The occasion was an entertainment given by Mr. and Mrs. Hill complimentary to their fair guests, Miss Lela Parker, of Columbiana, and Miss Mattie Ruffin of Helena. A most delightful evening was spent by all who had the pleasure of attending.

Vim, vigor and victory.—these are the characteristics of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and all stomach and liver troubles.—Dial Bros.

On Friday evening, after the conclusion of the base ball game, a surly driven by Mr. Ollie Leeper, containing four ladies from Columbiana, was overturned near the Southern tank in the eastern part of the city, and the horses became unmanageable and at tempted to run away. Fortunately several young men of the Columbiana base ball club were near and rendered prompt assistance, extricating the ladies from the overturned vehicle. Two of the ladies, Mrs. Crewes and Mrs. Calahan, were pretty badly hurt, Mrs. Calahan having an arm broken. The other two, Misses Lucy Leeper and Eva Davis received slight bruises, Mr. Ollie Leeper escaped unhurt. As it was all made quite a narrow escape from what might have been a very serious affair.

It heals everything except a broken heart, may be said of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Piles and rectal diseases, cuts, bruises, tetter, eczema and all skin troubles may be cured by it quickly and permanently.—Dial Bros.

BASE BALL.

An interesting game of base ball was played at this place on last Friday afternoon, between the Columbi-ana and Calera teams. The Calera team won by a score of 14 to 11. Quite a number of visitors, gentlemen and ladies from Columbiana came down to see the game.

MARRIED.

At Shelby Springs, on Sunday morning the 11th inst., Mr. Walter H Moss and Miss Ocie Pilgreen, both of this place, W D Huggins, Esq., officiating. This marriage was quite a surprise to the many friends of the young couple, as the greater number did not know that it was in contem-plate. The bride is the eldest daughter of the late Mr. R M Pilgreen, and is a young lady possessing many admirable and lovable traits of character. The groom is a son of Mr. H C Moss and is a young man of sterling quali-ties. He is one of the young business men of Calera, and gives promise of a successful business career. The young couple enter upon their married life with the best wishes of a host of friends for their future welfare and happiness. Immediately after the ceremony they returned to Calera and boarded the Northbound L & N train for Nashville on a visit of a few days to the Centennial Exposition. On their return they will take up their residence at this place.

There is a time for everything; and the time to attend to a cold is when it starts. Don't wait till you have con-sumption, but prevent it by using One Minute Cough Cure the great remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles.—Dial Bros.

The August number of the Delineator is called the midsummer number and is made graphic by full-page color-plates and inter-textual illustrations, supplemented by a special article on mourning attire. The number is notable for its fiction, Frances Lynde's "Diana of the Ephesians," a dainty love story with a setting among the hills of Northern Alabama, being completed by the fascinat-ing narration of an encounter with a Paris necromancer, which forms the second of Martin Orde's serial accounts of Olive Rainers' adventure. Especially suited to the dog-days are the directions for making various salads and salad dressings, and Frances Leeds' recipe for a summer pick-me-up. Young people looking for a new entertainment will enjoy Lucia M Robbins' description of "A Butterfly Party." Mr. Vick's Flower garden is supplemented by practical answers to various inquiries, the books of the month are noticed, and the usual pages are devoted to needlework. The Delineator is the woman's favorite mag-azine and is issued by the famous fash-ion publishers, The Butterick Publish-ing Co. (Limited), at 7 to 17 West 13th St., New York, at the remarkably low rate of $1.00 for a years subscription, or 15 cents per copy.

The election of Prof. M O Wilson to the Presidency of the State Normal College will be hailed with satisfaction by every friend and well-wisher of the institution. Mr. Wilson is one of the most accomplished scholars in the State, and, as a member of the college faculty during the past fifteen years, has been a potent factor in its ad-vancement. Those who have been associated with him in educational work and who are best acquainted with him are loudest in their endorsement of the action of the Board of Trustees. They predict for the college an auspicious career under his management, and the Standard-Journal believes Mr. Wilson will more than meet their ex-pectations.—The Florence Standard-Journal.

Misses Will and Dixon Kirkland are visiting their sister, Mrs. Mosteller.

Last Saturday a small party of young folks spent a pleasant day on the creek fishing.

Mr. Rank Browning spent Saturday and Sunday at Spring Junction.

Mr. Robert Sampler and Miss Lena Browning visited Anniston Saturday and Sylacauga Sunday. What does this mean, Lena?

DEATH OF MR. JAMES LINDSEY.

Died at his home in this place, on Monday morning last, at 11 o'clock, after an illness of about ten days du-ration, Mr. James Lindsey, aged about 44 years. He was attacked a little more than a week ago with something like slow fever. After a few days, however, the fever was arrested but left him in a very weak and prostrated condition, and he never rallied but continued to grow weaker until the end came. He was a quiet, peaceable law-abiding citizen, a good neighbor, a fond husband, and an indulgent father. He was not a member of any church, though about a year ago he made a public profession of his faith in the Savior who died to redeem him, and his walk in life afterwards was consistent with his profession. He leaves a widow and several small chil-dren and many friends to mourn his departure. A good man has gone to his reward. His remains were laid to rest in the Bailey cemetery, about five miles north of this place, on Tuesday. The Sentinel joins with many friends in sympathy with the bereaved house-hold.

PLEASURE and PROFIT

—OUT OF—
—WHOA AND WORRY—

Try it. We Guarantee.

If any Break should occur in the Castings the Part or Parts Will Be Replaced Without Charge.

This implement we place before the public with pleasure. A new invention: a Revolving Plow Fender, a labor saving implement to the farmer. Something that he has long needed, and one that gives desired results, not obtained from any other fender.
How you obtain these results you will see in part, from the above cut, and a description of how it performs its work.
You will observe that the Fender is disc that rolls between the plow a little plant, and only the amount of soil desired is allowed to pass from plow to plant.
By adjusting it to suit the work and the upward motion of the rear part of the disc all the rocks, clods, etc., are thrown in the rear of plow and only the pulverized soil allowed to pass to the plants in a uniform and regular quantity.
All farmers know that it is the overturning dirt and clods, the plow upheaves, that knocks down and covers up small plants. We effectively avoid this trouble by the disc intercepting the overturning soil, allowing the pulverized dirt to pass to plant on an undercurrent, under the rear circle of the disc, thereby preventing the plants from being knocked down or covered up.
The revolving disc passes over any stalks, litter, etc., that it comes in contact with, which gives it the best anti-clogging qualities of any Fender on the market.
The construction of the Fender is such, that it can be adjusted in any way desired, and works equally well on either side of the plow.
The tilting motion enables it to adjust itself to the unevenness of the surface without interfering with the depth of the plowing, in the least, as the plow works as free and easy as it would without it.
It is complete within itself, and can be attached and adjusted without the use of extra tools.
WE GUARANTEE—1st. To practically do away with the usual annoyances, such as having to use the slowest horse for the first running around, stopping to uncover, straighten up, etc. 2nd. That if the Fender is properly applied and used, it will save one-third the amount of hoeing over any implement now in use. 3rd. That you can do as much plowing around small plants as you can in the middle. 4th. That you can plow your crops from two to three weeks earlier with it than you can without it.
All these advantages we give you for the sum of one dollar and seventy-five cents and when you have tried it two or three days, if you think you have not made a good investment you can return it and we will refund your money.

Great Men's Last Words.
Anagoras, the philosopher, who maintained himself by keeping a school, being asked if he wished for anything, replied: "Give the boys a holiday," and died. St. Lawrence the Martyr, who was broiled alive on a gridiron, A. D. 258, may be said to have spoken the most strangely recorded dying words. Having laid for some time upon the gridiron, the martyr addressed the Emperor, who was present, in a kind of jocose Latin couplet, which may be thus translated:

"This side is broiled sufficient to be food
For all who wish it to be done and good."

On this the executioner turned him, and yet he triumphed over the tyrant by telling him, with great serenity, that he was roasted enough, and only wanted serving up. The next moment he died.

A Courteous Retort.
One may be excused for feeling a little joy when the man who goes out of his way to make a rude remark in order to show his wit receives a rebuke that is as courteous as it is effective. The retort given by a certain learned scientist must have been more amusing to the onlookers than to the learned gentleman's antagonist.

It happened at dinner that one of the guests began to deride philosophy, and went on rudely to express the opinion that philosophy was but another way of spelling fool.

"What is your opinion, Professor?" he asked. "Is there much distance between them?"

The Professor, with a polite bow to his boorish vis-a-vis, responded gravely: "Sometimes only the width of a table."

THE AMERICAN HORSE.

He Finds Favor in Several Foreign Countries.

There has been a remarkable increase in the export of horses from the United States during the last few years, writes W. E. Curtis to the Chicago Record. In 1893 the total number shipped to foreign countries was only 2,067. In 1894 it increased to 5,246, in 1895 to 13,948, in 1896 to 25,126, and during the first six months of the present fiscal year, ending Dec. 31, the total was 14,232; so that if the same proportion is continued during the remaining six months the total for the year will be 28,464. Nearly half the entire exports in 1896 went to Great Britain, the exact number being 12,022; but it is believed that 1,000 or more additional were sent through Canada, the exports to the dominion being 5,305 horses. The trade with Great Britain in horses has shown a remarkable increase, for in 1893 the total exports were only 504 head. The increase in exports to Germany was even greater, notwithstanding the laws of that country, which are very annoying to importers of live stock and quite expensive. In 1893 we shipped only thirty-three horses to the German empire. In 1896 we shipped 3,036.

Among other countries now receiving American horses is Belgium, which imported none in 1893, and 1,134 in 1896. France took very few, only 397. Italy bought one of our horses in 1893, two in 1894, three in 1895 and four in 1896. We sent 987 to Mexico last year, and a good many to the West India Islands, with the exception of Cuba, where, strange to say, we sold none at all. Two American horses went to Japan, four to China, one to Samoa and one to Africa.

New York is the largest horse market both for the export and the domestic trade, but a good many are shipped from Baltimore. Exports of mules have increased in a corresponding ratio, the number for the last few years being as follows: 1893, 1,634; 1894, 2,063; 1895, 2,515; 1896, 5,918, and for the first six months of the present fiscal year, 3,854.

So far as the Department of Agriculture is aware there has been no special effort on the part of American horse breeders to extend their foreign trade. The growth has been natural and the result of low prices in this country.

STATE TOPICS.
Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Mobile Man's Discovery.
C. W. Stanton, well-known among grain men in Mobile made steel from red homatite Alabama ore at first hand, without the aid of skilled labor or expensive machinery. The process is said to be based upon an entirely new discovery of natural laws.

After Tax Dodgers.
Back Tax Commissioner H. P. Turner, of Huntsville, will suggest a raise in value of a vast deal of taxable property in Madison county. If sustained the county treasury will be enriched by many thousand dollars with the property which he discovers that escapes taxation altogether.

Industrial Society.
Hale county negroes have begun organization of an industrial society. The following were named a committee on permanent organization: Elder Cole, H. P. Thurman, Elder Guiley, Phil White, Ad Wimbs, Tom Ruffin and John Lewis. The next meeting will be held at Cedarsville, Ala., on August 14.

In St. Clair County.
Back Tax Commissioner D. D. Goode, of St. Clair county, has about completed his work and reports quite a lot of property assessed. He assessed $25,000 of coal land against the East & West Railway Company of Alabama for five years, besides other assessments that amount up into the thousands.

A Murderous Assault.
The prisoners in the county jail at Gadsden made a murderous assault on Jailer Bolen last Thursday and struck him with a bottle through the bars. The prisoners refused to tell who struck the blow, and Jim Ward and Ed Walker are in the straight jacket and being dieted on bread and water until they tell who did the work.

B g Order for Cars.
A Gadsden special says: Capt. J. M. Elliott, Jr., president of the Elliott Car company in this city, announces that he has secured contracts to build 520 railroad box cars, 450 for the Louisville & Nashville and seventy for another road. This means immediate employment for 600 men now idle in Gadsden, and nearly $200,000 turned loose here for labor within the next eight months. The news is received here with elation.

Insurance Figures.
The Insurance Commissioner, in his report of the business in the State of Alabama in 1886, based upon the sworn testimony of each company, sums up the totals as follows:
Total amount of risk in the state, $81,734,423.
Total premiums, $1,120,430.
Total losses paid, $330,766.
Rates of losses to premium, 29.52 per cent.

Sugar Mill Machinery.
Good sized shipments are being booked for the erection of sugar grinding plants in the South. One New Orleans firm has contracted for the erection of twenty-five of these plants. Each calls for some $15,000 of machinery. Birmingham firms will erect five of these plants in Louisiana, and nearly all the iron used in their construction is from the Birmingham district. One machinery firm in the city reports that during the past two months it has sold more machinery than it has during any other two months of the past five years.

Depredations on Farmers.
Considerable trouble has been experienced by farmers in the northwestern part of Madison county by miscreants cutting wire fences. Recently the legislature passed an act making a three-wire fence lawful and a vast amount of land heretofore lying out has been enclosed, thus shutting out a number of people who are in the habit of herding cattle and sheep during the summer months in that section on other people's land. The last fence cutting occurred last Friday on the plantation of Capt. D. H. Turner. A close watch will be kept from now on and the intruders will be dealt with according to law when apprehended.

The Judge's Decision.
In the United States court at Montgomery Judge Bruce rendered his decision in the case of the administrator of Col. Robert E. Withers against the order of Knights of Pythias, involving the sum of $3,000 insurance. Col. Withers was a member of the order and died, and during his last sickness an assessment fell due which the order claimed was not paid in the time required by the rules of the order. The plaintiff claimed the payment was made at Greensboro, Ala., and was received by the authorized agent of the order at that place, and failure to reach headquarters in time should not affect his rights.

Bled Profusely From a Wound.
W. H. Creighton, of Anderson, S. C., was found Friday night in the Augusta Southern railway yard, Augusta, Ga., in a semi-conscious condition from loss of blood. His arm was badly cut near the wrist, an artery having been pierced. Creighton is not communicative about his wound. He claims that he fell and cut his wrist on a broken bottle.

TROY STATE NORMAL COLLEGE.
The Commencement Exercises This Year Eclipsed All Former Efforts.
The decennial year of the State Normal College at Troy was undoubtedly the most prosperous in the history of that institution, and it is but natural that the commencement exercises this year should eclipse all previous efforts. The programme which was of unusual interest, was carried out in a manner that reflected much credit on the president, Dr. Eldridge, and the students. On Saturday night Dr. E. R. Eldridge, president of the college tendered the graduating class a supper at his residence. This was quite a pleasant occasion and the evening spent was a fit token of the high esteem in which the class is held.

Dr. Eldridge being called on to respond to the toast "Ante-and-Post-Decennial Times in the College History," was full of his subject and gave an unanswerable defense of the "College Rank and Character" of this training school, claiming it as a necessity to the wants of the Teacher's Profession and the State's needs. That the course of the college was as high as the best in the state and because of it, graduates to every other college in the state were taking our "Professional Course," a thing they would not do if our institution were simple "College Preparatory," as some other institutions glory in. Dr. Eldridge said: "Let them make their courses of study small and glory in their brevity, and littleness—it is their right if that is all they can do; but we want to do something to lift the teacher's profession to a plain as high as the highest. If the physician should have a 'College' course, why not the teacher? If a lawyer or preacher, why not the teacher that teaches them all? As long as you be little the teachers' course and work, you belittle all who are taught. Elevate the teacher's course and study and you lift up the standard of education everywhere in the state."

Dr. Eldridge made an impassioned appeal to the board and faculty to sustain the college character and rank and to the new class to join the former classes in raising high the teacher's standard for the sake of the boys and girls of Alabama, now or to be, in the schools, to be taught, and board, faculty and alumni cheered him to the echo, time and again, and stamped their approval on every sentence as it poured from his lips, ruddy and sometimes, even cadenced.

The class of 1897 (30) showed very plainly that they drank in the sentiments of advocacy and defense of the State Normal College at Troy, built upon the "New Education" and "Free Public School Idea" and College Rank for our Teachers' Training Schools.

On Sunday morning, a immense crowd assembled at the opera house to hear Rev. J. L. Brownlee, pastor of the Presbyterian church, preach the commencement sermon which was pronounced by many as one of his best efforts.

On Monday the day was turned over to that noble band of sons and daughters, the College Alumni association. There was a most excellent turn out, the hall being filled with members and friends. A most interesting programme, well prepared, was rendered.

At 8 o'clock at night the association was addressed by Hon. Chappell Cory, Private Secretary of Governor Johnston. His address was a masterpiece of thought, clothed in the purest English and as smooth and chaste as learning and talent could make it. He showed that he had completely grasped the broad subject of education in the line of its utility.

At the chapel exercises on Wednesday, seating room was at a premium. President Eldridge asked the students and professors to speak their sentiments in regard to the works and status of the college. The professors and a number of students spoke, the professors all agreeing that this had been the best and most satisfactory year's work since the college began, 1887.

Many students expressed themselves as highly pleased with the school, the work in general and the session as a whole. All the professors received their due thanks, but it could be seen in the mind of every pupil that there was a special love and admiration for that scholarly man, Dr. E. R. Eldridge, president of the college, who had been of so much assistance to all of them in their work. He is being appreciated for his deep devotion and ability to direct a student to get the most out of a thing.

Then followed the graduation of twenty-nine young people. There have been thirty-six counties represented in the college attendance and nearly every other county upon extension course.

The summer school attracted many excellent students from various sections of Alabama and outsiders and the grade of talent added was high indeed. The scholarships issued by senators and representatives to this State Normal college, are bringing the cream of Alabama studentship. It is a grand feature of the college.

The State University.
If the tone of the State press is any criterion, the selection of Dr. J. K. Powers as President of the University seems to meet the approbation of the whole people of Alabama. As President of the State Normal School at Florence, Dr. Powers displayed an energy and administrative ability that have no parallel in the educational annals of the State, and the result of his well-directed efforts has placed the State Normal in the very fore-front of schools of its kind in the South.

The friends of Dr. Powers, and the News feels honored in having been one from boyhood, believe that he will achieve a similar triumph in the management of the affairs of the State University.—Oakman News.

It is doubtful if a choice to any public position in Alabama ever commanded such universal commendation. So far as we are able to judge there has not been a discordant note from any quarter. Such confidence must be highly gratifying to President Powers. It certainly argues well for the University.

Prof. Arlo Bates, of the Institute of Technology, addressing the grammar school teachers in Boston Friday, expressed a solid truth when he said "the literature best for adults is the literature best for children." This is just being rediscovered, says the Springfield Republican. The old school readers were all made up of masterpieces of literature.

Stings are often relieved and cooled by the use of diluted or pure vinegar. In such serious cases of snake bites, however, the internal administration of ammonia and other stimulants is relied on. Externally, the wound may be burned with some caustic—always by a doctor.

Better Times Predicted. At the meeting of the London Joint Stock Bank at London Thursday, the chairman said there were evidences of a gradual improvement of trade in the United States, and if the currency question could be settled, and the stationary engineers' dispute arranged in England, both countries, the United States and England, might speedily enjoy better times.

At Wickham the business portion of the town is flooded. Communication with Richmond, Quebec, on the main line of the Grand Trunk system to Quebec, is cut off.

A Jealous Woman's Crime. Miss Grace Allen, of Fredonia, Kas., is under arrest charged with poisoning Miss Phronia Eches and her mother. The latter is dead. Jealousy prompted the deed, both women being in love with the same man. Before being arrested Miss Allen tried to commit suicide, but was prevented. The rivals are school teachers.

Assignment at Sheffield. The Colbert Iron Company, operating a furnace at Sheffield, Ala., made an assignment Friday. R. J. Thurmond being named as assignee. Liabilities are given as $70,000 and assets consist of pig iron and unfilled orders sufficient to meet liabilities. The furnace will not shut down. Inability to realize on pig iron and slow collections caused the assignment.

Georgia Editors at the Exposition. Over 100 members of the Georgia Weekly Press Association, arrived at Nashville, Tenn., Thursday, and will remain there for several days visiting the exposition and other places of interest adjacent to the city. Many ladies are in the party. Friday afternoon the Georgia visitors were entertained at lunch at the exposition, J. J. McCann being toastmaster and host.

May Lose Heavily. The importers in New York city are confronted by the prospect of a heavy loss on their importation of fifteen to twenty million pounds of tea, which began arriving in New York city about the 1st of July. It was ordered when the general impression was that congress would put a duty on tea. It is of the first crop, the finest tea of the year, and to forestall the tariff the importers took all they could get. When the tariff was abandoned it left the second crop and every other inferior grade of tea free to come in, and consequently there is a large stock of high grade tea to be sold at a sacrifice.

An Embezzler's End. Two years ago Probate Judge Frank Randolph, of Montgomery, Ala., became a defaulter and absconded. He made his way to the United States of Colombia, where he assumed the name of Charles Radford. The next heard from him was that he had been arrested and put in prison on the charge of killing a German merchant in that country. A letter was received in Montgomery, Thursday, from the Department of State at Washington, giving the information that a dispatch had been received from the legation at Bogota saying: "Radford sentenced to death." Randolph was a prominent politician in Alabama.

A Colorado Flyer. The announcement is made authoritatively that William D. Felts will make an aerial excursion from the summit of Pike's Peak to Colorado Springs, a distance of ten miles in an air line and a drop of 8,000 feet. In making the flight Mr. Felts will use a series of rigid aeroplanes, modelled after the wings of a condor, the great South American bird. The body of the voyager will hang suspended from an easy harness. In order to steer the apparatus, Felts has provided a movable vane, which will be operated at the will of the navigator. Mr. Felts announced that he would first alight on Cameron's Cone, a distance of five miles and a drop of 4,000 feet more to Colorado Springs, where he would alight.

Winnie Davis Invited to Chicago. Efforts are being made by the committee in charge of the Logan day ceremonies and the Ex-Confederate Association, of Chicago, to secure the presence of Miss Winnie Davis, the "Daughter of the Confederacy," at the dedication exercises which take place on the 22nd. An invitation has been sent Miss Davis through Miss Lucy Lee Hill, a personal friend, and ex-World's Fair commissioner from Kentucky. The formal invitation was followed by a telegram from Miss Hill and others from the Ex-Confederate Association, urging Miss Davis to come, if it was possible to do so. It is believed that at least 500 men who fought under the stars and bars of the Confederacy will take part.

Levee Commissioners Order a Tax. The following tax order was made by the Mississippi Levee commissioners, in session at Greenville last week:

"Ordered by the Board of Mississippi Levee Commissioners, that there is hereby levied and assessed a uniform tax of five cents an acre on each and every acre of land in the counties of Bolivar, Washington, Issaquena, Sharkey, and Warren, included in the Mississippi levee district, and not in any incorporated city, town or village in said district, and divided into lots of less than one acre. And a tax of five cents is hereby levied and assessed on each lot of less than one acre in each city, town or village in said district. And there is hereby levied and assessed a uniform ad valorem tax of five mills on the assessed value of all property, real and personal, lying and situated in the counties of Bolivar, Washington, Issaquena, Sharkey and Warren, included in the Mississippi levee district, as the same may appear upon the assessment rolls of said counties respectively. And a tax of one-fifth of one cent is hereby levied on all lint cotton grown in said district during the year 1897; and a tax of one-fifteenth of one cent per pound be and is hereby levied on all seed cotton grown in said district during the year 1897, and not ginned therein. And a tax upon railroads in said district is levied and assessed as provided by the act of the legislature, entitled 'An act for the payment of levee taxes by railroads in the Mississippi levee district of this State,' approved March 12, 1896, said levee taxes for the fiscal year from September 1, 1897, to September 1, 1898, being hereby now levied and assessed for said fiscal year by said board of Mississippi Levee Commissioners. Ordered this, the 14th day of July, 1897."

Lost His Money. Nathan Fouraker, a young farmer in the country four miles from Jacksonville, Fla., did not believe in banks. He buried $2,500 in $20 gold pieces under his house, and his negro employe is now off enjoying it.

TO REIGN UNTIL DEATH.

QUEEN VICTORIA PRACTICALLY SAYS SHE WILL NEVER ABDICATE.

Letter to Home Secretary--England's Ruler Expresses Her Deep Love for Her Subjects and Refers to Them Loyal--"I Shall Ever Pray God to Bless Them."

A special supplement to the London Gazette publishes the following letter from the queen to Sir Matthews White Ridley, the home secretary, dated Windsor, July 15th:

"I have frequently expressed my personal feelings to my people, and though on this memorable occasion there have been many of the expressions of my deep sense of the unbounded loyalty evinced, I cannot rest satisfied without personally giving utterance to say to these sentiments. It is difficult for me on this occasion to say how truly touched and grateful I am for the spontaneous and universal outburst of loyal attachment and real affection experienced on the completion of the sixtieth year of my reign.

"During my progress through London on June 22d, this great enthusiasm was shown in the most striking manner, and can never be effaced from my heart. It is, indeed, deeply gratifying after so many years of labor and anxiety for the good of my beloved country, to find that my exertions have been appreciated throughout my vast empire. In weal and woe I have ever had the true sympathy of all my people, which has been warmly reciprocated by myself.

"It has given me unbounded pleasure to see so many of my subjects from all parts of the world assembled here and to find them joining in acclamations of loyal devotion to myself, and I would wish to thank them all from the depths of my grateful heart.

"I shall ever pray God to bless them and to enable me still to discharge my duties for their welfare as long as life lasts."

RAILWAY SYSTEM TIED UP.

No Street Cars Are Running in Saginaw, Michigan.

The Saginaw, Mich., street railway system was completely tied up Saturday as a result of a several months' fight between the city and the Union Street Railway Company, which culminated recently in a decision by the supreme court, sustaining the right of the city to take any measure to compel the railway company to settle for certain special improvement taxes. Following this, the common council declared the company's franchises forfeited. Action like that of Saturday was not expected, however, until later. During Friday night the police placed a big steam road roller across the car tracks leading to the main lines and are guarding the machine against any molestation. The bondholders and stockholders of the company have vainly tried to agree on a basis of settlement of the trouble, the bone of contention being a debt of $45,000, which the bondholders were unwilling to assume.

CUBAN REBELLION.

Insurgents Said to Have Been Defeated at Plantanos.

Official reports from Cienfuegos, where Captain General Weyler is announced to have arrived, state that the Saguna Squadron has defeated the insurgents at Plantanos, forcing them to retire, leaving nineteen of their number dead upon that field. The Spaniards captured a quantity of arms and munitions of war, besides a splendid outfit of surgical instruments.

An engagement is reported to have taken place at Bahia Honda, province of Pinar del Rio, in which the insurgents were defeated with a loss of eighteen killed, among them a major. Seven more of the insurgents are reported to have surrendered.

Reports from Pinar del Rio state that seventy-eight rebels surrendered in that province. Thirty-three of those who gave themselves up were armed and forty-five unarmed.

Wants a Rabbit's Foot.

Ex-Secretary of the Interior Hoke Smith has received from United States Consul Parker at Birmingham, Eng., a request for the left hind foot of a graveyard rabbit, to be placed in the Pitts Rivers Museum, of which Prof. E. P. Tyler is curator. Tyler, it seems, is an authority on superstitions, and has recently received an American buckeye charm against rheumatism. He needs a rabbit's foot to complete the collection, and Mr. Smith is asked to supply one that has actually been worn by a believer in the charm. Mr. Smith has advertised for it.

Hunting for Miners.

Agents of several West Virginia coal operators were in the southern coke region, near Uniontown, Pa., Saturday, gathering up surplus labor and shipping it to the sister states' mines. These agents have been very quiet in their quest and have secured a good many men who have been shipped daily in small lots.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE.

Opening of Their Big Convention at Chattanooga.

The seventh international convention of the Baptist Young people's Union of America began in Chattanooga Thursday morning with about 4,000 delegates and some of the most prominent Baptist leaders in the country present.

Among the most prominent leaders present are President John H. Chapman, of Chicago; Vice-Presidents Rev. C. L. Seasholes, of Dallas, Tex.; E. L. Fowke, of Oshawa, Ontario; C. R. Quikley, of Lincoln, Neb.; Secretary E. E. Chiver, of Chicago; Treasurer Frank Moody, of Milwaukee; Rev. E. W. Reed, of La Crosse, Wis.; Rev. Carter H. Jones, of Louisville; Ex-Secretary Frank L. Wilkins, of Chicago, and Walter H. Merritt, business manager of the Baptist Union. The Baptist papers of the country are well represented and special arrangements have been made for the comfort and convenience of their representatives.

The handsome and elaborately decorated city auditorium was completely filled at 10 o'clock, the hour of opening Thursday morning. There was no crowding or confusion, however. On the rostrum were seated the officers and speakers and in the choir gallery above them was the excellently trained choir of 500 voices.

The convention was opened with a short song service led by Dr. L. L. Henson, of Fort Wayne, Ind., formerly secretary of the board of managers. The immense audience joined enthusiastically with the choir in the singing and a great wave of inspiring harmony floated through the building. At the close of the song service Dr. Henson read the 46th psalm and delivered a fervent invocation, after which President Chapman arose to deliver the opening address.

As President Chapman walked to the front of the platform he was greeted by a great volume of applause.

At the conclusion of President Chapman's address Dr. E. E. Hunt moved that the provisional program be adopted as the convention program. The motion was unanimously adopted.

The addresses of welcome, all eloquent and interesting, were as follows: "On Behalf of the Churches," by R. B. Garrett, pastor of the First Baptist Church; "On Behalf of the Baptist Young People's Societies of the City and State," by Rev. M. D. Jeffreys, of Knoxville, Tenn.; "On Behalf of the Citizens of Chattanooga," by Mayor George W. Ochs. Dr. J. W. Conley, of St. Paul, Minn., eloquently responded to these welcoming addresses.

Dr. H. W. Reed, recording secretary, then announced the standing committees and letters of important topics, for each State represented in the convention.

A RAILROAD TANGLE.

Which Chairman Caldwell Will Try to Unravel.

B. D. Caldwell, chairman of the Western Passenger Association, arrived in San Francisco Friday morning. He will try to straighten out the tangle into which the different lines have got into over the Christian Endeavor business.

Mr. Caldwell said that he did not anticipate any difficulty, as the lines through Ogden and the lines of the association to Colorado points had decided to refuse to accept any excursion tickets issued after the agreed selling date and had also issued bulletins to their conductors to refuse to accept Endeavor east bound excursion tickets with stop-overs. He expects the co-operation of the Southern Pacific in the carrying out of the conditions of the contracts between the roads, and anticipated an amicable adjustment of the difficulty.

The local agents do not seem to think that Mr. Caldwell will be able to accomplish anything. He will be in San Francisco about a week, and the outcome of his visit will probably determine whether an agreement entered into by the Western Passenger Association is of any force or value.

Colored Troops Wanted Pullmans.

Considerable excitement was occasioned at the Chicago and Alton depot at Springfield, Ill., Saturday by the colored troops, Ninth Battalion, I. N. G., Chicago, refusing to ride on their return trip in old coaches provided by the Chicago and Alton Road, claiming they were condemned and demanding Pullman chair cars. Violence was narrowly averted by the conductor giving the signal to go. The troops boarded the train as it pulled out.

Hotel Gutted.

The Rising Sun Hotel, at Altoona, Pa., was gutted by fire Friday. The servants who occupied that portion of the building where the flames originated, narrowly escaped with their lives. Loss about $20,000, covered by insurance.

Will Not Work On Rockpile.

Women prisoners are not to be put on the rock piles with men in Kansas City, Kan. The board of police commissioners, which decided last week that this should be done, have rescinded the order in deference to popular opinion.

CONDITION OF TRADE.

EVERY FEATURE OF THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK ENCOURAGING.

Wheat Closes Four Cents Higher for the Week--Speculation in the Wool Market Continues--A Slight Decrease in Failures Against that of Last Year.

R. G. Dun & Co's. weekly review of trade, issued Saturday, says:

Excepting the great coal miners' strike, which may terminate at any time, there is scarcely a feature of the business outlook which is not encouraging, the season considered. Crop reports have been improved by needed rain in some regions and foreign advances continue to promise a large demand. In many home industries, particularly in building, there is more activity than in any year since 1892, and the week has brought a better demand in boots and shoes and in woollens, while the movement in freight, mainly iron ore, through the Sault Ste. Marie canal is the largest in its history. With money markets unclouded, there is nothing in sight to hinder rapid improvements when uncertainty about legislation has been removed, for the miners' strike could not last long if business and industries should become active. There is much less apprehension of a failure of fuel supply than there was during the first few days, when prices rapidly advanced, and large quantities of coal from West Virginia have reached Northern markets, but some of the miners in that State have struck.

The advance of wheat to 81 1-8c was not due to the government estimate, which was followed by a decline, but to foreign advances and considerable buying for export. Demand is already felt from Australia, South Africa, Brazil and even Argentina, while the prospect for European crops is not considered bright. The disposition of farmers to keep back wheat for higher prices may affect the outward movement, but Atlantic exports during the month of July, if included, have been 3,115,343 bushels, against 2,953 last year. Wheat closed 4c higher for the week and corn half cent higher. Cotton is one-sixteenth higher, the closing or partial stoppage of important New England mills hardly neutralizing in market estimation the apprehensions of injury from drought. The cotton goods market does not yet reduce the accumulated stocks, as the curtailment of production shows, but is growing a little more healthy, without a change in prices. Woollens for the coming season have not been generally shown, though on some low priced goods advances of 7 1/2 per cent. are asked and presumably will be asked on better grades. There is rather more business in re-orders, and the tone is more confident. Speculation in the wool market continues, with prices at all points stronger, at Boston advancing with signs of a boom among dealers, in which manufacturers are taking little part at current prices; and at the west, where holders are looking for a great advance. Imports at Boston were 28,862 bales in the two weeks and the dealers are said to have bought 100,000 bales more in London. Sales were 10,452,300 at the three markets for the week and 24,575,800 in two weeks, of which 12,607,200 were domestic. The output of iron furnaces July 1 was 164,064 tons weekly, against 168,389 June 1, but several furnaces have gone into blast since July 1, and the output is large for the season. Presumably an unprecedented share of it is to supply the great steel companies, which are even now putting more furnaces into blast, and have heavy orders taken when prices were dropped while the demand for structural shapes and plates is large, and for bars improving, though steel bars are now at the lowest quotation ever known in Pittsburgh, 87 1/2 to 90c, with Bessemer pig quoted slightly lower.

Tin plates are also lower at 3.10 for full weight and less than $3.00 is paid for one hundred pound boxes. Failures for the week have been 263 in the United States, against 269 last year, and 27 in Canada, against 39 last year.

Vice-President Crocker Dead.

Col. Crocker, vice-president of the Southern Pacific railroad company, died at his home Saturday night. Young Crocker first served as a clerk in the general freight office of the Southern Pacific in San Mateo, Cal. To further advance him, the office of third vice-president of the company was created and conferred upon him. From this he rose to the first vice-presidency. His father having died, he successfully managed the estate, valued at over $20,000,000. He was popular with his associates and the general public. He died at his country home, Uplands, San Mateo county.

Thrust a Pencil Down His Throat.

John Scott Oliver, the California deputy sheriff, who was recently indicted in New York City for abduction, attempted suicide in the Tombs Prison Thursday afternoon. He thrust a lead pencil down his throat. He is not seriously hurt. This is his second attempt at suicide since his arrest.

HED HIS CONSCIENCE.

Opposed to Tobacco as Sinful, So Sells His Plant and Retires With a Fortune.

Major A. D. Reynolds, of Bristol, Tenn., who has made more than half a million dollars net profit as a tobacco manufacturer during the last twenty years, sold his plant Saturday to a syndicate of local capitalists for $30,000 and will retire from business. The sale was due to Major Reynolds' religious and temperance convictions. He has long advocated the prohibition of the sale of spirituous liquors, and finally came to regard the tobacco business as incompatible with his religious life.

A Wealthy Cattle Thief.

John D. Harless was Saturday evening sentenced by the United States court, by Judge Thomas, of Muskogee, I. T., to five years' hard labor in the penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas. Harless was convicted of receiving stolen cattle. His sentence created a sensation, his character having heretofore been untarnished. He is estimated to be worth $60,000.

Steamer Sinks.

The steamer James Montgomery sprung a leak and sank in shallow water at one o'clock Friday morning at Madison, Ind.

Deadly Sink Holes in the Beach.

The body of Chas. Williams, who was drowned Friday night while bathing in the Gulf at Galveston, Texas, has not been recovered. He was a native of Leeds, Yorkshire, England. He was thirty-three years of age, and leaves no children. This makes six lives that have been lost in the Gulf since the bathing season opened here by sink holes in the Gulf.

Tennessee Farmer Commits Suicide.

James Freeland, a young farmer living near Chattanooga, suicided Thursday by shooting himself through the heart with a Winchester rifle. Despondency over enforced idleness was the cause. Freeland had been out of work for some time. He came with his parents from Clarksville, Tenn., to this section some time ago.

Hanna Will Take a Hand.

Senator Hanna has replied to the request of the State arbitration commissioners asking his assistance in settling the coal strike. His response was that he would be very glad to co-operate in a settlement and that a representative of his was now on the ground, ready to act and forward a settlement.

Race Between Rival Steamers.

The Mallory Line steamer Lampasas and the new Lone Star Line steamer Miami left New York City Saturday evening on a race for Galveston under great excitement. There is fierce rivalry between both boats, which are burning rosin and taking freight at the lowest rate ever made.

Scalpers Enjoined.

In Chattanooga, Tenn., U. S. District Judge Clark granted a temporary injunction against ticket scalpers in the case of the Southern Railroad vs. Sisson & McConnell of Nashville. They are commanded not to sell non-transferable tickets.

A False Report.

There appears to be no foundation in fact for the disquieting reports sent out from Baltimore by special correspondents regarding the health of United States Senators Gorman and Wellington, by which it is made to appear that both are seriously ill.

Will Have Another Pagellistic Carnival.

The Shelby Sentinel.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

This paper is entered in the Calera Post-office as second-class matter.

N. A. GRAHAM,.....EDITOR.
CALERA, ALA., JULY 22, 1897.

Dr. J. W. Hughes was on Saturday confirmed as postmaster at Birmingham by the Senate.

The president on last Saturday sent to the senate the nomination of Terrence V. Powderly, of Pennsylvania, to be Commissioner Gen'l of Immigration.

The discovery of immensely rich deposits of gold in Alaska is attracting great attention these days. The results of the diggings are reported as simply wonderful, and no doubt, reminds the old fortune-hunters of the fabulous riches that attached to the California mines during that period.

The school interest of Calera takes precedence of all others these days. Our citizens are united and determined in this direction. They intend to have a first class school of high grade. This is settled.

Hon. Thomas B. Turley of Memphis has been appointed by Gov. Taylor as the successor of the late Senator, Hon. I. G. Harris. Mr. Turley is a distinguished lawyer, has never held office. He is reported as being strictly in accord with the Chicago platform on the financial question.

After a long wrangle at their meeting on Sunday last the New York Central Labor Union adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the appointment of T. V. Powderly as Commissioner of Immigration is the greatest official insult ever offered by the federal government to organized labor."

The small pox scourge is, we notice, causing some apprehension in Birmingham. It is earnestly hoped that the health authorities of that city may be able to so control it as to prevent its spread in the city or adjacent country.

Tom Watson calls on Senator Marion Butler through his People's Party Paper to resign the National Chairmanship of the People's Party. He wants Washburne or Reed for chairman, one who is in sympathy with the official policy of the party as declared at the recent Nashville conference. He says that they have had enough of Butler and Butlerism.

The Sultan of Turkey has issued an irade sanctioning the settlement of the frontier question with the wishes of the Powers.

John H. Standifer, former city clerk of Gadsden, has been indicted by the grand jury of the city court of that city for embezzlement. The charge is that he is $1,200 short in his accounts.

The reported alliance between Spain and Japan against the United States is denied by the Spanish Premier.

An epidemic of crime appears to be abroad in the land during these hot July days. Lynchings, suicides, assaults and murders are numerous. It seems that the offenders in the way of assaults and murders are largely of the colored population.

The threatened strike of the Coal miners in the Birmingham district has been averted. An agreement looking to a settlement of the differences was reached on Tuesday of this week. The strike is also reported to be a failure in West Virginia. The condition however remains unsettled in the Pittsburgh and other contiguous districts.

Crime runs in waves. At present the negro brute who assaults white women is riding on the crest. From two to five such attempts are chronicled daily. This is a terrible state of affairs. The Southern editor declaims against lynch law, and at the same time realizes if it were not for Judge Lynch no home would be protected from the despoiler. The problem is one which is apparently impossible of solution. There is no way to appeal to these lecherous brutes. The terrors of the stake, even, are ineffectual. Who can suggest a remedy?—B'ham Ledger.

PROF. C. C. SLATON.

At a meeting of the City School Board, which is composed of the Mayor and Council, held last night for the purpose of looking after the school interests, Prof. C. C. Slaton of Jemison was elected Principal of the Calera High School. Prof. Slaton comes highly recommended as an accomplished, scholarly gentleman, and a most excellent educator. Prof. Slaton has, The Sentinel learns, accepted, and will begin work in the interest of the school at once. The Sentinel believes that Calera is fortunate in securing his services, and that with him at the head of the school the educational interests of the town will be greatly advanced.

There were several other prominent applicants for the position, gentlemen of fine reputation as teachers. The Board did not take any action in regard to assistant teachers, deferring this to a subsequent meeting. The date for the school to begin was not definitely fixed, but will also receive attention later. Prof. Slaton will, we learn at an early day, publish a prospectus of the school. Now that the educational ball is started to rolling for our town, let each and every citizen give it a push and keep it rolling. Now is the time for united, harmonious action, and if we will all pull together and continue pulling there is nothing to prevent Calera from having a high grade school equal to any in the state.

Mr. H. C. DuBose has retired from the editorial management of the Columbian Chronicle and Mr. F. W. Gist has taken charge. In a well written salutatory, Mr. Gist assures his patrons that it will be his purpose to keep the Chronicle up to the high standard it has maintained under its former management. The Sentinel extends cordial greetings, and wishes the Chronicle and its new editor every success.

AS TO INDUSTRIES.

The Sentinel commends a careful perusal of the following communication addressed to the Birmingham News of recent date. It furnishes food for serious thought on the part of our people as well as startling facts that may have escaped the attention of many of us:

"Within seventy-five miles of Birmingham there are 250,000 consumers of bread and meat, clothing, household articles and the necessities of life; and of this population 100,000 are daily laborers, being paid $75,000 in wages per day, $450,000 a week, $2,000,000 a month, or $24,000,000 per year.

"This looks nice and big on paper, doesn't it? But we don't keep it here, nor do we get it in cash, although this amount is below the sum paid in wages—values and cash. The commissary stores and our merchants must remit each month to the Northern farmer and merchant 75 per cent of this amount in order that we may support them; and a good portion of the remaining one-fourth in cash goes to the railroads to pay them for hauling the Northern goods to us and to pay the interest on foreign money (foreign to Birmingham capital) loaned on our realty. Hence it is that very little money is left to us in the Birmingham district and we wonder and wonder why, with so much activity and employment that cash is so scarce and times so hard. The astute politician who wants to perpetuate partyism and grasp the reins of power tells us that the gold bugs have "coaxed" all the money and we must have unlimited silver; Coxe says we must have bonds issued to the cities and each municipality must raise its own money; Tom Watson, disgusted with silver, now thinks that the Government should issue an abundance of paper money, while McKinleyism is on record for high protection so that our people may go to work.

"But, Mr. Editor, instead of our trying to reform the United States, let us reform ourselves first. Are the foregoing assertions true or not? I am prepared to submit statistics in proof that they are facts. If it was not for the demand of the Southern farmer, buying something to eat from the Northern farmers, those fellows up there would be without a market. Over twenty million dollars a year is paid to the Northwest for refrigerated and canned beef, for hams, bacon, sides, mess pork and lard; for meal, flour, starch, crackers, soap and candles; train loads of honey come every day from Kansas, and over two thousand tons of butter and cheese come to the South every year from Illinois and Wisconsin. The Birmingham District smokes on an average of $300 worth of cigars daily, and send that amount of money to Cincinnati, New York and Philadelphia and other Northern cities who pay $200 a day to laborers up there to make cigars for us. We might take up, ad infinitum, the long category of furniture, agricultural implements, wearing apparel, and structural work; of whisky, beer, drugs, and ornamentation; the possibilities for manufacture in glassware, pottery, wagons and sewing machines; but I will defer to another issue, details upon the possibilities of raw materials other than iron and steel.

"My attention was attracted to one little line in your paper, 'patronize home industries,' and if we do we keep our money here to build, improve and circulate; if we buy the products of the North we send our money to them that they may circulate it up there, and build and improve with it. Labor is a commodity governed by supply and demand, and capital is the product of labor; our banks are overflowing with this product to be had on gilt edged securities. Can we not furnish the security and inaugurate a series of manufacture ourselves?"

THE LAW'S DELAY CAUSES ANOTHER LYNCHING.

Dr. W. L. Ryder, a prominent young man of Talbotton, Ga., was lynched by a mob near Waverly Hall in Talbot county, Ga., on last Monday night for the murder of Miss Sullie Emma Owens, of Talbotton, Ga., a little more than a year ago. Miss Owens was a highly accomplished young lady, and Dr. Ryder was madly in love with her. The murder was one of the most cruel and coldblooded ever committed in the state, and brought about doubtless by insane jealousy on the part of Ryder. He had been tried and convicted of the crime and sentenced to death. Upon appeal to the higher court he was granted a new trial on a technicality. Last Monday was set for the second trial at Talbotton. Owing to the absence of the leading counsel and witnesses for the defense, the case was continued. The prisoner in charge of proper officers was being conveyed from Talbotton to the jail at Columbus, Ga., when he was taken from the officers by a mob and hanged. The law's delay in meting out justice is the cause assigned for taking the matter in hand by Judge Lynch, and it seems that public opinion in that section, while it deprecates the necessity for such action, approves the act.

A BUSINESS CHANGE.

On yesterday a trade was consummated whereby Mr. Steve Bristow became the purchaser of the stock of General Merchandise of Mr. S. M. Lanham in this place. Mr. Lanham retires from the mercantile business and Mr. Bristow will succeed him as the same old stand. Mr. Lanham requests The Sentinel to return his thanks to the public for the liberal patronage extended him and asks the same liberal treatment for his successor, Mr. Bristow. Mr. Bristow has long been a citizen of Calera, and is well-known to this people. The Sentinel wishes him every success in his new venture.

"Last Summer one of our grand-children was sick with a severe bowel trouble," says Mrs. E. G. Gregory, of Fredricktown, Mo. "Our doctor's remedy had failed, then we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave a very speedy relief." For sale by Dial Bros.

The school interests of our town are engaging the attention of our citizens these days and the unanimous sentiment is to establish a first class graded school. The mayor and council, who constitute the school board of the city, are leaving nothing undone to accomplish this result and the outlook is very encouraging indeed. There are already quite a number of applicants for the position of Principal of the school and also for positions as assistant teachers.

Mr. C. L. Housbrouck, a druggist at Mendon, Mich., says all of the good testimonials that have been published by the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy could be duplicated in that town. For sale by Dial Bros., druggists.

The spirit of progress and advancement seems to have taken hold of Alabama, and in spite of tariff bills or other legislation, our section is moving forward in the march of industry and development. Capital is seeking investment and nowhere does it find so many favorable and promising conditions as in Alabama. The near future has much in store for Alabama.—Montgomery Advertiser.

REASONS WHY CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY IS THE BEST.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemic dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

THE CONFEDERATE VETERAN'S RE-UNION.

The Confederate Veterans re union, held at Columbiana on Thursday and Friday of last week, was a most pleasant occasion and was largely attended. There were probably as many as fifteen hundred persons present on the grounds on Friday. The number of old veterans probably reached one hundred and fifty. They enjoyed the day most delightfully, mingling together in happy social converse, reviving old memories and associations, going through with the drill and parade, and partaking of the bountiful dinner prepared by the good people of Columbiana and vicinity, spread beneath the refreshing shade of the grove. The few speeches made were very appropriate to the occasion, and the day will long be remembered as a bright one in the memory of the Confederate veterans of Shelby county. To Mr. John W Johnston of Columbiana is largely due the credit of getting up this re-union which afforded so many of the old veterans so much pleasure.

The catalogue of the State Normal College for the session of '96-'97 is on our table. It shows an enrollment of 310 students registered from the various sections of this state and from many other states. We are informed that requests are coming in for catalogues faster than they can be answered. The recent high praise of this institution by Dr. Mayo doubtless has some connection with this demand for catalogues. We shall not be surprised if the attendance next session is larger than ever before. The Florence Normal has, for years, done a great work for the cause of education in Alabama. Its teachers find steady employment at good salaries, and wherever they go, the Normal wins friends because of the character of the work they do. President Wilson will start out next week to make a thorough canvass of the state in the interest of this Institution. We wish him much success.—Florence Times.

In the Eastern situation Greece today is the only nation which has dared to take a stand for civilization and progress, and if she is vanquished in the impending struggle it will be to the everlasting disgrace of the six big bulies who are handicapping her.

Several young ladies living on Klam street, Cleveland, have petitioned the City Council to change the name of the street. They'll continue to reside on that street, however, just the same, no matter what it is called, and the boys will continue to—well, to justify the present name.

Another Vanderbilt scion has married a chorus girl. The trouble is not with the rich young men of New York, but with the rich young women. They must be hopelessly homely or hopelessly stupid, else they would never be cut out by chorus girls.

Woman in the East.
An old Arab proverb declares, "The best son-in-law is the grave." You cannot insult a Moslem more than to ask after the health of his wife.

If a woman is so much as mentioned in conversation, even though she may be the speaker's own wife, politeness requires one to add the words, "May God elevate you"—that is, above the contamination of such a subject. The same expression is used after the mention of a dog, a donkey, a pig, or a shoe, all of which are held vile and unclean. Nor is this feeling confined to Mohammedans. Doctor Jessup tells how a Greek Christian in Tripoli came applying for help to an American physician. Said he:

"There is a woman here who is ill. I beg your pardon for mentioning so vile a subject to your excellency."

"Who may it be?" inquired the doctor.

"May God elevate you, it is my wife."

Dr. Jessup also tells of overhearing the following conversation between a Mohammedan and Doctor Van Dyck:

"Your excellency must be aware that I have a sick man at my house. May God grant you health! He has pain in his back, headache, and he will not eat."

"Has he any fever?"

"A little."

"I will come and see her this afternoon, perhaps."

"May God increase your goods."

HUNTING THE JAGUAR.

A ROYAL SPORT THAT IS ENJOYED IN VENEZUELA.

The Natives Use Only a Short Stabbing-Spear to Kill the Ferocious South American Tiger—A Plucky Indian's Exploit.

The July Century has several articles devoted to the hunting of big game. One of them is "Hunting the Jaguar in Venezuela," written by William Willard Howard. Mr. Howard describes the method of the native hunters in killing the jaguars with short spears, and relates the following experience of his native guide:

In a moment a great brown-and-yellow beast, spotted and ringed with black, strode leisurely into view, looking upward at the screaming birds. It was the fierce and cruel jaguar, the South American tiger, king of all beasts south of the Isthmus of Darien, and matched in ferocity and courage only by the wounded grizzly bear of North America.

The monstrous creature suddenly paused, with a massive foot lifted from the ground. He had seen the hunter. Trife was as one turned to stone, a sort of bronze image that might have stood neglected in the wilderness since the days of the Chibchas, whom Quesada conquered to found the viceroyal state of New Granada.

The tiger's long tail swung slowly from left to right, and from right to left again, while over his yellow face crept a look of mild surprise and inquiry, as though he had asked the meaning of this strange thing which had the figure of flesh and blood and the inscrutable stillness of inanimate rock.

It was splendid courage that this dumb brute did not turn tail and bound away. I know of no other animal that would have stood his ground. Even the grizzly bear, more terrible to meet than the lion of Africa or the monarch of the Bengal jungle, would have growled savagely and retired.

Matchless in his calm courage, the great jaguar put down his uplifted paw and advanced a few steps, half crouching, with lowered head and neck, as a cat creeps upon its prey. Then he paused, swinging his long tail slowly from side to side. Terife stood like a stone, superior in courage even to this remarkable ruler of the forest.

Slowly, cautiously, the tiger came on again, hanging his head and neck low between his shoulders, and never for an instant taking his green-and-yellow eyes from the strange thing in the path. He was a beautiful creature—wonderfully beautiful in his sinewy strength and graceful curves.

As the tiger drew near, a step at a time, his tail swung more rapidly, with a vicious jerk at the end of each swing. Apparently he was giving way to the idea that the strange thing in the path was flesh and blood. Still, he was not quite certain, and he meant to investigate. The Indian had seemingly petrified where he stood. Not even the loose folds of his cotton shirt stirred in the breeze. The birds circled and wheeled for a few moments, and then flew away, caring little for the impending death-grapple, now that their own domestic arrangements were no longer imperiled. Puzzled, undecided, watchful, the tiger walked slowly to the hunter, his green eye searching craftily for some undetected sign of life.

When he had come to the end of his uncertain path the yellow monster bent his head and sniffed suspiciously at the Indian's feet. Like a steel spring the great beast recoiled. The strange, still thing was flesh and blood.

A step at a time—alert, wary, fierce—he withdrew his massive paws, measuring the distance with the savage instinct of the forest. The Indian made no sign.

Then the tiger crouched in the path; his giant muscles quivered in tense knots, his red tongue curled stiffly between his keen fangs, his tail thrashed viciously, and his spotted skin moved in bristling waves of anger, as a quick squall races across standing grain.

In an instant all would be over: a lonely tragedy far away in the South American wilderness—a tragedy for beast, or a tragedy for man.

The tiger gathered himself for the spring, his sinewy length all a-tremble; but just as his bunched muscles were quivering with the first impulse of upward motion, the hunter came back to life. Terife snatched the loose handkerchief from his neck, and cast it full in the tiger's face. In an ecstasy of surprise the beast threw up his head and shoulders, and pawed insanely at the cloth. In the catching of a breath Terife aimed the upraised spear at the rounded yellow throat, and drove it home.

Tiger and spear rolled in the dust together, the blood spurting over the spear-shaft and staining the narrow trail. The king of the Cordilleras was conquered. He died as he had lived, fierce, cruel, savage, with no abatement of his splendid courage.

Married Seventy Years.

On May 4th the Rev. Andrew Patrick and his wife, Olivia, of Grays, Knox County, Kentucky, had been married exactly seventy-two years. Both are in good health and in enjoyment of all their faculties. He is ninety-two years old and she is eighty-six. He has living descendants in the fifth generation.

Mr. Patrick was born in North Carolina in 1805, and at an early age he moved to Tennessee. At Elk River, that state, he met his wife, then Olivia Minor, and they were married when she was a little less than fifteen years old.

Thirteen children were born to Mr. Patrick and his wife, six boys and seven girls. The oldest of their children is now seventy. He, like his father, is a Baptist minister.

The Rev. Andrew Patrick has 423 living descendants. There are 109 grandchildren, 304 great grandchildren, and 20 great-great-grandchildren. He has a grandson fifty-three years old, who has grandchildren five or six years old.

Mr. Patrick has been preaching for sixty years, and during that time has had many interesting experiences.—Winston (N. C.) Sentinel.

ANTS BURY THEIR DEAD.

An Exhibition Showing the Admirable Municipal System of the Insects.

Among the million and one attractions which will be offered this Summer in London to charm the festive shillings out of the pockets of sight-seers there will be none more interesting in its way than the exhibition of the Working Ants at the Crystal Palace.

The domestic economy of ant life is wise and well considered, and as builders the ants are possessed of an acumen which is nothing short of marvelous. Columns erected in their architecture are almost round. In the great hill of the formica rufa one sees that the pine needles which are used in its construction are placed at various angles to give strength to the dome, exactly as a human architect would have employed them. It is estimated that fifty thousand ants comprise the community of this great nest, and all are busy constantly, their labors never seeming to cease. The structure contains an enormous number of chambers for the accommodation of the larvae, pupae, cocoons, queens and males.

The heaviest of the ants' labor is in attendance on the larvae and pupae in the interior chambers. Therefore of all this densely populated city of 50,000 inhabitants but few are seen outside. The apterous, or wingless queens, remain in state in their commodious chambers at the bottom of the nest, and are never seen in public; but a heavy duty with the workers is to drag the winged males for a promenade outside the nest for a few turns and then disappear.

The strength of these ants is enormous. The pine needles which are furnished them for building are ten times longer than themselves, but the ants move them about with the greatest ease. An entomologist in attendance at the show will pick up any one of these ants as it runs about in its work and will cause it to hold by its mandibles a weight three thousand times heavier than itself, or equal in proportion to a man holding two hundred tons in his teeth. These ants secrete great quantities of formic acid. Chloroform was at one time distilled from the formic acid furnished by the formica rufa.

The hill ants are of great service in preserving forest trees, it being estimated that one hundred thousand insects are destroyed daily by one nest of this species.

An ant has two compound and three simple eyes. The number of facets in the compound eye reach twelve hundred in the male of the formica species. The life of a male ant rarely exceeds twelve months, but a worker has been known to live seven years. Ants have memory and affection; they recognize their friends after long absences. Sir John Lubbock speaks of an ant which recognized him with signs of pleasure after an absence of two years.

The queen of the white ants is often four inches in length, three ounces in weight, and has been estimated to lay eighty thousand eggs per day. These eggs are very small, just discernible to the naked eye, and are immediately taken charge of by the workers, who make them into clusters of ten to twenty, so that one ant may carry a number into safety, in case of the nest being attacked.

Origin of the Races.

The Bible says the whole human race sprang from the individual, Adam. Virey affirms there were two original pairs. Jacquot and Latham divide the race into three primordial stocks; Kant into four; Blennanbach into five; Buffon into six; Hunter into seven; Agassiz into eight; Pickering into eleven; Bory St. Vincent into fourteen; Desmoulins into sixteen; Morton into twenty-two; Crawford into sixty and Burke into sixty-three. Now comes Quartreages, the French ethnologist, who says all mankind came from a central mass in Northern Asia, and that there were three fundamental types—black, white and yellow, which scattered over the world and intermingled, forming, in course of time, seventy-two distinct races of human beings. The world is waiting for another opinion.

A Happy Family.

The Grand Union Tea Store at Willimantic, Conn., has a very interesting family in one of its show windows, consisting of a cat which is rearing two kittens and a gray squirrel. The mother cat bestows as much motherly affection upon the squirrel as upon her own offspring. All three are sucklings and about half grown, and the squirrel romps and tumbles with his unnatural brothers. The family are the property of N. W. French, whose son caught the squirrel about six weeks ago, at that time but a few days old. He put it at once with the old cat, whose kittens were about the same age. The adoption was without protest, and no family discord has yet arisen.—New York Telegram.

PROF. M. C. WILSON

Elected President of the State Normal College.

A meeting of the trustees of the State Normal College was held here Wednesday afternoon, the chief business being the election of a president of the college to succeed Prof. J. K. Powers. Those present were: Hon. Geo. P. Jones, of Florence, Chairman; Hon. W. I. Bullock, of Russellville, Secretary; Gen. John D. Rather, of Tusculum, Hon. Chappel Cory, of Montgomery, Hon. J. Kirk Jackson, of Montgomery, Hon. John F. Proctor, of Scottsboro.

There were a number of applicants for the presidency, including prominent educators outside of the state. After mature deliberation, the board elected Prof. M. C. Wilson, of Florence, to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Wilson is a graduate of the University of Virginia, and has filled a chair in the faculty of the college since 1881. He is an accomplished scholar, a polished gentleman and possesses the necessary qualifications to maintain the high standard of the school and further advance its usefulness. The fact that he was chosen out of the number of prominent educators whose names were before the board is, of itself, ample evidence of his eminent fitness. The Standard-Journal, from the first, urged his election, and he is confident that under his wise, prudent, progressive management, the institution will extend its influence and usefulness, and continue to grow in popularity.

The chair of mathematics will be filled later on.—Florence Standard-Journal.

"It is generally thought that a man cannot live very long after getting a bullet in his heart," said a South Carolinian to a Star reporter, "but there is an instance on record in my State of a man carrying a bullet in his heart five weeks before death. The matter is fully authenticated, the post-mortem examination having been made by Dr. Curran B. Earle, a nephew of the late United States Senator Earle. The wounded man was named Tom Ferguson, and he was shot by a colored man named Dock Chaney at Greenville, S. C. Ferguson lived five weeks, and at the post-mortem examination a thirty-two-caliber bullet was found firmly imbedded in the exterior wall of the heart. The cause of Ferguson's death was the inundation of the pericardial cavity, which impeded the action of the heart, which in plain English means that the cavity surrounding the heart was punctured and flooded to such an extent that the heart was prevented from beating. This carrying a bullet in the heart is a remarkable case, but the physicians were not able to say, without tedious research, whether it has a like in the medical records or not. A patient, it is said, may live several days with a wounded heart, and a metaphorical wound, however severe, may not shorten his life at all, but the cases, if any, where one carried a bullet in this sensitive organ so long are few and far between."—Washington Star.

Is Tea Hurtful?

Physicians tell us that tea is injurious to the nervous system. At the time of its introduction into Europe much opposition was provoked and much written in hostility to its use. Henry Savile writes in 1678 to his uncle, Mr. Secretary Coventry, in sharp reproach of certain friends who call for tea after dinner, instead of the bottle. He calls it "a base Indian practice, which I must ever admire your Christian family for not admitting." Another writer, at about the same date, calls it "a filthy custom," and adds, "Men seem to lose their stature and comeliness, and women their beauty."

Dr. Samuel Johnson drew his own portrait of "a hardened and shameless tea drinker, who for twenty years diluted his meals with the infusion of this fascinating plant, whose kettle had scarcely time to cool; who with tea amused the evening, and with tea soiced the midnight, and with tea welcomed the morning." So the great doctor could have feared no ill effects.

Experience proves that the moderate use of tea sustains the body under severe muscular strain without causing subsequent exhaustion; and it forms an agreeable means of imbibing the quantity of water necessary to human nutrition.—Lippincott's.

The Puzzle Lock Bracelet.

A novel piece of jewelry is the puzzle-lock bracelet, the chain of which is secured by a lock formed of three revolving pieces engraved with figures or letters. Only by arranging these in some particular combination forming a private code can the lock be opened, and as the figures may make an immense number of combinations, the "open sesame" is well nigh impossible of attainment except by the owner. The idea of this device is that the bracelet can be taken off and used to chain a bicycle to the railings while the rider is in a house or store, as a fastening to a traveling bag, and for many other purposes of the sort. Most people would be apt to suffer qualms of anxiety in leaving it as a lock to a bicycle, but for the maker's assurance that the bracelets, which are made in a variety of designs, are so strong as to render the length of time required for filing them through a risk which the bicycle thief would not venture to incur, while it is impossible to break the lock or to open it in any other way than by the mysterious code.—Philadelphia Record.

Says the Philadelphia Ledger: "We will not purchase Cuba." Neither will we; this may as well be understood now.

A fierce anti-Jew agitation is in progress in Austria, and it is so violent that it will probably cause a great exodus. There are at least 2,000,000 Jews in Austria, about one-fourth as many as in Russia. A few are very rich, but the masses are a poor. It is the very poor who will suffer most from the hostile legislation and action of the government now in prospect. Naturally many are trying to get out of the country and will come to the United States, where prejudices of race and religion are not so powerful as in Austria and Russia.

Are Your Eyes Right?

You are either left-eyed or right-eyed, unless you are the one person out of every fifteen who has eyes of equal strength. You also belong to the small minority of one out of every ten persons if your left eye is stronger than your right. As a rule, just as people are right-handed, they are right-eyed. This is probably due to the generally greater use of the organs of the right side of the body, as, for example, the runner uses his right arm and shoulder, uses his right eye, thereby strengthening it with exercise. This law is confirmed by the experience of artists. If a person who has ears of equal hearing power has cause to use one ear more than the other for a long period the ear brought into requisition is found to be correspondingly stronger than the other.

One-third of the Line Has Been Completed and Trains Are Running.

Since the beginning of the regular service between Tscheljabinsk and the bridge over the Obi, Oct. 10, 1890, trains run only thrice a week, Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday. These trains accomplish the distance of 930 miles in fifty-one hours. The tickets cost: First class, $30; second class, $23.25, and third class, $15.75. Each of the three classes is provided with sleeping arrangements; yet as often happens in Russia, the travelers bring their own beds and samovars, or tea urns, with them, besides other articles. But one must not think that the cars on the Siberian railway are fitted up with all the comfort of European or American "trains de luxe." Even the ordinary station accommodation is only just being gradually completed; for example, the lack of refreshment rooms has been in many places and is still supplied by the peasants of the neighboring region, who come down to the stations with bread, cheese, butter, meat and baked fish. These small defects in the management will naturally soon vanish. For, although for the present it is but a single line of rails, yet the line is destined for considerable traffic in the future, as can be seen from the fact that as a start 2,000 locomotives, 3,000 employees and 35,000 freight cars were decided upon. This staff and rolling stock will allow, on completion of the whole line, of a train composed of one engine, one or two employees and eighteen freight cars for each mile.

As one-third part of this gigantic railway is now ready, it can be conceived that already $150,000,000 out of the estimated general cost of $345,000,000 have been spent. The line has, moreover, in this brief space, shown its influence on the colonization of Siberia, as the western portions of it have been brought, piece by piece, into working order. The colonization has greatly increased along the line since 1805, and the hope of the Russian Government is being rapidly fulfilled, that the cultivation of the swampy Talga district on both sides of the line will proceed at a quicker rate than hitherto; the swarms of flies make this district terrible in summer. Up to the present there is no data as to the influence of the construction of the line upon trade; there can, however, be no doubt that this influence does exist to a considerable degree, as also an influence for good as regards the administrative system in Siberia. The Russian officials and soldiers, who were often hitherto month after month on the journey are they reached their destination in Siberia, will, at all events, joyfully greet this connection by railway; its importance from the point of view of transporting troops is clearly seen from the fact that Russia at this moment has in Eastern Siberia alone an army of 60,000 men.—New York Tribune.

Keep the Mouth Shut.

If you would avoid colds, keep the mouth shut when coming out of an over-heated room, especially late at night, and breathe through the nose. Chills are apt to ensue when people talk freely while out of doors just after leaving a room full of hot air, and theater-goers who discuss and laugh over the play on their way home are inviting illness. It is, in fact, during youth that the greater number of mankind contract habits of inflammation which make their whole life a tissue of disorders.

Senator Morgan proposes a new test for the immigrant—a knowledge and understanding of the ten commandments. If he will add a provision that the immigrant shall have kept all these from his youth up he will probably be able to put an effective check on the incoming tide for several centuries to come.

Murder Speedily Avenged. A sensation has been created at Broughton, Ark., by a dying man's confession. Two weeks ago a resident of that locality named Fuller was assassinated, and no clue to the murderer could be found. Thursday a man named Graham died from congestion, superinduced by heat. On his death bed he confessed to the assassination of Fuller, and explained that he became prostrated from heat while running from the scene of the crime.

The Eastern Question Settled. A dispatch to the N. Y. Herald Friday, from Constantinople, says: The trade which spells peace has been issued at last. The ambassadors and Turkish representatives were in friendly conversation for several hours, carrying out the work entrusted them of settling, and by the best means carrying out the terms of peace acceded to by the sultan. On all sides the strongest feelings of relief and satisfaction are displayed. Several sessions will have to be held before the working of all the details can be arranged.

Peary Expedition Arrives at Sydney, B. C. The steamer Hope, with Mr. Peary and party, on their Greenland expedition, arrived in Sydney, Thursday, having made the run from Boston lightship in seventy-two hours. All on board were well. The coal supply for the expedition was taken on board there, and the steamer sailed Friday. The first stopping place after leaving there, it is expected, will be Cape York, in 78° N. latitude, where arrangements are to be made with the Esquimaux by the party when they return next year to attempt to reach the north pole. From Cape York several places on the Greenland coast will be visited before the return this fall.

The Rush to the Gold Fields. The steamship Queen sailed for Alaska Friday carrying 163 passengers bound for the Klondyke gold field. The steamer carried 400 tons of freight consisting of baggage and provisions. The steamer State of California will leave San Francisco on the 27th, connecting with the steamer Geo. W. Elder at Portland on the 30th. Advice from the north have been received to the effect that all accommodations on the steamer Topeka, which leaves Puget Sound on the 30th, and the Alaki, which will sail on August 25th.

The Galveston Rate War. The rate situation in Galveston, Texas, is steadily growing worse and the probability is that it will soon be necessary for the railroads to enter the fight, and this will mean that the rates between Chicago and Galveston will be reduced largely. The worst feature of the fight between the steamship lines appears to be that there is no manner in which the roads are able to stop fighting between the steamship lines, which is the cause of the trouble. No great amount of freight has gone from Chicago to the Atlantic seaboard by way of Galveston, but if the cut rates are continued it will be likely that the bulk of the freight which is not in a hurry to reach the consignees will be sent that way. There will be an easier way about it, unless the roads reduce their rates.

A Convict's Startling Confession. Noah Baney, a convict at the Michigan City prison, has made a written confession, which, if proved true, will have the effect of giving the Rev. W. E. Hinshaw, his liberty. Hinshaw was sentenced two years ago to life imprisonment for the murder of his wife. The tragedy was enacted at Belleville, a few miles west of Indianapolis, Ind., and the trial of Hinshaw was one of the most sensational in the State's history. According to Baney, the real murderers of Mrs. Hinshaw are Guy Van Tassel and John Whitney, both Indianapolis men of bad reputation. Baney's statement recites the details of the crime, as told to him by Whitney and Van Tassel who, he says, drove from Indianapolis to Belleville in his buggy. Baney says the purpose of the visit to the Hinshaw home was robbery, and that Mrs. Hinshaw was shot by Van Tassel, who shot to frighten her back into the house while she and her husband were pursuing them into the yard. Hinshaw's attorneys have held back a portion of Baney's confession for the present.

RIVER COMMISSION. Cuts Down the Apportionment for Levee Work.

At the close of the session of the Mississippi River Commission it was announced that $760,000 had been re-appropriated to dredging and plants for dredging, but in order to expend that amount the apportionment for levees had been reduced. This had been done in equal ratio so no injustice would be done any of the levee districts.

The reapportionment for the levee districts is as follows: Lower St. Francis, $63,550; upper Yazoo, $73,000; White river, $123,300; lower Yazoo, $551,500; upper Tensas, $229,400; lower Tensas, $288,700; Atchafalaya, $138,600; Lafourche, $41,600; Barataria, $19,400; Pontchartrain, $113,150, and Lake Borgne, $29,200.

The reapportionment, which comes under the head of dredging, is as follows: Dredging, $776,300; Mississippi river commission, $38,000; surveys, gauges, etc., $67,000; Hopefield bend and Memphis harbor, $22,200.

Plants, First and Second districts, $40,000; plant, Third district, $75,000; Giles bend, Natchez and Vidalia harbor, $125,000; plant, Fourth district, $20,000.

Of the general appropriation, $100,000 still remains unappropriated. It is the practice of the commission to have a little fund on hand in case of emergency to be used in the repairs of breaks in the levees by the overflow in the spring.

Trolley Patent Invalid. In the circuit court of appeals for the New York circuit a decision was handed down Thursday in the case of the Thompson-Houston Electrical Co. vs. the Hoosier Railroad Co. In this decision, which was written by Judge Wallace, all of the judges concurring, the court held that the Van De Poole trolley patent is invalid by reason of the same invention having been disclosed in an earlier patent to Van De Poole. The decision, therefore, invalidates the patent because it was claimed to cover broadly the idea of the undercurrent trolley on an overhead wire. The court's finding affects all the trolley railways of the country, as the patents may be used by any one without paying royalty.

Ambassador Uhl Back. Edwin F. Uhl, formerly ambassador of the United States to Germany, arrived in New York Friday on board the steamer Normania from Hamburg.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

THE TARIFF BILL PASSED AND CONGRESS ADJOURNS.

Senator Turley Takes the Oath of Office—A Building to be Erected at Trans-Mississippi International Exposition in Omaha, Nebraska.

SENATE. MONDAY.—The day in the senate was principally devoted to a discussion of Mr. Harris' resolution relating to the Union Pacific railroad. Mr. Stewart spoke in opposition to it. Mr. Thurston, of Nebraska, was speaking in opposition to it when the senate went into executive session and shortly after adjourned.

TUESDAY.—The conference report was presented to the senate to-day, but little progress was made on it beyond the formal reading of about two-thirds of the report. There was no indication of when the final vote will be reached. During the day Mr. Tillman openly threatened a filibuster until next December, if cotton bugging and cotton ties were not restored to the free list, but the threat was regarded as somewhat factious. The sugar amendment occasioned a long debate, during which Mr. Allen stated that the conference report rates were lower than the senate's and largely a concession to the house. Early in the day the senate passed a joint resolution authorizing and requesting the president to take all necessary steps for the release of the Competitor prisoners from prison in Havana. In view of the fact that sugar stock had advanced many points yesterday, it had been expected that the supposed victory of the house was all stage play and farce, and that in fact the trust had secured greater benefits than in any former schedule. At 5:15 p.m., on motion of Mr. Allison, the senate went into executive session and then adjourned.

WEDNESDAY.—The senate concluded the nominal reading of the tariff conference report to-day. Mr. Chandler, of New Hampshire, referred to the broad latitude given conference committee in practice of both houses of congress. He raised a laugh by telling Mr. Jones that he had "swallowed two tribes of Indian appropriation bills." After an executive session the senate adjourned.

THURSDAY.—Shortly before the senate adjourned to-day Senator Allison, in charge of the tariff bill, made a strong effort to have a time fixed for the final vote on the tariff conference report. Failing in this Mr. Allison gave notice that the session to-morrow would be protracted, with a view to securing a vote. It was the first definite movement made thus far toward bringing the debate to a close. The debate on the report to day was participated in by Senators Chilton, of Texas; Jones, of Arkansas, and Pettigrew, of South Dakota, in opposition, while Mr. Allison took frequent occasions to defeat the report against the criticisms of these senators. The credentials of the new senator from Tennessee, Thomas B. Turley, who succeeds the late Senator Harris, were presented to the senate by his associate, Mr. Bate. Mr. Turley was then escorted to the vice-president's desk, where the oath of office was duly administered. On the desk to which he was assigned on the Democratic side was a superb bouquet of carnations. At 5 o'clock the senate held an executive session and then adjourned.

FRIDAY.—There was no outward evidence when the senate met to-day that the session was fast drawing to a close, although senators gathered in groups and discussed the prospects of getting away. Mr. Allison then moved to proceed with the tariff conference report, Mr. Tillman contested this with a motion to take up his resolution, adversely reported yesterday, for an investigation of the alleged senatorial speculation in sugar stock. Mr. Tillman was about to begin a speech when Mr. Allison made a point of order that debate was not in order and the presiding officer sustained the point. Mr. Tillman thereupon asked for a yeas and nays vote, on which his motion was lost, 15 to 35. A joint resolution was passed for the erection of a government building at the trans-Mississippi International Exposition at Omaha. The consideration of the tariff conference report was then resumed and Mr. Teller, of Colorado, took the floor for a general speech. In conclusion Mr. Teller announced that he had no desire to return to the fold of the Republican party. The galleries broke into continued applause as the Colorado senator took his seat. Mr. White, of California, followed Mr. Teller. Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, reviewed what he called the remarkable things of the remarkable extra session. At 6 o'clock a motion by Mr. Pettus to go into executive session was lost. Mr. Allen resumed his tariff speech. At 6:35 the senate recessed until 10 a. m.

SATURDAY.—The tariff bill passed its last legislative stage at 3 p. m. to-day, when the senate, by the decisive vote of 40 to 30, agreed to the conference report on the bill. The announcement of the result was greeted with enthusiastic applause by the crowded chamber. This closed the great labor for which the fifty-fifth congress assembled in extraordinary session, and after a stubborn resistance, at times threatening a deadlock, the senate concurred with the house in a resolution for the final adjournment of the session at 9 o'clock to-night. The president's message for a currency commission was received by the house, but the house did not create a commission was not acted upon. Thus the closing day was prolific of a series of momentous events, each of which, alone would have been of extraordinary interest. At 9 o'clock the final scene was enacted by the formal adjournment of the senate.

HOUSE. MONDAY.—The conference report of the tariff bill was adopted by the house, shortly after midnight, by a vote of 189 to 118 and at noon the report will go to the senate, for action there. This eclipses all previous records. The result was accomplished after twelve hours of continuous debate. But two speeches were made by the Republicans, the principal one being that of Governor Dingley. The Democrats were thus forced to put forth speaker after speaker, but their bombardment of the Republican position was unanswered. The sugar schedule was the main point of assault, but the most interesting feature of the debate occurred when Mr. Bailey and Mr. McMillin, the two rival Democratic leaders, crossed swords on the question of orthodoxy of the free raw material doctrine, the former opposing and the latter championing it. The galleries were crowded up to the time the vote was taken, many distinguished people being present. Every Republican in the house who was present voted for the report. The Democrats, with five exceptions, voted against the report. An analysis of vote shows that 80 Republicans and 5 Democrats voted for the report, and 106 Democrats and 12 Populists against. The house at 12:15 a. m., took recess until Wednesday.

WEDNESDAY.—When the house met to-day, Mr. Evans, Republican, of Kentucky, from the committee on ways and means, reported a joint resolution, requesting the president to make such investigation as will elicit all the facts in reference to the restrictions upon the sale of American tobacco in foreign countries under what is known as the "regie" or government contract. It also authorizes the president to enter into negotiations with governments of those countries, with a view to obtaining a modification or removal of these restrictions. The resolution was passed. Mr. Perkins, Republican, of Iowa, called up a resolution for printing 2,600 copies of the house digest. This served as an opportunity for Mr. Simpson, Populist, of Kansas, to criticize the mode of procedure in the house, in the midst of which Mr. Dingley moved an adjournment till to-morrow, which was carried—153 to 114.

THURSDAY.—After passing two unimportant bills, the house to-day took a recess until to-morrow.

FRIDAY.—The house had taken a recess until 5 o'clock in anticipation of action upon the conference report by the senate. When the house resumed its session at 5 o'clock, Mr. Dingley moved another recess until 8 o'clock, which was carried. As the senate had already recessed until to-morrow, when the house reconvened at 8 o'clock, Mr. Dingley immediately moved that the house take a recess until noon to-morrow.

SATURDAY.—The last session of the house was marked by many interesting events. In addition to the final act of the speaker in affixing his signature to the Dingley tariff bill, a bill providing for the creation of a currency commission was crowded through in the closing hours and the spectators who thronged the galleries were treated to a continuous, if not very brilliant fusillade of oratory for several hours. The house recessed until after the senate had adopted the conference report and one minute and thirty seconds after the house reconvened the engrossed bill was signed and on its way to the president. The demonstrations which marked these events were spontaneous and enthusiastic in the extreme. The galleries played significant part in them. Several printed resolutions authorizing the committee on appropriations to sit during the recess, were adopted. The house, at 8 o'clock, took a recess until 8:30 p. m. When the house reconvened the speaker announced the appointment of the committee. At exactly 9 o'clock p. m. the speaker declared the house adjourned without day.

It is Information That is Wanted. Mr. James Francis Hogan, anti-Parnellite member for Mid-Tipperary, London, has given notice that he will ask, some time this week, Hon. George N. Cannon, under secretary for the foreign office, whether the provision of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty to the effect that neither Great Britain or the United States shall annex Hawaii, is still recognized by both powers as of binding force.

Paper Company Fails. The Dwight and Barnett Paper Co., dealers in printing and wrapping paper, assigned Friday morning in Chicago. The assets are placed at $40,000 and liabilities at $50,000. Foreclosure on a judgment note was the immediate cause of the assignment.

State Normal College Board.

The recent meeting of the Troy State Normal College Board was characterized by intense interest in the College's growth, and perfect harmony of sentiment and action prevailed. Provisions for the College's ordinary needs and constant growth were made, and steps were taken to meet extraordinary demands, now imperative, likewise, to provide fully for the College as indicated by the prospects as seen from the many scores of letters from young people wanting to prepare for teaching. Dr. E. R. Eldridge was unanimously re-elected President, and entering now the tenth year of his work, is the ranking College President in Alabama as to length of tenure, except Dr. Brouse, of Auburn A. & M. College, who has served about twice the time of Dr. Eldridge.

As "Teacher Training" is the special purpose of this College, the board seeks to emphasize more and more the DEPARTMENT OF PEDAGOGY, and have organized this work as follows:

I. THEORETICAL PEDAGOGY, in which are taught the history, art, science and philosophy of education, and school organization and management: Edwin R. Eldridge, LL. D., Professor; Edgar M. Wright, B. L., Assistant Professor.

II. PRACTICAL PEDAGOGY: the application of all under I, in the—A—Peabody Summer School of Pedagogy, June 1, four weeks, annually: E. R. Eldridge, LL. D., Conductor; Edw. R. Wright, B. L., Psychology; James H. Glanville, Ph. D., Psychic Phenomena; Miss Catharine Gardner, Calisthenics; Miss Sue Pierson, B. S., Physical and Vocal Culture; B—The Model School Department: E. R. Eldridge, President of College, ex-officio Superintendent; E. M. Wright, Director High School; Miss Mabel Eldridge, B. Ed., Assistant; Miss Catharine Gardner, Director of Intermediate, Primary and Kindergarten; Miss Pearl Gellerstedt, M. Ph., and Miss Laura Hamill, M. Ph., Co-Principals. Intermediate, 1896-7; Miss Willie Belle Segars, M. Ph., Principal of Primary, 1896-7; Miss Wyche Green, M. It was the sentiment of the Board that the expenses of the attendance should be the lowest possible, and in this line the Senators and Representative scholarships were commended as the best medium to equalize the advantages of the College to all sections of the State alike. Nominations of candidates for Teacher Training by Senators or Representatives, in their respective districts, approved by their respective County Superintendents as worthy, appointed by the State Superintendent of Education, are entitled to scholarships as per the regulations governing, made known on the application to the President.

The State Superintendent, (like the Governor of the State) is ex-officio a member of the Troy State Normal College Board, and while attending a meeting of the Board requested that all students capable of passing the examination for a State certificate, good in every county of Alabama, be certified at any term ending, on passing said examination, that he might issue to all such, from his office at Montgomery, such State certificate, and this certification was ordered by the Board, at any term ending, commencement, or otherwise, the effect of which is to grant to Normal students the immediate advantages in the way of State certification to teach, a great recommendation to any teacher. School officers desiring such "Trained Teachers" can be put in communication with such by addressing the President of the College. Many such calls are filled annually.

THE FALL FROM GRACE.

Fell she from her high estate;
Fell as if the hand of fate
Had in malice struck her down!
Thrown aside her dainty crown.
Left her in the street alone,
Heart to heart with paving stone.
She so young and sweet and fair
Creature of a purer air.
Light of home; the radiant gleam,
Of a father's dearest dream.
Sunshine was but shadow while Friends could linger in her smile.
Fell she from her proud estate
Fell as by the hand of fate;
Cast upon a hard turnpike
By a misnamed safety bike.

HUMOROUS.

Cholly—My head is going round. Dolly—Well, I hope it never gets around to me.

"I heard that Pose, a photographer, was 'held up' twice in the same evening." "Yes, he was retouched." "There seems to be an awfully bad air in here." "Oh, it is nothing. Just wait till you hear Miss Squeals try to sing."

She—How are you getting on with your bicycle, Captain Vert? He (a beginner)—Oh! splendidly; getting on about every two minutes.

Bubbles—My wife and I met by accident—thrown together by chance, as it were. Wheelwoman (eagerly)—Did you break the bicycles?

Florence—From the way Arthur behaved when he called last night, Belle, I feel sure he is in love! Belle—Dear me! Is that so? Who can it be?

Evelyn—Charley looks worried this evening. I wonder if Miss Winthrop is going to refuse him? Bob—He's wondering, too. That's what worries him.

Algernon—I have just sent $10 worth of flowers to Miss Walsingham. Freddy—Why, I didn't know that any new florist had opened up a shop in town.

First Little Girl—And isn't your cat afraid of mice? Second Little Girl—Oh, no; not a single bit. First Little Girl—That's queer. And she's a lady cat, too, isn't she?

Mrs. Brown—I am the mother of seven boys. Do you wonder that I am a bread maker? Mrs. Jones—I am the mother of seven girls. Do you wonder that I am a match maker?

Flossie—Eddy, what's extravagance? Eddy—Oh, it's always wanting to get something you want to get, instead of just getting something you don't, that somebody else wants you to get.

"The rooms are rather small," said the prospective summer boarder. "The advantage of that," said the hotel-keeper complacently, "is that not so much fresh air is required to keep them cool."

"Look up, dearest," he murmured, and his voice was as tender as spring lamb. "No, Edgah," she murmured, "I will not look up. I've had that kiss-with-every-airship gag worked on me too many times."

Fogg—Harry, run out and get me a magazine. Henry—Yes, sir. Which one? Fogg—Oh, it doesn't matter. The same pictures of bicycles, kokaks and typewriters are in all of them. Any one will do.

Miss Oldgirl—I have just been elected to membership of the United States Daughters of 1812. Why don't you become a member? Bessie Pert—Because of my age. I won't be eligible until fifty years yet.

First Sweet Girl About to Graduate—My commencement gown is ready, but I don't know what I shall write my essay on. Second Sweet Girl About to Graduate—Then I'm ahead of you. I selected my stationery to-day.

Piano Sounded by Electricity.

A piano on an entirely new principle is announced from Germany. The strings are stretched across the sounding board as in the ordinary piano, but the entire hammer mechanism is absent. Instead, the depressing of the key puts in action a magnet which automatically attracts and releases the wire, thus producing vibrations without the metallic stock which accompanies the sound in the common type. The resulting effect upon the tones is said to be very remarkable. The high notes resemble those of an Aeolian harp. The middle and lower notes are like a cello or an organ. It responds readily to every variation in power and expression. A note can be sounded for several minutes without varying in quality. So radically different from all existing instruments are the effects that a writer in the Illustrated American says a new style of music is needed to bring out its capabilities.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

This paper is entered in the Calera Post-office as second-class matter.

N. A. GRAHAM, EDITOR.

CALERA, ALA., JULY 29, 1897.

It is announced that Hon. S. D. Logan, of Centreville, is a candidate for the nomination for the office of Circuit Judge of the Fifth District. Mr. Logan is an able and successful lawyer, and would, no doubt, make an excellent Judge.

The new tariff bill passed the Senate at 3 p. m. on Saturday by a vote of 40 to 30, and was signed by the President at 4.07 p. m. This closed the labor for which the fifty-fifth congress assembled in extra session, and both houses adjourned at 9 o'clock Saturday night.

UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA advertises in another column. The advantages of being educated in one's own State University can not be overestimated. Equal strength acquired abroad or in an Institution of less prestige, would be far less valuable in a practical sense. University Alumni are and are to be leading men in all walks of life.

Parents with sons to educate should make a note of this.

SMALL POX.

The Jefferson County Medical Association Ex-Officio County Board of Health, at a meeting held in the city of Birmingham on the night of the 26th inst., decided unanimously that the present eruptive disease prevailing in that city is small pox beyond the peradventure of a doubt and should be so treated. The chairman of the committee of health reported that there are now twenty seven cases in the pest house. No deaths have resulted thus far. Vaccination was declared to be very necessary, and would be made compulsory at the end of nine days. The utmost care and caution is being used by the Board of Health and city and county authorities, and every effort is being made to stamp out the disease.

IN THIS COUNTY.

The Sentinel was informed Tuesday by one of Calera's physicians who saw Dr. Givhan, the county health officer on his return from Columbiana on Monday, that there is not now a case of small pox in the county. The cases at Columbiana and vicinity have all recovered and the greatest care has been taken and is still being observed to prevent any further appearance of the disease. These statements are made by The Sentinel for public information, in answer to the many enquiries that are daily being made in regard to the prevalence of the disease.

A MILL TO SET ONE THINKING

A traveling representative of the North Western Lumberman, writing to that paper from Birmingham recently has the following to say of Calera's leading industries:

"At Calera I found the mill of the Holcomb-Pratt Lumber Co. I say 'found it,' as though it had been lost, but only mean it in the sense that several people whom I asked for information told me there was no mill at Calera. I was on a Southern Railway train, and nearing the town, when I accidentally heard there was a mill there, and a smart one at that. I was told so by a lumberman, and knowing my information came from the right source, stopped off. It is a sea coast mill and has only been at Calera about two years. The proprietors are experienced mill men, and in putting up the mill they built it in typical southern style. I have been looking over several mills built by northern men in this southern country, and as I compared them with this one I wondered why they are built so differently. The northern mill is built heavy throughout, boarded up all around, and topped by a fine iron or shingle roof, the mill painted and the whole structure put up as though to stay for a hundred years. It was the general appearance of the mill of Holcomb-Pratt Lumber Co. that set me to thinking. It is a circular, with a top saw, and although the lower part of the frame is strong enough to hold the machinery, the frame above the floor is only put there to hold the roof. This roof is made of boards put on the same as shingles, and also battened with boards. The sides of the mill are not boarded up in the least; no pains have been taken to have a fancy-looking log deck, neither has there been any money wasted in beautifying any part of the mill, but all the necessary parts are there and each part is able to stand up under the work. The planing mill is built after the same style. The saw mill and planing mill are 400 feet apart, with the dry kiln half-way between.

"Location is a great thing when it comes to building a mill, and many people have found that there are other things to look to besides having plenty of timber. The margins are so low now that every bit of the log must be worked into something that can be turned into money. Near this place are several lime-kilns, and any available piece of lumber big enough to make a barrel stave is worked into that kind of material. It is not at all likely that it pays big money to the mill, but it pays something over and above what it cost to get it out, and that much is clear gain. The mill is also so near Birmingham that it pays something to ship the saw dust to that place. These are points well worth study when a new location is to be looked up, and although one cannot always find a good tract of timber near a big city, he can sometimes find other enterprises that will help him out in using the material that has formerly gone into the slab burner.

"Since coming to this section of the country, I have been obliged to draw comparisons many times between the man that comes directly from some other section and brings all of his ideas with him, and the man who has had some experience here before building his mill. There are many progressive mill men in the south who have always lived here; these people catch on to all the good ideas brought by other people and reject the ones not suited to this section. The men already on the ground and who have had some experience, laugh at the mill man from the north who strengthens his mill roof as though it was to hold a big body of snow, and boards up the sides of his mill, thereby making it a sweat box. They split their sides laughing over the story of the man from Michigan or Wisconsin, who is said to have arrived in Florida with a full outfit of mill machinery and logging appliances, including two carloads of sleds for winter work. I have tried to trace that story but have come to the conclusion that it must be a lumberman's joke. I say 'tried to trace the story,' but I have done it without asking questions; have just looked for the sleds."

MONEY TO BURN.

The following estimate has been made by a statistician of the amount of money spent by the young people of the United States in attending the three conventions recently held in San Francisco, Toronto and Chattanooga.

He estimates that outside of the local attendance that 25,000 were at San Francisco.

Their expenses he estimates as follows:

Five thousand spent $200 each, $1,000,000; 5,000 spent $125 each, $625,000; 5,000 spent $100 each, $500,000; 10,000 spent $50 each, $500,000; total, $2,625,000. Add local expenses of the delegates at $250,000; total cost of convention, $2,975,000.

He then estimates that 20,000 attended the Baptist Y. P. U. in Chattanooga and divides their expenses in this manner:

Five thousand spent $100 each, $500,000; 6,000 spent $75 each, $375,000; 5,000 spent $50 each, $250,000; 5,000 spent $30 each, $150,000; add local expenses of the convention and delegates, $125,000; total, $1,400,000.

Five thousand are spending $100 each $500,000; 10,000 spending $50 each, $500,000; 10,000, $40 each, $400,000; 5,000 $25 each, $125,000; total $1,525,000; add local expenses, $175,000; total, $1,700,000.

This relentless statistician adds to these figures $200,000 for the Brotherhood of St Andrew in Buffalo and submits a grand total of $6,175,000.

When we consider that this sum equals the contributions of all the Protestant denominations for foreign missions we see the moralist has food for reflection.

The question is, would the $6,175,000 do more good if expended on foreign missions than in being used to bring together for mutual profit and pleasure of these large bodies of young people.

Whatever we may decide one phase of the subject is undeniable. The young people with all their devotion to the cause of Christianity, might stay at home and save the $6,175,000, but if they did it is safe to predict it would never go to the heathen.

COAL NEAR CENTREVILLE.

County Press.

On last Tuesday, July 20th word was circulated about town that coal had been found on the lands of J. D. Cooper and M. F. Gardner about two miles east of town. Inquiry proved the rumor to be a fact. The manner in which it was discovered is as follows:

Mr. Frank, a prominent contractor on the M. & O. railroad, a few days ago requested permission of Messrs. J. D. Cooper and M. F. Gardner, who are adjacent land owners, to pitch his tents on their respective lands and upon such lands and within fifteen feet of the line between these two parties is a well which has not afforded water sufficient for such camp, and on Monday night last, Mr. Frank decided that next morning he would have the well which is 18ft deep, cleaned out and if necessary would have it dug deeper. After drawing the water and digging to a depth of two feet it was noticeable that coal lay in close proximity. Prior to reaching a depth of 21 feet the employee exclaimed, "I have struck coal!" and had the man on the surface call the attention of Mr. Frank who soon visited the well and finding what he thought to be coal, carried the same to his wigwam, examined it, and showed it to others of his party. At this time Gardner and Lavender rode up and a sample was shown them. All pronounced it a good quality of coal and the sample was brought by Mr. Gardner into the city and shown to all the business men and citizens and more especially to Mr. Frank Holly who is manager of our Centreville drug store and who was coal weigher at the Blocton mines for several years, and all were delighted to pronounce it a very fine specimen of coal.

HOW CAN PASTORS HELP SUNDAY SCHOOLS?

BY REV. JOE REYNOLDS.

Now, how can he help? Stand with me, look with me. The superintendent is not looking for himself, he is seeing for the pastor; his pastor, my pastor, your pastor. What does the superintendent see? What can the pastor do to help the Sunday School? From the stand point of my experience I see services along which the pastor can help the church, the Sunday School, the superintendent, and himself.

Let us see what the parents' duty is. 1st. Prepare their children for Sunday School. 2nd. To study the Sunday School lesson. 3rd. To present themselves at the Sunday School. The pastor might order them but they would not go; he might try to drive them and they would not go. Then it is the duty of the pastor to urge the parents to study the lesson at home with the children, and go with them to Sunday School. Every pastor is eloquent on the importance of the morning preaching; then why not under-core the teaching service also, and speak a little louder when he speaks of Sunday School from his pulpit. Take notice dear preachers, there is other work to do besides preaching, and let us try to save the children through their parents.

There is another class that we must reach, who do not have any knowledge of God's word, and when they go to hear preaching they do not get much for they must know something of divine truth in order to fully understand and appreciate a gospel sermon. Perhaps fifty per cent of an average congregation fail to get any thing from a sermon because they know so little of the Bible. Empty ears will give empty minds. Pastors advise your adults to study the Bible, to know the Bible, to teach the Bible, and you will have a rich reward.

Then pastors look what you can do for the scholars. Impress on their tender minds that the Sabbath days are sacred days, that scripture-searching is seed sowing, and that step-by-step service is sweet to the Savior. The youth of our day and time do not always fear God or regard man on Sunday. Now if it is easy to teach from the sacred book that one tenth of our income belongs to the Lord, surely it is equally easy to teach that one seventh of our time should be credited to the same account. We must do away with the idea that Sunday is mine to do and use as I please and not to be used as God directs. It is by trying to walk in the steps of the Savior, and thus sowing seeds of truth, that we can expect to reap the harvest or wear the crown of glory. Pastors show scholars that God's day is the time, God's house is the place, God's word is the book for pastors and people, for parents and children, for young and old to study.

Again, the pastor can show the teacher how to get helps in his important work. Let the teacher know that he must think before trying to teach. That he must take time to teach the truth in texts and testify to the truth in the old and new testament.

A very important part of the pastor's work is to help the officers by making strong their plans. He must not oppose their good work, he must not put a shadow over their light, but remember that the pastor must be the first officer in the Sunday School and his name should be at the first on the roll. He should observe everything and offend no one. As long as the Sunday School train is kept on the orthodox track and makes the schedule time, he need not stop the engine to ascertain how much steam the engineer carries or side track a car in order to have ventilators closed. By working together pastor, teachers, officers and pupils will accomplish much for the Master's cause.

Then pastors can we not keep everything in good running order by working well ourselves, helping more and directing less. God will honor the working hand. The pastor is set on a hill to reflect the light of the sun of Righteousness. May every ray shine bright and clear, so that every member of the school may walk in the light as God has given us to walk.

Mr. A. F. Smith of Shelby was a pleasant visitor at this office Tuesday.

A game of ball took place on the Calera diamond Tuesday evening between the Calera and Shelby teams, resulting in a victory for Shelby by a score of 7 to 17. Quite a number came over from Shelby to witness the game which was watched from the beginning to the close with much interest.

Mr. C. L. Houshrook, a druggist at Mendon, Mich., says all of the good testimonials that have been published by the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy could be duplicated in that town. For sale by Dial Bros., druggists.

Mrs. I. W. Bailey returned home on Tuesday evening from Columbiana where she was called by the illness and death of her father, Mr. Ab Weaver.

An interesting protracted meeting has been in progress at the Methodist church at Columbiana for the past several days. Rev. P. L. Abernathy and perhaps other ministers have been assisting the pastor Rev. Mr. Wilson.

REASONS WHY CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY IS THE BEST.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
 2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
 3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
 4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
 5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemic dysentery.
 6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
 7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
 8. Because it produces no bad results.
 9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
 10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against alum and all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands.
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.
New York.

Several of our citizens went over to Talladega Springs last Sunday to spend the day. The wreck of a freight train on Sunday afternoon at the trestle a short distance this side of the Springs detained them on their return until Monday morning.

Don't nauseate your stomach with teas and bitter herbs, but regulate your liver and sick headache by using those famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers.—Dial Bros.

Mrs. J. R. Pratt and children are visiting relatives and friends in Tennessee.

Mr. B. J. Holcomb, after a pleasant visit of several days here, has returned to his home at Shelbyville, Tenn.

"They don't make much fuss about it." We are speaking of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness, and all stomach and liver troubles. They never gripe.—Dial Bros.

Rev. Job Reynolds has an interesting communication in this issue of the Sentinel.

Mr. T. L. McGowen of Birmingham spent yesterday in the city.

Mrs. Mahone and daughter, Miss Vesta, of Kansas City, Mo., visited the city this week and were the guests of Mrs. S. H. Gist.

Mr. Joe Roberts, of Columbiana, a pleasant and agreeable young gentleman, accompanied his friend Mr. John Milner and attended the preaching services in this place last Sabbath.

Mrs. U. Onderdonk has returned home from a visit of several days at Talladega Springs.

"I crave but One Minute," said the speaker in a husky voice; and then he took One Minute Cough Cure, and proceeded with his oratory. One Minute Cough Cure is unequalled for throat and lung troubles.—Dial Bros.

Some of our citizens took advantage of the excursion rates to take the trip to Montgomery and Pensacola on last Tuesday.

John Griffin, of Zanesville, O., says: "I never lived a day for thirty years without suffering agony, until a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured my piles." For piles and rectal troubles DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequalled.—Dial Bros.

Mrs. Lula Holtman of Birmingham is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Minnie Ozley of this place.

Ed Duran came down from Birmingham a day or two ago and is spending a while with friends at his old home.

Vim, vigor and victory.—these are the characteristics of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and all stomach and liver troubles.—Dial Bros.

Rev. W. I. Sinnott was called elsewhere last Sabbath and was unable to fill his appointment here on that day. He however secured the services of Mr. John Milner, a young theological student of Princeton who is spending his vacation at his home in Columbiana, to supply his pulpit on that day. Mr. Milner preached an instructive and practical sermon with which the congregation was well pleased. He is a young man of engaging manners and gives promise of making a useful worker in the Master's cause.

It heals everything except a broken heart, may be said of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Piles and rectal diseases, cuts, bruises, tetter, eczema and all skin troubles may be cured by it quickly and permanently.—Dial Bros.

BURGLARS AGAIN.

Burglars made a raid upon the residence of Mr. George Wright on last Friday night and secured about fifteen dollars in money and some valuable papers from Mr. Wright's coat pocket. They entered his sleeping room through a window and did not disturb any of the household.

Again on Sunday night the residence of Mr. Thos. S. Taylor received a visit from the light fingered gentry, but they failed to effect an entrance after trying both front doors. Mr. Taylor was awake at the time and prepared for them. He quietly waited for them to put in their appearance but after a few efforts on the doors they withdrew. As yet there is no clew to the thieves.

There is a time for everything; and the time to attend to a cold is when it starts. Don't wait till you have consumption, but prevent it by using One Minute Cough Cure the great remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles.—Dial Bros.

Prof. C. C. Slaton, the newly elected Principal of the Calera High School, has been in the city this week making his arrangements to begin work preparatory to the opening of the school in the fall. He proposes to have everything in ship shape at an early day, and to spare no labor or pains to bring about a successful opening of the school. The Sentinel is pleased to be able to state that he has the hearty, united and cordial support of all our people who are thoroughly aroused on the educational line and are determined that Calera shall have one of the very best High Schools in the state.

FREIGHT WRECK ON THE ALA. MINERAL.

EIGHT CARS GO THROUGH A BRIDGE.

A southbound freight train was wrecked on the Mineral road near Talladega Springs on last Sunday evening. It seems a truck under one car broke and the car dragged for some distance. A trustle bridge was struck and the broken car caused it to collapse, carrying eight cars with it and smashing them up badly. Three of the cars were loaded and five empty. Fortunately none of the crew were hurt.

The wrecking crew at Birmingham was notified at once and in less than two hours the wrecking train with Capt. John Carville was at the wreck. The crew worked all the remainder of the evening and through the night clearing the track and getting the cars out of the hole, completing the job about daylight Monday morning.

The sham battle at Tuskalesoa at the close of the encampment there, was the best exhibition of the kind ever given in the state, or as to that matter the best ever given in the south, if we regard what several eye witnesses say of it. Some old soldiers that saw the battle could hardly refrain from rushing into the field and taking part, so realistic was the scene. The encampment was a success. No better grounds could be obtained in the state than those between the campus of the University and the Insane Hospital at Tuskalesoa. In the time of peace, the soldier boys are not thoroughly appreciated by the people at large. If the matter of appropriating funds for the support of these encampments were left to the people to vote upon, we dare say that the money would never be appropriated. Until we receive more light on the subject, we shall regard this expense as useless.—Hayneville Citizen-Ex-aminer.

DEATH OF Mr. A. H. WEAVER.

Mr. Abner H. Weaver died at his home in Columbiana on Sunday evening last at five o'clock after an illness of about three weeks. Deceased was about sixty-one years of age, and was an old citizen of the county. The immediate cause of his death was an abscess in the side. He was well known throughout the county, but especially at Columbiana where he has long been a familiar figure. He was a blacksmith by trade and a good one too, and for a long period he followed his trade most successfully at Columbiana. A few years ago he retired from blacksmithing and erected a neat and commodious hotel on the site of the blacksmith shop, and since that time up to his death he had engaged in the hotel business. He leaves a widow and four children, two daughters, Mrs. I. W. Bailey of this place and Mrs. Eva Brooks of Birmingham, and two sons, Mr. Tom Weaver, of Columbiana and his younger brother William. He was a member of the Methodist church and was a good man and a good citizen. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Wilson, his pastor, and the remains laid to rest in the Columbiana cemetery on Monday evening last, a large concourse of relatives and friends attending to pay the last sad tribute of respect. The Sentinel joins many friends in extending sympathy to the bereaved household.

You may hunt the world over and you will not find another medicine equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. It is pleasant, safe and reliable. For sale by Dial Bros., druggists, Calera, Ala.

Talladega Springs, July 22, 1897.

Mr. Editor: Well, I am back again at Talladega Springs and, as I promised to let you hear from me again should I return, I will proceed to do so, as I am here by a large majority. Everything has improved very much since I was here some six weeks or more ago, except the weather, it is horrible. The cottages are all occupied by the nicest people it has ever been my good fortune to meet. Nice old ladies, charming matrons and beautiful young ladies, and "Doc, sweet Doc, the flower of the flock," she is just too nice, sweet, and charming. May her life always be as full of sunshine as it now appears, and may her shadow never grow less. The young proprietors wear smiling faces as the new comers arrive by each train, and the guests that have stayed beyond their allotted time and are loth to leave still conclude to stay just a little longer. No one can be better pleased any where, who is looking for health, pleasure, and a home like summer resort. Yours

Pill Clothes.

The good pill has a good coat. The pill coat serves two purposes; it protects the pill, enabling it to retain all its remedial value, and it disguises the taste for the palate. Some pill coats are too heavy; they will not dissolve in the stomach, and the pills they cover pass through the system as harmless as a bread pellet. Other coats are too light, and permit the speedy deterioration of the pill. After 30 years exposure, Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills have been found as effective as if just fresh from the laboratory. It's a good pill with a good coat. Ask your druggist for Wholesale Vaccination.

It is estimated that more than 5,000 people in Birmingham have been vaccinated within the past four weeks. The physicians have been having their hands full performing the operations. There are no new developments in the smallpox scare.

Back Taxes.
H. P. Turner, back tax commissioner for Madison county, has served notices upon the property owners of the county, summoning them to appear before the court of county commissioners and show cause why the assessments on their property should not be raised.

Lightning Kills Stock.
A singular accident happened on the farm of W. L. Daniel, at Leesburg. The lightning struck a tree standing near a wire fence and the current followed the fence for a quarter of a mile and met Daniels stock coming in from the range. All that were on the side next the fence, ten steers and several hogs were killed.

Found Guilty.
C. W. Lowery, the ex-mail carrier, who was charged with an attempt to criminally assault little Emma Schilling, was tried in the criminal court at Birmingham and found guilty. The verdict is that he shall pay a fine of $100 and serve thirty days in the mines at hard labor. Lowery has appealed to the higher court.

Suit for Damages.
J. N. Hall, owner of property in the western part of Montgomery, along the right of way over which the Louisville & Nashville and the Mobile & Ohio Railroad companies have had such a scramble, has brought suit for damages against the Louisville & Nashville company in the sum of $100,000. Hall figures that the Louisville & Nashville damaged his property to that extent.

Brief Courtship.
While out driving, E. L. Patterson, a young carpenter, and Miss Willie B. Reed, daughter of a well-known mechanic, of a Huntsville, decided to surprise their friends by getting married without warning them. At the nearest minister's house they were made man and wife. It is said that neither of the young people had any intention of marrying before going out to drive.

Jumped From a Fast Train.
Mazie Mitchell, a negro woman in charge of Bob Carroll, a deputy sheriff, jumped from a Birmingham Mineral train near Blue Creek, twenty miles below Birmingham, while the train was going forty miles an hour. She got up to get some water, and darted out of the door and off the platform. Her skirts served as a parachute, for she landed safely, and when the deputy got back to where she left the train, the woman was nowhere to be seen.

Decapitated His Wife.
On a charge preferred by a 7-year-old boy, his father, George Anderson, and brother, Wesley Anderson, were arrested and jailed at Tuscaloosa last week. The boy avers that while on a trip through Jefferson, Shelby and Tuscaloosa counties, his father and brother murdered Mrs. Anderson, who was George Anderson's fourth wife, he holding her while Wesley Anderson chopped her head off with an axe. The boy in his affidavit could not locate the place where the deed was done, but stated he could show where the body had been cast into a hole. George Anderson claims that his wife is alive and in Columbiana, but in very poor health. Sheriff Shirley has sent a query to Columbiana to ascertain the truth of this statement.

The Association Solvent.
The directors of the Southern Building and Loan association, of Huntsville, held a meeting recently in reference to the reported suit against the association brought in Macon, Ga., and gave out the following statement: "We do not owe Milo Abel $2,000 or any other sum due and demandable. Even if we did we have in bank over $8,000 with which to pay it. The association is absolutely solvent. All obligations due and demandable are paid to September 10. We have anticipated withdrawals to that date. The balance of July receipts will be about $7,000 and the August receipts about $20,000. The telegram sent out is an infamous libel. The first National bank of this city will furnish information as to the correctness of this statement made by the association."

To Increase the Capital Stock.
At a meeting of the stockholders of the Birmingham Rolling mill company, last Thursday, authority was granted to increase the capital stock of the company from $500,000 to $600,000. This is done for the purpose of doubling the capacity of the company's new steel mill. The mill made its first run of steel late Thursday afternoon before a large number of prominent citizens, the officers and stockholders of the company and several experts. The run was a pronounced success. The mill has a daily capacity of eighty tons. Before the beginning of next year the capacity will have been doubled. The steel is made direct from Alabama low silicon iron turned out of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company's furnaces. This is the first successful effort that has yet been made in this district to make steel on a commercial basis, and it promises to open a new industrial era for Alabama. Experts who witnessed the first run pronounced it a thorough success in every detail. Superintendent John Dwyer says the cost of steel making here will not exceed $12 per ton and may be reduced to $10 or even $8, which will enable Birmingham to undersell Pittsburg manufacturers in the home markets of the latter. A prominent capitalist who witnessed the test says he stands ready with $1,000,000 to erect a mammoth steel plant in Birmingham.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

The trouble with tongue-tied people is that the membrane connecting the tongue with the lower jaw is too short.

The tongue of most serpents is really forked, though this member seems to be of no particular use to the reptile.

The mouth of the octopus is in the centre of his body, and is provided with a beak closely resembling that of a parrot.

Some moths have no mouths. The insect after attaining a perfect stage, lives only a few hours and does not take food.

There are at least two cases on record of five children at a birth, viz., a woman of Konigsberg, September 3, 1874, and the wife of Nelson, a tailor, in Oxford Market, in October, 1800.

In Mexico are found the "agricultural ants." A clearing varying from one to thirty feet is made and is used as a playground or exercise yard. At its margin grows the crop, a sort of grass. Breaks in the grass ring give entrance to and exit from the clearing. The seeds of the grass form the food of the ants.

As asbestos comes from the mine it is of a greenish hue and the edges are frayed with loose fibers. The more nearly white asbestos is the better its grade. The length of fiber is also of great importance, the longest being the most valuable. From the mines the asbestos is taken to the manufacturing in the United States.

Static electricity modifies the human voice seriously, as M. M. Mourtier and Granier report to the Paris Academie de Medicine. A singer sitting upon an isolated stool coupled to the negative pole of a static machine was made to breathe the atmosphere, which was electrified by means of a brush electrode; after a short time the voice became full and clear, the quality much more agreeable, and the voice was less rapidly tired. For some singers a dynamic current of 1500 volts connecting with the electric chair is the only remedy.

One of the schemes for future engineers to work at will be the sinking of a shaft 12,000 or 15,000 feet into the earth for the purpose of utilizing the central heat of the globe. It is said that such a depth is by no means impossible, with the improved machinery and advanced methods of the coming engineer. Water at a temperature of 200 degrees centigrade, which can, it is said, be obtained from these deep borings, would not only heat houses and public buildings, but would furnish power that could be utilized for many purposes.

Professor Koehler's experiences of the effect of formaldehyde in the preservation of deep-sea fishes are well worthy of the notice of future collectors. It is well known that the tissues of many deep-sea fishes are of extreme softness and fragility; by immersion in spirits sufficiently strong for preservation, these tissues are much contracted, the natural shape of the fish often being distorted. This is entirely avoided by the use of the usual forty per cent. formaldehyde, mixed with twenty times its volume of water. The specimens, however, have to be transferred into spirits after some days, because the formaldehyde has been observed entirely to destroy black pigment in a very short time.

The ambassadors of the powers and Tewfik Pasha have agreed on the frontier clause in the peace treaty. THE OLD HOME.

The old home, the old home,
O would I were once more
A boy among the happy scenes
That brightened life of yore.
To roam among the tangled bloom
With torn straw hat and all,
And watch the rifts of summer suns
Upon the landscape fall!

To catch the scent of roses fair,
And hear the wild birds' song
With passion fill the balmy air
The leafy nooks among,
To hear the bullfrog's merry croak
On logs by ripples wet,
His coat of green a dazzling sheen—
I seem to see him yet!

The old home, the old home,
I loved each blade of grass
That sang through tiny bells of dew
In joy to let me pass;
The good old trees that welcomed me
And branches downward hung,
Where oft in childish revelry
I swayed and dreamed and sung!

Once more to lie upon the fringe
Which hid the brooklet's smiles,
And watch the bubbles curl and break,
The fishes' merry wiles.
To hear the murmur all around,
The life and leal of glee
That robed with magic every sound
The swift winds brought to me!

The old home, the old home,
Once more to anset to lie,
And in a wonder, rapt and still,
To watch the nights go by,
Her gentle hands so full of stars
They seemed to tremble out,
The while the moon's impassioned bars
Upon the stream made rout!

To hear once more the siren song
The hours sang as they fled,
To see once more the future stand
With laurel-covered head,
To lie once more in peopled sleep
Of dreams so bright and fair
They never could their promise keep,
But died in beauty there!

—Hamilton Jay, in Florida Times-Union.

The Conquering Hero.

BY ELIZABETH C. WINTER.

It was such a pretty scene! The trees had the abundance of verdant leafage that belongs to happy June; the grass seemed more than usually rich and green and the wild flowers more abundant than ever before—there was a rural bridge over a deep, rushing stream that fed a mill-dam some distance beyond; and roses clambered over the broken rails of the bridge and twined their wild tendrils about an old tree near by, against which was a rustic seat. On the rustic seat was another rose—a very sweet and fresh and lovely rose in white muslin, with a Marie Antoinette fichu across her breast and knotted at the waist, and a wide Leghorn hat on her head that shaded her eyes so cleverly that no beholder could guess that tears were rising there from time to time and dropping on the white mull kerchief. And this had happened so often that the rose might very well be said to be washed in dew.

Her name was Kate, and she was very angry with herself because the tears would fall despite all the indignant things she was saying to herself in the effort to stop their flow, till at last she started to her feet in a dreadful pet and began to walk up and down, crushing the wild flowers under her feet. But that could not continue, for she was a very sweet little woman and could not hurt even a flower without regretting it; and presently she bent her graceful figure and pulled the wild anemones and the few late violets, and, having reached the rustic seat, she added a rose or two and sat down.

"It's a perfectly lovely morning!" she murmured, and pinned the flowers among the folds of the mull kerchief. "I wonder where she has taken the child, because—"

She stopped and looked anxiously about till she saw, in the distance, the maid and the little boy rambling among the trees and apparently absorbed in gathering wild flowers and chasing butterflies; and the music of the child's laughter was borne to her on the soft, perfumed summer breeze. It was a heavenly sound—a sound to gladden any mother's heart; but Kate Selden sighed and drew from her belt a closely crumpled piece of paper, which she had thrust there in fierce impatience; and as she looked at it the tears, which had not retreated very far, again rose to her eyes.

"Oh, I'm just a dreadful fool!" she thought; "a silly, silly little simpleton! And I'm glad he is late, for I wouldn't have him know, for anything in this world, that I cared enough to cry—"

And, smoothing out the crumpled paper, she began to read the written words once more, though she already knew them by heart:

"If you will see me on Wednesday we can talk the matter over. I have spoken with my lawyer, and he has consulted with yours, and a separation can be arranged without any public scandal—at least, I hope so. I would call at the house, but I know your mother hates me worse than ever now, and it would only cause a scene. So, if you will come to the old rustic seat close by the bridge—you know where we used to meet in the old, happy days—ah, Kate, if you would only let me tell you everything, you would find that I am not so very much to blame—but I won't speak of that. Because, of course, I know you wish to leave me, and I will make no defense. Yes, you shall keep the boy, though I believe the law would give him to me if I chose to fight for my right. But I don't care to call it my right—no, in that I yield to you entirely. I believe a child belongs to his mother first and before all others. Therefore I give him to you without asking what the law might say about it. But I do ask that you will let me see him as often as I may wish, for I love him, dear—yes, though you may not believe it, Kate, I love him next to his mother, who is still the dearest on earth to me. There, I didn't mean to say that; but it is written, and let it stay so. I will not offend you again; but be there on Wednesday, any time before noon. I won't be later than eleven, and we can arrange all the business details—the lawyers will do the rest."

And by this time the tears were brimming over, but she wiped them softly away; and, instead of crushing the paper as before, she folded it very smoothly and slipped it inside her corsage, where she could feel it rise and fall beneath the hurried beating of her heart.

"I'm glad he's late," she repeated; "I'm very glad he's late." And then she looked at her watch and found it was not quite half-past ten. "Oh, he isn't late, after all—I must have been very early—I will go and find Annette and the child." And as she rose there was the crackling of a twig under a hasty footstep, and Kate Selden stood face to face with her husband. He was very pale, and his lips looked pallid and drawn with the effort to keep from trembling. She had flushed deeply when their eyes met, but now the color ebbed away from her girlish face, and she said, confusedly:

"I am so glad—I mean, not to keep you waiting. You see I am here first."

"You are very good," he said; "but you are always good. You got my letter?"

"Oh, yes, or I wouldn't have known you were coming here." She moved backward a step and was very glad to drop into the old rustic seat. "It is very generous of you, Sidney, to agree to everything, and particularly about baby."

"It is all I can do, now—to try and please you," he answered, weakly; and the perspiration was like dew on his brow. He took off his hat and stammered something about its being "awfully hot."

"Yes; perhaps you have walked fast—it is very warm, and you look tired. Won't you sit down?" She moved a little further away to make room for him, and he dropped into the place beside her.

"We used to say there was just room enough for two," he said, with a smile, and she turned her head away—perhaps to pluck a rose, for she snapped one off short and then threw it away.

"Am I to see baby today?" he asked, after a few moments of awkward silence. "I haven't seen him, you know, since—"

"Oh, yes," she answered, hurriedly, and, looking about, "there they are, he and Annette, yonder in the woods; they are coming this way. Oh, Sidney," she cried, suddenly turning toward him, "how could you? I can never, never forgive you!"

"I could never dare to ask you!"

They were almost the very words of Pauline and Claude. She remembered in a moment that it had been the first play Sidney had taken her to see after they were married; and how often they had laughed at that pair of lovers, each dying to forgive and be forgiven, and neither daring to say the right word. She used to think she could never be so foolish as that, and now—it was getting very awkward, for this was a far more serious matter, and she knew that she could never forgive. What woman could?

And then she heard the laughter and shouts of little Sidney, who had just caught sight of his father, and was now running wildly to welcome him. It was a fortunate interruption to a scene that was nearing a painful climax, and she was very glad to take a step or two toward the laughing boy, who was already flying across the bridge, followed by his nurse; then there was a crash, a shriek; the side of the bridge was gaping outward; the maid stood wringing her hands; and the golden curls, that had floated for a moment above the rushing water, were gone.

It was so sudden, so inexplicable, that the frantic mother could not realize at first what had happened. When she did, the air resounded with her agonized cries, and it was the nurse girl who was the first to see that Selden had already reached his child, just in time.

"Courage, ma'am, courage!" the girl whispered, while she supported her mistress. "See—he is safe! His father has him—look, look! the darling has his arms about the master's neck, an' he's hugging an' kissing of him just as if nothing had happened at all!"

The girl assisted her mistress back to the little rustic seat, and when the father and child had reached the young mother, little Sidney was already laughing with delight; and as he put one dripping arm about her neck, he drew her close till her face touched her husband's face.

"Kate," whispered Selden, "Kate, may I beg forgiveness now?"

"Oh, Sidney! I have been so proud and heartless! I was jealous and vain—and—and—so selfish and unfair I wouldn't listen to you, and all the time I knew you never cared for that woman! Can you forgive me, too?"

"Just give me a chance, that's all," and then two pairs of arms met and clasped each other close about the conquering hero, who seemed to find himself quite suddenly an object of only secondary importance.

It then occurred to Annette the Master Sidney would have a dreadful cold unless his dripping garment were changed immediately; so she carried him off in pursuit of dry clothing.—Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly

LONDON'S GREAT GROWTH.

Four Times the Size It Was at Victoria's Coronation.

Whatever future chroniclers may have to say of Queen Victoria's reign and the brilliant celebration of her "Diamond Jubilee," one point that can not be overlooked is the enormous growth of London during Her Majesty's lifetime. The metropolis has quadrupled in population, having increased from a little over a million to four millions and a quarter. It seems difficult to imagine that there ever was a time when London was a small place, yet when the Queen was born it was very little larger than Glasgow is now, and only double the size of Birmingham. It is usual to compare the glories of Victoria's reign to those of Elizabeth, but between the London of today and that of "Good Queen Bess" there is really no comparison. London was still girt around by the walls built by the Romans and was largely inclosed within them. The mansions of the great lay outside the city walls, chiefly on the way from the Strand to Westminster. There were few stone houses, and none tiled or slated, being mostly built of wood and thatched with straw. Beyond the royal palace at Westminster was open country, and marsh lands formed the sole feature of the landscape across the river. On the other side of the city was open country, with "Merrie Islington," a village in the distance. Sanitary science was unknown. The paving of the streets was in its infancy; except with regard to a few of the principal thoroughfares, each inhabitant paved as much as he liked before his own door with the materials that his pride or poverty might suggest.

The streets were obstructed with stalls, sheds, signposts and projections of every kind; curbstones were unknown, and only in a few thoroughfares were the footpaths divided from the carriage way with posts and chains. This was the London of Elizabeth, just 300 years ago—a very different city from that of today—a London gradually becoming foul and pestilential, ultimately to be cleared and purified by the great plague, which carried off a fifth of the inhabitants in 1665, and the great fire of the following year, which involved 400 streets, 13,200 houses, 88 churches, St. Paul's Cathedral and four city gates. Before the fire it is estimated to have contained from 10,000 to 12,000 streets, alleys and lanes, 156,000 houses and about 700,000 inhabitants. So that in seventeen centuries London had grown to a population of under 730,000. By the beginning of Queen Victoria's life it had increased to 1,000,000, and now, at the end of the sixtieth year of her reign it is sevenfold what it was under Elizabeth. London owes its growth to Charles II, for, after the restoration, those who returned with him did not care to return to their old city houses, but built themselves mansions further west, leaving the city to the merchants, by whom it has ever since been monopolized. To James I we owe Pall Mall, and Kensington was originated by the creation of a palace there when Whitehall was burned down.—London Standard.

When Umbrellas Were First Used.

Umbrellas are of great antiquity, among the Greeks they were a mark of elevated rank, and one is seen on a Hamilton vase in the hands of a princess. We find the umbrella figured upon the ruins of Persepolis, and the Romans carried it at the theatre to keep off the sun. Yet Coryate, the traveler, in 1611, notices the umbrellas of Italy as rarities. These and other umbrellas are only described for keeping off the sun, which may be explained by the comparative scarcity of rain in the above countries. The frequency of rain in other lands led to their being used for a very different purpose. Jonas Hanway is described to have been the first to walk the streets of London with an umbrella over his head, which he had probably used in his travels in the East. And in 1778 one John Macdonald, a footman, was ridiculed for carrying in the streets an umbrella, which he had brought from Spain; however, as he tells us, he persisted for three months in carrying his umbrella, till people took no further notice of the novelty.—Harper's Round Table.

The feeding expenses of the London zoological gardens average $300 a week.

England and Germany Will Come to Terms. The Berlin Beersen Courier says: "The general opinion in official and commercial circles is that an agreement will be reached between England and Germany on the tariffs. A tariff war is altogether out of the question. There are too many interests at stake on both sides."

A Murderer Breaks Jail. J. H. Ingraham, indicted for the murder of John I. Hoss, escaped from jail at Conway, Ark., Friday afternoon. Hoss, who was killed about a month ago, was a well-known traveling salesman and a brother of Rev. E. E. Hoss, of Nashville, Tenn., editor of the Christian Advocate.

A Gold Strike in Minnesota. A rich strike has been made at the Hancock mine, near Mine Center, Minn. Ore that will assay from $500 to $1,000 to the ton has been uncovered. A blast that was made there a few days ago threw up several good sized nuggets, one of them weighing 22 ounces of pure gold. The discovery is the richest yet made in the Seine river country.

Two United States Cavalymen Drowned. Trooper Bertrand and Jacobson, of B troop, Second United States Cavalry, were drowned last Friday night in a reservoir at Monument, Col. When returning from camp at Colorado Springs to Fort Logan Jacobson fell from his horse into the water through which he was urging his animal to swim. As Jacobson could not swim Bertrand went to his rescue and was dragged down by the drowning.

Making It Hard on Foreigners. The chamber of deputies at Brussels has passed a bill compelling all foreigners who have had a year's residence to enroll themselves in the civic guard. The measure is the result of the very great increase of late in the foreign colonies at Antwerp and in Brussels. It is expected that the senate will kill the bill, but M. Schollaert, the minister of the interior and public instruction, threatens to resign his portfolio unless the measure is passed into law.

An Ancient Loan. The Brussels correspondent of the London Pall Mall Gazette has made an interesting find. At Antwerp he has unearthed a document which describes the first loan contracted by the United States. It is now in possession of a prominent Belgian family. It is dated Antwerp, December, 1791, confirmed at Philadelphia, Pa., May 6, 1782, and is signed by George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, and certified by Alexander Hamilton.

Murder at Texarkana.

The famous Sixteen to One Saloon, in Texarkana, Ark., was the scene of another sensational murder, Saturday afternoon, both parties to the tragedy being prominent men. Wiley Balthrop, a merchant of Buchanan, was shot and instantly killed by J. W. Foster. Threats had been made by both men. Balthrop was getting into his buggy when Foster drew a 45-calibre revolver from his shirt bosom and shot him through the heart. Both men have large families. Balthrop was very popular and has many friends who are very bitter against Foster. The murderer is under arrest.

Party Broken Up by a Mad Dog.

A children's party at the home of L. J. Wright, a prominent citizen of Whitesburg, Ala., was interrupted Thursday night in a horrible manner. While the entertainment was at its height young David McGaha and several other children stepped out into the road. Without warning a mad dog, foaming at the mouth, bounded into the crowd or children and bore McGaha to the ground, biting him fearfully about the head and arms. The patient was brought to Huntsville Friday and a mad stone was applied to the wounds. The stone rapidly adhered to the boy's wounds.

Steamer Tasmania Sinks.

Cable dispatch from Melbourne states the steamer Tasmania, bound from Wellington to Sydney, N. S. W., struck a rock off Cape Mahia, between the towns of Napier and Gisborne, New Zealand, and sank in three hours. The boats containing passengers and crew, who had escaped from the wrecked steamer, were missing for some time, and fears were entertained that they were lost. They were picked up later, but it is reported six of the crew were drowned.

An Alabamian Missing.

On Wednesday last an elderly gentleman registered at the Tremont House, Toronto, Ont., as T. L. Houghton, of Birmingham, Ala. The following day he told the clerk that he was in Toronto on a little pleasure trip from Pittsburg, Pa., where he resided, having previously come from Birmingham, Ala. His wife, he said, had died a few weeks ago at Pittsburg, Pa. He expressed a wish to have his body shipped to Pittsburg if anything happened to him. He seemed to be in the best of spirits and had plenty of money, all of which, with the exception of a few dollars, he left with the proprietor of the Tremont House, who deposited it in the safe. He had a little money with him, a fine hunting-case gold watch and a valuable pin. True, apparently to his forebodings, he disappeared and for several days nothing has been seen of him about the hotel or the city. It is feared he has met with foul play.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED.

Dastardly Work of Train Wreckers Near Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Chicago express on the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway, due in Cincinnati at 7 a. m., was wrecked at Thornton, Ind., about 2:30 a. m., Saturday. Four were killed outright and several slightly injured. There was a deliberate plot to wreck the train, as a coupling pin had been driven into the switch and held it open and throw the fast train from Chicago to Cincinnati off the track as it passed Thornton. The engine and tender, the mail, express and baggage cars were thrown from the track and wrecked. Engineer Winslow reversed his lever and seems to have jumped, for he was found twenty feet from the train, with the top of his head crushed in. Fireman Crickmore was found pressed up against the boiler by the tender. The flesh was almost roasted from his body. Three tramps were riding on the front of the first postal car. One of these was scalded by the steam and the other was badly jammed between two cars. The third was not badly hurt. One postal car was thrown crossways of the upturned engine tender and the other was dashed against it.

The opinion is entertained at the headquarters of the Big Four road that the train wreckers had hoped to destroy a coal train about due. General Manager Schaeff has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the wreckers.

Hanged for a Triple Murder.

Maximo Martinez was hanged at Floresville, Texas, in the Wilson county jail Friday afternoon for a triple murder committed on June 5th last. He killed Jesus Carrillo and wife, an aged couple, and Juanita Acosta, eighteen, whom he first assaulted. Martinez died without a struggle and apparently with no fear. He said he wanted the girl to elope with him, but that she objected because he was married, although he was separated from his wife.

Pardoned Cubans.

A hundred Cuban prisoners, who were recently pardoned, have arrived at Gibraltar, whence they will proceed to New York. The government organs express the opinion that they will rejoin the insurgents.

COLLEGE ON NEW LINES.

PROF. ANDREWS HAS ACCEPTED THE PRESIDENCY.

Wealthy Journalist to Establish a University in Which There Will Be No Tuition Fees.—The Advisory Board Will Be From the Whole Country.

A special dispatch from Providence, R. I., dated last Friday, says: President E. Benjamin Andrews, whose resignation as the head of Brown University caused a profound sensation last week, has accepted the presidency of a new university. The institution will be a popular college, at first something after the Chautauqua movement, and later a large educational institution is to be developed. The position as president was tendered to President Andrews within the past five weeks by the founder of the new college, John Brisbane Walker, a journalist of note and a millionaire. Mr. Walker is a prominent figure in certain theories of education, and believes in the advancement of his ideas. In the last presidential campaign he was on the silver side of the contest. In many of their ideas and opinions upon leading political and financial questions President Andrews and Mr. Walker are said to agree. President Andrews will retire from Brown in September and at once take up the duties as the president of the new university.

President Andrews, in a long interview Friday, said he had been negotiating with Mr. Walker for some time; that he found him a very able man, and one who would be sure to go ahead with his proposed great educational project. President Andrews said that in the fall he would devote his time to his new duties.

"The new college," said President Andrews, "will be a big affair, with the view to the widespread dissemination of education. It will be a popular institution, designed upon new ideas, and the plan will be to meet the problems that come constantly before the people, and which are to be solved under the prevailing conditions of the time in which such questions arise."

Under President Andrews there will be an advisory board of ten men, chosen from the brightest and rarest minds in the whole country. The greater purpose of the new university will be to reach the masses who have not the means to secure entrance to the now existing universities of the country. The prospects of the new university has just been issued, and in it there is this announcement:

"All instruction blanks, examination papers, official circulars, etc., will be furnished free. There will be no charge of any kind made to the student, expenses being borne for the present by the college. No conditions except the pledge of a given number of hours' study will attach to the entrance of students upon the rolls of the university."

The university work will be formally opened on September 1.

Seventeen Cases of Smallpox Discovered.

The physicians have finally agreed that the skin disease that is prevalent in Montgomery, Ala., is smallpox. It is of an exceedingly mild form, however, and so far is confined entirely to negroes. There were seventeen cases in the pesthouse, near Montgomery, last Saturday night. Vaccination has been made compulsory, and a house-to-house canvass is being made for suspects. There are several cases of the disease at Birmingham, and a number of other towns in Alabama have straggling patients. Every effort is being made in Montgomery to suppress the disease, and it is believed it will not spread.

Buffalo Refining Company Assigns.

The Buffalo N. Y., Refining Company, of which C. B. Mathew is president, has made a general assignment for the benefit of its creditors. While the company is a comparatively small corporation, being capitalized at only $15,000, still it has been famous out of proportion to business magnitude, because it has been one of the few independent refiners of the country, and under various names for more than twenty years as has maintained an existence in active antagonism to the Standard Oil Company.

College Struck by Lightning.

Lightning struck Depauw College, in New Albany, Louisville, Ky., at 6 o'clock Saturday morning during a thunder storm. The building was fired, but the flames were extinguished after it had been damaged to the extent of $2,500.

A National Bank Closes Its Doors.

The First National Bank of Asheville, N. C., did not open Saturday morning. A notice was posted on the door stating that owing to the inability to collect and the stringency of the times, the bank will go into voluntary liquidation.

Fiction Unpopular in Japan.

The Japanese do not take to fiction; Of 27,000 books published in the Mikado's empire last year, only 462 belonged to that class. Works on philosophy, the arts and science, and religion stand the highest in the list.

This paper is entered in the Calera Post-office as second-class matter.

N. A. GRAHAM,.....EDITOR.

CALERA, ALA., AUGUST 5, 1897.

A Rome, Ga., press dispatch of the 3rd inst. says: "The Rome cotton factory has obtained a government order for 1,300,000 yards of heavy duck for mail sacks. The mill has been forced to purchase new machinery and employ a large number of hands at good wages.

The Age-Herald thinks that Birmingham is a natural location for the government armor plate factory and should have it. Birmingham certainly can furnish all the material necessary and at as low, if not lower, than any other point in the country. The Sentinel joins the Age-Herald and says let's go to work to secure it for Birmingham.

The Sentinel congratulates Mr. Barrett, the new editor and manager of the Birmingham Age-Herald on the first issue of his paper. It was a splendid edition and if he keeps it up to that standard the Age-Herald will soon rank with the best of Southern dailies. The Sentinel congratulates him also upon resuming the name Age-Herald and wishes him every success.

The three negroes convicted at the recent special term of the Morgan county circuit court and sentenced to be hung on the 7th of September next, have been taken to Birmingham and placed in the jail at that place for safe keeping. It is stated that many of the Decatur town negroes do not take the verdict quietly and a negro uprising was threatened on account of same, hence the removal of the prisoners.

Letchatchie in Lowndes county was visited by a disastrous storm on Monday evening. Houses, trees and fences were laid low, and crops in that vicinity badly damaged. Two new churches, one of them the Baptist just completed at a cost of $2,500, were completely wrecked. Many residences and business houses left standing were seriously damaged. Bufaula was also visited by a similar destructive storm on the same afternoon. No loss of life, however, has been reported from either place as resulting.

Age-Herald 3rd inst.: Yesterday afternoon in the city court, Mrs. Mary E. White, administratrix of J. F. White, deceased, entered suit against the L. & N. Railroad Co. for $30,000 damages for the death of Mr. White. White was the engineer in charge of the ill-fated train that went through the bridge across Cahaba river on December 27, last, which resulted in the death of twenty-seven people. "It is alleged in the complaint that the bridge was defective, inasmuch that it was insufficient in strength to support the burden of the engine and train.

This brings the total damages sued for to over $700,000.

The special term of the Morgan county circuit court which convened last week to try the three negroes, Lewis Thompson, Walter Neville and Rosa Buford for one of the blackest crimes ever committed in the state—completed its work on Monday evening last and adjourned. As our readers will remember, the charge against Thompson and Neville was rape of little Nellie Lawton, a twelve year old white girl of Decatur, and the charge against Rosa Buford was aiding and abetting Thompson and Neville in committing the terrible deed. The court did its work well. The evidence was complete and convincing and all three of the negroes were convicted and sentenced to be hung on September 7th next. Judge Banks of Birmingham, who presided over this special term of court owing to the illness of Judge Speake, deserves commendation for the firmness and promptness exhibited in conducting the same. The speedy trial of such offenders and the prompt maintenance of the majesty of the law will do more than anything else to check lynchings throughout our country. The law's delays in the punishment of criminals has done more than anything else to cause so frequent resort to lynchings all over the country. Let us hope that now that the officials have awaked to the importance of the speedy administration of justice, especially in flagrant cases, by the courts there will be less frequent resort to Judge Lynch, in the future than there has been in the past.

The stampede of gold seekers to the Klondyke in far away Alaska appears to be marvelous, and forcibly illustrates the fact that in this day, just as in the past, men will risk everything—health, expense, suffering, cold, heat and life itself for the possession of the yellow metal. Does it not also demonstrate to the ardent and enthusiastic silver advocates—the unlimited free coinage at 16 to 1 sort—in the most forcible manner, that gold not only should be, but that it is, the standard of money value, and that silver cannot hope either to supplant or to share the honor with it? When was ever such a stampede or furor ever raised by silver? As to gold, it is but a repetition of what has been witnessed at many different times and in many different countries in the past.

FIRST BALES,

Selma, Geneva and Greenville, each, received a first bale on the 3d inst. Selma received two bales—one raised by Capt. J. F. O'Brien, of Burnsville, and the other by A. Sims, of Eleanor. Capt. O'Brien's bale sold for ten cents and was bought by C. W. Hooper & Co.

GOOD EXAMPLE.

Nashville American: The trial of the negro rapists at Decatur, sets an example that should be generally followed over the south. If these criminals are proven guilty there is no reason to doubt that they will be convicted and executed according to law. The example of such an execution will be a great deal stronger in its effects towards suppressing crime than a lynching could possibly be, and the general moral effect of upholding of the law will be most wholesome in its effects on the community.

The example set at Decatur needs to be followed generally throughout the south. There would be fewer rapes, fewer crimes of every class if this rule should be followed. There is no place on the face of the earth where the wicked have ceased from troubling; and that need not be expected, but the minimum of crime of violence, at least, is found in those well ordered communities where the law is supreme.

VINDICATED AGAIN,

Birmingham News.

The jingoes who "cussed" Cleveland so long and so often because "he did nothing for Cuba," and "permitted our national honor to be insulted by Spain," and who declared that when McKinley assumed the reins of government he would put the Spaniard to flight or make him bend the knee have evidently taken to the woods for they have not been heard from lately. Major McKinley and John Sherman, once a chief of jingoes, have done nothing for Cuba because there has been nothing to do more than what Mr. Cleveland did, viz: Everything that a nation friendly to Spain, but profoundly sympathizing with the Cubans, could do. President McKinley is only following out the course pointed out by Mr. Cleveland.

Gen'l. Lee who was sent by Mr. Cleveland to look after the interests of the United States in Cuba has done so well that he has not been recalled, despite his request for retirement.

HOW TO REVIVE BUSINESS.

The surest way to win that fight is to give the present tariff full opportunity for demonstrating its real character. Help it to do its best. A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea,

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and sold a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinburger, Allenton, Pa. Sold by Dial Bros.

SENATOR MORGAN TO GO TO HAWAII.

Washington Special 3rd inst. Senator Morgan will leave about September 10th for an extended trip through to the Pacific, his destination being the Hawaiian Islands. He goes for the health of his children and to study the situation on the spot. He is very much interested in manufacturing of steel at Birmingham, and he told your correspondent today that he will urge upon the Navy Department to send an expert there to examine the facilities of the district for making armor plates. He believes Birmingham can make armor plate for $250 per ton. The last bill allows $300.

"Let me give you a pointer," said M. P. Gregg, a popular conductor on the Missouri Pacific railroad. "Do you know that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cures you when you have a stomach ache? Well, it does." And after giving this friendly bit of advice, the jolly conductor passed on down the aisle. It is a fact that thousands of railroad and travelling men never take a trip without a bottle of this remedy, which is the best cure for bowel disorders in the world. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Dial Bros.

A DEAD INFANT.
CORONER'S INQUEST—TWO NEGRO WOMEN JAILED.
On Wednesday last between 5 p. m. and 6 p. m. two negro girls, while walking along what is known as the Dock track of the L. & N. Railroad in this place discovered a new born babe lying at the foot of the embankment, on the north side. They immediately gave the alarm and a crowd soon collected to view the sickening sight.
Marshall Pilgreen's attention was attracted by the gathering crowd and he was soon on hand to ascertain what it meant. Seeing the situation he at once looked up Esquire W. D. Huggins and notified him of the find.
Esquire Huggins proceeded to look into the matter and decided at once that a case was presented for investigation by a coroner's inquest. He immediately summoned a jury and began an investigation.
The jury after a thorough and exhaustive investigation, extending through parts of three days, arrived at the decision that the dead body was that of a new born male child of the negro race, fully developed, and had apparently been dead from twenty-four to thirty-six hours. That Rosa Richardson, alias Rosa McIlwain, a young negro woman of Calera, Ala., was its mother; that it came to its death by violence in Calera, Ala., and that the said Rosa and Elmira Slaughter, an old negro woman of Calera, Ala., with whom she lived, were guilty of the murder of said infant. Upon this decision of the jury the acting coroner issued warrants for the arrest of Rosa Richardson, alias Rosa McIlwain, and Elmira Slaughter, and they were immediately arrested and brought before W. D. Huggins, Justice of the Peace, and sent to the county jail for commitment on the charge of murder to await the action of the grand jury.

A SERIOUS AFFAIR.
In a difficulty which occurred at Longview on last Saturday evening between Mr. Tom Moore, Superintendent of the Longview Lime Works, and a Mr. Langley, an employe of the Works, Mr. Moore was very seriously cut and stabbed.
It seems from the best information that The Sentinel has been able to obtain that the trouble originated between them over a claw hammer. One word brought on another until blows followed and the use of his knife by Langley. Moore received four cuts, or stabs; one in the side, one in the shoulder, one in the breast and one in the groin, some of them quite serious.
Surgical attention was given him as promptly as possible and he was taken to Birmingham on Sunday morning to an infirmary where he can receive the very best attention. His injuries have been pronounced quite serious. On yesterday morning he was thought to be some better though his condition was regarded as critical.
Moore is a nephew of Mr. Robert C. Wilson, of this vicinity, and is a young man of excellent character.
Langley was not hurt. He got out of the way soon after the difficulty occurred and has not, we understand, been yet arrested. Langley is unknown to us. The unfortunate occurrence is much to be deplored.
CITY COUNCIL.
The City Council held its regular meeting on last Monday night and transacted some important business, looking to the health of the city and the improvement of the streets, bridges, etc. Other matters of interest pertaining to city affairs were discussed, but no definite action was taken. The Council, on motion, changed the time of the regular meeting of the Board from the first and third Monday nights of each month to the first and third Saturday nights of each month.
THE SCHOOL BOARD.
After the council adjourned it reassembled as the School Board and proceeded to fix the salaries of the assistant teachers for the City High School and to elect two lady assistants. The salaries were fixed at $39 per month each, and Misses Leila Parker, of Columbiana, and Miss Kate Howard, of Autauga, were elected. No action was taken by the Board in the matter of electing a teacher for the colored school at this meeting, it being deemed best to defer this until the next regular meeting as there are several applicants for the position.

DEATH OF REV. D. Y. WYATT.
Rev. David Y. Wyatt, an old and highly esteemed citizen, and a devoted minister of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, breathed his last at his home in the Spring Creek neighborhood, near this place, on Saturday evening last, after a lingering illness. Just four months previously to the day, his beloved wife, his cherished companion, the sharer of his joys and sorrows, crossed over the river to rest under the shade of the trees. The deceased was about 65 years of age, was a native of this county, and had resided in the county the greater portion of his life. He was an earnest, zealous, faithful minister of the gospel, a man of decided convictions, firm in his advocacy of what he believed to be the right and conscientious in the discharge of his duty. He was a true and gallant soldier, a son of the south who firmly believed in the righteousness of the Southern cause and who demonstrated his faith by his works. He devoted the larger portion of his long life to the service of the Master and faithfully preached the gospel of salvation, the glad tidings of great joy to fallen man. Under his ministry, doubtless numbers were brought to the Savior, and we believe that many stars now adorn the crown that he wears in the "beautiful city of God." He leaves six sons and two daughters, all grown, to whom he has bequeathed as a heritage the example of a useful life and a good name, a legacy far surpassing great riches. The funeral services took place at Spring Creek church on last Sunday evening and were conducted by Rev. S. G. Oglesby in a solemn and impressive manner. The remains were laid to rest in the Spring Creek cemetery with Masonic honors, the Lodge at Montevallo, assisted by visiting brothers from other lodges, conducting the burial services. A large concourse of relatives and friends were present to pay the last sad tribute of love and respect. The Sentinel joins with hosts of friends in sympathy with the bereaved ones.

Washing a Fine Art.

Ever since spinning was a type of womanly industry, from age to age it has been expected that beautiful apparel should clothe women. To keep dainty belongings in good order it is necessary to have them properly laundered. This is especially true in the laundering of pretty summer gowns, which is now quite a fine art. To do the work properly, fill a tub two-thirds full of warm water, dissolve the fourth of a cake of Ivory Soap (which will not fade the most delicate colors), add it to the water; wash the articles through it, rinse first in clear and then in blue water; wring, dip in thin starch, shake out and hang on the line in the shade. When dry, sprinkle and iron. Gowns thus laundered will retain their freshness the entire season.

ELIZA R. PARKER.

Deadly Poison Discovered in a Common Roadside Flower.

Dr. R. E. Hommell, of this city, who is professor of materia medica and physiology of the New Jersey State College of Pharmacy, spends considerable of his time studying the structure and therapeutic properties of the medical plants of our country, and his investigations have been rewarded by a discovery most important to science, namely, the identification of a poisonous principle in a wild flower commonly known as blue weed.

The plant grows abundantly during the months of July and August in different parts of Hudson County, in fact, all over the country, principally southward. It is usually found along roadsides and other open places, among wild flowers, such as the mullein, thistle, poke, buttercup, red clover, wild mustard and many others. The plant belongs to the boraginaceae family and is a biennial. It is tough and bristly, has an erect stem, two feet high, leaves linear, lanceolate flowers, purple changing to blue, rather showy, growing in short lateral clusters.

It has always been regarded as a perfectly harmless vegetation; in fact, all of the other members of the family are innocent. They are muscicidinous, slightly bitter plants. The exception, however, is the blue weed.

The fact was observed during the months of February and March by Dr. Hommell and Professor A. Drescher, a chemist of Newark. The analysis and experiments covered nearly six weeks, and the scientists succeeded in isolating a new alkaloid, destined to play an important role in medicine.

The substance found is identical with "Curaria," the alkaloid of Curara or "Woorara," the South American arrow poison, obtained from the young branches of Strychnos castelnaei and Cocculus toxiferus. It may also be obtained from different other plants in South America.

The physiological action of curare is powerful. When injected into the blood hypodermically, it produces paralysis of the muscular system in general, especially the muscles of respiration and locomotion, followed by convulsions which are produced by asphyxia due to respiratory paralysis.

Locally applied to the skin, it acts as an irritant, causing inflammation and pain. It is also apt to irritate the mucous membranes of the nose and mouth and other situations in the physical economy.

The poisoning principle in blue weed has similar physiological actions to the Indian arrow poison. A small amount of the blue weed alkaloid injected into the circulation of rabbits and guinea pigs caused death in less than ten minutes.

The physiological tests were conducted by Dr. Zeis, veterinary surgeon, of Newark; Professor Drescher and Dr. Hommell repeatedly, and they assert positively, that there is absolutely no further doubt as to the very poisonous character of a wild flower heretofore regarded as harmless.—Jersey City Journal.

Bicycle Prices Fall.

After several years of exorbitantly large profits the manufacturers of bicycles have been compelled to very largely reduce their prices. The public actually refused to longer pay $100 for a machine which can be built for one-quarter that amount.

A few makers saw this some time ago and put on the market cheaper machines at very greatly reduced prices which so cut into the business of the higher priced manufacturers that in pure self-defense they were compelled to bid good-bye to their old high prices.

Why should not the same thing occur with type-writing machines? They no doubt cost considerably less to produce than bicycles, and yet some of them are selling at the ridiculously high price of $100. It is fair to infer that a machine which sells at $50 costs close to $15 to manufacture.

If a few large department stores in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, etc., would arrange for large quantities to be manufactured for them by some one outside of a Trust the prices would come down to reasonable figures as have those of bicycles.

DINGLEY TARIFF BILL.

German Organ Indicates the Policy of the Government.

The Hamburgischer Correspondent, a semi-official organ, discusses the Dingley tariff, indicating the attitude of the German government in regard to the tariff. The paper says: "Although Germany has entered a protest against a differential duty on raw sugar it cannot be overlooked that it constitutes a very doubtful question of international law whether or not a violation of the favored nation treatment is entailed by increasing the duty on articles enjoying a bounty from exporting countries. In all other cases where the Dingley tariff imposes increased duties, there is no violation of the favored nation treatment, as the increases apply not only to German, but to all other imports."

Coroner's Verdict.

After two days of investigation of the killing of Rev. P. P. Patterson, who was shot in front of the altar in a negro Baptist church in Montgomery on Wednesday of last week, the coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by the hand of George W. Pritchard, and that Rev. A. J. Stokes, Rev. P. T. Brown, William Gracey, Mace Coleman and Calvin Micon as accomplices. The grand jury returned indictments against the same parties on the same charges.

Locomotives Burn.

Fire broke out in the roundhouse of the Western railroad at Montgomery a few nights since, and in less than an hour it was a complete wreck. The roundhouse was full of engines. It is said eleven engines were destroyed, some of them the finest on the road. The machine shop attached to the roundhouse is a complete wreck. The building was principally of wood, and being very dry, burned like pine light-wood. The damage is heavy, but fully covered by insurance.

Back Tax Due.

The Back Tax Commissioner of Limestone county has been instructed to assess the Middle Tennessee & Alabama, formerly the Decatur, Chesapeake & New Orleans road, and to return the assessment to the Board of Appraisers of that county. The road in question is still incomplete in Limestone county, no work having been done there since 1891, owing to financial difficulties. This will entitle the commissioner to assess the property for five years and to enforce the collection of the amount due the State and county.—Huntsville Mercury.

Thompson's Accomplices.

At 7:35 o'clock Saturday night, in Decatur, after being out three hours, the jury in the case of Walter Neville, accomplice of Lewis Thompson in the assault on Nellie Lawton, brought in a verdict of guilty and fixed the penalty of death as in Thompson's case. This case lasted only one day and a half.

The sentiment was about evenly divided as to death and life imprisonment. There was some doubt as to whether Neville was really an accomplice in fact or merely in a circumstantial way, but this was set at rest when the testimony of Nellie Lawton was heard. The feeling is strong against Rosa Buford, the negro woman who instigated the crime and decoyed the little girl. Her trial began Monday.

The Penalty is Death.

Louis Thompson, the negro rapist, who has been on trial before a special team of circuit court, at Decatur was on Friday night of last week found guilty of rape as charged in the indictment. The death penalty was recommended. The trial has had the interest of Alabama. Thompson, together with Walter Neville and Rosa Buford, committed a criminal assault upon Nellie Lawton, a 12-year-old white girl, and public sentiment was aroused to such a pitch by the brutality of the crime that a lynching was narrowly averted. Thompson's accomplices will be tried, and as the evidence in all the cases are nearly the same, the same result may be expected.

Birmingham Merchant Swindled.

One of the slickest forgeries ever worked in Birmingham came to light one day last week. Emil Loveman, of the big dry goods house of Loveman, Joseph & Loeb, noticed a man in his shirt sleeves and bare-headed walk out of A. C. Reckling's harness store across the street. The man came over to Mr. Loveman and ask him if he would cash a check for Mr. Reckling. Mr. Loveman replied affirmatively and the man went back to Reckling's and soon came out with a check in his hand with Reckling's name signed to it. It was for $45 and Mr. Loveman promptly cashed it. The fellow then went back towards Reckling's and down an alley. It was found later that the check was a forgery and that Reckling not only did not have the man in his employ, as Mr. Loveman supposed, but did not know him. Reckling's clerk told the actions of the forger in coming in and asking twice to be allowed to look at the city directory. It seems that the forger got a copy of Reckling's rubber stamp used on his checks and made one like it. This made the forgery easy. The man's identity is unknown.

The University of Alabama.

(A supplement to the catalogue.) The President and faculty of the University have issued an academic supplement to the catalogue setting forth new and up-to-date courses of study. These allow many options to students, while maintaining a high standard by requiring certain essentials of an education of all applicants for a degree.

Students who have already entered upon one of the old courses may continue without prejudice. But they can choose as others as far as the schedule will allow. It is the purpose of the faculty to cause no man to lose his class by reason of the change, however desirable.

This evidence of life will be gratifying to all the friends of the University.

Near old Waverly, ten miles east of Willis, Texas, a crowd of unknown men Friday night went to the house of Jeff Fisher, a negro, took him out and gave him a severe beating. His daughter interfered, when she was fired on and wounded, and it was reported Saturday morning that she was dying.

ALASKA'S GOLD FIELDS.

BOUNDARY LINE BETWEEN ALASKA AND BRITISH LAND

Senate Must Pass the Pending Treaty Before Anything Can Be Done.—A Talk With General Duffield—Where Most Gold is to Be Found.

Nothing can be done more than already has been done towards marking the boundary line between Alaska and British possessions along the 141st meridian until the senate passes upon the boundary treaty now before it. There is, however, no doubt of the location of the line along this meridian and most people in the locality know where it is. The demarkation work was superintended by Gen. Duffield, superintendent of the coast and geodetic survey, on behalf of the United States. General Duffield has spent considerable time in Alaska. He expresses the opinion that a railroad easily can be constructed from Taku Inlet to the Klondyke gold fields, and believes that the enterprise will be worth undertaking, because of the richness of the mines.

"The gold," said General Duffield, in discussing the question, "has been ground out of the quartz by the pressure of the glaciers, which lie and move along the courses of the streams, exerting a tremendous pressure. This force is present to a more appreciable extent in Alaska than elsewhere, and I believe that as a consequence more placer gold will be found in that region than in any other part of the world."

General Duffield thinks the gold hunters on the American side of the line have made the mistake of prospecting the largest streams instead of the small ones.

"When gold is precipitated," he said, "it sinks. It does not float far down stream. It is therefore to be looked for along the small creeks and about the head waters of the larger tributaries of the Yukon."

"There is," he added, "no reason why as rich finds may not be made on the American side of the line as in the Klondyke district."

RADFORD CONVICTED.

And it is Probable He Will be Put to Death.

A dispatch to the New York Herald from Panama says: "Telegraphic advices from Medellin say that Charles Radford, of Alabama, has been tried on an appeal and found guilty there of murder in the first degree for killing Charles H. Simmons, a prominent merchant of Cali. Radford will in all probability be sentenced to death.

Radford came to Colombia from the United States about two years ago and settled in Cali. He had a difficulty with Mr. Simmons over a land claim and one day walked into his office while Mr. Simmons had his back turned and shot him dead. Excitement in Cali ran so high at the time that the authorities feared Radford would be lynched if allowed to remain there, so he was taken to Medellin, where he remained in prison until his trial.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA.

Will Be One of the Famous Schools of the World.

The University of California is to become one of the most famous universities of the world. At any rate it is to have, if designs are carried out, the finest pile of buildings on the globe, and these are to be put into effect at once.

Inside of a year ground will be broken for the first of a magnificent group of buildings. There are to be 28 or 30 of them, homogeneous in design. Regent Reinstein says it will take many years to build them and there is already money enough to last for ten years.

All the buildings are to be built of stone and built to last for ages. How many millions they will cost Regent Reinstein refuses to say, but he has enough pledged to make his magnificent plan a certainty.

Foreign Mails Systematically Robbed.

Chief Postoffice Inspector Ashe, with assistants in New York City and elsewhere, has been working for days on a series of remarkable robberies of mail matter carried aboard the great ocean steamships at New York. The authorities admit that the mails have been robbed, but refuse to give particulars. They will not say how much property has been lost, but is known that the thefts aggregate thousands of dollars. The first of the thefts occurred several months ago, and has never been satisfactorily explained. Additional complaints were received and the inspectors became convinced that the foreign mails were being systematically robbed on a large scale, as eighty packages of matter have been missed from a single steamship. The mail stolen in that case was mostly in registered pouches, which had been sealed in the general office in New York City and opened by the clerks aboard the vessel. Another theft was that of a package of currency sent from Germany to a city in New York State. These robberies are said to be among the most daring ever attempted in the service.

Drug Men Indicted.

Last Saturday the grand jury of Nashville, Tenn., returned into court indictments against W. W. Berry, J. A. Demoville, S. S. Wharton, D. D. Phillips, E. M. Neal and T. J. Webb, leading wholesale drug men, charging them with violating the anti-trust and combine law, in that it is alleged they entered into an agreement to control the price of certain drugs and made contracts with manufacturers accord-

There Was One More.

The delivery clerk with the pink cheeks was fondling his blonde young moustache when a young woman stepped in front of him.

"Plaze," she said with a soft smile, "is there any leathers here for pable by the name of Murphy?"

The young man with the pink cheeks stopped playing with his moustache and looked through a pile of papers.

"No," he said, brusquely, as he shoved them back into their pigeon holes again. "There's nothing here for the Murphys."

"Is there anything here for James Murphy?" persisted the maiden.

"No."

"Is there anything for William Murphy?" she pleaded.

"Nothing."

"Is there anything for Michael Murphy?" almost tearfully.

"Nix."

"Is there any—"

The young man with the pink cheeks deemed it high time to exhibit his powers of persiflage. And he did so.

"Madam," he said, raising his voice, "there is nothing here for Peter Murphy, or Paul Murphy, or Larry Murphy; Oscar Murphy's correspondents have forgotten him; Lewis, Samuel, Terence, Patrick, Thomas, Clarence Robert and Joseph Murphy are neglected by their distant relatives. Sadler still, there is not a single letter for Mary Murphy, nor so much as a postal card for Agnes, Bridget, Clarinda, Augusta, Ida, Ellen, Susan, Mamie or Gladys Murphy."

The young man with the pink cheeks paused and looked behind him for the applause of his fellows. But the maiden stood her ground, and softly said:

"Plaze, sor, I didn't hear yer minton the name of Mortimer Murphy. Might there be anything for him, sor?"

Fireproof Paper.

Fireproof paper for writing and printing purposes is now manufactured in Berlin by a new patented process. Ninety-five parts of asbestos fiber of the best quality are washed in a solution of permanganate of calcium, then treated with sulphuric acid as a bleaching agent. Five parts of wood pulp, as used in paper factories, are added, and the whole is placed in the agitating box with an addition of lime water and borate of soda. After being thoroughly mixed, the material is pumped into the regulating box and allowed to flow out of the gate on an endless wire cloth, where it enters the usual paper-making machinery. It is easy to apply water marks to this paper, which ordinarily has a smooth surface, which can be satin finished for writing purposes. Paper thus produced is said to resist even the direct influence of flame and remains unharmed, though subjected to a white heat.

THE DAISY.

Brightest little daisy,
Nodding in the grass,
Swaying with the breezes
As they gently pass;
Now a look of wonder
In your golden eye—
Tell me what you whisper
To the passing sky.

Tell me, little daisy,
With your petals white,
Do you love the green fields
And the sunshine bright?
Dainty little flower,
Full of light and love,
Can you hear the lark sing
In the clouds above?

Are you never weary
Of the world below?
Dearest little daisy,
Tell me all you know.
Is your life all gladness,
All so fair and bright?
Bravest little flower,
Is it ever night?

Can't you see the shadows
Of the autumn eyes?
Hear the quivering sadness
Of the falling leaves?
Farewell, gentle daisy;
Will you tell me more
When I learn the language
I've not learned before?

IN THE FLOOD.

BY MAJOR ALFRED R. CALHOUN.

Those who have seen the bayous of Louisiana, west of the Mississippi, cannot be said to have a thorough knowledge of America, even if they have visited every other state and territory. It is a country level as a prairie, yet covered with mighty forests, whose interlocking live oaks and cypresses make grand arcades of eternal solitude and silence.

The roads in this land are few and short—the only means of communication being the deep, canal-like bayous that are usually currentless and stagnant in the shadows of the bordering trees.

The plantations along these bayous are famed for their sugar and cotton, and they would be the most valuable in the world were it not for the great sums of money expended by the planters in building levees, or heavy artificial banks, to keep the bayous from overflowing in time of high water, which usually comes when the ice is melting in the upper valleys of the Missouri and Mississippi.

But, though the precaution taken to shut out the floods is great, it is not always effective. Heavy falls of snow in the winter to the North mean heavy floods when spring comes to the plains of the South.

The floods in the spring of 1883 will be long remembered as the most severe that ever swept over the plantations bordering the bayous. Rich plantations were ruined, forests leveled, embankments swept away, homes borne off to the sea, herds drowned and scores of human beings perished in the flood or of hunger.

The plantations of Judge Riel and Mr. Gordon were on opposite sides of the Bayou Rouge, about 60 miles south of the point where the Red river enters the Mississippi.

These gentlemen, though neighbors, were not neighborly. They had had a quarrel when young men at college—a foolish, causeless quarrel, and, though 25 years had passed since, they had never spoken. Both had married in the meantime, but their families field no intercourse.

Judge Riel had two sons, one 23, the other a year or two younger; and Mr. Gordon had two daughters, aged respectively 19 and 17.

Florence and Jennie Gordon were pretty, accomplished girls, and, though they loved their parents and their quiet, solitary home, it was but natural that they should now and then yearn to know something of the great world outside the water-girdled plantation.

They often saw the sons of their neighbor—of their father's "enemy," as they thought Judge Riel, rowing past in their graceful boat, and they always acknowledged the salute of the handsome young men, but beyond this no courtesy was interchanged.

"What news, John?" asked Mrs. Gordon, as her husband came into the house about midnight with a dim lamp in his hand and his rubber garments shining with water like a recently polished stove.

"It is still raining as if it had not been at it a week," replied Mr. Gordon, with something like a sigh.

"And the levee?" asked Florence, who, with her sister Jennie, had been waiting up for the report on which home and perhaps life depended.

"Every man on the place is patrolling and watching to prevent a break," said Mr. Gordon, throwing off his coat and running his fingers nervously through his damp, brown hair.

"And the water is still rising," said Mrs. Gordon; "still rising; three inches more and Bayou Rouge will be over the levee and the place will be gone."

Mrs. Gordon set before him some supper and a hot cup of coffee, for which he seemed to have but little appetite. As he stirred the coffee he said, without looking up:

"I think, wife, it would be well if you and the girls would put on warm clothing and have your waterproofs ready, with any light articles you may want to save."

"Do you think the danger is as great as that?" asked Mrs. Gordon, pressing her hands to her breast and trying to speak as if his words had brought her no alarm.

"It is better to be prepared, my dear," said Mr. Gordon, with enforced calmness. "I have had rafters made to carry off the hands if the flood comes in, and the boat has been carried to the door."

In times of great peril women are more apt to be cool and uncomplaining than men. Mrs. Gordon and her daughters realized that a great peril threatened them, but they prepared to meet it with a courage and calmness that lifted a heavy burden from the father's shoulders.

After drinking his coffee, Mr. Gordon put on his waterproof coat and went out again with the lamp in his hand.

He had not been gone many seconds when the ladies were startled by a shrill cry that was taken up by other voices till it rose above the storm.

"The levee! The levee is gone!" They caught these words, and they heard the roar of the waters coming nearer and nearer.

Mrs. Gordon threw open the door to call to her husband to return, but at that instant he burst in shouting:

"Come, wife—Florence—Jennie—to the boat!"

They ran out after him and got into the boat. Mrs. Gordon extinguished the only light in the house as she left, and Mr. Gordon's lamp had gone out.

The shouting of the black people—men, women and children—as they made for the rafts, could be heard above the howling of the wind and the roar of the oncoming torrent.

The darkness added to the horror of the situation, as did the cries of the frightened cattle.

Nearer and nearer came the flood; they could hear it dashing against the house and feel it splashing fiercely on their faces.

The maddened waters reached the boat and shook it.

Then the frail craft began to rise with its precious freight and to tug at the rope which held it to a live-oak tree near the house.

Day came at length and revealed such a change as the dwellers in the ark must have seen when they looked out after the waters had been pouring down for weeks and the fountains of the great deep were broken up.

Where fertile fields had been there was now a lake dotted with trees that seemed yielding to the torrent. The cattle were gone. The quarters of the laborers and the laborers themselves were gone. The sugar-house and the dwelling house were the only two buildings left out of a hundred, and up to their sides the waves were rising, and about them the fierce waters roared.

"It looks as if the world were being washed away," said Florence.

"And that we were the only living beings left on it," added Jennie.

Mrs. Gordon had thoughtfully placed a basket of provisions in the boat, so that there was no danger of immediate danger.

"There is only one place within 60 miles that is not under water," said Mr. Gordon in reply to his wife's question.

"Where is that?" she asked, after a pause.

"Judge Riel's," he replied. "That plantation is six feet higher than this, and the levees are the best in the state."

"Might it not be well," said Mrs. Gordon, thoughtfully, "for us to try and reach them?"

The question seemed to startle Mr. Gordon, for he looked at his wife for some time without speaking. Finally he said:

"I do not hate Judge Riel, and I would help him were he in the same situation, but I cannot go to him now of all times. No, we must get the boat loose, and, trusting in heaven, go on with the current."

Mr. Gordon unloosened the rope, took the oars, and the boat drifted slowly away from its moorings till it was caught by the white waters of the current, and then it shot away with a speed that was startling.

Like all men raised in this land, Mr. Gordon was a good boatman, but for once he found himself in a position where his great strength did not avail and his great skill was useless.

There was no need to pull the oars; it would have been impossible to drive against the current, so they had to go with it.

There was no trouble so long as the boat was drifting over the cleared fields, but this security could not last long. Beyond the fields were the woods, through which it would have been difficult to pass under the most favorable circumstances, but against which it now seemed that the boat must be dashed.

Mr. Gordon realized this, for he said, as if thinking aloud:

"We must try to get into the bayou;

there, at least, we shall be safe from the trees."

It is doubtful if he could have kept the boat in the course of the bayou had he succeeded in reaching there, for the currents were rushing through new channels, and the bayou had expanded into an angry sea. By care and the exercise of great strength, Mr. Gordon succeeded in passing safely the first line of timber, but it was only getting deeper and deeper into the inextricable tangle of drooping branches and swinging vines.

They had not been long in this maze when one of the oars was broken, and the other became practically useless. By reaching forward in the bow, Mr. Gordon succeeded in keeping the boat from plunging against the trunks of trees and so being dashed to pieces, but no man could long keep up this work.

After long hours they reached an open space, an expansion of the bayou, where the waters were comparatively calm, and here Mr. Gordon succeeded in making the boat fast to the branch of a tree.

"Let us wait," he said, desperately, "till succor or the end comes."

During the rest of the day they saw the dead bodies of cattle and the wreck of once happy homes drifting past, and now and then caught sight of a boat floating by with the bottom up.

The never-ceasing rain added to their discomfort and kept one of them continually bailing out the water.

They abandoned their first attempt to keep dry, and all were now as wet as if they had been plunged into the seething, yellow flood.

Shortly before dark they ate the balance of the cooked food Mrs. Gordon had put in the boat.

Night came—a more horrible night than any words can describe. Sleep was out of the question. All felt that there was but one labor before them, viz., to keep the boat afloat by constantly using the tin dipper that served as a bailer.

Now and then Mr. Gordon muttered against his hard fate, but not a word escaped the lips of his wife and daughters expressive of the tortures of mind and body which they were so heroically enduring; indeed, they tried to speak a cheer they did not feel by assuring him that succor would come on the morrow.

The dawn of the second day found them in the boat. All were famished and broken down with fatigue.

The waters were higher than the day before, and still the cruel rain poured steadily down.

The wind howled and the waves dashed about them, threatening every moment to swamp the boat.

Mr. Gordon saw by the pinched faces and changed color of his wife and daughters that they could not stand another day of this suffering, yet, what could he do to help them? If his own death could save them he would gladly have yielded his life, but neither his aid nor sacrifice would avail.

The afternoon was wearing on, and the night fast approaching, when a sudden, terrific gust of wind upset the boat.

Floating debris was all about them, and Florence and Jennie managed to grasp part of the roof of a shanty that was swirling by them and struggled upon it—holding on with that desperation which lent them strength.

Mr. Gordon and his wife clung to the upturned boat and were borne away by the rushing flood.

Darkness now lent horror to the situation. The poor girls were about to resign themselves to the fate that seemed inevitable, when, from out of the deep gloom they heard a faint halloo. They answered with all their might.

After waiting a few minutes and straining their eyes in the direction from which the sound came, they caught the gleam of a torch, and the next instant a boat shot up to them, and in it were Judge Riel and his two stalwart sons, Paul and Leon.

The brave girls assured them that they were in no immediate danger, and explored the judge and his sons to search for their parents—telling them that they were clinging to the boat after it had been capsized and had been swept away, but the girls still hoped that the boat might have become entangled in the flooded forest and that their father and mother might yet be saved. But the judge insisted upon Florence and Jennie getting into his boat. The stout boat was then driven forward in the direction pointed out by the girls as that in which they had last seen their parents. At intervals the young men united in shouting and waving their torch, but the howling of the wind for a time drowned their voices.

During a slight lull a faint cry was heard, which was answered by the united shouts of all in the judge's boat. Soon they were enabled to distinguish from whence the cry proceeded, and a few strokes of the oars brought them to a clump of submerged forest trees, and there, clinging to the branches, they found Mr. Gordon and his brave wife. Their rescue was but the work of a moment, and soon they were safely seated in their "enemy's" boat.

"Mr. Gordon," said Judge Riel, "your hands are all safe at our place, and we have been searching all day for you. Our plantation is still above water, there is a fire on the hearth and a welcome awaiting you."

Thus was the last vestige of animosity between the two men swept away.

At Judge Riel's the fire and the welcome were found, and Mr. Gordon's family were welcomed as if there had never been aught but the warmest friendship between him and the judge.

The old men soon learned that it was a misunderstanding that parted them in youth, and that during all these silent years each had retained the greatest respect for the other.

The floods have shrunk into their beds along the Bayou Rouge; the levees are rebuilt; the cabins are up once more, and the old home is standing. But Florence Gordon is a permanent resident at Judge Riel's, she having recently married Leon, and the gossip says that Paul Riel will take up his home in the fall with Mr. Gordon as the husband of Jennie.

The old men are never happy apart, and Mr. Gordon often whispers to his wife:

"Yes, my dear, we lost a great deal by the flood, but I sometimes think it was a blessing in disguise."

And Mrs. Gordon agrees with him.

HUNTING FROM ELEPHANTS.

A Recently Tamed Beast That Would Stand Any Charge.

Mr. H. W. Seton-Karr, in the Century, tells of his experiences when "After Big Game in Africa and India." In the latter country he hunted as the guest of the Maharaja of Kuck Behar, Mr. Karr says:

One of the first things the Maharaja did after our arrival was to hand to each guest a slip of paper on which was written the name of the elephant allotted to him for shooting purposes, which bore on its back the structure known as a "howdah," to carry the shooter and his guns. As these elephants were necessarily large, and the howdah is high, the oscillation was much greater than if one were seated upon a plain pad upon the elephant's back, or on one of the smaller elephants, which have a smoother gait. We usually, therefore, went to the cover, or jungle, upon one of the "beating," or "pad," elephants, which afterward during the operations of the day were employed in a long line to force the rhinoceroses and other animals out of the dense thickets in which they live.

The howdah-elephant which the Maharaja allotted to me was named "Secunder." Three years previously it was an uncaptured wild elephant ranging at liberty the jungles of Bengal.

It was a fine female, between nine and ten feet in height at the shoulder, with short but perfect "tusches" projecting a few inches beyond the upper lip. There are other elephants in the Maharaja's stud which have been tamed more recently still. It was very gentle and obedient, and perfectly fearless, and therefore very valuable as a shooting elephant: as for example, on several occasions during the following three weeks it stood without flinching the charge of wounded buffalo, tiger, and rhinoceros, thus enabling me to take a steady shot. Almost all elephants show great fear of the Indian rhinoceros; there are few that will not turn tail when they scent their enemy, and fewer still that will stand the crash and short snorts that precede the charge.

About breakfast-time each morning the elephant told off for each guest was brought to the neighborhood of his tent, and the howdah placed upon it, resting upon a saddle composed of two cushions of strong sack cloth about six feet by two, which rested in turn upon a large cloth covering the whole of the elephant's back. The howdahs for shooting are lightly built of wood and cane-work, and contain two seats, and racks to hold guns or rifles, three on each side. All this is lashed on by ropes passing under the elephant's neck, belly, and tail. The weight which an elephant is able to carry upon its back exceeds a ton; for short distances they have been known to carry as much as three thousand pounds, but for long marches half a ton is considered the limit. Many of the Maharaja's elephants had fine tusks, but most tusks are cut at regular intervals to prevent them from injuring one another. One or two of the fighting-elephants, however, had pointed tusks.

A Church Without Plaster.

Chicago is about to have a church devoid of plaster. The inner walls will be of brick. There will not be even wooden window sashes, as the panes of glass will be set into the brick. It is St. Paul's Catholic church, Hoyle avenue and Twenty-second place. The foundations are being laid directly on bedrock, which comes near the surface at this point. The brick for the interior trim is being especially pressed in fanciful designs. The church will be completed by the winter of 1898. It will be 200 feet long by 108 feet wide, and its two towers will be 32 feet square by 245 feet high.

Cramp Will Not Supply Armor For Battle Ships.

LARGE BUCKWHEAT EXPORTS

Germany Has Again Protested Against the Discrimination Against Her Sugar—Not a Single Consignment Was Received at New York Custom House Last Week.

Dingley Tariff Anticipated.

The prohibitory effect of the Dingley tariff and the anticipation of it by the importers were exemplified at the custom house last week by the fact that not a single consignment was received, and it is the first week in years that such has been the case.

First Time on Record.

The Bureau of American Republics has received information that merchants of Rio de Janeiro have chartered two vessels now at San Francisco to convey cargoes of California wheat to Rio. This is the first time in history that such a thing has occurred, and is attributable to the short crop in the Argentine Republic and Uruguay.

Exports of Buckwheat.

The exportation of American buckwheat during the last fiscal year attained sufficient importance to be made a matter of special note by the bureau of statistics of the treasury department. During the last year there were exported 1,677,102 bushels of buckwheat. The Netherlands furnish the greatest market, 1,063,064 bushels of this total having been sent to that country; 425,244 bushels were exported to Germany, and 154,557 bushels to Belgium, Denmark, France, England and British Africa received the balance in small quantities. The value of the year's exports of buckwheat was $678,959.

Germany Protests Again.

The German government has again entered a formal protest against the application to German sugar of section 5 of the new tariff act, by which sugar would be taxed with a higher duty than that from other countries. It is not denied, however, that the German sugar clearly comes within the provision of section 5 by reason of the payment of an export bounty, but the contention is made that the additional duty imposed is in effect a discrimination against German sugar, which is incompatible both with the most favored nation rights that are secured to German productions by the treaties now in force, and also with the provisions of the Saratoga agreement of August 22, 1891.

Cramp Will Not Supply Armor.

Charles Cramp, of the ship-building firm of Cramp & Sons, was at the navy department the other day in conference with Secretary Roosevelt and Capt. O'Neill, chief of the ordnance bureau, to learn the intention of the department in the matter of procuring armor for the battleships now building. The response of the Cramps to Secretary Long's invitation to submit proposals for supplying such armor as they need for the ships they are building has been delayed by the absence from the United States of Charles Cramp. He has now made answer, and, as was expected, declines to undertake the task. He was not averse, however, to undertaking to supply the small quantity of diagonal armor, amounting to about eighty tons for each ship, at the maximum price allowed by congress—$300 per ton—his offer to do this being based upon a desire to prevent a possible stoppage of work on the ships owing to the lack of this particular armor.

Meanwhile the acting secretary is proceeding to carry out the direction of congress on the lines laid down by Secretary Long, and he has completed the personnel of the special board which is to make an investigation of the cost of establishing a government armor plant.

An Exorbitant Rate.

Representative J. Hamilton Lewis, of the state of Washington, has had a conference with the treasury officials in regard to customs matter on the Alaska-Canadian frontier. It is said the Canadian commissioner of customs has fixed an exorbitant rate of duty on goods of every description brought by miners entering the Klondike country by way of Alaska. The treasury officials have taken means to ascertain the facts. If the report should be found to be true the action of the department in establishing a branch custom house at Dyea may be reconsidered and steps taken to protect the rights of American miners in the premises.

Pension Roll Growing.

The pension roll of the United States has already reached the million mark. Commissioner Evans has just issued a statement showing that at the beginning of the fiscal year the pensioners numbered 988,528, an increase of 12,850 for the past year. During the year 50,101 new pensions were granted and 3,971 persons were restored to the rolls. Old age and disease, however, is working great inroads into the list, for there were 31,960 deaths during the year. Other sources of loss were 1,071 from remarriage of widows; 1,845 orphans attained majority; 2,683 failures to claim pensions, and 3,500 losses from unrecorded causes.

The Gold Production.

Mr. Preston, mint director, estimates the gold production of the world for 1896 to have been $205,000,000, of which the United States contributed over $53,000,000. For 1897 it is believed the world's gold production will reach at least $200,000,000. Mr. Preston says:

"As an indication of the increase in the world's gold product for 1897, the following table, showing the product of the United States, Australia, South Africa, Russia, Mexico, British India and Canada for 1896, and their probable output of 1897 is given.

United States	$ 53,000,000	$ 60,000,000
Australia	40,250,000	52,550,000
South Africa	44,000,000	50,000,000
Russia	22,000,000	25,000,000
Mexico	7,000,000	9,000,000
British India	2,800,000	7,100,000
Canada	2,200,000	10,000,000
Total	$189,250,000	$215,650,000

That the world's gold product will continue to increase for a number of years to come, says Mr. Preston, is self-evident, as new mines will be opened up in all parts of the world, and with the improved appliances and the methods for extracting the gold contained in the ores, it is believed that by the close of the present century the world's gold product will exceed $300,000,444.

Representatives Instructed New Tariff.

The state department has sent instructions to the United States ambassadors and ministers abroad accredited to countries with which we have trade relation that have been affected by the enactment of the Dingley act, directing them to present to the governments at their posts a copy of the new act and to call attention to the provisions of the new act which call for retaliation, reciprocity and similar arrangements.

This is done in order that there may be a proper basis for the institution of negotiations looking to the consummation of some of the reciprocal agreements contemplated in the Dingley act.

The grounds not covered by the state department in these negotiations will be difficult to traverse, owing to the complexity of the subjects to be treated and the dissimilar conditions existing in various countries with which we must have to do, yet there cannot be any delay in undertaking the task, inasmuch as congress in terms enjoyed the beginning of the negotiations as soon as may be after the passage of this act.

So far, it is said, no formal responses to our advances have been made, but from certain news items that come from Europe it is perceived that such overtures may be expected at any moment.

Mails to the Klondike.

The hosts that have migrated to the Alaskan and Klondike gold fields during the past few months will not be wholly without postal facilities during the coming winter. There will be one round trip a month to Circle City until July 1 of next year. This monthly service began on the first of last month, and while no route is specially designated, it will be via the Chilkoot pass. This service carries only letter mail, no provision being made for any other classes of matter. Heavy mails are carried so far under contract for five steamer trips via the Yukon river, and the last of the five trips will be started from San Francisco about September 1. It is doubtful whether the last expedition can proceed all the way, for in the latter part of September the Yukon is frozen over. The fourth expedition carrying the mails over the course is now en route. The contract allows the carriage of mails to the extent of five tons in weight, and by the time the mails now on the way will reach the Circle City district and are forwarded into the diggings into which the rush has been made the prospectors will be well supplied with reading matter.

Fifteen Thousand People Have Been Worked On in Birmingham.

Birmingham is erecting more buildings on the other side of Red Mountain at the pest-house for the smallpox patients.

Fifteen thousand people have been vaccinated in Birmingham and in this district. The city has vaccinated more than 5,300 free of charge, while family physicians have been busy from morning until night puncturing the arms of the men, women and children. More vaccine points were used in Birmingham during the last six weeks than was ever used in the whole state before.

CALERA, ALA., AUGUST 12, 1897.

THE CALERA HIGH SCHOOL.

The citizens of Calera are to be congratulated upon the bright prospects for an excellent school for the ensuing scholastic term. The School Board has elected an admirable faculty, consisting of Prof. C. C. Slaton as principal, Miss Kate S. Howard and Miss Lelia Parker as assistants, and Miss Mary Huggins music teacher. Prof. Slaton is an experienced educator, and comes highly recommended as a christian gentleman and a successful educator. He is fully abreast with the educational progress of the age, and in full touch with all the latest and most improved methods. Miss Kate Howard, of Autauga is a young lady of splendid attainments and two or three years experience in teaching. She was educated in the Birmingham Public School and Peabody Normal College of Nashville, Tenn. She has therefore enjoyed the special advantage of a thorough training for the work of a teacher. Her testimonials are of the highest order, and The Sentinel thinks that Calera is fortunate indeed in securing her services.

Miss Lelia Parker is a young lady well known to our citizens. She was reared in this county and is a graduate of the Judson Female Seminary at Marion, and is well equipped for the work.

The music department will be in charge of Miss Mary Huggins of this place. Her qualifications for the position are too well known to our citizens to need any comment from The Sentinel. She is not only an accomplished musician but has taught most successfully for a number of years at this place where her pupils illustrate the excellence of her instruction.

The matter of the erection of a new and commodious school building has also been settled, and steps will be taken at an early day now to begin the work. The school will open in temporary quarters about the last of September. The catalogue giving the exact date is in course of preparation and will appear shortly. The outlook is indeed promising for Calera's school interests, and all the indications point to an onward and upward movement all along the line. It is indeed gratifying to know that unanimity and harmony characterizes the situation among our citizens, and that all of them are working and pulling together to promote and build up all the varied interests of our town, and that the educational interests, as it properly should, has been the first to engage the public attention.

The tax payers of Shelby do not seem to regard the new back tax law with very much favor. Indeed the comments upon it that we heard on last Monday at Columbiana where some three or four hundred tax payers had assembled in response to notices to meet the tax commissioner before the commissioners' court to show cause why their taxable values should not be raised were otherwise than complimentary. They regard it not only as a bad law, but as one that reflects upon their integrity. They were kicking and the indications are that they will continue to kick until it is repealed. The tax commissioner, Mr. Burr Nabors, owing to sickness, was unable to be present, and the court after looking into the matter as fully as possible under the circumstances continued the cases until next Monday for final disposition.

The announcement of the death of Major Ellis Phelan, which occurred at Waterbury, Conn., a few days ago, will be received through out Alabama with much regret. Maj. Phelan was a native Alabamian and was reared in this state. He was about fifty-four years of age. He was a most estimable citizen in every sense of the term. He was at one time Secretary of State of Alabama and resigned that position when he moved to Connecticut several years ago. He was honored by the people of New England, among whom he lived, and, though a democrat, was twice elected Probate Judge at Waterbury Conn., where the republicans predominated. His first wife was a Miss Hawkins, of Jefferson county, a sister of Mrs. French Nabors of Montevallo. A pure man and an estimable gentleman has passed away.

There has been, as yet, no change of Postmasters at this place, though there are rumors that the new appointee has filed his bond. It is also stated that a prominent democrat of the city of Montgomery, one who has held exalted positions at the hands of the democracy of the state, is one of the sureties on his bond. If this is true, the democrats of this place and section will be astonished. The Sentinel hopes that it is a mistake, for they are loth to think that the gentleman referred to would thus give his endorsement to a Populite-Republican appointee who is so objectionable to the people of this town and community and thereby deliberately slap the democracy of this county in the face. Further developments will be awaited with interest.

The Sentinel is pleased to learn that there has been a large increase in the wheat crop grown in this county the present year. In some portions of the county we are told it begins to look like it did a few years ago when every farmer raised his own flour. This is a good move and one that will soon enable Shelby farmers to live at home and keep out of debt, if continued.

"Give us a good price for cotton and it is all up with Bryanism in the South," says the Mobile Register. And the prospect is bright for that result. Just as a good price for wheat has killed free-silver in the West, so a good price for cotton will do the work here.—Advertiser.

The outlook for Alabama has never been brighter than it is today. Our people do not realize the favored position the State occupies in the mind and eye of those who wish to secure homes or to make investments. It will not be many years before the present population is doubled.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Secretary of the Interior, Cornelius N. Bliss, has issued a notice to gold hunters warning them to pause before undertaking the journey this late in the season to the Klondyke gold fields. He tells them of the hardships, exposure and suffering and possibly death that lurks in the frozen pathway.

The small pox situation at Birmingham and Montgomery is reported much better, and a confident feeling prevails on the part of the physicians and people that the disease has been checked, and that it will be completely stamped out at an early day.

An Ex-Annistonian Beats the World Guessing at the Great Men.

Anniston Hot Blast.
In a Prize voting contest offered by the Pennsylvania Grit, published at Williamsport, Pa., to name the greatest living men, Mr. James Hollowell, of Rock Run, Ala., who formerly lived in Anniston and was a well known furnace man, made the only guess which contained the ten names. His ballot was numbered 4,512, and a fac simile of his guess, over his own signature, has been published, which gives names guessed as follows:

1, Gladstone; 2, Bismarck; 3, Li Hung Chang; 4, McKinley; 5, DeWitt Tammage; 6, Pope Leo; 7, Roengen; 8, Tom Eddison; 10, W. J. Bryan.

Cuts of this decemvirate of great men appeared in the same paper, with Tom Eddison in the center, he having received a larger number of votes than any of the others.

The many friends of Mr. Hollowell, in anniston, will be glad to hear of his good fortune in being the only successful guesser in this important contest.

A negro rapist was lynched by an angry mob at Ashville, N. C., on the 10th inst. He assaulted a pretty young lady, Miss Kitty Henderson, daughter of a respectable farmer living eight miles north of Ashville. He choked her, outraged her person and left her unconscious, on last Sunday. He was caught on Monday fully identified, and then confessed his crime.

Hon. John O. Turner, Commissioner of Education, has issued a circular as follows:

"The attention of county superintendents of education and boards of trustees is called to section 979 of the code governing school laws of the state. This section prescribes that 'the township trustees must, during the month of August of each odd year, make an enumeration of all the children, white and black, within educational age, in their district and report the same in duplicate to the county superintendent of education by Sept. 1 following; and the county superintendent of education shall make to the superintendent of education a written report of the several enumerations made to him by the township trustees by September 15 of such year.'

This section, the officials in the office of superintendent Turner say, is rather slowly being complied with.

A special term of Commissioners' court for this county was in session this week, to pass upon the raises in assessments of property for the current year, as reported by the Tax Commissioners. Citations had been issued to about 70 parties who had been raised, and about 300 of these met here Monday to contest the raises made on their property. Owing to sickness the Tax Commissioner, Mr. Burr Nabors, of Montevallo, did not appear to prosecute the cases, but asked for a continuance. The court, after allowing those present an opportunity to put in their defense, adjourned to meet again next Monday.

The people in this county, as a rule are very much apposed to the workings of the Tax Commission law as it now stands.

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic
Diarrhoea.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and sold a 50-cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans.

SUBTERRANEAN.

Mr. Dick Bailey, while digging a well last week, on his farm, three miles from Calera, struck a subterranean stream that he thinks will supply Cal-era and Montevallo with an abundant of water and then have enough to furnish the Baptist churches for baptismal purposes.

"Let me give you a pointer," said M.
E. Gregg, a popular conductor on the Missouri Pacific railroad. "Do you know that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cures you when you have the stomach ache? Well, it does." And after giving this friendly bit of advice, the jolly conductor passed on down the aisle. It is a fact that thousands of railroad and travelling men never take a trip without a bottle of this remedy, which is the best cure for bowel disorders in the world. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Dial Bros.

Mrs. T. B. Cooper is making the necessary arrangements to entertain about thirty-five guests at the "house party" at Cooper's next week. Visitors will be present from Oxford, Anniston, Jacksonville, Gadsden, Birmingham and Calera and from distant states.—Hot Blast.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and when it is from a physician it is especially so.
"There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy than Chamberlain's Colic,
Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes
Dr. R. E. Robey, physician and phar-macut, of Olney, Mo.; and as he has used the Remedy in his own family and sold it in his drug store for six years, he should certainly know.

The many friends of Mr. Tom Moore he will be able to return home from Birmingham in a day or two.

THE SCHOOL BOND ISSUE.

In accordance with the notice previously given, an election was held on last Monday the 9th inst. to decide the question as to whether or not the city of Calera would issue bonds to the amount of five thousand dollars for school purposes.

The free holders of the city did the voting in this election and though they did not turn out altogether as well as it was expected they would, still there was a very decided majority vote favoring the issue of said bonds. Several were absent from the city and a few others forgot the day until it was too late to vote. The majority of those voting stood thirty-eight for the bond issue to one against it. The result demonstrates most satisfactorily that an overwhelming majority of the free holders of the city heartily favor the establishment of a school of high grade for Calera. The question is now practically settled as to the erection of a suitable building and the outlook for the school is most encouraging indeed.

The attention of the readers of the Sentinel is invited to the advertisement of the Six Mile Normal Institute, appearing elsewhere in these columns. This is a most excellent school—one that has for a long number of years been the pride not only of Bibb county but all this section of the state. Under the management of that able and successful educator, Capt. R. H. Pratt, this school won and retained a state reputation for superior excellence. It is now in the hands of young gentlemen, active, earnest and capable men who are devoted to their calling and who feel an special pride in keeping the school at the forefront in the educational line as well as on the high plane of excellence wherein their distinguished predecessor had placed it. See the advertisement.

MR. I. W. GASSER

DUE THE CREDIT FOR BRINGING THE ANNISTON AND CALERA NINES TOGETHER.

It was through the indefatigable efforts of Mr. I. W. Gasser, of the Calhoun, that the citizens of Anniston had the pleasure of witnessing two of the prettiest games ever played in this section, and, as it now stands game and game with these splendid teams, the public may expect them to cross bats again before the season is over to decide the closely fought contest.—
Hot Blast 6th inst.

On Tuesday night of last week Mr.
Jno. B. Randall's watch and chain was stolen from his residence in this place. After persistent effort he secured a clue and had two well known negro boys arrested on the charge of stealing it. One of them, however, got away, but the other, on a trial in Justice Black's court on yesterday, made confessions, that in connection with the other circumstances surrounding him, caused him to be bound over to the grand jury. Constable Crim took him up to Columbiana on yesterday where he was committed to jail.

The musical entertainment given by the Ladies Aid Society of the Baptist Church on last Friday evening was a delightful affair. Owing to the inclemency of the afternoon and early evening the crowd was not altogether as large as was expected, but those attending enjoyed a musical treat. All the participants acquitted themselves admirably, the audience was pleased and the receipts of the evening satisfactory. The Sentinel hopes that the ladies may find it convenient to repeat the entertainment at some future time.

The reports of the general crop prospects in this section of the coun-was a better time for a building boom to begin.

Mr. Walter H. Duran is demonstrating the fact that a Merchant Mill at this place can do a profitable business provided the railroads will give it a fair chance in the matter of freights in is supplying a number of localities with meal and feed stuffs every day.

The freight rates, however, are not as satisfactory as they should be.

Wheat and silver don't seem to rise and fall together these days as advocates of the unlimited free coinage of the white metal have been wont to tell us. On the contrary, while wheat continues to advance in price, the white metal continues to decline. Even in Mexico, that paragon of silver's friends, the decline in silver during the past year, and especially at this time, has placed the business interests in a somewhat critical and precarious condition. The same thing it seems, is being demonstrated with cotton. Silver declines, cotton advances.

Acetylene.
"The Explosion and Detection of Acetylene in Air" is the title of a paper recently read before the Chemical Society; and as many persons are interested in this new illuminating gas, a short account of the results arrived at by this experimenter will not be out of place. A mixture of acetylene and air becomes explosive when as little as three per cent. of the gas is present, and the tendency to explode persists up to eighty-one per cent. This range is extraordinarily wide, and exceeds that of any combustible gas known.

Greece has given the world a beautiful object lesson. But it will leave her bankrupt and humiliated. An ounce of powder is worth a pound of sentiment in actual warfare.

Exit Tompkins.
Tompkins is one of those gentlemen of kind disposition who are ever on the outlook for a chance to improve their neighbors' mind. Seeing a man, apparently a country fellow, sitting on the fence, regarding the telegraph wires carefully, Tompkins approached and said:

"Watching the wires, eh?"
"Yes."
"Waiting to see a message go by, eh?"

"Yes, sir," the man replied, smiling. Then Tompkins spoke kindly to him and explained the mystery of the electric current, and that the messages were invisible, and finished up with:

"Now you know something about it." Then, as he was going away, he said, by the way, "What do you work at?"
"Me and my mate over yonder are telegraph workers, and we've just finished putting up a new wire."

He Made a Sale.
He was a very small boy and very ragged, but there was a look in his eyes of shrewd intelligence beyond his years. His left hand he held behind his back, but his right was extended, and between two grimy fingers he held a half-smoked stump of a cigarette. He had his eye on a well-dressed man who was walking jauntily along the street swinging his cane.

"Say, mister," said the boy, "give me a match, will yer, please?"
The man stopped good-naturedly and smiled when he saw the dirty cigarette stump. He made a pretence of searching his pockets for a match, and finally said:

"I haven't one, bub."
The boy hastily slipped the stump into his pocket, and withdrawing his left hand from behind his back displayed a large box containing an assortment of small boxes.

"If yer ain't got no matches," said he, "now's a good time for yer ter buy. I got 'em all, wax and wood, and some what won't blow out in the wind and udders what will. Yer takes yer pick."

He sold two boxes for a nickel.

WEIGHTY WORDS FOR Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

"I lost my wife and two children from the effects of hereditary scrofula. My third child was dangerously affected with scrofula. He was unable to walk, his left foot being covered with running sores. Physicians having failed to relieve the others of my family, I decided to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I am pleased to say the trial was successful, and my boy was restored to health. I am confident that my child would have died had he not used Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—JAS. M. DYE, Mintonville, Ky., Aug. 5, 1895.

Thus They Escape.
The reason why ships are not struck by lightning is attributable to the general employment of wire rope for rigging purposes, as well as to the fact that the hulls of ships are usually constructed of iron or steel. Thus the ship forms an excellent and continuous conductor, by means of which the electricity is led away into the ocean before it has time to do any serious damage.

Cheap Method of Renewing Worn Out Railroad Tracks.

A new method of treating worn out steel rails, and one that has received the endorsement of a practical steel rail maker, Capt. B. W. Hunt, is described by him in Cassier's Magazine. This is the invention of Mr. E. W. McKenna, for years identified with large railway systems. His idea was to heat the worn rail in its entirety and cause as little reduction of weight of section as possible, and restore it to perfect section and make it suitable for its original use.

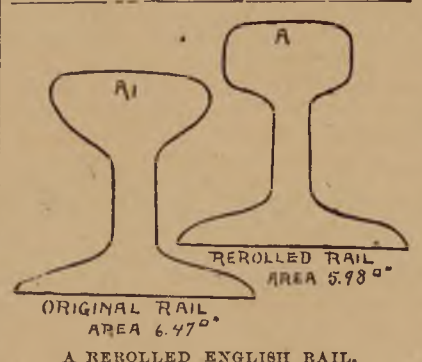

small main track use. Experiments with the renewed rails in actual service proved eminently satisfactory.

In the accompanying illustration are shown three sections of worn rails. The sections given show the different ways in which steel rails wear, together with flange of metal—i. e., excessive curve wear, ordinary curve wear, and tread wear. The fact that these different forms of worn rails, varying in weight from 54.8 pounds to 55.8 pounds per yard, were all renewed to the standard C, weighing 53 pounds per yard, demonstrates that the maximum reduction due to the process need not exceed 2.5 pounds per yard and the resultant product of any lot of worn rails will be within five pounds of the original weight.

In sections of rails shown in the second illustration the original rail was of English make, and was in the track twenty-nine years. In the rerolling process the rails were altered to admit the use of modern joint material.

In operating the process the rails were charged into a furnace that was sufficiently long to accommodate the whole rail. After being brought up to a bright red heat the rails were drawn from the end of the furnace opposite to that used for charging, and carried by a steam-driven carriage to the back side of a three-high set of rolls, and entered between the top and middle rolls. After passing through they fell upon driven rollers, and by them entered into the final or finishing pass between the middle and bottom rolls. They were then carried to the hot saws.

In the usual way, and after being cut to the desired lengths, were put on the hot bed to cool, subsequently being cold-straightened and drilled for splice bolts. The loss in heating and rolling ran from .05 per cent. to .08 per cent. With one heating furnace the product was over 100 tons per turn. A plant is being built at Joliet, Ill., to renew rails by this process.

STATE TOPICS.

Commissioner Appointed.
The governor has appointed C. Y. Culberson, of Valley Head, as county commissioner of DeKalb county to succeed William Lea, recently deceased.

Transferred to Washington.
J. B. Goadlet, special pension examiner for the northern district of Alabama, has been transferred by the department to Washington. He will be succeeded by Charles S. Sloan, of the latter city, who has arrived at Huntsville and taken charge of the duties of his new office.

Fourteen Furnaces in Blast.
Fourteen iron furnaces are in blast in the Birmingham district, and they are making on an average of over 2,200 tons of iron a day. The Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company, started up their Oxmoor furnace Monday. This furnace has been "banked," since the suspension of work with the coal miners began.

Railway Extension.
The Seaboard Railway Company, of South Alabama, is building an extension of its line for five miles in the direction of Healing Springs, Ala. An effort is being made to get the company to continue the extension for eighteen miles further so as to reach these springs, and it is believed that the company will acquiesce.

Compulsory Vaccination.
A special meeting of the mayor and board of aldermen of Birmingham decided to strictly enforce the ordinance requiring removal from the city of all smallpox patients, whether white or black. The physicians are working hard, and Dr. Sanders, the state health officer, is asisting in the work. Compulsory vaccination has been ordered.

Governor's Proclamation.
The Governor has issued a proclamation renewing the reward of $300 for the arrest and delivery of Eldridge Williams, colored, who is wanted in Elmore county for a murder committed in 1891. A reward of $100 is offered for the arrest and conviction of Nick Jenkins, charged with the murder of Lazarus Thomas, which occurred in Montgomery county recently.

Tax Collectors Settle.
Of sixteen tax collectors recently cited by the governor as delinquent, several have already given satisfactory reasons why they should not be suspended. Collector Holland, of Escambia, has settled in full. Collector Bowles, of Lowndes, has settled for all except closing for some land sales. Collector Frederick, of Franklin, has paid an account of $880, and all of them have until August 10 before any further action is taken by the governor.

A Farmer Viciously Assaulted.
L. P. Dooley, a prosperous farmer and land owner in Marshall county, refused to rent a part of his farm to John Parker, who was intoxicated and took offense at the refusal. The men engaged in a war of words. Later in the day Parker slipped up behind Dooley with a dirk and out a severe 7-inch gash in Dooley's right shoulder and a 5-inch gash in his left breast. The men then clinched and Parker kept up his murderous work with his knife. In the struggle Dooley's right breast was laid open for fully 14 inches, and the tendons of his wrist were severed. He was hacked almost to pieces, but is still living. Parker escaped.

Anticipate a Prosperous Session.
Since April 1, the bonded debt of Howard College, East Lake, has been reduced from over $40,000, to less than $20,000. It is expected that this will be wiped out ere another twelve months passes. Rev. M. M. Wood, the financial agent, is now engaged in collecting the old notes, and he reports much encouragement in the work. He gives it as his opinion that a large per cent of them will be paid ere the fall and winter passes. He and others connected with the college anticipate a most successful session in the one now coming on.

Matthews Cotton Mill's.
It is reported that Register in Chancery R. H. Craig, of Selma, is in a dilemma about the Matthews cotton mills. Twice has he advertised it for sale, and on neither occasion did he receive a bid. He contemplates giving it a third trial, and will ask that the upset price be not more than $85,000. The property is said to be worth $250,000.

Alabama Gold Mines.
Dr. Eugene H. Smith, state geologist, has arranged to spend the next two or three months in Cleburne, Clay and Randolph counties, in east Alabama, where he will make a personal inspection of the gold prospecting work in that section. Several new mines have recently been opened, and the prospects are that the gold mining industry in the eastern counties will soon take on important proportions.

Buried Alive.
A fearful accident happened at Ishkooda ore mines last Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the result of which was the death of Daniel Gregg, white, and Steve Sadler, colored. Gregg was in charge of the timber force at the mines. Sadler was one of his helpers. The two men were in a dangerous part of the mines. Mr. Gregg had gone with his force to this weak spot to have it repaired. He and his workmen were busily engaged propping up the insecure places in the roof with the timbers used for that purpose. Suddenly the props gave way and a mass of slate and dirt came down, burying the men, the timbers and the floor of the mine under a huge heap of indiscriminate stuff. Willing hands immediately came to the relief of the entombed men, who were Greggs and Sadler. In a short while the earth and slate were removed and their bodies were taken out. But the two men were already dead.

A dry kiln containing ten thousand feet of clear lumber burned at the Oliphants Lumber Company mill, Waverly, Tex., Thursday evening.

Epidemic a Thing of the Past.
The epidemic of smallpox, which has prevailed in Birmingham, Ala., for a month past, is now reported by the health authorities as practically ended. Only one death occurred during the entire epidemic.

Commercial Statistics.
A treasury statement showed that the value of general merchandise imported into the United States and subsequently exported, during the last fiscal year, amounted to $18,985,933, as compared with $19,406,451 for the next preceding year.

Death of Korea's Ex-Minister.
Mr. Pom Kwang Soh, president of the provisional council of Korea and ex-minister to this country, died at his residence Friday in Washington, at 3:30 o'clock, of acute consumption aggravated by over-exercise. He was 42 years old.

Father and Son Drowned.
A special to the Louisville Evening Post Friday from Spottsville, Ky., says: "It is reported from a point above here on Green river that Thomas and Peter Drew were drowned Thursday morning, while going across the river to their farm. Peter Drew was a son of Thomas. Both are prominent farmers in the Green river valley."

Wealthy Coffee Planter Dead.
Philip Kern, a wealthy coffee planter of San Salvador, died in Tallaga Lake, Cal., Thursday. He was one of the best known coffee planters in Central America. He commenced business fifteen years ago and amassed wealth, until the present value of his property is over $5,000,000. He was a German by birth.

Canadian Tariff.
The government has advised all Canadian collectors of customs to give France the benefit of the preferential clause of the tariff. This makes three countries—France, Belgium and Germany—who are now enjoying the benefits of the reciprocal arrangement. The question of establishing a bank at Dawson City, Yukon, is now before the government.

Will Be Cremated.
Charles von Boeckmann, a well-known German, died at Austin, Tex., Thursday morning, and under a provision of his will, his body was shipped to St. Louis to be cremated. He was a member of a society there and a stock holder in the crematory at that place. His son, Kurtz von Boeckmann, accompanied the remains to carry the old man's ashes back to Austin.

A Peculiar Malady.
The Falls Creek Tannery, at Falls Creek, Pa., has closed down, because of the appearance of a peculiar and terrible disease among the employees, of whom four died within a few hours after they were seized. It is supposed to be caused by handling some hides which were imported from China and contained the germs of an unknown and dangerous disease. Measures will be taken to stamp it out before it spreads any further.

Government Threatened.
Placards printed in Arabic characters have been found posted upon the walls of all the ministries in Constantinople, demanding a change in the system of government in the Turkish empire and threatening violence unless this is effected. The placards declare that otherwise blood will flow as during the Armenian massacres. Ministers of War Riza Pasha has sent a circular to all the Turkish commanders directing them to watch their officers strictly. This step is attributed to the increasing discontent visible in Turkey against the present government.

An Aged Murderer Hanged.
Peter Monahan, 74 years old, was hanged in Baltimore, Md., Friday, for the murder of his wife. The crime was committed on May 25th, 1897, and Monahan was convicted and sentenced on June 17th. The drop fell at 9:05 a.m. Monahan displayed remarkable nerve and met his fate without a tremor. He made no confession or statement of any kind, contenting himself with saying that he had told all he had to say to the court. He was buried in St. Mary's Catholic cemetery, beside the woman he murdered.

Killed By a Circus Man.
A special from Cumberland Gap, Tenn., says that William Miller was shot and killed by W. W. Clark, one of the sons of the proprietor of a circus exhibiting at that place, Thursday night. Miller attempted to force his way into the circus without paying when the difficulty arose. Miller is the only eye-witness of the killing of John Colson by John Dugan, at Pineville, several months ago. Colson was a brother of Congressman David Colson.

May Tax Ministers.
A local paper and some of the councilmen of Fort Scott, Kan., are insisting that an occupation tax be assessed against the ministers of the town as a means of raising revenue to make up the deficiency occasioned by the closing of the saloons. The council is wrestling with an occupation-tax ordinance, and some of the members refuse to support the measure unless it shall include ministers. The town is two months in arrears with the police salaries. The city attorney has advised that ministers may be taxed, though they are not in any other town in the land.

Refused to Treat Them.
Wednesday midnight three young men who have been camping near the edge of San Pierre, Ind., met Charles Nelson, a farmer, and demanded that he treat them. Nelson refused, and was shot through the heart by one of the men. Two of the men have been captured and a party of men are pursuing the one that did the killing. Bloodhounds are on the trail, and it is thought that if the murderer is captured he may never reach the bar of justice. The men claim to be glass blowers from Marion, Ind.

Langtry Will Bring Suit.
It was announced Thursday night in London by Edward Langtry, husband of the Jersey Lily, that he will bring suit for absolute divorce from his wife, and that papers in the case would be served on her by his direction this week. Many persons high in social life, and even royalty itself, are to be named as correspondents. Mr. Langtry is moved to this course by the report in the English papers of Mrs. Langtry's prospective marriage to Prince Esterhazy de Galantha of Austria. He absolutely denies the paternity of the fourteen-year-old child, Jeanne Langtry.

Hanged to a Cottonwood.
Harold Morley, of Kansas City, Mo., the fifteen-year-old son of a division superintendent of the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf Railroad, left his father's ranch, near Chamberino, in Donna Ana county, N. M., Friday evening, to visit neighbors. Sunday evening the boy's horse came in alone, and search was made for the youth. His body was found hanging in a cottonwood tree on the main road. He had evidently been dead twenty-four hours. The ground showed that the body had been roped from his horse by mounted men and strung up in the cottonwood. The murder is supposed to have been committed by Mexican neighbors, with whom the family have had trouble over their ranch boundaries.

Klonike Rush Abating.
During the past week the Klondike fever has abated somewhat in San Francisco, owing probably to the discouraging reports received from Dyea. There are plenty of people who announce their intention of trying to go at once, a large proportion seem disposed to travel via St. Michaels and up the Yukon. Promoters of expeditions by this route are ready, with profuse assurances that the trip can be made before the closing of navigation, but in some cases they are careful not to bind themselves in anyway to take passengers through this fall. At the offices of the steamship companies it is reported that inquiry for tickets is diminishing.

KILLED HIS DAUGHTER.
Who Was Trying to Stop a Street Fight at Galveston, Texas.

Saturday night John B. Hayes, blacksmith, residing at Thirty-eighth street and avenue K, at Galveston, Texas, shot and instantly killed his daughter, Mrs. Annie Dunham. The deplorable tragedy was the result of a fight between Hayes and Michael Burke, a plumber. Hayes, while on his way to a drug store to get medicine for a member of his family, had a quarrel with Burke and some of his companions. On his return Hayes again encountered Burke and party, at a grocery, corner of Thirty-eighth and avenue K, near Hayes' residence. The quarrel was resumed and blows passed. Hayes drew his revolver and struck Burke over the head with it. Mrs. Dunham, hearing the disturbance, rushed out of her father's house to stop the quarrel, if possible, and just as her father raised his revolver to strike Burke again she jumped between the men, when the revolver was exploded and she dropped dead at the feet of the two angry men with a bullet through her brain. The ball entered her temple and came out on the right side. The shot, it is claimed, was accidental, but the tragic death of the young woman produced intense excitement and feeling ran high against Hayes for using his gun, but before the crowd that had quickly assembled could take action Hayes was arrested by the police and rushed off to jail, where he is almost demented over his rash act, and positively refuses to see any one. Burke is also in custody. Coroner Finn viewed the body of Mrs. Dunham and commenced his inquiry into the killing Sunday morning. In the death of Mrs. Dunham two little children are left motherless.

SENATOR GEORGE DEAD.

MISSISSIPPI'S SENIOR SENATOR PASSES PEACEFULLY AWAY.

He Had Been Ill for a Long Time--Taken to the Gulf Coast Two Weeks Ago--The Death of His Wife Was a Fatal Shock--Mourning by the Whole South.

Hon. J. Z. George, senior United States Senator of Mississippi, died in Mississippi City, Miss., Saturday at 3:30 o'clock from heart failure, after an illness that had lasted to a greater or less extent for several years. Senator George went to Mississippi City about two weeks ago, shortly after the death of his wife, which event occurred at Carrollton, Miss., July 29. The death of his good wife was a great shock to Gen. George, and doubtless hastened his end. Mrs. George had been to him a helpmeet in the true sense of the word from the time when he was a poor and struggling young man, driving a team of oxen for a living, until he had risen successfully from position to position, until for sixteen years he occupied the highest gift within the power of the people of Mississippi.

For two years more or less Gen. George had spent his time at his old country home, Cotesworth, about two miles from Carrollton, where he had been resting peacefully in contemplation of a well-spent life. Ill-health compelled him to seek refuge there as often as he could from the arduous duties of his life as United States Senator, and he was never really happy until he got home under the grand old trees that surround his place, and there, in companionship with his friends and loved ones, spent the time in social converse and reading. When Gen. George was last winter hovering between life and death at Washington his wife was at their home in Carrollton, too ill to attend him, and it was his constant wish then to get home to her as quickly as possible.

After the death of his wife it was seen by those who were with the senator that a removal from the old home place, so lately saddened, was necessary to his life, as there were evidences that he was failing fast. Accordingly he was at once taken to Mississippi City by his son and every arrangement possible made for his comfort. He lived there quietly and in the company of his own immediate family and relatives, most of whom were at various times during his illness present at his bedside. The heart disease with which Senator George was troubled increased in intensity, notwithstanding the best efforts of skilled physicians, and Saturday about 2 o'clock he relapsed into an unconscious state, from which he never revived, and in one and a half hour was dead.

The death of Senator George will be received with the profoundest regret all throughout this State, where he has been for so many years honored and respected. Coming as he did from the humblest walks of life and rising to the highest position in the State, he embodied the type of Mississippi's most sterling manhood—a type for young men to emulate and for all to admire. In his earliest youth he was a hard worker, a characteristic that marked his career from first to last. He was ever painstaking and earnest, with a pertinacity and a fixedness of purpose that compelled the profferment that resulted eventually in his large success in political life. He was in his young manhood one of the deepest and most thorough students of constitutional law, and it was the possession of a peculiarly analytical and reasoning mind that brought him prominently before the public, and which later had him called to the Supreme Bench of Mississippi as Chief Justice of that State.

Howard College.

Prof. F. M. Roof, who was recently elected president of Howard College, is recognized as one of the foremost educators in the South. His name is familiar in all educational circles, state and national.

Prof. Edwin H. Foster, the newly elected Professor of English, and Prof. E. P. Hogan, who will fill the chair of Natural Sciences, will prove important additions to the faculty.

This old and renowned seat of learning, situated at the beautiful town of East Lake, Alabama, and under the auspices of the Baptist denomination, is doing a great work for the young men of Alabama and surrounding states. Its thorough work and high order of morals give an enviable position to its graduates.

The new catalogue sets forth an excellent classical and scientific course for next session; also, a professional course in Pedagogy for those preparing to teach.

Shipping Lumber to Siberia.

The building of the Siberian railway has been of great benefit to the lumber of the coast of San Francisco. The Glen Terrel, a new freight steamer of 3026 tons net, now at Shanghai, has been chartered to take lumber and railroad ties from the Columbia river to Vladivostok.

CANOVAS' FUNERAL

Spanish Premier Borne to Tomb, Through Multitudes of His Countrymen.

The funeral of Senor Canovas del Castillo at Madrid Friday was a most touching and solemn ceremony. All the troops of the garrison lined the route along which the cortege passed; the flags were lowered, and the embassies, consulates and clubs were heavily draped with crape, as well as the public buildings.

More than a thousand wreaths were deposited in the death chamber. A salvo of artillery announced the starting of the funeral cortege which moved slowly through an enormous crowd, in which all the heads were bare and many eyes were weeping. A peculiarly poignant scene ensued as the Duke of Sotomayo, Marshal Martinez Campos, Marquis Pazo de la Mercede and the other pall bearers lifted the coffin.

Senora Canovas, in a clear and firm tone said: "I desire that all should know that I forgive the assassin. It is the greatest sacrifice I can make, but I make it for the sake of what I know of my husband's great heart."

Throughout the entire distance between the death-chamber and the church the roadway was strewn with flowers and laurels. Senor Sagasta headed the cortege, which was formed of militia, deputies, senators, generals, admirals and delegations representing all the principal public bodies. The wreath of the queen regent rested upon the coffin and other floral tributes were carried in special carriages. All the shops in the city were closed and a very large proportion of the populace that thronged the streets appeared in mourning garb. The entire garrison, marching past the coffin and the service lasted from 4 until 7:30 o'clock.

The remains of Senor Canovas were interred in the family vault in the St. Isadora cemetery amid salvos of artillery and the tolling of all the bells of the city.

The military honors were those due a commander of a fortress dying in his command.

The procession occupied two and one-half hours in passing a given point. Among the most notable features were deputations of the provincial councils, with mace-bearers in curious mediaeval costumes and a royal escort of palace halberdiers, which according to strict ceremony, is only wont to be present at royal funerals, and was therefore a unique honor. Eight horses drew the hearse.

The chief mourners were the duke of Sotomayor, majordomo of the royal household; Gen. De Azcaraga, temporary president of the council, with the other members of the cabinet; Senor Sagasta, the liberal leader, the Archbishop of Madrid, and the deceased nephews. All in the procession who were not entitled to wear uniforms wore deep mourning.

The University of Alabama.

For many years this old and justly celebrated institution of learning has occupied a position second to none for the ability and learning of its faculty and the thoroughness of its scholarship. Its graduates are scattered all over the South, and scarcely without an exception have made their mark and gained eminent positions in the various professions and avocations which they have pursued. In our midst may be mentioned Col. J. O. Banks, Col. S. M. Meek, Mr. W. C. Meek, Mr. B. L. Owen (county treasurer), Mr. J. I. Sturdivant, Maj. H. B. Whitfield, Mr. J. O. Banks, Jr., and perhaps others whose names at this moment escape us.

One of her graduates, Prof. J. W. Beeson, is the distinguished president of the East Mississippi Female College at Meridian; another, Dr. T. J. Mitchell, is superintendent of the Mississippi Insane Asylum.

She has furnished one governor of Texas, Hon. O. M. Roberts, and three judges of the supreme court, one of whom, Judge Robert L. Gould, was for some time a tutor in the University. At the last meeting of the trustees, Gen. Richard C. Jones, its then distinguished president, having, with almost universal regret, resigned the position to return to the bar, to fill this vacancy the trustees, by a unanimous vote, elected James K. Powers, LL. D. In the selection of Dr. Powers the trustees made no mistake. For scholarship, ability, untiring energy and magnificent executive attainments, he stands second to no man in the South. His life having been devoted to the high calling of a teacher, his success has been phenomenal, and we predict that, by the aid of the able faculty at his back, he will advance this institution, if possible, to a still higher grade of distinction and usefulness. Under his guidance and control, every man connected with this institution will do his duty.—Columbus, (Miss.) Commercial.

Offer to Pay the District Price.
Wednesday night the firm of Taylor & McCoy, Altoona, Pa., posted notices at their Gallitzen coal mine that they would pay the district price, 40 cents a net ton for all coal mined. Six weeks ago they reduced the price of coal going into coke to 35 cents a net ton, and the mines have since been closed down. On the strength of this notice all their men resumed work Thursday morning.

BATTLE AT FULTON, ILL.,

WITH A CROWD OF ROCK ISLANDERS, WHO WERE Going to Move the Headquarters of the Modern Woodmen to the Latter City--Fight Lasted an Hour or More--Several Badly Wounded.

The long-standing fight between Fulton, Ill., and the city of Rock Island, Ill., for the location of the headquarters of the Modern Woodmen of America, culminated Friday in a hand-to-hand fight between scores of partisans of the respective towns, in which a number of persons were seriously injured. The contest between the two towns dates back several years. At the recent convention of the order, held at Dubuque, Iowa, it was decided to move the offices and books of Head Clerk Hawes to Rock Island. Then there was a lull, but the factions were by no means reconciled. Those who are desirous of having the headquarters retained in Fulton applied to the courts for an injunction restraining their removal. A temporary injunction was granted, and the controversy went over until the fall term of court. This was not the first time the courts had been called upon to intercede between the warring towns. The slow process of law was not satisfactory to the Rock Islanders, so they determined to take matters into their own hands. Friday a party was made up in the city by the Mississippi delegation, and plans were made for a raid on the Fulton headquarters, with the object of forcibly taking possession of the books, records, etc., of the order, and removing the office of Head Clerk Hawes. A train was chartered and the invaders were soon on their way to Fulton. The inhabitants of the latter town were forewarned, however, and made ready to give their uninvited guests a cordial reception. A fire alarm was sounded and lines of hose were laid to the points where it was thought the Rock Islanders would be most likely to disembark. The arrival of the special train was the signal for hostilities to begin. There was an intense feeling on both sides, and a great variety of weapons.

The free fight lasted for an hour or more, rocks, clubs and missiles of every description being wielded industriously by the opposing forces. The Fultonites finally got the better of the fight, and Deputy Sheriff Farley effected the arrest of Head Attorney Johnston, of the Modern Woodmen, one of the Rock Island party, and a number of his companions. The railroad track on each side of the cars that brought the Rock Islanders was torn up by the Fultonites, the latter evidently aiming to cut off the retreat of their enemies.

The scene of the fighting bears every evidence of the liveliest warfare, and as there was a number of firearms in both parties, it is a wonder the affair did not result more seriously than it did. A large force of police officers has been sworn in, and as the invaders, or numbers of them, are still in Fulton, there is great difficulty in preventing renewal of the trouble.

The action of the Rock Island people was prompted by a decision of Judge Gast, rendered at Cambridge Friday, dissolving the injunction which prevented the removal of the headquarters from Fulton.

BULLET IN HIS BRAIN.

An American Named Jackson Commits Suicide in Birmingham, England.

The New York Journal's London cable says:

The suicide of Amasa Charles Jackson, an American gentleman forty-nine years old, living in lodgings at No. 116 Soho Hill, Handsworth, Birmingham, was made the subject of a coroner's inquest Thursday. Jackson owned land in America. Financial misfortune befell him, and he came to London with his wife, Leona, a lady of French extraction, intending to set up in business. Their means became so straitened that Mrs. Jackson went out to work for a time. His life was insured for $2,000, and Mrs. Jackson kept up the payment. The couple lived affectionately together. On Monday evening he was playing a quiet rubber of whist with his wife and others, but rising from the table he muttered something and then went up stairs and shot himself with a revolver. A letter to his wife, afterward found, said: "I leave you to my God in ending this worthless life. You have always been a dear, good wife to me." Another letter said: "I have lived long enough." Suicide while of unsound mind was the verdict.

Battle With Bats.

Bats took possession of the house of Alonzo Ferrill, near Nasby, Iowa, Thursday night, and after a hard fight Ferrill and his sons killed sixty-three of them. The men's faces were badly scratched, and they were nearly blinded. They report that no less than a hundred of the creatures escaped through the windows.

Great men are men of stamina.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Keeping Up His Record.
B. L. Allen, the man who has taken the first bale of cotton to Newberne for several seasons, did the same thing this year. The 1897 bale weighed 500 pounds and was sold for 7½ cents.

Alabama State Alliance.
The twelfth annual session of the State Alliance will be held at Jamison, in Chilton county, Wednesday and Thursday, September 22 and 23. Hon. Tom Watson and Congressman Howard are booked to speak at the meeting.

Anxious to Annex the Road.
No meeting held for years in Selma has been so full of what seemed to be genuine interest as was a meeting of citizens held last Thursday evening to take measures to extend the Birmingham, Selma, & New Orleans road, now running to Martins, thirty miles further to Linden, Marengo county. A committee composed of S. D. Holt, V. B. Atkins, C. W. Hooper, Wm. Ullman, E. Lamar, and M. J. Meyer, was appointed to confer with a similar committee already at work at Linden and the promoters of the road to Martins. The sentiment of the meeting was for business and to work at once.

Convicts Leased.
The board of convict inspectors has released the state convicts as follows: Sloss Iron and Steel company, of Birmingham, 350; Gen. Chas. M. Shelley, 150; Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway company, the remainder, which is between 700 and 900. The prices to be paid are: Each first-class man, $14 per month; each second-class man, $10, and each third class man, $7 per month. The awards have not been made public. The present lease with the Tennessee company will expire January 1, when the new lease will go into effect. The convicts will be worked in coal mines in Jefferson county. It is estimated that the state will realize a net profit of $500,000 from these contracts.

The Contract Was Annulled.
The Madison county commissioners will advertise for bids for the construction of a $30,000 jail next February. A contract for the work was let to the Pauly Jail & Construction company several weeks ago, but because of the fact that this company was the highest bidder, the tax payers of the county suspected crooked work and demanded that the contract be annulled. The commissioners then refused to accept the Pauly company's contract after the bonds had been signed and now announce that a new contract will be let. The Pauly company will sue the county for breach of contract. The sum that had been set aside for the first payments on the jail will be devoted to the improvement of the county pikes.

Secretary of Agriculture.
The governor has been greatly interested in the announcement that the secretary of agriculture was coming south, and last Friday addressed the following letter to that official:

Montgomery, Aug. 13, 1897.
Hon. James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.:
Dear Sir—It has given me much pleasure to learn that you contemplate visiting the south with a view of investigating its agricultural conditions and wants. I beg to assure you that it will give me and the people of Alabama very great pleasure to have you come, and that I shall do everything in my power to enable you to get full and accurate information and to arrive at correct conclusions. I shall be happy to have you call upon me for any assistance I can render you, and to do everything in my power to make your stay amongst us pleasant to yourself and profitable to our people. I will be obliged if you will advise me of the date of your coming.

Yours respectfully,
Jos. F. Johnston,
Governor.

CALERA, ALA., AUGUST 19, 1897.

Senator McLaurin, of South Carolina, is seriously ill.

The American Bankers' Association is in session at Detroit, Michigan.

Buildings to the value of $250,000 are in process of construction at Birmingham.

The Selma Times brings Rev. A. J. Dickerson forward as the man to succeed Gov. Johnson in the gubernatorial office.

The back tax law seems to be quite unpopular in many counties of the state, and its meeting with more or less opposition from the tax payers.

Gen'l. Richard C. Jones, late president of the State University, is being mentioned very favorably in connection with gubernatorial honors.

The small pox scare at both Montgomery and Birmingham has run its course. The latest reports from both of these cities are to the effect that the disease has been virtually stamped out.

Gov. Johnston made a great mistake when he boycotted the Montgomery Advertiser. Such a performance was not to be expected from the occupant of the gubernatorial office. It was not in keeping with the dignity of the position.

Alabama Foundry and Machine Works is a new industry that proposes to make hay presses, cotton cultivators and other farming implements, at New Decatur. This company was incorporated on the 17th inst., with a capital stock of $50,000.

Col. Alex Snodgrass, an old and highly esteemed citizen of Scottsboro, Jackson county, died recently at his home. He was the father of the late Mrs. Fannie V. King, who resided at Montevallo, this county, for several years and was well known here.

Commissioner's court for this county was in session Monday for purpose of passing upon the raises in assessments as suggested by the tax commissioner. Owing to the fact that the commissioner was suspended by the Governor that morning, all the raises were dismissed by the court.

The demand for cotton will soon spring up as the stocks of goods are being worked off and there is very little raw cotton in America and European mills. The Southern farmers can soon wear smiling faces and exchange congratulations with their Western brethren.—Advertiser.

Meridian suffered from a water spout last Sunday evening. The houses were flooded, trees blown down, streets washed out and a great deal of damage done to the crops. It is estimated that the damage in Meridian in the way of washed out bridges and streets will reach three thousand dollars.—Demopolis Express.

News from Centreville is to the effect that work is being pushed very rapidly in Bibb county on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, and was begun on the Cahaba river bridge last week. A couple of huge pile drivers are busily at work. Numbers of wagons are running between this place and Randolph hauling bridge material. Saturday afternoon the town was filled with railroad men.

Hon. Jas. Z. George, U. S. Senator from Mississippi, died at Mississippi City on Saturday the 14th inst., aged about seventy-seven years, of heart failure, after an illness that had lasted to a greater or less extent, for several years. His wife died on the 29th of July last and it is thought that the loss of his wife, which was a great shock to him, hastened his end. He was an able statesman, honored and trusted by the mass of the people and most highly esteemed by the people of his own state among whom he lived so long and served so faithfully and well.

AUDITOR WHITE AND THE AGRICULTURAL SCHOOLS.

It seems that there is quite a difference of opinion existing between the Auditor and the Boards of Control of two of the recently established agricultural schools, viz: the schools located in the 4th and 5th districts.

The Anniston Hot Blast of recent date gives the following among its Capitol News:

Auditor White is quarrelling with the new agricultural schools.

"They claim that they are entitled to a certain sum of money, to which Auditor White, says, nit.

"The result of this difference is a petition for mandamus,

"The board of control of the new agricultural schools located in the Fourth and Fifth Congressional Districts, at Sylacauga and Wetumpka respectively, through their attorneys, Messrs. R. B. Kelly, of Anniston, W. B. Gaddis, of Wetumpka and Gordon Macdonald, of Montgomery, have filed mandamus proceedings against Auditor White to recover for each school $6,294.15, it being the undivided pro rata share to which each of said schools is entitled from the fund known as the fertilizer tag tax fund.

"This proceeding is made necessary to secure said amount to said schools because Auditor White declines to issue the warrants which they ask.

"Under an act approved February 4, 1895, it is provided that the revenue or income derived from the sale of fertilizer tags sold by the Commissioner of agriculture after passage of said act "over and above the sum of twenty-five cents per ton shall be appropriated to the support of the four agricultural schools and experiment stations located at Athens, Albertville and Evergreen, and any other branch experiment station and agricultural school created hereafter by the Legislature."

On February 18, 1895, there were created by the act of the General Assembly of Alabama five additional agricultural schools and experiment stations, including those of the Fourth and Fifth Districts.

Since the creation of the said five schools and stations there has been collected by the Commissioner of Agriculture and paid into the State Treasury from the sale of fertilizer tags, over and above twenty-five cents per ton, the sum of $56,647.35; one ninth of which is $6,294.15, the amount asked for by each of the schools in the Fourth and Fifth Districts.

All the schools in the State authorized to share in this fund, except those in the Fourth and Fifth districts have received their pro rata share of said fund.

The contention of the boards of control in the Fourth and Fifth districts is that their schools were entitled to said sum from the time of the passing of the act creating the schools, while Auditor White claims that they are entitled to participate in said fund only after the schools were located.

The petition for mandamus will come up before Judge A. D. Sayre in the City Court of Montgomery, on the 28th of this month.

INQUIRIES COMING.

Birmingham, Aug. 13.—(Special)—J. F. Snyder, Land and Immigration Agent for the Southern Railway, is in receipt of several letters from parties in Wisconsin and Minnesota, who are anxious to locate colonies in the State of Alabama. In conversation with a reporter Mr. Snyder said that there were more people in the Northwest anxious to come to Alabama than ever before. He said that he hoped shortly to receive personal visits from two or three gentlemen from the far Northwest who are contemplating buying large tracts of land in the Southern part of the state for the purpose of bringing a colony this way. He said that no mail came to hand now but that there was some inquiry in it for lands in Alabama, prices, location, etc.

Mr. Snyder expects to locate a large number of people along the line of the Southern railway in this State before the hard winter sets in.

DIED AT THE AGE OF 115.

Centreville Press:

Last Saturday Caroline Fendren, an old negro woman at the poor farm, died. She has been on the Bibb county poor farm for about forty years, and from the best information we can obtain she was at least 115 years old at the time of her death. Before the war she belonged to the Fendren plantation, in the edge of Perry County, and our oldest citizens who have any recollection of her state that she was a very old woman when they first knew her.

ALABAMA GOLD.

FRUITHURST REPORTER.

The Heflin New Era of last week says that Pinetucky gold mine is not running at present, having closed down preparing to put in four concentrators. In the vein now being cut gold can be seen with the natural eye and will assay from $150 to $200 per ton. In forty days it will be in full blast.

The Stonehill copper mines are working full time, twenty men being employed. This company has shipped a large lot of fine copper on to Newark, N. J., and will ship more in a few days. There is some talk of this company erecting a smelting plant either at the mines or in Heflin.

The Smith copper mines will be opened up in about three weeks and a large force of men put to work.

The Anniston Gold Mining Company are working ten men on their property in the Arbacochee district. Their clean-ups show up well and the owners are highly pleased with the prospects.

G. W. Cain, lessee of the Heflin Gold Mining Company's property at Arbacochee, was in town yesterday and informed us that all the papers would be fixed up in a few days and a force of men would be put to work at once.

BIGGEST FOR YEARS.

The Commercial Bulletin (Boston) declares that "the biggest bull market in years is on, the public is in and still coming, and money is cheap. Conditions all over the country warrant advancing prices for securities; the latter would rise more sharply if some people realized that not in many years has the market had such a solid foundation under it as at the present time. Wall street men realize this fact in the Wall street way, but even they are ready to change front at a moment's notice. We predict that when the actual status is judged and accurately measured, the market will take the bit between its teeth and get away at a 2 minute clip. The country is rich. It is full of grain which is wanted by the rest of the world at good prices; car famines are imminent and railroad earnings promise to be large; the exchange of commodities between the East and West is rapidly growing; farmers in the West and South have never been so free of indebtedness for very many years; confidence is rising and as a result of all these things general trade is attaining very large proportions; commodity values are strengthening, and only a slight advance is needed to swell the profits of merchants to very considerable degree."

AGAINST THE WESTERN UNION.

The Supreme Court of Alabama has affirmed the decision of the lower court, and allows Mr. C. C. Seed, of Greensboro, a judgement of $1,500 against the Western Union Telegraph Co., for the failure to properly deliver messages to him.

It will be recalled that the messages in question were those (three) sent by Mr. Seed's wife to him in Mobile, each sent to a different address in order to be sure to catch him, the telegrams announcing the death of his mother in Tuscaloosa. The company in Mobile put all the messages in one envelope, which was not delivered to him until a long time after they had been received, causing a delay to Mr. Seed of two days.—Demopolis Express.

Thirty-two years after the end of the civil war the number of pensioners on account of that war exceeds by about 250,000 the number of soldiers actually engaged in service in all the armies of the government at any time between the firing upon Sumter and the surrender of Lee at Appomattox. The army of pensioners after a third of a century is between 30 and 40 per cent larger than the fighting army at any one time during the war.—New York Sun.

NO FUTURE FOR SILVER.

DIRECTOR OF THE MINT PRESTON BELIEVES THE PRICE WILL FALL TO 40 CENTS AN OUNCE.

"The bullion value of the American silver dollar, according to Monday's market price of silver, is just 40 6-10 cents," said Mr. Preston, the Director of the Mint.

"This makes the commercial ratio between silver and gold 36.6 to 1 instead of 16 to 1," continued Mr. Preston. "In order to make our silver dollar equal to a gold dollar it would have to contain $50 fine grains of silver. If the alloy were added the total would be 953 grains."

"How do you account for the recent decline in silver?" Mr. Preston was asked.

"Simply the lack of demand for it. I see no future for silver. In my opinion it will fall within six months to 40 cents an ounce.

"China is not buying silver. Japan is out of the business, and there seems to be no demand for it in any country, even for use as subsidiary coin. It is true that in the base areas of India it is traded in as merchandise, but the famine and hard times in that country have reduced the demand to a minimum.

"The output of gold is steadily increasing. I think that the world's product for this year will be about $240,000,000. The United States will contribute about $60,000,000.

"And now comes the Klondyke with still further additions to the gold supply. The extent of the Klondyke's output is problematical, depending largely upon climatic conditions."

suggested by the tax commissioner. All the commissioners were present. However before the court was convened notice was received from Montgomery that Mr. Nabors, the commissioner, had been removed from office; consequently all the raises were dismissed by the court. It seems the plan of action pursued by the tax commissioner in making the raises caused considerable dissatisfaction among the tax payers of the county, and the state officials hearing of these facts removed him.

The Sentinel is under obligations to Messrs. James Garner, Job Reynolds, R. C. Wilson and Ben Cunningham for delightful treats in the shape of splendid watermelons and cantaloupes during the past two weeks and acknowledges with thanks the courtesies extended by these gentlemen.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bristow have returned from Talladega Springs and will make their home for the future at this place. Mr. Bristow has purchased an interest in the Gen'l. Merchandise business of Mr. Steve Bristow and will engage in the mercantile business. The firm name will, we understand, be A. S. & S. T. Bristow. The Sentinel is pleased to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Bristow to Calera, their old home.

"Let me give you a pointer," said M. F. Gregg, a popular conductor on the Missouri Pacific railroad. "Do you know that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cures you when you have the stomach ache? Well, it does." And after giving this friendly bit of advice, the jolly conductor passed on down the aisle. It is a fact that thousands of railroad and travelling men never take a trip without a bottle of this remedy, which is the best cure for bowel disorders in the world. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Dial Bros.

Mr. Burr Nabors, Tax Commissioner for this county, was on last Monday suspended by the Governor. The reason assigned for the suspension is general failure to discharge his duties in carrying out the law.

John Griffin, of Zanesville, O., says: "I never lived a day for thirty years without suffering agony, until a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured my piles." For piles and rectal troubles DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequalled.—Dial Bros.

Dwelling houses are in great demand in Calera at this time, and some of our enterprising citizens could do more to promote the interests and upbuilding of the town than to erect a few comfortable cottage residences for rent. Who will take the initiative and start the building ball to rolling?

There is a time for everything; and the time to attend to a cold is when it starts. Don't wait till you have consumption, but prevent it by using One Minute Cough Cure the great remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles.—Dial Bros.

Rev. G. B. Russell fills his regular appointments at the Cumberland Presbyterian church on last Sabbath, as usual preaching good sermons. The Sentinel is requested to announce that his purpose is at his next appointment, the 3rd Sabbath in September, to protract the services. We are not informed, however, as to the minister who will assist him in this meeting.

Miss Annie Bristow will leave tonight on a trip to Tennessee and Kentucky. She expects to join pleasure with business, and will first visit her sister, Mrs. Will Walls, at Kimball, Tenn., afterwards she will, with a pleasant party, spend a few days attending the Centennial Exposition at Nashville; then go on to Louisville to purchase her fall and winter stock of millinery goods. The Sentinel wishes her a pleasant trip and a safe return.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and when it is from a physician it is especially so. "There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Dr. R. E. Bobey, physician and pharmacist, of Olney, Mo.; and as he has used the Remedy in his own family and sold it in his drug store for six years, he should certainly know.

"They don't make much fuss about it." We are speaking of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness, and all stomach and liver troubles. They never gripe.—Dial Bros.

It heals everything except a broken heart, may be said of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Piles and rectal diseases, cuts, bruises, better, eczema and all skin troubles may be cured by it quickly and permanently.—Dial Bros.

THOSE BURGLARS.

As has heretofore been mentioned by the Sentinel, a number of the dwellings of citizens in this place have at different times during the past few weeks been visited by burglars who appropriated money, watches and chains and such other valuables as suited their fancy. Efforts were made to catch up with or locate them, but for some days without success. On last Monday night one week ago they paid their respects to the residence of Mr. John B. Randall and carried off his fine gold watch and chain. He went to work at once to locate the thieves and recover his watch. During last week he succeeded in getting hold of clues that led to the arrest of a negro of unsavory reputation by the name of John Amos Lapsley. The evidence against him, though altogether circumstantial, was pretty strong, and after his arrest he confessed to being implicated in the robbery of Mr. Randall's house and he was, as we stated last week, in default of bail, sent to jail to await the action of the grand jury. On last Saturday a negro by the name of Jim Currs informed Mr. Randall that a well known negro of this place, Will Baker, had offered to sell or trade him two watches and a chain. He described the watches and chain and from the description given Mr. Randall felt satisfied that one of the watches and the chain were the ones he had lost. He learned furthermore from Jim Currs that Will Baker was in Birmingham. On Sunday morning Mr. Randall, armed with a warrant of arrest and accompanied by Jim Currs, who was wanted to locate Will Baker, went up to Birmingham. The police authorities were informed of the matter and in a short time Jim succeeded in locating and pointing out Will Baker to the officers. His arrest followed, but not until he had given the officers a lively race. Mr. Randall could not identify the watch but the chain was the one that was attached to it when it was stolen. Will Baker was brought here and taken before Justice Higgins on Monday morning. The evidence against him was so convincing that he made a confession about the watch, telling how he came by it etc., and also that it would be found in a pawn shop in Birmingham. Baker was bound over to the grand jury and in default of bail sent to the Calhoun jail. Mr. Randall went up to Birmingham on Monday and investigated the pawn shops and sure enough recovered his watch. It is hoped now, that they have been ferreted out, this band of negro thieves will be completely broken up and driven from the town. The probability is that other arrests may be made before the investigation ceases.

CLINT HATHAWAY ARRESTED.

The Birmingham News of the 16th inst. contains the following in reference to a young man well known here: Deputy Sheriff W. I. Love returned to the city yesterday afternoon from Rockford, Coosa county, with Clinton Hathaway, the young man wanted here on a charge of grand larceny, it being alleged that he was implicated with Charles and Will Alley, the two Elyton boys, in stealing cows. Hathaway is said to have stated that he will make a clean breast of the whole affair. He says he will tell the truth if he has to go to the coal mines for twenty years, so Deputy Sheriff Love states. It will be remembered that the Alley boys were arrested and held to bail on the charge of stealing cows and selling their hides. They were bound over in two cases by Justice Charles Martin. One of the Alley young men was recently appointed postmaster at Elyton. Hathaway is probably 21 years of age.

FIRE AT HELENA.

A destructive fire visited Helena on last Friday destroying the residences of J. E. Ruffin and Tom Wallace. The devastating flames made such rapid progress that very little of the contents of either residence was saved. Mr. Ruffin, we learn, had some in treasure but Mr. Wallace had none. The fire originated, we understand, from the stove fire.

"I received One Minute," said the speaker in a husky voice; and then he took One Minute Cough Cure and proceeded with his oratory. One Minute Cough Cure is unequalled for throat and lung troubles.—Dial Bros.

SHELBY SPRINGS.

Shelby Springs is still retaining the prestige of being the most popular resort of any watering place in Alabama. A full complement of visitors has been steadily maintained and those whose time was limited when they first came have either extended their sojourn or left with regret that they could not remain longer. For the period of nearly two months the proprietor has been forced to turn many away. Among the distinguished guests who have recently visited here is Col. B. F. Ellis of Orville, said to be one of the largest planters in the state. It is reported that he has harvested over 10,000 bushels of oats this year, and has the rise of 5,000 acres in cotton alone. He has just completed a store building in his place—of brick and stone—that would be an ornament to more pretentious towns than the one it is located in. Another reputable gentleman who has spent some little time here is Col. T. J. Murfee, of the Marine Military Institute. No name is more loved and venerated in this state than his—in fact, all over the southern states, but especially in Alabama—his memory is entwined in the hearts of hundreds who have been instructed by him. As commander of the University Corps of Cadets from 1862 to his election as President of the Marion College, and from that time to this he has lived in the hearts of the young men of Alabama.

Among the young ladies can be mentioned Miss Page Nelson, of Selma, whose fine accomplishments as a vocalist and conversationalist have won for her an enviable reputation. There are several others whose beauty added to their possession of a bounteous supply of shakels make them doubly attractive. With all the talk of smallpox and elephantiasis or any other disease, the people seem to be perfectly secure, and well they may, for no zymotic or germ producing malady can originate or exist here. The health of the State shows no pigmentation whatever in this area of the country, but on the contrary indicates that no morbid agencies can be traced. The white surface is as unblemished as the air is pure and vitalizing, and the waters are a general corrective of nearly all troubles that are brought here.

The recent rain in this section have caused the crops to be completely transmutated and whereas a month ago the prospect was gloomy and growing worse they now are in a splendid condition, especially cotton. The outlook for a most abundant supply of corn is highly encouraging. These surroundings of course insure well kept tables for the guests, and as long as regulation thrives and peace and plenty abounds and "rest consecrated" soul and body is made happy.

Adon't ten or twelve of the guests went over to Talladega Springs to enjoy a day at that noted watering resort. They will return this P. M. Among the persons going were Misses Thrall and Bro. of the city infirmary of Montgomery, Miss Dimmick, of Montgomery, Mrs. Frillick, of Meridian, Miss. and Miss Lister, of Uniontown. Their escorts were Messrs Campbell, Johnston, Roberts and Leeper. Mrs. Mary Pond also went as chaperone. They took the a. m. train at Spring Junction and will return probably this afternoon.

Mrs. Herbert Reynolds and Mrs. Lavender of Blocton arrived today.

Some few have been vaccinated but the majority are not sufficiently frightened to cause them to be inoculated.

The health of the Springs has been exceptionally good and no cases of sickness have existed of any seriousness this season.

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic

Diarrhoea.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and sold a 50-cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinburger, Allenton, Pa. Sold by Dial Bros.

"Not Worth a Rush." When calling anything "not worth a rush," one means to imply that it is worthless. The older saying was, "not worth a rush," and this brings out the origin of the phrase. In the days before carpets it was the custom to strew the floor with rushes. When guests of rank were entertained fresh rushes were spread for them; but folk of lower degree had to be content with rushes that had already been used, while still humbler persons had none, as not even being "worth a rush."

A Beautiful Skin is one of the chief requisites of an attractive appearance. Rough, dry, scaly patches, history eruptions, red and unsightly ringworms—these would spoil the beauty of a veritable Venus. They are completely and quickly cured by Tetterine. 50 cents a box at drug stores or for 50 cents in stamps from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

A Klondyke Opportunity. The rapidity with which the Klondyke excitement has spread over the country is astonishing. It is but three weeks since the first of the treasure-laden ships reached port, yet the interest already extends from ocean to ocean. These Klondyke discoveries are from all accounts among the most wonderful in the history of mining; and certain it is that there has been no such opportunity for quickly acquiring a fortune since the early days of California. But the danger is that numbers of companies and expeditions will be organized by enthusiastic but inexperienced persons who will lose their own money and that of their associates in ventures of which they have had no previous knowledge or experience. Therefore, those who cannot go to the gold-fields must be careful to associate themselves with people who have had experience in mining and prospecting.

It is well known that Colorado Springs people have had a very large and successful experience in such operations. Among the Alaska companies formed in that city, the most prominent is The Alaska-Klondyke Gold Mining and Development Company, which was organized and its operations most carefully planned by the leading banking and brokerage house of Colorado Springs. This company's expedition is already in Alaska, under experienced leadership and by reason of its superior equipment, strong financial resources and other special facilities which the thoughtful of the management has provided, should reach its destination and begin operations far in advance of the general rush. This company is capitalized for 1,000,000 shares of $100 each, and has already secured a block of its stock is now offered for a short time at fifteen cents per share. In this connection notice is given that on Sept. 15th the price will be raised to twenty cents per share. Being full-paid and non-assessable, this stock is forever free from any possibility of assessment. Orders for the stock, accompanied by remittance covering the amount, should be sent to Wm. P. Bonbright & Co., Colorado Springs, Col., the financial agents of the company, who are desirous also of entering into arrangements for the sale of stock with responsible agents throughout the country.

CONSUMPTION

For Katy Delaney.

BY EMMA A. OFFER.

Dwight Hopkins vaulted the hedge between their lawn and the Winslows, and went and joined Irene, who was studying her history on the veranda.

"I'm going to give a party next week," he announced.

Irene turned down a leaf and shut her book with an excited snap. "Why! Not with your mother and Madeline gone?" said she, but Dwight nodded.

"Yes, I am. They're going to be gone a month. It will be hot weather by the time they get back, and you can't dance when it's hot. I think they'll be glad to be rid of the bother of it, for that matter. Father thinks I can manage it, and he's given me $25 for it. I shall have the hotel people serve the refreshments, and I'll have three or four pieces from the opera house orchestra. And if you and your mother," said Dwight, "will help me about it—"

"Of course we will!" Irene promised, delightedly, and she joined him in an enthusiastic discussion of details. She forgot her studying, and they made out a list of the guests, and of the dances, on a flyleaf of her history.

When Dwight went home, he went down to the back entry, to clean his bicycle.

Katy Delaney came through the entry from the kitchen, where she had been calling on the cook. She was a distant connection of the cook's—the cook's cousin had married Katie Delaney's uncle.

The Wind in the Grass.

The song of the wind in the grass!

Come lie on the ground and listen

When the white clouds drift and pass

And the dewdrops cease to glisten.

It comes with the perfume of flowers,

It chases the cares that harass,

And fraught with magical power

Is the song of the wind in the grass.

Come lie with your heart to the clover

Out under the orchard trees

And listen the sweet tune over

A-chime with the lay of the bees.

The tired brain a-throb and a quiver

Waxes quiet and clear as a glass,

Till cool thoughts flow like a river

To the song of the wind in the grass.

A rest that is sweeter than mirth

Through the soul is soothing stealing,

For the touch of the dear brown earth

Hath a balm of heavenly healing;

And under the warm blue sky,

As soft as a whispered mass

Or a dreamland lullaby,

Is the song of the wind in the grass.

When Dwight went home, he went down to the back entry, to clean his bicycle.

Katy Delaney came through the entry from the kitchen, where she had been calling on the cook. She was a distant connection of the cook's—the cook's cousin had married Katie Delaney's uncle.

Katy Delaney went to the high school. She was in this year's graduating class. "How do you do?" Dwight said. He had considerable respect for her. She was a pleasant girl, and she was a bright scholar, too.

Katy Delaney murmured "How do you do?" and went out hastily, her face averted. Dwight looked sharply after her. "What's the matter with Katy?" he inquired of the cook, who was paring potatoes in the kitchen. "What have you been saying to her? She's been crying, hasn't she?"

"'Twasn't anything I said to her," the cook answered. "It's what she's been saying to me." She pared another potato before she went on.

"She's feeling terrible. Had because she can't graduate," said she. "She hasn't got any dress to wear, and she can't get any. She'd have to have a white dress like the rest of the girls, and all the other fixings; and she can't have 'em, and she's got to give it all up. She's got pride and she won't wear a dress that ain't suitable. Her father died last winter, you know, and they've had an awful hard time to get along. There ain't any money for any graduating dress for Katy, and Katy knows it. She ain't making any fuss about it, but she feels terribly bad. She'll get her diploma, I s'pose, same as the rest, but she'll miss all the fun and all the part that's worth having. I offered to let her have the money, but she wouldn't take it. I don't s'pose I would in her place. Well, it's a pity. Poor folks do have it awful hard," said the cook, turning the cold water on the potatoes.

"A pity! I should say it was," said Dwight. He bent a sober face over his wheel.

And he continued to think of it. "Katy Delaney's a first-rate girl. It's pretty tough if she's got to miss commencement. She's one of the best scholars in that class. Margaret Cary and Grace Belden, and all those girls, will be on hand, dressed up like anything, and some of them have only just squeaked through on their examinations."

He finished with his bicycle and went out on the piazza with a magazine. It made no difference. He could not get Katy Delaney out of his mind. "It wouldn't be so bad for a fellow," he thought, "but girls are different about such things. She'll feel awful."

He sat and stared hard at a spring bush, in full white bloom. He did not sit there long. He jumped up, with sudden impetuosity.

"I don't care," he said, aloud, "it's a shame! And if I can't turn my hand over for somebody once in a while—I'm going to do it!"

He ran upstairs, and found his pocket book, and took from it a little roll of bills—the $25 his father had given him. He folded them in a sheet of letter paper, and on the paper scribbled, "From a friend: for your graduating dress." And he sealed it in an envelope, directed it to Katy Delaney, and ran out with it to the letter box.

And five minutes later he started Irene Winslow by a second appearance before her.

He planted himself with his feet apart and his arms folded.

"I can't have any party, Irene," he said.

"Dwight Hopkins!" said Irene, with a struggling suspicion that Dwight had lost some portion of his senses.

"It's so," said Dwight. "I suppose father would give me some more money, if I teased him, but I shan't."

He told Irene all about it. "You see," he explained, "it was a plagued shame, and I couldn't stand it thinking about it. She's always stood higher in her class than Margaret Cary or any of those girls; and the idea of her having to miss commencement, and all the fun, because she hasn't a dress—"

"I know!" said Irene. Her voice had a little tremble in it. And there was such a look in her eyes that Dwight turned red and coughed.

"Pshaw! 'Twasn't anything," said he, and he began to talk about Lynn Trumbull's new shotgun.

When he started for school the next morning, Irene was waiting for him at her gate.

"I've had an idea," she said, "an inspiration. You can have your party just the same, if you will. It won't be the kind you were going to have, but—wait till I tell you! I thought it up last night."

They were still talking so earnestly when they mounted the schoolhouse steps that they bumped squarely into Bob Logan. "What are you two chinning about?" he demanded, "that you can't see a fellow of my size?"

He found out the next day. He and the rest of the S. T. C. club, and a few chosen outsiders, received invitations from Dwight Hopkins to a party.

They came in yellow envelopes, and they were written on neatly cut strips of brown wrapping paper. "Hard-times Party" was penned in one corner, and "Please wear your oldest clothes" in another.

Curiosity and excitement raged among the S. T. C. Dwight was besieged with inquiries. So was Irene, whose complicity in the matter was more than suspected. But they had nothing to say. "It's all on the invitations," they averred. "It's a hard-times party, and you're to wear your worst clothes; that's all."

An atmosphere of fascination surrounded the affair from the first. It was not too much to say that the S. T. C. had never made preparation for a party with more eagerness. Evelyn Burns' Germans even had never caused more discussion and confabulation and general excitement.

"Everybody's accepting; I haven't had a regret. Look here!" Dwight said to Irene, with glee, and he pulled out of his pockets several handfuls of strange looking missives. They were written on all sorts of cheap and outlandish papers, from foolscap to the back of an advertising card and the torn off margin of a newspaper.

"Good! They're getting into the spirit of it already. We'll have no end of fun," said Irene.

Dwight's father had some business out of town that day, and it was 8.30 when he got home. Dwight had informed him that his party came off that evening; and he saw the lighted windows with a pleasant thrill of expectation.

Somebody came forward, when he entered, with a hearty, "How are you, father? Glad you've come"—but he did not for a moment recognize the person.

"What's this?" he gasped. "Eh? what's this?"

Dwight was receiving his guests, and Irene was assisting him. Dwight was attired in a coat he had outgrown two years ago, and whose sleeves did not reach much below his elbows; and a pair of trousers in which he had helped to paint the back porch; they were not only ragged at the knees, but daubed freely with paint; and an old red handkerchief concealed his lack of a collar. Irene Winslow wore a faded old shirt waist, a bicycling skirt with two large rents in it and the hem partly ripped, and some old shoes with their toes stubbed out.

"What is it?" said Dwight. "It's a hard-times party, father."

Flora Osborne and George Clement were coming downstairs. They shook hands with their host cordially. Flora was arrayed in an old cotton frock, in which she had picked berries and helped her mother can them, until its original color was lost in a solid mass of stains; and George wore a jacket whose buttons were missing, trousers wrinkled and mud-stained and frayed round the bottoms, and some tennis shoes which were burst out at the sides.

Irene's mother was there, and Dwight's father took a seat beside her, and there they sat and watched the arriving guests, and laughed until they were fairly tired.

Certainly it was a remarkable occasion. The parlors filled rapidly with, apparently, a disreputable crowd of young tramps and beggars. It looked as if all the rag bags in town had been emptied. Every fresh arrival was greeted with hilarious shouts, and surrounded by a loudly gay mob. Their mirth swelled to a deafening clamor.

Sheridan Rider was the last comer, in a costume any respectable boot-black would have scorned. When the merriment he excited had subsided, the host made an announcement:

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "we will now begin to dance. The orchestra will consist of Miss Winslow and myself, who will play a selection after a new method." And Irene struck up a waltz on a comb covered with paper, and Dwight twanged a jewsharp in accompaniment. And the motley throng waltzed.

They danced for two hours. The guests took turns providing the music. The boys whistled, the girls played the piano, but the comb and paper stood high in favor, and some of the performers produced surprising results with it. Bob Logan said it beat the opera house orchestra all hollow. Supper was served at 11. It was served on small tables in the dining room, each of them ornamented by a tin candlestick holding a tallow candle. The refreshments were ham sandwiches and doughnuts and lemonade.

"Hard-time sandwiches and poverty lemonade," Dwight explained, "not to be served more than four times to any one person." But some of them went beyond the limit and all of them ate hungrily.

Then they danced an hour longer. Nobody wanted to go home then, they were having too good a time. And Bob Logan voiced the emphatic opinion of everybody in a neat speech, which he made from a chair, a striking figure in a coat split up the back and a hat of which nothing remained but a ragged brim.

"I desire to thank our host," he said, "for the most unique entertainment—"

"And the bulliest," said Lynn Trumbull.

"In the history of our club," said Bob.

"Or any other," said the chorus.

"And if laughing is good for the health as the doctors say it is," Bob concluded, "We've all laughed enough to-night to keep us alive and well for the next twenty-five years."

And there followed a volley of cheers, and a reluctant breaking up.

"I should like to know what these young rascals of ours will think up next?" Dwight's father said, when everybody had gone save Irene and her mother.

"Irene thank this up," said Dwight.

"We cannot complain," said Irene's mother, "if all their projects are as economical as this and as successful."

"It cost $2.63," said Dwight, "exactly."

"Well, now that you've had your fun," said his father, "you'd better take your money and give them the party you expected to give—hadn't you?"

Dwight and Irene exchanged looks. "Wouldn't for anything!" said Dwight, hastily, "I'm sick to death of pink silk dresses and long gloves, and orchestras behind palms, and chicken salad and ice cream, and the rest of it. Aren't you, Irene?"

"Of course I am. We all are. It was a blessed relief," Irene answered. And she added softly, with innocent eyes on the chandelier.

"I heard Katy Delaney talking to Maggie Long this morning. She was telling her all about her graduation dress. It's going to be a white barred muslin, with white ribbon trimmings. She's got slippers and gloves and a fan and everything, and she's had enough money left to get her mother something to wear, so she can come and see Katy graduate. She wondered and wondered who sent her the money, and she was so glad and happy about it that she was crying."

"Pshaw!" said Dwight, and he began to whistle.

"What's all this?" said his father.

"Irene Winslow!" said Dwight warningly.

But his father refused to be left in the dark. He smiled in a peculiar and thoughtful way when Irene had finished the explanation, and he looked Dwight over. He did not say much; he remarked, merely, that he'd just as lief have Dwight for a son as any other boy he could think of just that minute.

The hard-times party became celebrated. The local paper printed a detailed account of it, and the S. T. C.'s talked about it for four weeks, and went in groups and had their photographs taken in the costumes they had worn.

But for Dwight and Irene the best of it came later, when Katy Delaney read an essay at the high school commencement, and received her diploma. She looked well in her white dress trimmed with bows of white ribbon, and she was a radiant picture of pride and bliss. And for Dwight and Irene the best of the hard-times party was then and there.—St. Louis Star.

NATURE'S MODERATION.

The human constitution is very much like a fire, and the way many people try to take care of their health may be compared to the way a careless kitchen girl looks after the cooking-stove. One minute it is raging red-hot, and then suddenly, first thing you know, the fire is out. People are sometimes led to believe that a medicine which has a sudden, tremendous effect must be truly wonderful. They forget that it may be merely a tremendous "draught" which imparts a temporary false effect of brightness and "fire" to the system, but suddenly drops it lower than before.

There is no sudden overwhelming effect about Ripans Tablets. Some people think the prescribed dose is too slow, and double it to get a quicker effect. But nature herself is slow, moderate and regular in accomplishing her best work. The Tablets relieve acute headaches, indigestion and nervous depression almost instantly. But their effect on the bowels is more gradual; yet it is sure and thorough. Ripans Tablets act in accordance with nature, and their results like nature's are complete and permanent.

A new style pocket containing TEN RIPAN TABLETS in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores for FIVE CENTS. This low priced set is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five cent cartons (120 tablets) can be had by mail by sending forty eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABLETS) will be sent for five cents.

Say Pinkerton Will Not Be Employed. The operators at Pittsburg, Pa., are determined to start their mines, but many of them are willing to submit the question to arbitration before any radical steps are taken towards ending the strike and with this in view an effort is being made to have a conference with mine owners and officials. If any agreement can not be reached at this conference, then the operators will immediately prepare for a resumption with new men. The operators admit that a plan of action has been decided upon, but refuse to say what mines will be started first. The report that the Pinkertons were to be employed was denied, but assurance was given that the men would have ample protection.

Two Attempts to Wreck Freight Trains. An attempt was made to wreck a southbound freight train two and a half miles north of Embury, Texas, Thursday, by placing two piles of fish plates on the track. The engineer of the southbound freight No. 31 saw the plates but could not stop his train until they were struck. No damage was done.

He was a prominent member of the National Association of Police Chiefs, and known throughout the country as an able and vigilant official.

Struck by Lightning. What was at first thought to have been an earthquake shock, felt at Buffalo, N. Y., Thursday morning, turns out to have been the blowing up of a powder and dynamite magazine at Port Colborne, Ont., about eighteen miles from Buffalo. About 5:30 Thursday morning lightning struck the magazine of John Reed, located half a mile west of Port Colborne. It was a small frame and stone building, the foundations of which were in bedrock, in which Mr. Reed kept a quantity of gunpowder and dynamite. The shock shattered windows in all the houses of Port Colborne, woke up all the residents of the town and heaved up the waters of the Welland canal. The only person nearby was the watchman employed in a limekiln and glass factory close by. He escaped uninjured. There is nothing left to show where the lightning struck.

Heartrending Distress in Cuba. The correspondent of the Daily Chronicle, London, in a letter from Cuba, tells of further cruelty and distress in that island. He says the pacificos are dying by the hundreds, "their bodies tainting the air close to a Spanish fort." The Daily Chronicle correspondent, continuing, remarks that a private letter has been received at Havana from Senor Sagasta, the liberal leader in Spain, in which he says: "These atrocities are raising a thrill of horror in Europe and I fear that it is impossible to raise fresh loans, without which we cannot retain Cuba." The correspondent further says: "German syndicates are buying the devastated estates at nominal sums and intend to go in extensively for coffee planting, abandoning sugar. This will directly concern the United States and French sugar trusts, and will probably lead to extensive sugar growing in Georgia and Florida."

JOHN P. LOVELL. A General Expression of Sympathy Called Out by His Death.

Seldom has there been such a general expression of sympathy over the loss of one whose life has been devoted to business pursuits, as has been called forth by the recent death at Cottage City, Mass., of that venerable landmark of the business world, the late John P. Lovell, founder and president of the John P. Lovell Arms Company of Boston. Almost numberless messages and letters of condolence, on the death of his honored father, have been received by Colonel Benjamin S. Lovell, treasurer of the Lovell Arms Company. The wide scope covered by these communications is in itself evidence of the great regard in which he was held by the leaders in business and public life. These expressions of sympathy have not been confined to New England, but they have come from every prominent business centre of the North, East, West and South—in fact from every portion of the Union; because the name of John P. Lovell, and the corporation created by him, have been for more than a half century the synonym of honest dealing and business integrity. Even from England, from firms with whom Mr. Lovell had enjoyed the pleasantest business relations for more than fifty years, Colonel Lovell has received messages of sympathy.

THE POSTAL COMPANY Secures Control of the Mexican Telegraph Lines.

Under separate agreements entered into with the great systems of the Republic of Mexico, respectively, the Mexican National Railway Company, and the Mexican Central Railway Company, the telegraph lines of those companies have passed under control of the Postal Telegraph Company. Heretofore telegraphing into the Mexican capital has either been by cable, via Galveston and Vera Cruz, or by the American land lines to the Mexican border, and thence by the railway companies' lines from Laredo or El Paso to the city of Mexico. The contracts entered into gives the Postal Company a continuous system from the United States to all the principal cities in the neighboring republic. To make this possible the Postal Company extended its lines south from Denver through Albuquerque to El Paso, to connect with the Mexican Central system, and is now building from Little Rock to Laredo to connect with the Mexican National system, which extension will be completed on January 1, 1898. As a consequence of the extension, the messages from American cities have been reduced 40 per cent, making the message rate from New York to the city of Mexico $1.85 for ten words, and the cable rate from the City of Mexico to London has been reduced from 60 cents a word to 39 cents a word.

Spanish Cabinet Changes. It is rumored that several members of the cabinet will resign at Madrid, Spain, when the queen regent and the court return from San Sebastian.

ARBITRATION REFUSED.

BOARD REJECTS PROPOSITION OF PITTSBURG OPERATORS TO CONFER.

Success or Failure Now Hangs on the Result of the Conference Workmen's Leaders Are to Have in St. Louis Next Week.

The national executive board of the United Mine Workers adjourned at Columbus, O., Friday after having issued a call for a conference of organized labor to be held in St. Louis, August 30th.

The board rejected the proposition of the Pittsburg operators for a conference to arbitrate the wage dispute in that district, claiming that such action would be prejudicial to the interest of the miners at large.

The board is ready to consider overtures for the arbitration of the issue of the great strike only when these overtures come from all the operators in the competitive district, which includes Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The board has decided not to deviate from the established policy until the result of the St. Louis conference is known. The aggressive work in the field will be continued, and the efforts to spread the strike in the West Virginia district renewed.

The success or failure of the strike hangs upon the St. Louis conference, the call for which has been issued by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and J. R. Sovereign, general master workman of the Knights of Labor. They maintain that the fight now being waged by the miners is one of common interest to organized labor throughout the country.

At the St. Louis conference all labor organizations will be asked to join issues with the miners. If the object of the St. Louis conference is accomplished the strike will be extended to nearly every branch of labor in the country.

The cell, among other things, says: "The tyrannical and un-American injunctions of the Federal and State courts are revolutionary against the first principles of free government and derogatory to the inherent rights of masses, endangering the public peace, and destroying the personal security and individualities of the common people."

"The courts have deserted the temple of justice and now stands forth the defiant bulwark of confederates in the capitol. Their arbitrary rulings have set up one standard of rights for the rich and another for the poor. They decree that capital is always right and labor always wrong. They have made it unlawful for starving working people to appeal against tyrannical treatment, present grievances or propose just and peaceable terms for the redress of insufferable wrongs."

"But it is no longer a mere struggle between employees and employer. The judiciary has assumed the indefensible claims of the operators and the struggle is between tyrannical courts and the whole people. The courts, although under oath to serve the rich and poor alike, have volunteered to defend the sordid interests of the rich against the God-given rights of the poor. And now threaten to turn the gatling guns and winchesters of criminals and thugs against all who dare protest against their despicable restraining orders. The judiciary is prostituted to the bidding of oppressive capital, has placed the rights of property above the rights of persons and has discriminated against the many interests of the few."

Claimants for the Davis Millions. Two claimants to the Davis estate, now in litigation in San Francisco, have appeared in Atlanta. They are Harry E. Davis, a young business man on Whitehall street, and his sister, now Mrs. W. Hillier Ragsdale. Their father, William H. Davis, came from Pittsburg, Pa., to Atlanta, and they claim that he was a brother to Jacob C. Davis the California millionaire. The Atlanta Davises have employed counsel to prosecute their claim and propose to make a vigorous fight for a share in the big estate.

Sensational Kidnaping Case. A sensational kidnaping case came up in the Galveston court Saturday. Mrs. P. J. Wilson claims to be the mother of a child and says John Cox is its father. Mr. Q. J. Willis, a brakeman, says he is the father and refuses to tell its mother's name. Mrs. Wilson is said to have stolen the child and was remanded to the criminal court for trial. Whether there are two babies in the case, or one, is a mystery.

Adrift Thirty-Six Hours Without Food. The crew of the schooner Emma Booner, bound from Manistee to Milwaukee with bark, arrived at that city Saturday, and reports that the vessel capsized in the lake, fifteen miles off Little Point Sabelle, last Wednesday night. The crew escaped in a yawl boat and drifted about for twenty-two hours in a heavy sea. They then sighted the steamer Fred Pabst, which took them into port. They were thirty-six hours without food.

CHEAP ARMOR PLATE.

The Government Considering the Carpenter Process.

J. H. Carpenter, founder of the Carpenter Steel Works, Reading, Pa., of which he was formerly general manager, has prepared a statement showing that steel armor plate can be furnished to the government at a trifling figure compared with what is now being paid. Mr. Carpenter is a well known steel expert and inventor and was formerly in the United States navy. The Carpenter Steel Works, from which Mr. Carpenter has retired, have up to this time furnished the government with nearly $1,000,000 worth of projectiles, and a $500,000 order is now being filled. His price is so far below the government limit of $300 a ton, which the Bethlehem and Carnegie companies say they cannot meet with their Harveyized nickel steel plates, as to occasion the armor plate board much surprise.

Mr. Carpenter claims that by new pneumatic process steel of the best physical properties and chemical conditions can be uniformly made and much waste avoided. A plant can be built for this plan at half the money and the steel can be made and cast in a quarter of the time now required. Experts in steel and government inspectors of manufactures seem satisfied of the value of the process and his ability to perform his promises. His estimates of cost have been compared with the cost sheets forward to congress by the examining board, and was found to agree except where less work is done.

Originally Mr. Carpenter's plans were to organize and equip the works himself, but now he concludes to give the option to the government. If it is declined, he says he will organize his own company and sell the armor plate at $150 per ton, allowing $50 for profit and contingencies. The board has written him that it will be ready to consider his proposals in a few days.

It Will Pay Out.

The Centennial at Nashville, Tenn. promises to beat all records in exposition finances. If the attendance keeps up the exposition company will be enabled to pay dollar for dollar of the subscribed stock, and return a small dividend. Unlike other expositions, the company is practically custodian, or trustee, for the United States government for a large number of exhibits from the south to be shown at Paris in 1900 under the auspices of the government of the United States. When exhibits were asked for the exposition management announced its policy of exploiting the south and requested that exhibits be given to them outright for which they would pay the transportation and act as trustees to exhibit these goods at the Paris exposition in 1900. Thursday Moses P. Handy, special commissioner to the Paris exposition, appointed R. J. Thompson, editor of the Chicago and the St. Paul, and secretary of the Illinois commission to the Tennessee centennial exposition, to represent him at the centennial exposition, and Mr. Thompson has been authorized to make a survey of the exposition with a view to ascertaining to what extent exhibits may be secured for the Paris exposition and the amount of space likely to be required, and to impress upon the southern people the importance of a full representation of southern industries and resources at Paris and the necessity of early and organized efforts to that end. Mr. Handy will sail for Paris without further delay in the exercise of his duties as special commissioner of the United States to the exposition in 1900.

Accident on the Lima Northern.

A terrible smashup occurred at Lima, Ohio, Friday night at 10 o'clock, at the junction of the Lima Northern and Lake Erie & Western railroads, in the eastern portion of the city. A Lake Erie freight train crashed into a Lima Northern passenger train carrying a large number of excursionists on their return from Toledo, the train bearing the special, excursion given by a store in Lima. The Lake Erie engine was knocked off the track and badly demolished and two coaches of the Lima Northern overturned, badly injuring a large number of Lima's prominent people. Neither train stopped at the junction, the Lake Erie engine dashing into the second coach, overturning it. It was filled with passengers. The engine was sent into a wheat field, fifty feet from the track. No lives were lost.

Crushed to Death by a Train.

Stephen Wheeler, clerk of the United States Court at Fort Smith, was killed by the north-bound Santa Fe passenger train Saturday night at the depot in Gainesville, Tex. The wheels of two coaches had passed over him when discovered. The train was stopped and his body removed from the track. His body was terribly mangled, his head cut off below the ears, his right shoulder and side crushed and his right leg broken near the hip. No one knows how the accident happened, but it is thought that he had attempted to board the train while it was in motion and fell beneath the wheels.

A MINISTERING ANGEL.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE CAREER OF FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE.

The Heroine of the Crimea and Her Life Work—Devoting Herself to the Amelioration of the Sufferings of Sick and Wounded Soldiers—Her Majestic Appearance.

Appropos of the serious illness of Florence Nightingale, the heroine of the Crimea, writes M. L. Rayne in the Chicago Times-Herald, it is seldom recorded of a great public character to have so completely fulfilled the mission to which she was devoted and lived up to its demands throughout a lifetime as exclusively and completely as in the case of this idol of the British soldier. Although generations have passed since 1854, when she went at the age of 34 to the British army in Crimea as superintendent of a corps of women volunteer nurses, her work and influence there has never been forgotten, and her name, handed down from father to son, represents all that is helpful and lovable in woman.

Miss Nightingale, out of the pity and sympathy of her heart and a noble philanthropic organization, established a hospital at Scutari for sick and wounded soldiers. She began with a force of 100 volunteer nurses, ninety of the number being women. The hospital was ready for occupancy on November 5, and on the 7th 600 wounded soldiers were received, those who participated in the battle of Inkerman, and within a month the number increased to 3000. So admirable was the executive ability of this grand woman that she made her hospital a model for good nursing and perfection of arrangement, while she moved among the sick and dying soldiers like a ministering angel, which indeed she proved to be.

One wounded private soldier said of her, "We watched for her coming as a child watches for its mother. When we were too weak to speak to her as she passed through the wards we would kiss her shadow where it fell on our pillows and feel comforted."

Such an example of devotion to the cause of suffering had many followers. The young English girl renounced the drawing-room and its luxuries for the hospital and its privations, and there was no lack of young women nurses, for the impetus of a real nobility carried with it an earnestness of success. That nursing is the honorable profession it is today is owing to Florence Nightingale, who did not believe, as the majority of sick people and even physicians of that day pretended to, that "any old woman" would do for a nurse. Sairey Gamp and her tribe disappeared before the trained forces of the Nightingale and her band of assistants, never to return, and superstition made way for science.

When the nurse-in-chief of the British forces returned to England she received the joyous welcome of a conqueror. A gold medal of rare workmanship and studded with costly diamonds was presented to her by the Queen as a symbol of her majesty's gratitude to her distinguished subject. Among branches of palm in green and gold enamel—green signifying eternal friendship—and embossed by a hand of black, are the words inscribed in letters of gold:

"Blessed Are the Merciful."

Florence Nightingale received her Christian name from the town in which she was born—Florence, Italy. Her name is not Nightingale, but Shore, her father being a Nottingham banker, who inherited the estate of Peter Nightingale on condition that he assume the name. Florence, a tall, handsome girl, was highly educated, both in the solid studies of the time and in the accomplishments, but, strange as it may seem, her favorite study was the care of the sick. She first took a course of training in Pastor Fliedner's School of Deaconesses at Kaiserswerth. This was in 1849. In order to gain practical experience she took care of a sanitarium for invalid governesses in London, making such special innovations in its management as to call forth favorable comments from the physicians, who yielded slowly to conviction that here was a woman who understood the necessity of sanitary reforms. It must have been a gratification to those who admitted her ability to hear from her a few years later as superintendent of the hospital system on the Bosphorus.

Miss Nightingale never recovered from the severe attack of hospital fever which closed her public labors and resulted in years of suffering, which she has borne with the greatest patience and with heroic fortitude. Her home in London furnished her with every comfort, and she has divided her time between it and the home of her sister, Lady Verney, in Buckinghamshire, where she was always a welcome and beloved guest. She surrounds herself with books when she is able to read, which has been until very recently. Her personal appearance is most agreeable, she being majestic in height, with fine gray hair and a cheerful smile, which is winsome and attractive.

While an earnest advocate of sunlight and fresh air, Miss Nightingale dared to draw upon herself the displeasure of the doctors by declining the general opinion that night air is injurious, a fallacy of the most absurd sort. It is through her influence and publicly expressed belief that London sick people dared to sleep with their windows open. Said this advanced and thoughtful woman:

"What air can we breathe at night but night air? The choice is between pure night air without and impure night air within. Most people prefer the latter—a most unaccountable choice. In great cities night air is often the best and purest to be had in the twenty-four hours."

For her magnificent services in the Crimean war Florence Nightingale received not a dollar in pay above the actual expenses which she incurred, and the $250,000 given to her by the British government was donated by her to the establishment of the Nightingale Training School for Nurses in St. Thomas hospital, London.

This woman, who in her life with a little band of assistants broke down a Chinese wall of prejudice—religious, social, professional—has builded to herself a monument more enduring than that of brass or marble in her practical alleviation of human pain.

MORE ACCURATE PREDICTIONS.

Interesting Experiments Recently Made by the Weather Bureau.

The most significant development in weather forecasting for years, making it possible to forecast for a period at least sixteen hours longer than at present and more accurately, has been attained by the weather bureau and soon will bear practical fruit. This is the result of experiments with kites flown at distances one to two miles above the surface of the earth, which have been quietly conducted in this city for some weeks. Daily readings have been taken at this altitude and the fact has been established that shifting of the wind occurs at a mile level above the earth's surface, from twelve to sixteen hours before the same change of direction occurs on the surface. This is due to the same forces which operate to cause wind shifts to produce a storm; one condition being dependent on the other.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has taken great interest in the experiments, which were made by Chief Moore of the weather bureau, and his consultations with Professor Moore have resulted in the formulation of a policy which will make weather predictions more valuable in the future.

The most imperfect part of weather forecasts now is the prediction as to rain or snow. Meteorologists for the past ten years have been impressed with the fact that future data as to storms must come from a knowledge of upper air conditions. The aeroplane investigations have reached that point where it can be safely stated that within six months the government weather bureau, for the first time in the history of any meteorological service, can construct a telegraphic synchroscopic chart based on air conditions one mile above the earth. This chart will cover the conditions between the Alleghanies and the Rockies at the outset.

Chief Moore says this step probably will mark a new epoch in the weather forecasting problem. With these high-level readings the bureau will have the moisture content of the upper strata as well as the lower. It will be seen how important this double information is when it is considered that the two strata of air may by shifting of the wind become mixed within twenty-four hours and that the precipitation will depend upon the average moisture of the mass.—Washington Star.

Original American Degenerates.

The extreme southern point of the American hemisphere is inhabited by a curious race of degenerates. It is the island of Terra del Fuego, and its inhabitants, who are called Fuegians, are among the lowest, if they are not the lowest people on earth.

The men are only five feet high and the women are not more than four feet and a half. That this is not due either to barbarism or to climate is shown by the fact that the neighboring tribes of the mainland, the Patagonians, average well up to six feet, while some of them are tall enough to deserve their reputation as giants.

Although the climate is intensely cold and there is an abundance of fur in easy reach, the only clothing of these degenerates is a single skin, worn loosely over the shoulder. They are virtually naked, with the thermometer far below zero. They never walk upright, but stoop and shuffle along as if they had just risen from all fours. They are very quarrelsome and are continually fighting among themselves. They have no approach to government, not even in its lowest form. In this and in other respects they are lower than the Hottentots.—New York World.

His Very Worst.

"Ha!" exclaimed the Spanish general. "It is a splendid idea!"

"Have you hit upon a new man for harrassing the enemy?"

"Yes. It's a little cruel, but all's fair in war. I'm going to have a free distribution of thermometers so that every man in the Cuban army will be tempted to worry over the heat!"—Washington Star.

John L. Sullivan, it seems, has entered the lists again. He is anxious to make one more fight. This time, however, it is the mayoralty of Boston that he intends fighting for.

Dollar wheat is very interesting to Northwestern farmers and they can afford to talk of prosperity. Southern farmers will feel a like interest and use the same talk when it is ten cent cotton.

Ladies hold the office of Register in Chancery in three counties in the state, viz: Miss Fannie Cabiniss, in Madison county; Miss Bissia Davis, in Limestone county, and Miss Lucile Baker in Morgan county.

The bankers from the different states in their reports of the outlook for business for the present season all speak in most favorable and flattering terms. They think a great business revival is at hand in all sections of the country.

With the South getting satisfactory prices for a huge cotton crop and the Northern farmers gathering in good profits on every day's sales of their products, the prospect for permanent and expanding prosperity could not well be better.—Kansas City Star.

The advance in the price of wheat was not caused by the election of Major McKinley, as the Republican newspapers would like for the people to believe, but by the poor crops in Europe which resulted in a strong demand for American wheat.—New Orleans State.

There are two specially noticeable features about this wheat situation. First, it is natural, not speculative. Second, it occurred at a time of the year when the rise would very largely inure to the benefit of the producer, at least to the country in distinction from the city.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The special in the Age Herald from the Governor's office says that Tax Commissioner Burr Nabors, of Shelby, was suspended for "general failure to discharge his duties in carrying out the law." Other dispatches announce that the commissioner was simply taking all the rope the law allowed.—Tuscaloosa Times.

SHELBY'S TAX COMMISSIONER.

It appears to The Sentinel that a great injustice has been done Mr. Burr Nabors, the tax commissioner of Shelby by his summary removal from office by the governor. Whether he was right or wrong in his efforts to enforce the back tax law, he certainly was entitled to a hearing before the rendering of judgment against him. As it was, if The Sentinel understands the situation, he was not given an opportunity to present his side of the case. He was sick and could not be present at the first meeting of the commissioners' court held to consider the tax cases and asked a continuance to the following Monday. On that day he was present, but before he had an opportunity of presenting the matter to the court he was summarily deposed from office by a telegram from the governor. As an American citizen he should have enjoyed the right of a hearing before being condemned.

LOOKING FORWARD.

Age-Herald 24th inst.

Unless things take a very unexpected turn, it is safe to say that, beginning with this fall, this country will enter one of the most prosperous eras in its history. The rise in wheat will be accompanied by a rise in cotton and in other staples, and the farmers, having plenty of money to spend, will increase their purchases and build more and better houses. The increase in consumption here, added to the demand from Europe, will give a tremendous impetus to industry and trade, and general prosperity and confidence will make themselves felt in every circle.

But during this era of prosperity it would be wise to prepare for another period of depression which will come as surely as the night follows day, as the winter succeeds the summer. In this country a panic is a periodical calamity. Prosperity causes thousands of new enterprises to start up, and over-production naturally follows. Then, when the farmers and manufacturers and miners have overstocked the market, prices fall, labor is in less demand, securities weaken, creditors want their money and then there is a season of hard times. In the old days panics occurred about once in every fifteen or twenty years, but they will be of more frequent occurrence now, because the facilities for over-production have multiplied. In five or six years producers can overstock the markets of the world, and thus bring about another period of depression.

It would be well for the people to bear these facts in mind as they go along. Let them enjoy the favors of fortune while they may, at the same time relax none of their efforts to improve their financial system, reach out for the trade of other countries, build up profitable industries, lay aside something to tide over the next rainy day. Having learned the benefits of hard work and economy, they should not forget the lesson now, simply because they are basking in the sunshine of a little brief prosperity.

WEEKLY CROP BULLETIN.

The following is the general summary of the Crop Bulletin for the week ending August 23rd;

The week ending August 23rd, was one of almost continuous rain over this entire section, the rainfall being heavy in the northern and central portions and excessive in southern counties; the weekly rainfall at Mobile was 7.50 inches, and at Montgomery 4.02 inches; the daily temperature averaged about 6 degrees below normal and there was hardly any sunshine, and as a result all crops have been more or less damaged.

There is considerable complaint of rust, rot and shedding in cotton and some is sprouting in the bolls, and while the prospect is not so bright as it was a short time back, still cotton is heavily fruited and with favorable conditions from now on, it will make a good yield; picking has been delayed by rains and is not yet well under way.

Late corn is filling nicely; will be a good yield, but considerable fodder is rotting in shock. Late Irish potatoes and sweet potatoes are doing fairly well and sorghum which is ready for harvest, and cow peas and cane are excellent. Late fruits have made better yield than anticipated in central and northern counties and pastures are in flourishing condition; turnips are doing well.

OUTLOOK BRIGHTER.

Anniston Hot Blast.

Most assuredly the Lord is smiling upon this section in a very special manner.

The splendid fruit crop which he has given the farmers of this section will be worth thousands of dollars to them. Not only has it been the means of enabling them to live well and at small cost this summer, but has furnished them an opportunity of canning and preserving fruits enough to greatly reduce their cost of living for two or three years, and we hope all of them will avail themselves of the opportunity afforded, for certainly they realize that no such fruit crop has been had here for years, and it is possible that it may be many years before we have another such crop.

Not only is the fruit crop good but the corn and cotton crop is also unusually good, and the outlook for a large yield of cotton and corn has seldom been better.

These things make the outlook for the farmers of this section look bright and when the farmers prosper, all others prosper.

FRANCIS B. LLOYD ASSASSINATED.

A Montgomery special to this morning's Age Herald gives the sad news of the fatal assassination of Hon. Francis B. Lloyd (Rufus Sanders), near Greenville on yesterday evening, by one John A. Gafford. The assassin himself first announced the terrible news to a neighbor of Mr. Lloyd. It seems that Lloyd was driving along the public road in his buggy, returning from Greenville to his home near that city, when the foul crime was committed.

The assassin used a shot gun and the wounds inflicted were in the head and stomach. The deceased was about thirty-five years of age and leaves a widow and three small children. He was one of the best known men in the state and had made considerable reputation as a humorous writer and lecturer. He was a man of lovable character and of most kind and gentle nature. Few men had more friends.

The assassin was still at large at last accounts though the citizens of Greenville and vicinity were thoroughly aroused and were scouring the country with dogs to effect his capture.

SECOND CALERA TRAIN ROBBERY CAUGHT AND JAILED.

Thos. N. Low, aged 32 years, was brought to this place on last Saturday by Detective P. R. Burns of the Southern Express Co., and taken by him to Columbus and lodged in jail on a charge of train robbery.

Low was arrested at Rockville, Ind., some distance from his home at Coxville in that state, by the Sheriff of Clarke county, Indiana, and Detective Burns. Low is charged with being Gus Hyatt's partner in the Calera train robbery of March 9th last.

The two men, Hyatt and Low, got something like three or four thousand dollars.

Hyatt was arrested some time ago in Kansas City and carried to Clarksville, Tenn., where he was tried for a single handed train robbery committed at that place after the Calera robbery and given fifteen years in the penitentiary.

Low will probably be tried at the fall term of the Shelby circuit court which convenes on the 20th of September. It is stated that he has made a full confession and will plead guilty.

Detective P. R. Burns is to be congratulated upon his fine work in running this train robber down. He has been untiring in the pursuit and to him is due the credit of the capture.

TO PROMOTE IMMIGRATION.

It is now an established fact that Calera is to have another newspaper. This new venture is to be a weekly immigration paper and will be called The Sunny Southland. Its owners and proprietors are Messrs. C. N. and R. A. Whitaker. These gentlemen are from Bell Plain, Iowa. They have their plant on the ground and are occupying the building formerly used by W. E. Brinkerhoff as his bank building, next door above the Livery Stable. These gentlemen, we understand, are both practical newspaper men of considerable experience. Their paper will circulate largely in the Northwest and will set forth the many advantages and attractions of this section of country. Mr. C. N. Whitaker has been engaged in the immigration business in the Northwest for several years, and has been quite successful in bringing about the location of numbers of immigrants in different western states. He was, we believe, connected with the Rock Island Railroad system for several years in the work of locating immigrants in the different sections tributary to this system. The first issue will appear at an early day. The Sentinel hopes that this new enterprise may prove a benefit to this whole section.

THE SHELBY COMMISSIONER.

Huntsville Mercury.

If Mr. Waller's charge that the tax commissioner law was not intended for general enforcement is again denied, that gentleman will only have to point to the governor's action in removing Commissioner Nabors from Shelby county.

It appears that the tax commissioner, Nabors, was raising assessments whenever he thought they should be raised and a loud howl was the result. The governor removed Mr. Nabors, and the Age-Herald explained the removal by saying it was for "general failure to discharge his duties in carrying out the law." Now, however, comes the Columbian Chronicle with new light on the subject. The commissioners' court met to consider the assessments of the tax commissioner the following telegram was received by the Probate Judge.

Montgomery, Ala., August 15.

Hon. D. R. McMillan, Probate Judge: Have removed Nabors as tax commissioner. I suggest that all cases be dismissed unless commissioners are satisfied that valuation should be raised. Jos. F. Johnson, Governor.

Does it not seem that the values should have been considered by the commissioners' court? But the Chronicle says "the commissioners' acted on the suggestion of the governor, and dismissed all cases except where parties had accepted the raises as just." Here we have a direct dismissal of the operation of the back-tax law and that by authority of the governor. In Madison and Limestone and other counties, the law was enforced, in Shelby the raises made by the commissioner were only enforced upon those who were willing to submit to the operations of the law.

We were not aware that the governor had a right to exempt any county from the operations of the back tax law, but the evidence indicates that he did so in Shelby county. Others, whose taxes were arbitrarily raised, will not look kindly upon this open discrimination against them.

SWIFT PUNISHMENT

METED OUT TO TWO YOUTHFUL WOULD-BE TRAIN WRECKERS.

Swift and merited punishment was meted out to a couple of youthful would-be train wreckers down near Sylacauga last week.

On Friday Engineer W. F. Ross of the north bound passenger train on the Alabama Mineral discovered several pieces of cross ties piled on the track. A deputy sheriff of Talladega county and two dogs were secured and the keen scented animals immediately carried the deputy and the rail road men to a negro house not far away, one going directly to a little five year old negro girl and the other to a boy about one year older. The little negroes confessed the crime but gave no excuse for it.

Supt. Knox went down Saturday morning and seeing how small they were had the boy given a good whipping and both released with a warning of severe punishment next time.

The little negroes, conscious of their guilt, were terror stricken when they saw the dogs coming.—Anniston Hot Blast.

The location of the shops and round house for the Mobile and Ohio is at last settled, and Tuscaloosa is the site. This was the decision arrived at yesterday by General Manager Mann and Vice President E. L. Russell of that line of railways. Its completion is expected in less than a year and from the plans it would seem that the structure will add considerably to Tuscaloosa's appearance.—Montgomery Journal.

"Let me give you a pointer," said M. F. Gregg, a popular conductor on the Missouri Pacific railroad. "Do you know that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cures you when you have the stomach ache? Well, it does." And after giving this friendly bit of advice, the jolly conductor passed on down the aisle. It is a fact that thousands of railroad and traveling men never take a trip without a bottle of this remedy, which is the best cure for bowel disorders in the world. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Dial Bros.

Planters. CUBAN RELIEF cures Colic, Neuralgia and Toothache in five minutes. Sour Stomach and Summer Complaints. Price, 25 Cents.

The enumeration of the children within the school ages in the Calera school district is in progress this week. Mr. John Black is doing the work and it will be accurately and faithfully performed.

To heal the broken and diseased tissues, to soothe the irritated surfaces, to instantly relieve and permanently cure is the mission of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.—Dial Bros.

Maj. J H Harris, of Chambers county, state lecturer of the Farmers Alliance, was in the city yesterday on his return from attending the Shelby County Alliance, which was held at K Springs one day this week.

Running sores, indolent ulcers and similar troubles, even though of many year's standing, may be cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It soothes, strengthens and heals. It is the great pile cure.—Dial Bros.

Editor Horace Hood, of the Montgomery Journal, was in the city a short time yesterday en route to Talladega Springs.

The "Bicyclist's Best Friend" is a familiar name for DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, always ready for emergencies. While a specific for piles, it also instantly relieves and cures cuts, bruises, salt rheum, eczema and all affections of the skin. It never fails.—Dial Bros.

Miss Leila Adams, an accomplished young lady of Longview, presides at the headquarters of the Alabama White Line Association in this city. Miss Leila is a skilled stenographer and typewriter and the Company is fortunate in securing her services.

Mr. James M. Huggins spent a couple of days of this week in Columbiana.

Small precautions often prevent great mischiefs. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are very small pills in size, but are most effective in preventing the most serious forms of liver and stomach troubles. They cure constipation and headache and regulate the bowels. For sale by Dial Bros.

The many friends of Rev. Thos. Sessions are pleased to welcome him home. He has been in New Mexico for the past year or more and arrived at home on last Thursday. He is looking well, as if that far away section and the laborious ministerial work which he has been engaged in agreed with him.

Certainly you don't want to suffer with dyspepsia, constipation, sick headache, sallow skin and loss of appetite. You have never tried DeWitt's Little Early Risers for these complaints or you would be cured. They are small pills but great regulators. For sale by Dial Bros.

A couple of gentlemen from Iowa, Mr. Lyons and Mr. Chandler, visited this place and vicinity during the past week prospecting with a view to locating. They are both farmers and we learn were well pleased with this section and the probability is that they will decide to locate here this fall. They returned to their home in the Northwest last Tuesday.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and when it is from a physician it is especially so. "There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Dr. R. E. Robey, physician and pharmacist, of Olney, Mo.; and as he has used the Remedy in his own family and sold it in his drug store for six years, he should certainly know.

A NEW COMPANY.

The Lime manufacturers of Shelby have organized a Company for the more satisfactory handling of the lime trade. The style of the company is "Alabama White Lime Association."

The headquarters of the company are located at this place. The old Lime Co's. office between the freight depot and the crossing has been refitted and refurnished and Mr. J. B. Adams is the general manager and Miss Leila Adams, Secretary and Treasurer.

The capacity of the kilns associated is about twelve hundred barrels per day.

The organization of the company is a step in the right direction and means much in the interest of both the lime manufacturers and the City of Calera.

The Sentinel wishes the new organization every success.

A CARD OF THANKS.

Editor Sentinel: Please allow us, through the columns of your paper, to return our heartfelt thanks to the kind friends in Calera who so kindly, generously and faithfully watched with us and ministered to our darling child during his last illness. We appreciate their kindness in this hour of affliction more than tongue can tell. May God's blessing rest upon one and all. Very respectfully, JOHN ALDRIDGE, Calera, Ala. Mrs. JOHN ALDRIDGE. Aug. 24, 1897.

DEATH OF MR. NATHAN THOMAS.

Died, at his residence near Columbiana, on Monday morning, the 23th inst., Mr. Nathan Thomas, an old and esteemed citizen. He was about sixty five years of age and leaves a widow and several children and several children and many friends to mourn his decease. He was a member of the Baptist church and a good citizen.

DIED—In this place at the residence of Mrs. D O McLendon, on Monday morning the 23rd inst., after an illness of several days, Iby, the bright little son of Mr. and Mrs. John Aldridge. He came to Calera about two weeks ago with his mother and sisters to visit his grandmother, and was taken sick soon after his arrival here. All that medical skill and watchful nursing could do was done to stay the insidious disease but without avail. The fell destroyer claimed him as his own and in the early hours of Monday morning his gentle spirit took its flight. He was a bright and joyous child about five years of age, an only son, the pride of his father and the joy of his mother. They will miss him sadly. The Sentinel joins with many friends in sympathy with the fond parents in the loss of their darling boy, but feels that they can rest assured that he has only gone before to welcome them to the beautiful city.

"Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

The Gazette enjoyed a pleasant call yesterday morning from Mr. W W McCollum who is in the city for the purpose of instructing Rising Virtue Lodge in the undying principles of Masonry. The lodge seems to have taken on new life of late and new members are constantly being added to the roll. Mr. McCollum is a prominent citizen of Bibb, and a splendidly informed man and a delightful person to converse with. He knows the history and many details of this whole section and he is at present engaged in writing for the Centreville Press a series of articles on Bibb history that is attracting much attention. He has just finished his article on Bearfield and its famous old gun works. Mr. McCollum has already made a great many friends here and his visit will be remembered by others as well as Masons.—Tuscaloosa Gazette.

Russell and Maxwell Long, of Clifton county, sons of C. L. Long, are in the city visiting their father's family. They are en route to Missouri where they expect to reside in future.

ATTENTION CONFEDERATES OF SHELBY COUNTY.

You are respectfully requested to meet at some convenient place in your respective beats on Saturday, the 21st instant, or soon thereafter, and form beat associations. Electing one or more of your members as captain, lieutenant, etc., make a record of the members, giving full name, age and date of enlistment, company, battery, battalion, or regiment. Send a copy of your roster to Adjutant John W. Johnston, at Columbiana, who will at an early day thereafter furnish you blanks with proper headings to enable you to make an easy and comprehensive record of all the veterans of Shelby county who may join the association. It is our purpose to compile a roster of the members of the association in a substantial book and file it with the county records for reference when we are gone.

We earnestly desire the cooperation of every old veteran who was true to the stars and bars to this end. I sincerely hope all confederate veterans in this county and section may attend our meeting at Columbiana on the 9th day of September next, armed and equipped to participate in the sham battle to be fought at that place on that date, also well provisioned to enhance the festivities at that time and place. It is our purpose to make the sham battle as realistic as the conditions may permit; rations, guns, powder, and discipline are essential to this end. Your comrade, W. T. SMITH.

AN ANIMAL FREAK.

Mr. Van McClinton, a resident farmer of this vicinity, who knows everybody and who is generally known in these parts, reported to the Sentinel on yesterday the appearance of a strange freak in the horse family on his plantation a few days ago. His report is that a colt was foaled at his place one day this week, perfect in form with the exception that it is entirely minus forelegs. The freak, he says, appears to be as lively as any colt he ever saw though it has only two legs. How it will manage to get about as a biped he is at a loss, as yet, to determine, as he has not seen it perform in that direction. It is, to say the least, an unusual freak, and its coltsip, should it live, will no doubt attract considerable attention.

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and sold a 50-cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinburger, Allenton, Pa. Sold by Dial Bros.

Battery in His Mouth.
A gentleman recently suffered from a pain in his tongue, which he could not account for, and was afraid of cancer. After the doctor had said there was nothing the matter with his mouth an electrical friend discovered that two different metals had been used for fixing the teeth. These dissimilar metals had the effect of producing an electrical current in the gentleman's mouth.

In Japan.
In Japan the total of a bill is put at the top and the items beneath. Many tools and implements are used in a way contrary to ours. For instance, Japanese turn the lock the "wrong way," and Japanese carpenters saw and plane toward, instead of away from, themselves. When the ingenious Jap was first introduced to corkscrews, his notion was to twist the bottle on to the screw.

WRECK OF A WORK OF ART.

Statue of Agnes Gilkerson Is Demolished.

The costly marble statue of Agnes

Gilkerson, for years an object of interest on the lawn of the Hezekiah B.

Smith's mansion at Smithville, N. J., was broken into thousands of pieces the other day. The wreckage of this remarkable work of art was then sent in Rancocas Creek, and the testimonial to Congressman Hezekiah B. Smith's folly went out of sight forever.

The story of Smith and Agnes Gilkerson is one of extraordinary romance and wrong, and when first made public, stirred the whole country. The man had deserted his rightful family at Woodstock, Vt., and made a new home at Smithville with the woman of his infatuation. He became a millionaire manufacturer, creating a great industrial plant in the out of the way re-trient he had selected. He also went to Congress and grew to be a political figure in the State. Agnes Gilkerson, known to those who knew Smith then as his wife, pushing him onward and upward. He would doubtless have won higher political honors, but his past became known. When the woman died the inconsolable and aged manufacturer had a statue of her made in Italy and placed it on his front lawn where he could see it always.

Captain Elton Smith, one of the manufacturer's surviving children, recently came into the great property of his father, and one of his first acts was to order the statue of Agnes Gilkerson destroyed, so it should never more plague him or his. A dozen stalwart men armed with sledges and axes sent the white statue crashing to the ground and hammered the marble fiercely until nothing but a pile of debris remained. Some of the villagers tried to secrete pieces of the statue as souvenirs, but a cart took the whole mass to the creek, where it was dumped into ten feet of water and covered with stones.

THE AGNES GILKERSON STATUE.

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

The New Code.

Proofs of 624 pages of the new code have been delivered. This brings it up to section 2,034.

No Lack of Bids.

There is no lack of offers made to President Trapp for the hire of state convicts, but they are all at a very low level of prices.

Registers in Chancery.

Since the appointment of Miss Lucile Baker as Register in Chancery in Morgan county, Alabama has three lady Registers in Chancery, the others being Miss Fannie Cabanias, of Madison, and Miss Bessie Davis, of Limestone.

Convict Factory Will Close.

The state's cotton mill, at Speigern, which is worked by female and indigent convicts, will be shut down in a few days on account of the failure of the cotton supply and the hands will be put to picking the staple from the state's fields adjacent.

Will Assist.

Governor Johnston sent Assistant State Examiner Cowin to Mobile last week to assist Examiner Purioy in the investigation of the affairs of the office of Tax Collector Lott. The office will be thoroughly checked over and the troublesome tangle there straightened out.

Agricultural Schools.

Major Culver, commissioner of agriculture, has written to the trustees and faculty of the agricultural schools in the state, inviting them to assemble in Montgomery on August 27th. The object of the meeting is to select a uniform curriculum and to discuss other matters of interest to the institutions.

Champion Melon Raiser.

The load of mammoth watermelons of the season was taken to Huntsville one day last week by J. B. Fisk, Jr., of Hazel Green, who is the champion melon raiser of that part of the state. The melons in this load weighed from fifty to sixty pounds. He has a ten-acre lot planted in melons. He expects to have some on exhibition at the Centennial this week.

Huntsville Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber of commerce of Huntsville is getting in some good work in a quiet way. Prospectors and home-seekers from the north and northwest are there almost daily induced to come south by the literature sent out by that organization. The secretary is kept busy answering queries concerning his section of the country.

Dr. Louis C. Pynchon.

Dr. Louis C. Pynchon, aged 67, the second oldest physician in Huntsville, died last Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock from a stroke of apoplexy. Dr. Pynchon was widely known over Alabama and Tennessee. He moved to Huntsville from Savannah, Ga., forty years ago and engaged in the practice of medicine. He was a surgeon during the civil war in an Alabama regiment. Dr. Pynchon's wife survives him.

Sheffield to Have a Union Depot.

A special from Sheffield says that a new union depot will be built at once at that place. Col. J. Faulkner and Messrs. Brooks, of the Louisville and Nashville; Samuel Hunt and N. A. Adrairie, of the Northern Alabama, and Superintendent Pegrat, of the Memphis and Charleston, met with the Alabama railroad commission at Sheffield, and the location has been selected and the contract will be let at once. The depot will cost $15,000.

Severely Shocked by Electricity.

Charley W. Cooper, runner for Josiah Morris & Co.'s bank, Montgomery, and an estimable young man, was perhaps fatally injured last week by coming in contact with a live wire. He was walking along Bibb street, and as he passed under an electric light pole a wire fell in front of him. He thoughtlessly caught hold of it to throw it aside, when he was severely shocked. He was carried to his home on Virginia avenue and has since been in a precarious condition.

Mobile and Oh'o Extension.

Plans for the roundhouse and depot of the new Mobile and Ohio railroad extension at Tuskafoosa have been completed and the work will begin very soon upon the buildings. General Manager Mann, of this company, has recommended to the president of the company that the shops for the Columbus and Montgomery extension be located at Tuskafoosa instead of Montgomery and it is very probable that Tuskafoosa will capture the prize.

The University of Alabama.

One hundred and thirty dollars will cover all necessary expenses for a year except books and clothing. This includes board, laundry and all College Fees. Books will cost about $10 a year, and clothing will be as cheap as elsewhere.

And this too in the State University, with an able Faculty and a fine equipment. For Announcement with particulars, address

Jas. K. Powers, President, University, Ala.

Bridge Building Contracts.

At Tuskafoosa the Hanover Construction Company awarded contracts last week for building bridges over the Alabama and Warrior rivers on the Montgomery extension of the Mobile and Ohio railroad. The substructure of the Alabama river bridge was awarded McGhee, Kahmann & Co., of Kansas City. The superstructure iron works of the bridges over the Alabama and Warrior rivers was awarded to the Edgemore Bridge Co., Wilmington, Del.

Abbeville's New Bank.

"The Bank of Abbeville," located at Abbeville, in Henry county, has been chartered. The certificate of incorporation was issued by the Secretary of State, and the papers show that the capital stock is $50,000, with half of the amount actually paid in now. The incorporators are as follows: Robert Newman, S. P. Bradle, L. Bradley, G. M. Danzey, W. T. Dawkins, S. M. Stokes, W. J. Lee, E. M. Holly, B. J. Lindsay, J. B. Espy, L. Crawford, E. R. Partridge, M. V. Capps, C. C. Murphy, M. H. McAllister and J. W. Walden.

Legal Battle in Sight.

A legal battle seems in sight in Mobile from the following circumstance: Justice of the Peace Burns sent to the governor, it is said, some time ago, his resignation, conditioned on the appointment of a man named Stout. Stout was not named, but instead, A. J. Leibert was appointed. Burns says his resignation did not go, as the conditions were not complied with. Leibert made bond, and he and Burns are both holding court. The case will be carried to the high courts for settlement.

Alabama-Made Steel.

The Birmingham Rolling Mill company began last week for the first time rolling Alabama-made steel. This company has been making its own steel of Alabama iron since July 22, but not until last Thursday did it abandon the Pittsburg billets for the Alabama production. The steel was made into sheets, rods and rails, and found to be highly satisfactory for all. It showed qualities of great durability and but a slight trace of phosphorus. Hereafter no steel from Pittsburg will be used by the company. A ready sale is found for the home produced steel.

Result of Tax Commission Law.

Information received at the capital shows that the property assessments of Mobile county this year aggregate about $20,400,000, against $19,200,000 last year, a gain of nearly or quite $1,200,000. This is regarded as the direct and indirect influence of the tax commission law. It is estimated that this will put into the state treasury the neat sum of $7,000 in excess of the current year. Over in Georgia nearly every county shows a persistent decrease. Here in Alabama the contrary is the rule. It is not because any prosperity skipped Georgia and struck Alabama, but the more efficient execution of the law and preventing property from escaping.

Pardons Granted.

On the application for pardon of John Sorrell, of Coffee, convicted March 8, 1897, of perjury and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary, the governor last week made the following indorsement:

"It is shown to me that the petitioner in this case was a gallant Confederate soldier and had been a peaceable, law-abiding citizen. He is now an old man. It also appears from the statement of the solicitor who prosecuted the case that the perjury charged was through ignorance and not corruption. Believing that a man who has served his country gallantly should have the benefit of every doubt, let a pardon issue to John Sorrell and his political rights be restored."

The governor granted paroles as follows:

Ed Owens, of Crenshaw county, convicted of robbery; Samuel C. Welch, of Etowah county, convicted of murder in the second degree; Paul Hathaway, of Coffee county, convicted of manslaughter; Henry Wilson, of Montgomery, convicted of assault with intent to murder; Isham Neal, colored, of Pickens, convicted of attempting to assault a negro woman.

The terms of most of these prisoners were drawing to a close, and in each case large petitions were presented.

Briefly Noted.

A teachers' institute for the white teachers of Hale county will be held in Greensboro September 1.

It is said there will be eight candidates before the democratic primary for probate judge in Jackson county.

The county commissioners of Lauderdale have appointed a committee to select a suitable location for a poor farm.

Important to Teachers.

The Howard College, at East Lake, Alabama, is the only college in the south which offers a complete university course in Psychology and Pedagogy. The degree of Master of Pedagogy, conferred upon the graduates of this department, will be their strongest recommendation as teachers of the first order and worthy of the highest salary.

There is a strong and growing demand for teachers, possessing collegiate and professional education. The collegiate course and the professional course can both be pursued at the same time in the Howard, and without extra charge. Teachers and those preparing to teach would do well to write the Howard for terms.

Business Vicissitudes.

The annals of commerce are not entirely without a spice of romance. There is a little retributive justice that savors of the novelist's art in the way the spoiler is sometimes spoiled in business relations. In an article entitled "Made in Japan," the Pall Mall Gazette shows how nations have encroached upon one another's business, and reaped for a time a rich harvest, only to see the same tactics employed by a rival people, and be forced to stand aside while the trade slipped from their hands into the keeping of another nation.

In old times the Dutch, by importing English clay, made a good profit out of imitations of Chinese porcelain, and presently the Dutch product became world as Delft ware.

But the Dutchman was no more secure in his profitable trade than had been his predecessor, the Chinaman. The English potters took to copying the Dutch patterns, and sold their pottery much cheaper, and the north of England became headquarters for the Delft china.

Again, however, the spoiler has been spoiled. Of late the Japanese have made themselves masters of the art of reproducing the patterns best liked in England, and have begun to encroach on the domain long monopolized by the English potter. The Japanese product is finer and stronger, and above all cheaper than the best English ware, and Japan is providing the markets with goods which were originally a Chinese monopoly.

Detroit the Next Place of Meeting.
By a unanimous vote at Denver, Col., Friday, the Foresters' Supreme convention selected Detroit, Mich., as the next meeting place for 1899. There was practically no opposition. Considerable discussion was engendered by a motion to eliminate the endowment plan of the order, but it was finally carried.

An Arkansas Tragedy.
News of a terrible tragedy in Bayou township, Baxter county, has been received at Little Rock, Ark. Dan Horton accused his brother-in-law named Lehr, of insulting his wife. A fight ensued in which Lehr was shot and perhaps fatally wounded, and Horton's father, aged 80, was killed by being struck over the head with a rifle.

Two Aeronauts Killed.
Two aeronauts were fatally hurt at the fair grounds at Toledo, O., Friday afternoon. Walter Steele, of Columbus, had his back broken and several ribs crushed by a fall, due to the failure of his parachute to work, and Leroy Northcott was frightfully burned while inside a balloon which took fire while being inflated.

Ate a Poisoned Watermelon.
A special to the Louisville Courier-Journal from Paducah, Ky., says: The meagre particulars of a wholesale case of poisoning has reached the city from Calloway county. Eight persons are reported to have been poisoned by eating a melon stolen from a neighbor's patch. Seven of the number are dead and the eighth is in a critical condition.

Killed by His Tenant.
Dr. John R. Cabell, a prominent citizen of Danville, was killed last Friday night at his country home, near Callands, twenty-five miles from Danville, Va., by Edward Hankins, his tenant. Cabell had refused to rent Hankins the farm for another year and Hankins had refused to move away, from which arose the dispute that resulted in the killing.

Tobacco Dealers' Combine.
Seventy-five dealers and manufacturers at Chicago, Thursday night, organized the Tobacco Dealers and Manufacturers' Association, and decided that after September 1 the price of five-cent cigarettes should be ten cents, and other cigarettes should be advanced accordingly on condition that two-thirds of the dealers should come into the association and make its action binding.

Nicaragua's New Tariff.
Consul Wilske informs the State department that a new tariff will go into effect in Nicaragua in October. A commission having the matter in charge has recommended the free importation of sugar, cacao, in grain and ground, coffee, in grain and ground, renet for the coagulation of milk, fresh fruits in their natural state, hog lard and table salt. The department is also informed that Nicaragua will adopt the decimal system of weights and measures.

Shot by Their Boarder.
Arthur Storey and his wife were shot and probably fatally injured at their department, No. 65 Forty-third street, Chicago, Friday, by H. C. Dunker, a barber, who had boarded with the couple for several years. That night Dunker accompanied Mrs. Storey to the theater. On returning home they found Storey awaiting them. A violent quarrel ensued. Dunker drew a revolver and fired two shots. The first bullet entered Storey's groin, the second lodged in Mrs. Storey's spine. The wounded couple were removed to a hospital and there is but little hope for their recovery.

Two Convicts Escape.
W. N. Thompson, a white convict from Escambia county, and Will Turner, a colored convict from Jefferson, escaped from the Coalburg prison at Birmingham Thursday. They were plowing, under guard, in a field adjacent to the prison. Thompson, who is subject to fits, complained that he had one coming on, and was allowed to leave for the hospital. Just after he left, Turner said he had cramps and lay down under a shade tree. The guards' attention was slackened, thinking the men were sick, and both men made use of the opportunity and fled. Joe Burke, colored, a fifteen-year convict at Pratt City, also slipped by the guards.

A Narrow Escape From Death.
An engine of the Dade Coal Mining Co.'s narrow gauge railroad, jumped the track while on a trestle near the top of Sand Mountain, near Chattanooga, Tenn., Friday, fell a distance of twenty feet and rolled nearly to the bottom of the mountain, taking trees down with it. There were six people on the engine when it went down, none of whom, strange to say, were seriously hurt except the company's manager, Mr. F. H. Connor, of Chattanooga, who was caught under the tender and had two ribs broken and was badly shaken. A Mr. Shedd, of St. Louis, was on the engine but escaped with a few bruises. The fireman, whose name was not learned, had a leg broken and the engineer and Dr. Brock, the mine superintendent, who was on the engine, escaped unhurt.

Senator Pritchard's Brother Killed.
A special from Clondland, N. C., says: George C. Pritchard, brother of Senator Pritchard of North Carolina, who is the sheriff of Mitchell county, was fatally wounded Friday while attempting to arrest Monroe Garland, a noted desperado, near Clondland. Sheriff Pritchard had a warrant for Garland and with a deputy went after him. The desperado fired on the sheriff, one bullet penetrating the lungs and another passing through his neck. Garland, after he had shot Pritchard, turned on Deputy Blalock and began firing, but Blalock was too quick for him and shot him twice, either one of which would have been fatal. Garland died in a few minutes and Pritchard was taken to a nearby house and surgical aid summoned. His wounds are regarded as necessarily fatal. Pritchard is 41 years old and has a large family. Officer Blalock was slightly wounded.

ON A CURVE.
Freight Trains on the Georgia Pacific Collide With Fatal Results.

A disastrous wreck occurred on the Georgia Pacific division of the Southern railway, three miles from Eden, and thirty miles from Birmingham, Ala., at 6 o'clock Thursday morning. Two heavy freights, one going east, and the other west-bound, collided near a curve in a dip at the foot of two grades. Both were going at full speed, and the engineers did not see each other until the trains were but a hundred feet apart. Both engineers and both firemen jumped, but were caught in the wreckage. John A. Cheaves, of Atlanta, engineer of the west-bound train, was so badly crushed that he died soon after being taken out of the wreck. J. C. Schwin, of Birmingham, engineer of the east-bound train, was dangerously and perhaps fatally hurt internally. An unknown tramp was fatally injured. Both engines and ten cars were demolished. The injured were taken to Birmingham. The cause of the collision is not yet known. The wreckage blocked the track all day.

Brothers Injure a Lady and Gentleman.
A. B. Faidley, one of the leading grain merchants of Chattanooga, Tenn., was struck Thursday by a boy riding a wheel at a rapid rate, thrown violently to the ground and knocked senseless. When assistance reached him he was found to be paralyzed on the right side and when he recovered consciousness several hours later it was found he had lost the power of speech. The physicians say that his recovery is very doubtful. A brother of the boy who ran over Mr. Faidley a few days since ran over a lady named Mrs. Martin, injuring her so that her recovery is exceedingly doubtful. The two accidents have led the police authorities to issue very rigid orders against fast riding in the city limits.

MEETING OF LAWYERS.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION.

Interesting Address by the Governor of New Jersey--Resolutions Adopted Committing the Association to an Effort to Bring About International Arbitration.

The members of the American Bar Association Thursday morning, at Cleveland, O., listened to an excellent address by John W. Griggs, of New Jersey, on "Legislation and the Needs of Reform in Law Making," and adopted a resolution which committed the association to an effort to bring about international arbitration treaties with all enlightened nations of the earth.

The committee had drafted a resolution which satisfied all delegates, they having slept on the question and cooled off. John Prentiss Poe read the report, as follows:

"To the American Bar Association: 'The special committee to which were referred the report of the committee on international law, and especially the resolutions appended to that report and the several amendments proposed thereto, with instructions to submit to the association a resolution embodying their views as to the action proper to be taken by the association at this time, have considered the subject with so much care as the limited time at their disposal has allowed, and respectfully present as a substitute for the resolutions of the committee and for all the amendments thereto the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That the American Bar Association, renewing with emphasis the strong declaration made by it at its last annual meeting in favor of the adjustment of controversies between nations by the medium of enlightened international arbitration, expresses its earnest hope that the efforts to establish so beneficial a principle may not in their general spirit and purpose be relaxed, and that the administration of President McKinley will take such steps as may be appropriate to negotiate just and liberal treaties with foreign powers for the accomplishment of this important result.

"Resolved further, That a copy of these resolutions, signed by the president and secretary of the association, be sent to the president of the United States.

"JOHN PRENTISS POE, Maryland.
"JUDGE E. R. SHERMAN, Chicago.
"JAMES H. HOYT, Cleveland."

A motion to send the resolutions to the house and senate was defeated. The committee on Uniform State laws submitted the following:

"Thirty States and one Territory have now appointed commissioners on uniform State laws. The negotiable instrument act, copied substantially from the act on bills and notes, revised and recommended for adoption by the conference of commissioners last year, has become a law in the State of New York, Connecticut, Colorado and Florida. It passed one branch of the legislature in several States, but failed in the other branch, chiefly, as has been reported, on the ground that sufficient time had not been reported, on the ground that sufficient time had not been given for the consideration of so important a measure.

"Its passage by the leading commercial States of the Union will probably lead to its general adoption. The conference at its session this week formulated no new measures. An act on divorce and one on sales are being prepared.

"Your committee has nothing to add to its usual annual statement as the importance of securing the appointment of commissioners in all of the States. We repeat our belief that the success of the enterprise for uniformity depends greatly on the co-operation of the bar association of the country.

L. D. BREWSTER, Chairman.
The same committee to which was referred the question reported that they were of the opinion that it was not expedient to provide by law for the compensation of counsel for accused persons on trial in the United States courts in all cases, but that in case of persons indicted for crimes punishable by death or imprisonment for life some provision of law should be made for the employment and compensation of counsel for the defense such as is found in some of the State's statutes. The Revised Statutes of the United States provide for the assignment of counsel in capital cases, not exceeding two, as the accused may desire, but no provision is made for the compensation of such counsel.

The committee on payment laws submitted an interesting report of legislation secured.

Mr. Francis Rawle, of Philadelphia, the treasurer of the association, reported a balance of $3,702.42 in the treasury.

After the admission of a number of Cleveland lawyers to the association an adjournment was taken until evening.

The French Cabinet.
The London Financial News says the French cabinet is negotiating the floating of a loan of £60,000,000 in 2 1/2 per cent. bonds partly for the redemption of the floating debt and partly for the reconstruction of the French navy.

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

St. Florian's New Mill.
T. J. Rasch, of Florence, has been in Nashville inspecting flour mill machinery with a view of constructing a mill at St. Florian. Work will begin on the mill in a short time. St. Florian, the location of the mill, is a German settlement about six miles from Florence.

Lithographic Stone Quarry.
Operations at the lithographic stone quarry at Section, in Jackson county, have been suspended for several days, to await the arrival of improved machinery. The stone has to be sawed out, as the least jar from a hammer or an explosion shivers it to atoms.

Coal Land Assessments to Stand.
The proposed increase of $2,225,000 of the tax assessment on the Tennessee Coal & Iron company's property in Alabama, was heard by the commissioners' court last week. The court declined to raise the assessment. It will be taxed as heretofore.

Temporarily Appointed.
Wm. H. Tisdall, whose term of office as United States Marshal for the Middle District of Alabama has expired, has been temporarily appointed to act until his successor is appointed. The marshals for the other districts of Alabama whose terms have expired have also been temporarily reappointed.

Equipping With Electricity.
Under the direction of Chief Electrical Engineer Harris, ten large cars are being wired and equipped for electricity, for use on the Enley line, which will be operated by the silent rent after September 1. Poles and feeders are up and the stringing of trolley wires begun. Of these ten cars, five are new, the others comparatively new. From a standpoint of beauty there will be none to put them to shame.

Pig Iron for England.
The railroads in the Birmingham district are doing a bigger freight business now than for several years past. This is particularly true as to the Louisville & Nashville railroad, which, among other freight, recently forwarded there solid train loads of pig iron to New Orleans to be shipped to England. All the railroad shops here are preparing to work longer hours in order to keep up with the repairs necessary.

Two Freight Trains Collide.
A head-end collision took place on the Southern railway, three miles west of Eden, which is thirty miles east of Birmingham, between train No. 45, freight, going to Birmingham, and an extra freight train going east. The collision was a complete one. Both engines were wrecked and ten dump cars demolished. The track was torn up for some distance. Several people were seriously and one fatally injured. Engineer John A. Cheaves was so badly mangled that he died shortly after the accident.

Franklin Gold Mines.
T. H. Aldrich, of Birmingham, has bought a controlling interest in the Franklin gold mines in Clay county. These mines have been worked in a crude way for some time, and have made such an excellent showing that machinery will be introduced to more fully develop them. The West mines, in the same county, are being extensively developed by C. S. West and associates. Some specimens have analyzed over $50 per ton. Machinery has been ordered to work those mines also. A great deal of capital has lately gone into the mining business in North Alabama, especially in Clay and Cleburne counties.

Co-Education at the University
Young women of 18 years may have all the advantages of young gentlemen. Such may enter any class in the Institution for which they are prepared. Up to this time a few have taken one or two departments, but not one has entered on a regular course or taken a degree. It will be gratifying to the friends of co-education to know that the next session may break the record in this matter, that several young ladies have expressed a purpose to take one of the regular courses, and thus demonstrate their ability to come up to any standard set for young men. It is understood that President Powers believes they can do this and hopes to see his judgment vindicated. They must reside in private families, but rooms for study during the day are provided at the University.

Laden With Freight.
Thirty-three heavily laden freight trains passed through Birmingham one day last week, seventeen going South and sixteen North. This is the best record in the past three or four years. The southbound freights bore purchases of fall goods to Southern merchants, while Southern iron was largely the northbound cargo. A good deal of the iron was for export, that business having begun to show great liveliness of later. The officials state that every single engine they have is needed to attend to the heavy traffic, while the office force is worked hard day and night. The shops at Decatur and Birmingham are working on full time and doing their utmost to keep cars and machinery in order. The same activity exists on the Central of Georgia, the Southern, Alabama Great Southern and Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham railroads.

Pardons Granted.
The governor has acted upon the following applications for pardon: Fred Warner, colored, Bullock county, assault to murder; the injury was slight, the party injured, the solicitor, nearly all the white people of the beat, and Dr. Cunningham join in the petition. The convict has consumption. Pardon granted. Joe Fleming, Montgomery county, colored. This convict is serving a sentence for stealing gloves from a store. His pardon is asked by President Trapp and Solicitor Lomax, and is recommended by the physician inspector, because the convict has consumption and will die if confinement is continued. Pardon granted. Wesley Cox, colored, Barbour county. The convict is incurably ill with dropsy, and his pardon is recommended by the physician inspector and the probate judge.

Raspe Flowers, colored, Coffee county. The convict has organic disease of the heart, is unable to labor and his pardon is recommended by Judge Carmichael and Solicitor Smith. Pardoned.

"Rufus Sanders" Assassinated.
Francis Bartow Lloyd, aged 36 years, better known to the reading public as Rufus Sanders, a writer of quaint Alabama dialect miscellany, was assassinated at 6 o'clock last Wednesday near Greenville by John A. Gafford. Lloyd was found lying in the road with two gaping wounds in his body. Gafford had evidently used a double barreled shotgun and discharged both barrels. It is said that the deed was the outcome of Lloyd having improper relations with one of Gafford's sisters. Lloyd leaves a widow and three children. He was a native of Butler county, and served as a representative in the last legislature from that county. He represented Montgomery county in the General Assembly in 1894. In the last legislature he vigorously opposed the constitutional convention measure and the measure permitting women practicing law. He moved to Butler county later and began to publish a series of humorous letters in the Sunday newspapers. He was contemplating issuing them in book form. The deceased had considerable ability as a lecturer, and was known in Texas. Lloyd was a candidate for Secretary of State in the last democratic state convention, and was going to run again the next campaign. Later advices state that Gafford has voluntarily surrendered to the sheriff.

Increasing the State's Revenue.
Judge W. J. Wood, of Florence, State Back Tax Commissioner, stated to a Birmingham reporter last week that he expected the increased valuations of property for taxing purposes by dint of the work of the county back tax officials would amount to about $10,000,000 in the whole state, which would increase the State's revenues by about $150,000. Judge Wood's visit to Birmingham was coincident with Tax Commissioner Badham's failure to get the Jefferson county commissioners to sustain his claim for a large increase of the tax valuation of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company, the Sloss Iron & Steel Company, the Thomas Furnace Company, Woodward Furnace Company and other leading industrial companies of the Birmingham district. Mr. Badham made claim for a total increase of about $4,500,000 and was allowed $100,000. He will appeal to the circuit court.

His failure was a terrific blow to the new tax law, it being supposed that the big mining and furnace companies would be made to contribute a very large additional revenue. The increase in tax valuations in Jefferson county, the largest in the state, which was first figured at $5,000,000, has been rudely reduced to $1,300,000, of which $1,000,000 was voluntary handed in and $200,000 obtained by agreement between the tax commissioner and tax payers.

Briefly Noted.
Will Burke, a 7-year convict, escaped from Pratt mines Friday. The postoffice at Gurley was broken into Friday night and robbed of $72.47. Birmingham is to have a galvanized iron mill, which will employ 100 skilled men.

Buck Finch was overcome by gas in a well at Opelika, and died in an hour after being brought out. It is estimated that the tax raise in Cherokee county will range anywhere from $200,000 to $300,000.

BACK FROM KLONDIKE.

ALL TELL STORIES OF RICH GOLD STRIKES.

Very Few Clean Ups, However, Have Been Made Since Early Summer -- James McNamee Takes from Fourteen Claims $137,000.

The schooner J. M. Coleman, which left St. Michaels, at the mouth of the Yukon, July 28, was spoken Thursday night off Race Rocks at 9:30 by the Associated Press tug Vigilant, which was in the straits watching for the arrival of the steamer Portland. The Coleman brings four passengers who have been in the Klondike, and who left Dawson City, July 17. The passengers are Charles H. Metcalf, of Detroit, Mich.; B. E. Jones, of Berkeley, Cal., an assayer for the Alaska Commercial Company at Dawson; C. B. and W. O. Patric, brothers, of Los Angeles. They left ten days after the Thorpe party, which arrived at Seattle last week on the steamer George E. Starr from Dyea. They all tell stories of the richness of the Klondike, Bonanza and El Dorado creeks, but all say that very few clean ups have been made since the early summer. Mr. Metcalf has been engaged in the merchandise business at Dawson City, Circle City and other points for three years past and has been over every summer. He goes in each year over the Dyea trail, and last spring he took in twenty tons of freight. It took him from March 6 to May 1 to get his freight over the pass with one man, two horses and eight dogs. From Lake Linderman to Dawson City he was fourteen days.

When the Coleman left St. Michaels there were about twelve men waiting to come out the steamer Portland, and another steamer with passengers was expected down the river before the time set for the sailing of the Portland. The men waiting at St. Michaels all had from $5000 to $15,000, but no phenomenal strikes were reported by them. With regard to ascending the Yukon, Mr. Metcalf said it takes from twenty to twenty-five days to go from St. Michaels to Dawson City, and passengers leaving Seattle later than August 20 will have no chance of reaching Dawson City this fall. The Lippy claim on Bonanza Creek, from which gold amounting to $112,000 was taken, he said was one of the best developed claims in the group. Others will doubtless prove just as rich when fully developed.

The first claim located on Bonanza Creek was named Discovery, and is recognized by miners as the centre of the field, many others being numbered each way from it. Sixty claims are now located above and ninety below Discovery, in all fifteen miles being taken. On El Dorado Creek, which empties into Bonanza, sixty claims are located, twenty nearest the junction of the creeks being fabulously rich. From one claim located on Skookum Gulch, tributary to Bonanza Creek, N. W. Porters, of Denver, and Joseph Goldsmith, of Juneau, took $5,000 in nuggets, ignoring fine gold. They afterward sold the claim for $25,000 cash. They worked only four weeks. Bear Creek, a small tributary to Klondike, is also remarkably rich in gold.

B. J. Jones, of Berkeley, Cal., said: "I should say there are about 2,500 people in Dawson and on the creeks round about there. This summer only twenty claims have been worded, and thus far not a large sum of money has been taken out. Most everybody is getting ready for the winter's work, which will be pushed as vigorously this year as last."

"As far as I can estimate the great wealth of the Klondike is holding out. Still the amount of gold that will come down this fall will not be as large as estimated in some quarters. I should say that there will be in the neighborhood of 175 men down by the Portland and Excelsior, and a very fair average to each man would not exceed $10,000. Many will bring down practically nothing. I would not care to say what the Alaska Commercial Company has in gold on hand."

"You may say that Circle City is practically deserted, the people having all gone to Dawson. The river steamers Alice, Bella and Healy have made their second trip down the river for the season. They will go down again in time to meet the Portland and the Excelsior, and most of the miners who will come out this fall will be aboard on their final trip."

Two Firemen Crushed to Death.
Edmund & Perrin's furniture establishment at Pittsburg, was totally destroyed by fire Thursday night, entailing a loss of $165,000. A portion of the rear wall fell into the alley, burying under the debris two firemen, Zeke Glover and Harry Hilt. Their dead bodies were recovered soon afterward. The hunt is still going on for the bodies of two boys who are thought to have been caught in the ruins.

A Grain Cut.
The Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis Railroad Company announces a cut in the rate on grain for export from Kansas City to New Orleans from 21 to 15 cents.

CALERA, ALA., SEPT. 2, 1897.

Anniston was visited by a destructive fire on last Sunday morning. The main buildings of the Pipe works were destroyed. Loss estimated at one hundred thousand dollars. Insurance sixty thousand.

Tax Collector Lott of Mobile has been suspended from office by the Governor and it is probable that impeachment proceedings will be instituted against him. The State Examiner reported him short in his accounts several thousand dollars.

Chicago, which has suffered more perhaps than any city in the Union from the hard times, now reports that business is picking up, and that the drummers are placing with Chicago's wholesale merchants the largest orders received during any season since 1892.—Birmingham News.

Hon. R. B. Kelly, of Calhoun, has announced as a candidate for the office of Chancellor of the North Western Chancery Division. Mr. Kelly is a prominent attorney and a gentleman of fine legal attainments and if he should be selected for the position to which he aspires will make an excellent official.

Times are improving, and they are going to get much better straight along. The people have everything to hope for, with a good prospect of getting it; but they must not be in too great a hurry. It is hard for the hungry man to wait when he smells the roast beef, but in this case he must exercise patience.—New Orleans Picayune.

The killing of Francis B. Lloyd, Rufus Sanders, is universally regretted. He was one of the brainiest young men in the state—and numbered his friends by scores. His slayer, Jno. A. Gafford, who had previously surrendered to the Sheriff of Butler county, was on last Saturday removed from the jail at Greenville to the Montgomery jail to avoid the danger of mob violence.

Hon. Thos. H. Clark, of Montgomery, says a Washington press dispatch of the 31st ult. was today sworn in as Superintendent of the Law Library of Congress, and his appointment was made public to-night. Librarian Young announced some time since that he would give this place to a Southern man, with the intention of making it a distinctively southern appointment. It carries with it the privileges of the floor of the House and Senate.

A silver contemporary declares very vehemently that the price of silver and the price of wheat are in no way related. Certainly they are not. Nobody said they were except the 16 to 1 advocates. "Coin" Harvey launched the idea that silver and wheat were the "heavenly twins," and Bryan and other silver orators seized upon the theory and undertook to gull the farmers with it throughout the last campaign. Recent events leave no doubt that the two commodities are in no way connected. They are very far apart and getting further from each other every day.—B'ham. News.

TO PURCHASE THE CROPS OF THE SOUTH.

Currency transfers, says a New York press dispatch, for $150,000 were received at the subtreasury today for shipment to southern and southwestern points. Some of the orders will be filled at New Orleans subtreasury. Numbers of leading bankers in this city, also received orders for currency from the south today. Altogether something like $8,000,000 has been shipped from here during the past week.

PROGRESSIVE MONTEVALLO—THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

Our neighbor town, Montevallo, continues to forge to the front. Numerous buildings are still being erected and a number of others contemplated. Two new and commodious hotels have been erected during the past few months and are both now open for reception of guests. The magnificent dormitory of the Industrial School with a capacity for the accommodation of ninety or one hundred girls is complete with the exception of some of the finishing touches. The two two-story brick buildings, attachments to the main School building for class rooms are both nearing completion, and will be ready for occupancy by the 1st of October, the time for the opening of the school. With these completed, there will be twelve class rooms for the accommodation of pupils. The chapel or auditorium, embracing in its magnificent dimensions the whole of the second story of the main building, is being rapidly put in first class order, and will seat comfortably several hundred girls. Indeed everything pertaining to the arrangements for the opening of the school is being pushed as vigorously as possible, and the accommodations for the girls for the next session will be much more commodious and satisfactory in every particular than they were during the past session. The Sentinel is pleased to know the prospect for the opening is exceedingly bright and the indications are that the attendance will be large. President Reynolds, and indeed the entire citizenship of Montevallo are sparing no pains or labor to advance the interests of this school which is not only the pride of Shelby county but destined to be the Female School of the State.

KLONDIKE ECLIPSED.

According to Dr. Cameron Alabama is an El Dorado.

Age-Herald 2nd inst.

Dr. H. J. Cameron, of Alexander City, was in the city last night. He said that the country around Alexander City and Heflin, has a brighter future before it in the way of gold and copper mining than any country in the world. He has prospected for gold and silver in all parts of the world—South Africa, Central America, Mexico and on the Yukon river in Alaska, but according to his views none of these countries have as much rich ore as the country around Heflin.

"The gold in this state," he said, "is found in quartz formation. There are no placer deposits. The La Mascota stamp mills are located at Alexander City."

Dr. Cameron has purchased 'shoes' and 'dies' in this city and the mills which have been idle while waiting for the machinery, will resume operations at once. "So far," Dr. Cameron continued, "the results of our mining operations have been very satisfactory. We have been put to some trouble," he added, "heretofore on account of having to send away for our machinery, but that inconvenience will be obviated by the Hardy Tynes Foundry and Machinery Co., who hereafter will make 'shoes' and 'dies' and devote special attention to gold stamp mills." Dr. Cameron says more gold and copper stamp mills will be erected in this state during the next year, than anywhere else in the world.

He thinks that a veritable gold boom, eclipsing the Klondike will break on Alabama in short time.

CO-EDUCATION AT THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

Young ladies of 18 years may have all the advantages of young gentlemen. Such may enter any class in the Institution for which they are prepared. Up to this time a few have taken one or two departments, but not one has entered on a regular course or taken a degree.

It will be gratifying to the friends of co-education to know that the next session may break the record in this matter, that several young ladies have expressed a purpose to take one of the regular courses, and thus demonstrate their ability to come up to any standard set for young men. It is understood that President Powers believes they can do this and hopes to see his judgement vindicated.

They must reside in private families, but rooms for study during the day are provided at the University.—Tuscaloosa Gazette.

"THE SAGE OF ROCKY CREEK."

A staff correspondent of the Montgomery Advertiser writing from Greenville to the Advertiser, under date of 26th. ult., the day after the assassination, pays the following beautiful tribute to the "Sage of Rocky Creek."

People all over the State were dumb-founded upon the reception yesterday of the distressing news of the foul assassination of Mr. Lloyd. Messages of sympathy and condolence were sent the bereaved widow and the universal verdict given that a good and true man had fallen.

It was sad indeed to think that a life so full of sunshine and happiness, evidently so free from sorrow and sadness, should be cut down in the very fruition of the brightest promise. He made friends of all who knew him, drew men to him by a kind and genial nature and that fellowship of feeling which makes us wondrous kind.

It is hard to realize that no more will be seen his genial, beaming face or hear his kind and reassuring voice—the "Sage of Rocky Creek" is no more. Down on the hillside there is a new made grave and upon its fresh sod is mingled the tears of a heart-broken widow, four bright-eyed help less orphans and a devoted old father, brothers and sisters and sorrowing friends.

Hosts of friends looking back now with only the happiest recollections of the visit of our friend to this city at stated intervals, can appreciate what a pleasure it was to have known him and to have been numbered among his friends. But death has come and claimed him in the very zenith of a young manhood. It has been truly said that death loves a shining mark and in this instance its truism is doubly demonstrated. Lightly rest the sod upon the grave of the "Sage of Rocky Creek."

ALABAMA'S CROPS.

A Splendid Showing for Farm and Orchard Products.

Commissioner of Agriculture Culver has given out some official facts as to this year's crops in the state. He says the cotton crop this year as compared with last is now 85 per cent. with the average falling daily on account of rust, too much rain and boll worms.

Cotton is opening rapidly and being gathered promptly but little is being marketed.

The best crop of wheat known for years has just been harvested.

Spring oats were a failure, but the fall sowing is very promising. There is a good promise for the tobacco crop and the hay crop is excellent, the average this year being a fourth larger than ever before and the yield being sufficient to supply the local demands.

The Irish potato crop is the best in years and the corn crop is 102 with a decrease in acreage of 5 per cent. Sweet potatoes are near an average.

The sugar cane and sorghum crops are 10 per cent above last year. Labor is doing exceptionally well this year.

The fruit crop has been good except as to pears which are generally reported as suffering from blight.

REV. C. W. O'HARA APPOINTED A MEMBER OF THE CHICAMAUGA MAUGA COMMISSION.

A Montgomery special to the Age-Herald under date of Sept. 1, says:

Gov. Johnston has appointed Rev. C. W. O'Hara, of Columbiana, a member of the Chicamauga Park Commission. Mr. O'Hara is the Baptist preacher who carried the colors for the Eighteenth Alabama. In one of the battles in which he participated a ball came and carried his right arm with it, but he swung to the colors with his left and helped to win the fight.

The Sentinel congratulates Mr. O'Hara upon the distinction conferred upon him, and takes pleasure in adding its testimony that such an honor could not have been bestowed upon one more worthy to wear it.

COMPARATIVE ALTITUDES.

The following interesting letter was published in the Montgomery Advertiser in 1878, and is of sufficient general interest to bear republishing.

It gives the altitudes of railroad stations on three lines of road and a perusal of it will surprise many people who think they know something about heights.

The late Dr. J. F. Johnston, of this city, applied to the late Mr. D. H. Cram for a table of the altitudes of points on the railroads indicated below. Mr. Cram made the following reply:

Birmingham, Ala., August 27, 1878.

—Dr. J. F. Johnston: Dear Sir:—In compliance with your request of yesterday I give you the elevation of prominent points on the line of railroads named. These figures can be relied on as correct, being from official sources which I can particularize if desirable.

Cullman Station is higher than any point between there and Louisville, a distance of about 340 miles.

There are other noticeable points which you will doubtless observe, but which I have not the time just now to elaborate.

Trusting that the foregoing conveys the information desired, I remain yours, etc.

Owing to over-crowding and bad ventilation, the air of the school room is often close and immature, and teachers and pupils often suffer from lung and throat troubles. To all such we would say, try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For coughs, colds, weak lungs and bronchial troubles no other remedy can compare with it. Says A. C. Freed, Superintendent of Schools, Prairie Depot, Ohio: "Having some knowledge of the efficacy of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, I have no hesitation in recommending it to all who suffer from coughs, lung troubles, etc." For sale by Dial Bros.

SHELBY SPRINGS.

No handsomer ladies have graced the Springs this season than the two trained nurses from the Montgomery city infirmary, Misses Thrall and Orr. One is a brunette and the other a blonde. Both are very attractive as conversationists and have contributed no little to the general enjoyment which has prevailed here. As an evidence of their great proficiency as professional nurses, Dr. Westmoreland, of Huntsville, visited them with the object of securing them for that city, but in vain, even after offering extraordinary inducements.

Another young lady who has won admiration is Miss Dimmick, whose "laughing eyes" are calculated to haunt any one who has the pleasure of an acquaintance with her. In fact there has been a bevy of the fair sex that would have done honor to the most noted of watering places.

As an indication of the longevity of the existence of the Springs there are two plank seats within the grounds that were placed between two trees growing closely opposite years ago. As a result the planks have become firmly embraced by not only the bark but the growth of the trunk has reached nearly six inches on either end and made them perfectly secure and immovable. A gentleman passing by remarked that he had known of several marriages that had resulted from these trysting places. The wish of the writer is that they may remain as perfect as they now are in order to render similar service. Like "Tytere recumbans sub tegmine patulae fagi" I traced the initials of M. H. Morrison, April 10, 1860. Also W. A. B., 1863. A. H. M., 1863. How many changes have been wrought since these persons carved their names upon these beech trees. Doubtless the first mentioned one made a gallant soldier in the late struggle "vi et armis" and fell while nobly defending his country. Aye the dates are not too old but we can picture a like denoument perhaps of their lives.

EDITOR SENTINEL: There is no occurrence more likely to demoralize an average community than a case of small pox. There is nothing more likely to cause a lot of excited men to violate both the laws of the state and of humanity, yet there is no disease more easily recognized except in the early stages, or in the lighter grades, and none the spread of which is more easily prevented if properly managed, and I would say to the various communities of this county that should a case occur in your midst, have the fact communicated at once to the county health officer or to some local health officer who is fully authorized to provide for the protection of the community and care for the afflicted. While waiting for the health authorities care should be taken to keep every unprotected person from contact with the disease. When the health officer or his assistant arrives he will be prepared to do all that is necessary.

A REMARKABLE MEMORY
Was That Displayed by the Vice President of the Confederacy.

Alexander H. Stephens, vice president of the Confederacy and Governor of Georgia, had a remarkable memory, says Col. C. W. Seidell, who was for a long time his private secretary. Once, says the Colonel, when we were in Washington, a big delegation visited the city to urge Dakota's claims to Statehood.

The delegates sent word to the distinguished Georgian that they would call on him at his hotel, and at the appointed time they filed into his parlor and were introduced.

As Mr. Stephens was at that time disturbed by a fall he sat in his rolling chair in the middle of the room and held a running conversation with his visitors. There were about a hundred Dakotans present, stalwart, handsome men, representing the best type of Western manhood.

After they had sampled some fine old Georgia corn whisky their host discussed the matters in which they were most interested, and occasionally addressed one of the strangers personally, naming him as he spoke.

During the evening he singled out in this way at least twenty of his guests, and astonished us all by his ready recollection of names and faces. Every man in the crowd got the idea into his head that something striking or attractive in his personality had favorably impressed the little man in the rolling chair, and I could see that the delegates were delighted with their reception.

When they had bowed themselves out I asked Mr. Stephens how he managed to hold so many names and faces in his memory.

"Oh it is a mere trick," he replied. "I simply concentrated my attention upon about twenty names and faces, and as they were scattered around the room I naturally surprised my visitors when I turned to them and addressed them by name. Of course, it caused every man to believe that he had deeply impressed me."

Never deem it a light or unimportant matter to cultivate in the young that internal sense and appreciation of beauty which gladly respond to all real beauty, whether in nature, in art, in life, or in character, for you are thus planting seeds which may grow and develop into a richness of flower and fullness of fruit little dreamed of.

No Use to Cry.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury,
as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure to get the genuine. It is taken internally, and is made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. 7c. per bottle free. Sold by Druggists; price, 75c. per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

HOTEL MORGUE AND ITS GUESTS

To Hotel Morgue the guests come in With a strangely silent air, And however boisterous a man has been He makes no noise and he makes no din When once he enters there. And however poor, he rides in state, Stretched at his ease, through the hotel gate.

A bath and a gown and cool, cool bed Are given to all who come, But never a one is wined or fed, And never a word by one is said, For the guests are always dumb, And whatever is done, and however they fare, They only lie and stare and stare.

From Hotel Morgue the guests pass on Full off at the break of day. And they pay no bill as forth at dawn With staring eyes and white lips drawn They silently sail away. Though clothed and sheltered and asked no price, To Hotel Morgue no guest comes twice—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.

"Marriage is the saving of a young man," said my Aunt Tabitha sententiously.

I assented, for I find it pays to give a ready acquiescence to abstract propositions.

"You must marry," continued my aunt.

I hesitated, for to assent to the concrete is more dangerous.

"I am still very young," I said, meekly.

My aunt turned to my mother.

"Whom shall Alfred marry?"

My mother shook her head.

"Somebody nice," she volunteered.

"What do you say to Letitia Brownlow?" asked my aunt.

"I would prefer to say nothing to Letitia Brownlow," I interposed, hastily.

"O' Amelia Stafford?"

"Is she not rather"—my mother waved one hand—"and Alfred is so slim."

"I think she has a very fine figure," responded my aunt. "Or there is Gertrude Williams; she will have a fortune if she outlives her sisters."

"There are only five of them," I said hopefully.

"Or Mabel Gordon?"

"She has taken a course of cooking lessons," observed my mother.

"No, none of these!" I cried, decisively.

My aunt looked offended.

"Very well, then, choose for yourself," she said, tartly.

"Perhaps that would help," I remarked, thoughtfully.

"You will choose somebody nice, won't you, Alfred?" said my mother.

"With money," observed my aunt.

"Well connected," emphasized my mother.

"Not too young," added my aunt.

"And religious," begged my mother.

"There is no objection to her being good looking?" I asked, a trifle timidly.

"No, I think not," said my aunt, "provided she fully understands beauty is but skin deep."

"I will tell her," I murmured.

"Well," said my aunt, impatiently, after a short pause, "whom do you suggest?"

I thought for a moment.

"What do you say to Winifred Fraser?"

"That minx!" cried my aunt.

"Oh, Alfred!" echoed my mother.

"Why not?" I asked.

"Such a dreadful family," said my mother.

"So fast!" interjected my aunt.

"But have you never noticed the sun on her hair?" I asked, innocently.

My aunt drew herself up.

"We have not noticed the sun on her hair," she said, with much dignity; "nor do we wish to observe the sun on her hair."

I was justly annoyed. "I really think it must be Winifred Fraser," I said.

"She is very fond of me—"

"How can you be so cruel to me!" cried my mother. "Have you noticed how gray my hair is getting? You will not have me long." She drew out her handkerchief.

"You will come to a bad end," said my aunt. "I always thought you were depraved. If you marry that painted hussy you must not expect my countenance."

"Under the circumstances I will not marry Winifred Fraser," I said, with great magnanimity, for I did not particularly want my aunt's countenance.

My aunt sniffed. "You had better not."

"I merely joked," I said, soothingly, remembering she had not made her will.

"Indeed?"

"The truth is"—I dropped my voice—"I am in love with some one else."

"And you never told me!" said my mother, reproachfully.

"The girl I love is not free."

"Married?" cried my aunt.

"Not married—but engaged."

"Who is it?" asked my mother, gently.

I was silent for a moment, and then I sighed.

"It is Constance Burleigh."

"It would have been a most suitable match," murmured my mother.

"Very suitable," replied my aunt.

There was a momentary silence, broken by my aunt.

"I did not know Constance was engaged."

"It is a secret; you must not repeat what I have told you."

"I don't like these secret engagements," said my aunt, brusquely.

"Who told you?"

"She told me herself."

"Who is the man?"

"I do not think I should repeat his name."

"I hope Constance is not throwing herself away."

I shook my head doubtfully. "You know the man?" I nodded. "Is he quite—quite—"

Again I shook my head doubtfully. "What have you heard?" my aunt asked, eagerly.

"I don't think I ought to repeat these things."

"You can surely trust your mother," murmured my mother.

"And my discretion," said my aunt.

"Well," I said, "I have been told he is cruel to his mother."

"Really!" cried the two ladies in a breath.

"His mother told me so herself."

"How said?" said my mother.

"And what else?" asked my aunt.

"Another relation of his told me he was depraved."

"Poor, poor Constance!" whispered my mother.

"And would probably end badly."

"I expect he drinks," said my aunt, grimly.

"Does Constance know this?" asked my mother.

"I don't think so."

"You did not tell her?"

"Of course not."

"I consider it your duty to."

"I really cannot."

"Then I will," said my aunt, resolutely.

"What I have said has been in confidence."

"I do not care."

"I beg you not to do so."

"It is my duty. I am too fond of Constance to allow her to throw herself away on this worthless man."

I shrugged my shoulders. "Do as you please, but don't mention my name. By the way, Constance said she would probably call this afternoon."

At that moment the bell rang.

"That may be she," said my aunt, flying to the window. "It is."

I got up slowly and sauntered into the conservatory, which adjoins the drawing-room. From behind a friendly palm I could see without being seen. I saw my aunt look toward my mother.

"If we open her eyes," I heard her whisper, "it may pave the way for Alfred."

My mother said nothing, but I saw the same hope shine from her eyes.

The door opened and the servant announced Constance. She came forward with a little eager rush; then stopped short, embarrassed by the want of reciprocity.

"We are glad to see you," said my mother, and kissed her.

My aunt came forward. "We were just speaking of you," she said, solemnly. "Sit down."

Constance looked a little crushed. "I thought Alfred would have told you," she murmured.

"We have heard—" began my aunt.

"Hush," interposed my mother.

"Come nearer me, Constance. Won't you take off your hat?"

Constance came and sat by her side. "I was anxious to come and tell you that—that—"

"If you are alluding to your engagement," said my aunt, somewhat severely, "we have already heard of it."

"You have heard!" cried Constance.

"With the deepest sorrow."

Constance drew herself up.

"You do not approve?" she asked, proudly.

"We love you too much," said my mother, gently.

Constance looked bewildered.

"You are too good for the wretch!" cried my aunt. "What! Oh, what do you mean?" exclaimed Constance.

"If you marry this man," continued my aunt, vigorously, "you will regret it."

My mother took her hand. "My sister should not tell you this so suddenly."

"It is my duty to speak, and I will," cried my aunt. "I will not let Constance unite herself to this man with her eyes closed."

"What have you against him?" demanded Constance, a red spot beginning to burn in each cheek.

"He drinks," answered my aunt, almost triumphantly.

Constance sank back in the cushions. "I don't believe it," she said, faintly.

"He ill-treats his mother—beats her, I believe," continued my aunt.

"This cannot be true," cried Constance. "Mrs. Granville, tell me."

My mother nodded sadly.

"Alas! I cannot deny it."

Constance arose. "This is awful!" she said, holding on to the back of the sofa. "I could never have believed it."

She put her hand to her forehead. "It is like a bad dream."

"My poor, dear Constance," murmured my mother, rising and putting her arms round her.

My aunt brought up her artillery. "He is thoroughly depraved, and will come to a bad end. His relations are as one on this point."

Constance buried her face in my mother's bosom. "Oh, dear! oh, dear! and I loved him so!" she sobbed.

In the adjoining room I was becoming uncomfortable.

"We thought it right to tell you," said my aunt, moved by her tears, "though Alfred begged and implored us not to."

"I could never, never have believed it," sobbed Constance. "Poor, poor Mrs. Granville!"

My mother soothed her.

"How difficult you must have felt it to tell me this," exclaimed Constance, drying her tears. "It was so good of you. I will not give him another thought. To treat his mother so cruelly! Oh, Mrs. Granville, I am so sorry for you!"

"It is I who am sorry for you," said my mother, doubtfully.

"And no one would have dreamed it. We always thought you were so fond of him and spoiled him utterly. And all the time you were hiding your sorrow. How noble of you!"

My mother looked at Aunt Tabitha, who returned her stare.

"Who ever is it?" said Aunt Tabitha, whispering. "Find out."

"Where did you meet him, dearest?" whispered my mother.

"Meet him? Why, here, of course," said Constance, with opening eyes.

"Yes, yes, of course," said my mother, mystified.

"I thought you would be pleased, and I hurried across to tell you."

"Can Alfred have made a mistake?" muttered my aunt, hoarsely.

The two elder ladies stood still in the utmost embarrassment.

"I shall never be happy again," said Constance, mournfully.

"Don't say that," implored my mother. "Perhaps there is a mistake."

"How can there be a mistake?" asked Constance, raising her head.

"There can be no mistake," said my aunt, hastily.

"How could he be cruel to you?" cried Constance, kissing my mother.

"Cruel to me?" cried my mother.

"You said he was cruel to you."

"Of whom are you speaking?" cried both ladies.

"Of Alfred, of course."

The two elder ladies sat down suddenly.

"You are not engaged to Alfred?" they gasped simultaneously.

"To whom else?" said Constance, in amazement.

"There is some misunderstanding," I observed, smoothly, coming in at the moment.

The three fell upon me together.

It took at least an hour to explain. Yet I had said nothing which was not strictly true.

"You will not allow these practical jokes when you are married, will you, Conny?" said my mother, fondly.

"I will not," replied Constance, tightening her lips.

"Marriage is the saving of a young man," repeated my aunt, grimly.—Chambers' Journal.

ENOUGH CHALK FOR ALL TIME.

Great Block that Was Once as Large as the Continent of Europe.

The small piece of chalk which is in constant use in the schoolroom, the lecture-room, the billiard-room and the workshop has a strange history, the unraveling of which through all its complexities is one of the most difficult problems with which the science of the present day is called upon to deal. This piece is in reality a chip of an immense block of chalk that once filled an area the size of the continent of Europe, and of which even yet several gigantic fragments remain, each hundreds of square miles in extent. These patches are scattered over the region lying between Ireland on the west and China on the east, and extending in the other direction from Sweden in the north to Portugal in the south.

In the British Isles the chalk is found in greatest perfection and continuity in the east and southeast of England. A sheet of chalk more than 1,000 feet in thickness underlies all that portion of England which is situated to the southeast of a line crossing the island diagonally from the North Sea at Flamborough Head to the coast on the English channel in Dorset. This enormous sheet of chalk is tilted up slightly on the west, and its depressed eastern portions that dip toward the waters of the North Sea are usually buried from sight by means of overlying sands and clays. Where the edges of the chalk floor come upon the sea the cliff scenery is strikingly grand and beautiful. Anyone who has once seen the magnificent rocks of Flamborough and Beechy Head, the jagged stacks of the Needles or the dizzy mass of Shakespeare's cliff, near Dover, can understand why "the white cliffs of Albion" has grown into a stock phrase.

This massive sheet of chalk appears again in France, in many other parts of Europe as far east as the Crimea, and even in Central Asia, beyond the Sea of Aral. How far it stretched westward into what is now the Atlantic may never be known, but chalk cliffs of at least 200 feet in thickness are seen at Antrim, in Ireland and less conspicuous formations are found in Scotland, in Argyle and Aberdeen. There can be little question that all these now isolated patches were once connected in a continuous sheet, which must, therefore, have occupied a superficial area about 3,000 miles long by nearly 1,000 broad, an extent larger than that of the present continent of Europe.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Would Follow the Cows.

Justin Sackett, who recently died in Springfield, Mass., at the age of 83 years, was a noted landscape gardener, and laid out Forest Park in Springfield. He had a most remarkably true eye, always making sufficient "offset" or allowance to avoid stiffness in his work. With it all he exercised his shrewd Yankee wit and inventiveness, as this story shows: One day he was driving with a friend, who asked him out of curiosity how he would plan a road to the top of a certain hill that they passed. "Well," said Mr. Sackett, with a twinkle in his eye, "I should turn in some cows awhile and watch how they got up."—New York Tribune.

A Good Excuse.

"Have I done anything to offend you, darling?" he asked, brokenly. "To-day you passed me without bowing and now you sit there with such an air of hauteur and pride that—"

"George," interrupted the girl, with an unbending air, but in her voice a cadence sweeter than music at night, "I have a stiff neck."—Boston Globe.

So Comfortable.

"I always like to see that Senator get up to make a speech," said the drowsy-looking man.

"He isn't very interesting."

"No. When he is on his feet I'm always sure that my nap will not be disturbed by any outburst of applause."

—Washington Star.

Her Bler a Piano.

The latest thing in biers is a piano, and the credit for introducing the novelty belong to Jessie E. Clinton, a Kentucky music teacher. She had been a pianist and until her health failed a few months ago was a teacher in the Somerset (Ky.) schools. She was compelled to resign and go to her mother's home in Louisville to die.

While she was able to be up she played daily at her piano, a large square model. When she became too weak to play she had some of her friends play on the instrument.

Just before her death she told her mother that she did not wish to be laid out in a coffin, but upon the piano, which she had owned for ten years. In compliance with her dying wish the body was laid out upon the piano, which was draped in white. There it remained until the funeral services were ended two days later, when the remains were transferred to a casket and buried.

Curious Dinner at Jericho.

An American traveling in Jerusalem describes an interesting dinner he ate recently at a hotel in Jericho. "We sat on the porch of the hotel at Jericho," he wrote, "after a dinner at which we were served with butter from Norway, cheese from Switzerland, marmalade from London, wine from Jerusalem diluted with water from the well of El-sha, raisins from Ramoth Gilead, oranges from Jericho (in no respect inferior to those from Jaffa or the Indian river, Florida), smoking Turkish tobacco, which, like the Turkish empire, is inferior to its reputation, and a cup of coffee from—the corner grocery of Jericho."

Made Homeless by Fire.
Twenty-five families were rendered homeless Thursday night by a fire on the Kaw river bottoms, just across the Kansas City line. An entire block of frame building were destroyed, entailing a loss of $60,000. Many poor families lost all their household effects. Armour's packing plant was threatened.

England's Wheat Deficit.
The London Daily Graphic published, Friday, a table comparing the prospective English wheat supply at the present time with that of September, 1896, showing a deficiency of nearly two million quarters. It is inevitable, the Daily Graphic says, that the rise in the price of bread will be maintained.

Killed by a Boiler Explosion.
Howell Cobb, son of Capt. John A. Cobb, of Americus, Ga., and a grandson of Gen. Howell Cobb, one time speaker of the house of representatives and secretary of the treasury in Buchanan's cabinet, was instantly killed Thursday morning by the explosion of an engine on his plantation, near Americus, Ga. He was 27 years old and leaves a wife and two little children.

A Canal Across Florida.
Articles have been filed with County Clerk Purroy, of New York City, for the incorporation of the Florida Trans-Peninsular Ship Canal Company. The chief incorporators are Robert May Caffall, Freeman H. Baldwin, H. Boslet Peraza, consul general for the Greater Republic of Central America in New York; Benj. F. Cromwell and Francis P. Fleming. The capital is $75,000,000. The project is to build a ship canal and railway to connect the Atlantic with the gulf, with capacity for the passage of ocean-going vessels.

Cotton Growers Clamor for Paris Green.
There is an enormous demand for paris green just manifested in the last few days at Houston, Texas. The crop report, issued on the 31st, gave notice that worms were very numerous in the cotton, but no such damage as they have begun to inflict was thought probable at the time. Farmers are evidently hard at work trying to prevent the spread of the pest, but the demand comes from nearly all the territory tributary to Houston, which comprises largely more than half the crop, and this would seem to indicate that the worms have appeared in greater numbers than for many years.

Will Die Game If It Takes His Last Breath.
The condemned murderer, Perry, of Atlanta, Ga., made another pass at Governor Atkinson Thursday, by inviting him to call at his cell and help him to pray. "The governor," said Perry, "might spare a little time and help me to pray. Since he has condemned me to death for having avenged the ravishment of my wife, he might come here and join in my prayer; he would seek a light which would make a better man of him for the future. They do not allow my wife to come close enough to shake hands with me, and a man of God, who came to pray with me to-day, could not be heard because of the noise made by the other prisoners." The attorneys of Perry made another strong play for sympathy Thursday by having printed in Hoke Smith's paper a group of Perry's five children, with flaming headlines, stating that the State is about to make orphans of these little ones. "Do not fear for me," said Perry, Thursday. "I intend to die game, if it takes my last breath to do it."

Horrible Death in a Cotton Gin.
Wednesday evening about 6 o'clock, at Tom Rogers' gin, five miles southwest of Bonham, Tex., Dick McCullough was caught in a gin stand and instantly killed. McCullough was working around the gin and went into the room just as the ginner had finished ginning a bale of cotton. The breast of the gin had been raised and McCullough picked up a handful of cotton and threw it on the gin stand. His right hand was caught by the saws, and in an instant he was drawn upon them and their sharp teeth cut into the flesh. His right arm and side were literally cut to pieces. His breast and side were cut until his lungs were exposed, and his neck was broken. He groaned, gasped and was dead.

Only Partially True.
Senator C. K. Davis, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the United States senate at St. Paul, Minn., Friday was asked for an expression regarding the Hawaiian advances to the Associated Press in regard to the annexation treaty. He dismissed the matter briefly, saying: "There is no question in my mind about the truth of the first statement, that Hawaii may at once ratify the treaty. Why not? Their senate can get together easily, and they can readily dispose of the treaty. As to the statement that the United States congress would be called to meet two months in advance of the usual date, I have reason to know that there is no truth in it. The treaty will be finally ratified by our senate when taken up by the body."

Killed for Five Dollars.
Edward Register, a young farmer living near Jacksonville, Fla., was shot and killed by his fourteen-year-old adopted son, Robert, Wednesday night. The boy and a man named Henry M. Tyre were arrested, and Thursday the lad confessed that he committed the murder. It developed that Tyre and Mrs. Register had been clandestinely meeting. The husband caught them together on several occasions, and Wednesday Tyre and the woman offered the boy $5 to put his father out of the way. After supper the boy slipped up behind Register and emptied a load of birdshot into his head. Then Tyre, according to the boy's statement, finished the job by knocking Register in the head with an ax. All three are now in jail, pending a hearing.

Passenger Train Derailed.
A St. Louis and San Francisco limited express for Galveston and other points in Texas, which left St. Louis at 8:20 o'clock Friday night, was passing Valley park station, about twenty miles west of St. Louis at a high rate of speed, when it was derailed and the baggage car, smoker and two day coaches were thrown in various directions from the track. None of the passengers are reported hurt beyond bruises and a good shaking up, but three tramps, stealing a ride on the baggage car, were seriously injured, one having his skull fractured and will die, and the other two having their legs broken. The accident seems to have been caused by a wheel of the baggage car throwing the switch while passing over it, thus letting the other cars to the ground. The sleeper, however, remained on the track.

Half-Mile Track Record Broken.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

A NOTED IMPROVEMENT IN THE GENERAL VOLUME OF BUSINESS.

Woolen Mills Are Buying Freely--The Increase in the Iron and Steel Industry Gains Momentum--The Demand for Cars Is Pressing.

R. G. Dun & Co's weekly review, issued Saturday, says:

Failures in August were in number not 17 per cent. less than in August, 1896, but in amount of liabilities 70.8 per cent. smaller. July and August show a lower average of liabilities per failure than has ever been known in any year or even in a quarter of the 23 years Dun & Co. have kept quarterly records. The improvement is also well distributed, extending to nearly every important branch of business, but in clothing, jewelry and unclassified trading only two of the past 48 months have shown smaller failures, in general stores and furniture only 3, in groceries, hats and iron manufactures only 4, in chemical manufactures only 5 and in clothing manufactures only 6 months of the 47 months. The ratio of defaulted liabilities to payments at clearing houses has been smaller in July than in any other month since early in 1893. August was the first month in which the daily average of settlements through clearing houses exceeded materially that of the corresponding month of 1892, the losses at the principal cities being 12.3 per cent. Nor is this due, as might be supposed, to activity in stock speculation, for the stock exchange clearing-house now disposes of a very large share of the transaction, so that they affect bank exchanges far less than five years ago. The volume of business here has been distinctly larger in other than speculative lines than it was then, and in textile goods phenomenally larger, though slackening this week, buyers having nearly completed their initial purchases. With an extraordinary movement in grain, heavy real estate and building transactions and increased business in iron products, the month was clearly the busiest August ever known.

Wheat continued its reaction until it had fallen 4c or more, but then rose 3c, with the first revival of foreign buying. Western receipts are very large, though not quite as large as a year ago, but Atlantic exports, (flour included) rose to 5,534,758 bushels for the week, against 2,175,453 last year. The estimates which command confidence still indicate a yield of 550,000,000 to 580,000,000 bushels, winter wheat turning out so much beyond expectations as to balance much of the loss in spring wheat. Foreign accounts do not improve and unless more deceptive than was reported, the demand for American wheat will soon exceed the quantity which can be spared.

Continued large exports of corn and buying for export shows still more clearly the extent of the deficiencies abroad. Western receipts for the week were 5,065,470 bushels, against 3,160,318 bushels last year, and such a movement at this season implies a great export demand, not yet reflected in outgo. Cotton speculation made August deliveries costly, spot rising to 8 1/2c, but the market then drifted quickly back to 7.62c. Conflicting news, doubtless, reflects conflicting facts, but the opinion gains ground that the crop will be large, if by lateness not exposed to serious injury. The mills are now running and turning out great quantities of goods. Wool sells largely between speculators, 16,548,400 pounds for the week being the sales. Mills have been buying freely. Great quantities are held by dealers at the west, above prices yet paid at seaboard markets. The improvement in the iron and steel industry gains momentum and a further advance in prices makes 4.5 per cent from the lowest average, August 12. The demand increased for sheets and plates, especially for bridge and shipbuilding, including 10,000 tons at Philadelphia in structural work, of which it is said 2,000 tons have been placed at Chicago in bars, especially in wire and wire nails, and all have advanced an average of $1 per ton. Southern and Western dealers have intended to advance pig 25 cents, Bessemer at Pittsburgh has risen 10c and Eastern markets are stronger. The demand for cars is pressing and work for railways increases. The first shipment of steel rails was made from this country to Australia. Tin is slightly lower at 13.65, but heavy exports, said to cover 10,000,000 pounds, for the next three months, sustain copper at 11 1/2 and lead is strong at 4.10. Boot and shoe shipments are not quite 5 per cent. smaller than last year in August, nor 4 per cent. smaller than in 1895, were 7 1/2 per cent. smaller than in 1894, but were a little larger than in 1892. Buying is still merely for immediate needs, but is sufficient to keep works well employed.

Failures for the past week have been 101 in the United States against 334 last year and 25 against 21 in Canada. England receives about $400,000,000 a year from the amounts it has loaned to foreign countries.

WARD COMMITS SUICIDE.

HE THREW HIMSELF FROM THE WINDOW OF HIS CAR

While the Train Was Running Through Iowa, and Met Instant Death as a Result of the Fall--He Had Acted in a Strange Manner the Evening Before.

H. Russell Ward, of Santa Monica, Cal., who became notorious a short time ago through his connection with the elopement of Mrs. Bradbury, wife of the California millionaire, Jas. H. Bradbury met his death near Wheatland, Iowa, Friday morning by falling or jumping from the east-bound overland limited on the Northwestern railway. His body was picked up two hours after his death.

At 5 o'clock the crew of the west-bound freight discovered the remains of a man, attired in a suit of under-clothing, lying between the double tracks, about half a mile west of Wheatland. The body was picked up and later conveyed to the depot. The dead man was apparently about 35 years old. There was nothing about the body to disclose its identity, but later it was learned that the dead man was H. Russell Ward, and that he had been a passenger aboard the overland limited, which passed at 2:45 a.m.

Ward's ticket from San Francisco to New York was found in the clothing. It is supposed that he arose from his berth in the sleeping car, and mistaking the vestibule door for the door to the toilet room, stepped off the swiftly moving train to his death. He was untouched by the wheels, but his hip was broken and the means of his death was apparent from an ugly wound in the forehead. The body was otherwise bruised. The coroner returned a verdict of accidental death.

H. Russell first gained notoriety by his very marked attentions to the wife of the young Los Angeles millionaire, a seaside resort. Colonel Bradbury, it was rumored, challenged his rival to fight a duel. Matters came to a climax on June 30th last, when Mrs. Bradbury eloped with Ward to San Francisco. Upon their arrival they startled the community by openly admitting their folly and defying public decency by the most shameless conduct. Their career, however, was cut short by their arrest upon the charge of adultery at the instance of the Society for the Prevention of Vice. The case against Mrs. Bradbury was dismissed, and with her husband she at once left for Chicago, where she was met by her husband, who was en route for Europe with his mother. A reconciliation was effected and the couple went to New York, whence they departed for Mexico, where they now are.

When the matter came up for hearing, on August 27th, Ward was dis- upon the ground that the information against him was not sufficient to warrant his being held to answer. His wife, who was in England, sent him funds to conduct his defense and defray his expenses to England. He left San Francisco Monday, announcing that he was going to England and did not expect to return to this country again.

Cotton Pickers Scarce in Arkansas.
The pearl hunting industry is exciting the whole State of Arkansas. The St. Francis river, from the mouth of the river to Jeffersonville, is lined with white people and negroes, all engaged in unearthing and prying open the richly laden muslin shells. One young man brought a small bottle of pearls to Helena Thursday, taken from Philip's Bayou, a tributary of the St. Francis. They are darker in color than the ordinary pearl of commerce, but are handsomely shaped and of good size. All of the chain of lakes in the hitherto impenetrable St. Francis river bottoms are full of these pearl bearing mussels, and if they should prove valuable the whole country will be engaged in the business, to the detriment of crop gathering. Planters are having great difficulty in securing hands to pick their cotton on account of the pearl excitement.

President Andrade Re-Elected.
The election for president of the Republic was held in Caracas, Venezuela, Thursday. Owing to the great popularity of General Ignacio Andrade, the Liberal candidate, Dr. Rojas Paul and General Hernandez, who were running in the interests of the Conservative and progressive parties, respectively, retired from the contest.

Startling Result of a Decision.
The recent decision of the supreme court of Idaho, nullifying a majority of Idaho's laws, may result in liberating a large number of convicts now incarcerated in the State penitentiary, who were convicted on information of the district attorney without grand jury indictment. The act providing for information is said to be unconstitutional under the supreme court decision.

Louisville's Low Death Rate.
The report just issued by Health Officer White, for 1897, says the death rate in Louisville, Ky., 14.4 per 1,000 inhabitants, is the lowest in the history of the city.

A GOOD BARGAIN.

Secretary Pearce Thinks the Compromise Much Better.

Secretary Pearce, of the United Mine Workers, speaking at Columbus, O., Saturday of the proposed strike settlement, said that the agreement had come at a time when the miners had reached the highest success in the strike and if another week or ten days had passed they would not have been in the condition to demand and secure even a settlement at the 64c rate, much less 65c.

In Illinois and West Virginia quite a large number of miners have resumed work and the probability is that before another week had passed, if a settlement had not been reached, a great many more would have followed their example. The miners' officials knew this, perhaps better than the operator, and it is considered fortunate for the miners that they have secured even an advance of 11c per ton, and the officials should be congratulated by the members of the organization on having secured so material an advance in wages. Within another week, Secretary Pearce said, a settlement could not have been made at a 65c rate.

As a matter of fact, while the national officials have given out the information that they have no doubt that the miners will accept the proposition, there is considerable apprehension as to what action the miners may take regarding the matter. The conservative element will no doubt ratify the action of the officials in agreeing to the settlement, but the other element of the organization may prove rather hard to handle when it comes to a vote on the proposition.

If a majority of the delegates come instructed the result of the convention may be in doubt, but otherwise the action of the national board will doubtless be sanctioned.

SAILORS SAVED.

The Crew of the Ill-Fated Schooner Fowler Sunk Off the Cuban Coast.

The Spanish steamship Gaditano, which arrived at Port Eads, La., Saturday morning, had on board a ship wrecked crew who had a thrilling experience. They belong to the American two-masted schooner Chas. Fowler, of Galveston, Christensen master, and numbered seven men all told. While off Cardenas, Cuba, on the night of August 26, which was very dark and stormy, she was run into by the British steamer Mary Anning, and almost cut in two. The little vessel was struck full amidships, and in five minutes had sunk out of sight. It was only through the presence of mind of Captain Christensen that the men hastily lowered the small boat and shoved off just in time to escape the suction caused by the sinking vessel. The men were taken aboard the Mary Anning, and later were transferred to the Gaditano, which arrived at Port Eads Saturday morning. The Gaditano is now detained at Port Eads for three days' quarantine, and when she is released she will take the shipwrecked seamen to New Orleans, from which port they will proceed to their homes in Galveston.

LABOR IS SCARCE.

Birmingham Iron Mills Send to Other Sections for Puddlers.

The Birmingham Rolling Mill Company has been compelled to send an agent to Youngstown, O., and other northern mill points, to get additional men to work in their old puddling mill, which has not been in operation for four years. They now find it necessary to run at their greatest capacity in order to supply the increasing demand for finished iron. Their agents want 200 to 300 men, mostly puddlers. The Birmingham Rolling Mill is operating its sixty-ton steel plant at full capacity and using all the product in the rolling department.

Birmingham furnace operators reported Saturday that they were selling iron more actively than for several months. They are getting a 25-cent advance on all grades, and buyers are forging to the front expecting a further advance. The total sales for the week were over 1,000,000 tons with No. 1 foundry and No. 1 soft, bringing $7.50 per ton. The export trade has fallen off a little, owing to the activity in the domestic market. The operators report the advance as substantial, and the prospect of a steady upward pull very bright indeed. The activity is especially notable in mill iron.

The President at Akron.

The train bearing the president from Columbus, O., arrived at Akron Saturday at 2:30 o'clock. He received an ovation at the station. The president made a brief speech at Grace park, after which, at 5:30 o'clock, with Mrs. McKinley, he started for Canton.

TWELVE MEN KILLED.

TERRIBLE RESULTS OF A COAL DUST EXPLOSION.

Men Were Preparing to Leave the Mine When the Accident Occurred--Two Hours Required to Extricate the Bodies of the Dead.

A coal dust explosion in one of the chambers of the Sunshine coal mine, the property of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, at Sunshine, sixteen miles southeast of Glenwood Springs, Col., Friday night, killed eleven Italians and one American.

The men were preparing to leave the mine on the day shift when the accident occurred. A shot had been fired and instead of its being a direct explosion, it was what, in miner's parlance, is called a "low-out"--that is, the powder created a flame which shot backward and caught the dust that had accumulated in the chamber, instead of dislodging the seam of coal intended. At the time of the explosion there was a barrel of gunpowder in the chamber, which ignited and aided the disaster, which would have occurred through the coal dust explosion alone. The Sunshine, where the explosion occurred, is a peculiar coal, a combination of anthracite and bituminous, and there is a belief that the gathering of coal dust in the chamber of the mine was due to excessive explosion, caused by a desire to empty the chamber too quickly. In the whole property there are 50 to 55 men employed.

The single chamber where the men were killed was the only one damaged. Two hours after the explosion occurred, the bodies of the dead men were all brought to the surface.

A Colorado Train Robbery.

News has just reached Denver that the Gulf passenger train No. 1 was held up and robbed at Twin Mountain, Friday night, at 11:30 by two masked men. The two men got on the blind baggage at Folsom and when nearing Twin Mountain they climbed over the tender of the engine, and covering the engineer and fireman, ordered them to stop when they reached the road crossing. At Twin Mountain two men were stationed at the road crossing with four horses and as soon as the train stopped they began to shoot their revolvers and to intimidate the passengers. Two men entered the express car and blew open the safe. It is not known how much was secured, but it is estimated at from $5,000 to $15,000. Immediately on receiving the news at Folsom, a posse was organized and started in pursuit. A posse also started from Trinidad, at 2 a. m. The railroad company has offered a reward of $500 for the capture of the robbers.

Two Men Killed by an Explosion.

By an explosion of nitroglycerine early Saturday morning at Monongahela, Pa., two men and a horse were killed, a buggy completely demolished, and the bridge across the Monongahela river so badly damaged that it will have to be abandoned until repaired. Windows in the vicinity were broken, and the residents for a mile awakened by the concussion. One of the men is believed to be Charles P. Rankin, formerly superintendent of the Watson Mining Company. It is supposed that the men had the nitroglycerine in the buggy, and that a sudden jar caused the explosion.

The Woodmen's Case.

An injunction issued by Judge Gest, of Rock Island, at the request of attorneys for the Modern Woodmen of America, enjoining Fulton people from interference with the removal of Head Clerk Hawe's office from Fulton, has just been served. After citing by name Master in Chancery McPherson and many prominent Fultonites, it goes on to enjoin all other residents of Fulton, Ill., and Lyons and Clinton, Iowa. The documents are voluminous. Meanwhile a hearing is pending before Judge Gest on the injunction against the removal of the office from Fulton.

Twenty Thousand People in Distress.

An appeal setting forth the fact that great suffering exists among the starving miners, of whom there are 4,500 in Jackson county, O., with families aggregating 20,000 persons, has been issued by the mayor and signed by prominent citizens of Wellston, O. The appeal asks for contributions, local citizens having exhausted their Treasurer and Cash Gone.

Warrants charging embezzlement have been issued for the arrest of Charles M. Charnley, for 15 years treasurer of the Presbyterian board of aid for colleges and academies, Chicago. He can not be found. The American Surety Co. caused the warrants to be issued and allege that Mr. Charnley has confessed to a shortage of $50,000, of trust funds contributed for educational institutions having been used in speculation on the board of trade.

An American Killed by the Turks.

A special dispatch from Canes, Island of Crete, says that an American named Cyrus Thorpe has been killed by Turks near Hierapetra.

The Shelby Sentinel.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.
This paper is entered in the Calera Post-office as second-class matter.

N. A. GRAHAM,.....EDITOR.

CALERA, ALA., SEPT. 9, 1897.

Candidates for different state offices are already beginning to put in their appearance.

Atlanta has thrown her doors open to the people of the yellow fever scourged district.

Seth Lowe is the people's candidate for Mayor of Greater New York. Richard Croker, it is thought, will be Tammany's candidate.

The Age-Herald states that railroad men say that mines in the Birmingham district are bringing miners there from the north by almost every train. The demand for labor is greater than the supply.

The demand for laborers in the Birmingham district, and also in the district, from all accounts is very great just now. The newspapers state that several hundred persons in addition to those already at work are badly needed.

General James Longstreet, the famous Confederate General, now eighty years of age, on yesterday wedded Miss Ellen Dortch, aged about twenty-two years, at the Governor's Mansion in Atlanta. Miss Dortch is the assistant state librarian and is represented to be a most accomplished woman.

Yellow fever, that terrible and death dealing disease, has broken out at Ocean Springs and other points in southern Mississippi and is creating a panic all along our southern borders. Rigid quarantine regulations are being enforced by Mobile, New Orleans, Montgomery, Birmingham and other cities against the infected places.

The Sentinel notes from the Catalogue of the Montezuma University located at Bessemer, that the Bessemer Land Company is offering a number of scholarships in that institution to deserving boys and girls who desire to secure an education. Seeing this, the thought was suggested, why could not the Calera Land and Improvement Co. adopt a similar course towards the Calera High School. It appears to The Sentinel that this company could not do a better thing to promote the advancement of Calera and thereby contribute to the best interests of the company. At any rate The Sentinel throws out the suggestion to the company and regards it as at least worthy of consideration, in the formulation of its plans for the improvement and upbuilding of this town and section as its name implies, that this is its principal aim and object

The Sunny Southland, the new immigration paper edited and published by the Messers Whitaker at this place made its first appearance last Saturday. The issue was a very creditable one and contained many interesting facts pertaining to Calera—facts that the Sentinel has time and again set forth and elaborated for several years past and which it expects to continue to present to its readers. There is no questioning the fact that we not only have the best country and the best climate but the very best people in the world in this Sunny Southland of ours; and it is immaterial with us whether others out side recognize this or not, we know it and are content. If strangers desire to come and occupy with us, if they are the right sort, we give them a cordial welcome, but we are not insisting upon the coming of any and all, merely for the sake of having immigration. The Sentinel hopes that its new neighbor may be instrumental in aiding it in the material advancement and upbuilding of our town and section by influencing the immigration of a desirable citizenship.

YELLOW FEVER.

The announcement that yellow fever, that dreaded scourge, had made its appearance at Ocean Springs and other points in southern Mississippi carried consternation to many Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama towns.

Active steps were promptly taken by neighboring towns in all directions. Quarantines were established and every effort is being made to confine the disease to narrow boundaries and stamp it out as soon as possible.

As yet, the information is that it is practically confined to Ocean Springs, where a large number of cases have been reported. One case has been reported at New Orleans but the health authorities think that the precautionary measures there taken will prevent any spread.

Mobile and Galveston are enforcing a rigid quarantine and Birmingham and Montgomery have also quarantined against all infected or supposed infected points.

Latest accounts state that there are only a few cases at present at Ocean Springs and the feeling is hopeful in regard to stamping the fever out in a few days.

No apprehension has been felt here as our people do not believe that yellow fever can live in this favored healthful region. It was reported yesterday that there were three cases in Montgomery but this was denied by Montgomery's health board.

OUR HIGH SCHOOL.

Prof. C. C. Slaton, principal of the Calera High School is fully awake to the demands of the School and has this week been making a house to house canvass with the view of arousing still more thoroughly the active interest of our citizens in the educational cause. He has also been circulating his handsome and well prepared catalogues in every direction in the adjacent territory. The Sentinel is delighted to know that the outlook for the opening of the school is very flattering indeed. Our whole people are interested and are determined to foster and nourish their school as they have never done any other enterprise heretofore. They propose to make it their pet and pride and to leave nothing undone that will in the least degree contribute to its progress and advancement. The Calera High School is an assured success and with such a faculty as the one having it in charge our whole citizenship pushing and working in its behalf, it could not be otherwise. The Sentinel therefore invites the girls and boys of Shelby, Chilton, Bibb, and other adjacent counties, in fact those of all sections and states to come to Calera and enter the High School if they desire to secure first class educational advantages at the very smallest expense. If you want further information write for Catalogue.

ALDRICH IN TOWN.

HIS CONGRESSIONAL CONTEST SLEEPING FOR THE PRESENT.

Birmingham News.
Hon. W. F. Aldrich, Shelby county, is in the city today. A News reporter asked him how about his contest for the seat of Hon. T. S. Plowman, congressman from the Fourth District, which Mr. Aldrich is contesting. He replied that he necessarily very little was being done just now in that connection because Congress is not in session, but intimated that he would present his case fully when Congress meets again.

GOLD IN TALLAPOOSA.

Prof. Eugene A. Smith, of Tallapoosa, who spent Monday and yesterday morning in the city had recently been down in Tallapoosa county investigating the Hog Mountain gold mining property which is now in possession of T. H. Aldrich, who will work it thoroughly with the most improved machinery. This property it is said, contains one of the very best gold veins in the state and promises very profitable development.—Hot Blast.

GAFFORD-LLOYD KILLING.

STATEMENT OF REV. C. C. LLOYD, FATHER OF THE DECEASED.

Greenville, Sept. 3, 1897.

Editor Advertiser:

An honest, true, brave and good man has fallen by the hand of an assassin. "How unsearchable are thy judgments, O God, and thy ways past finding out."

And now while the papers all over the state and nation are teeming with statements, varied and conflicting, as to the cause or causes of the sad event we want to say there is no shadow of a doubt in my mind or that of his immediate friends and neighbors, that an innocent man has fallen.

Were it necessary, we could preface this statement with the bold, though not egotistical assertion, an assertion we are frank to leave to any and all who have known me to attest, that during the forty years of my life spent in Greenville and vicinity, whatever else may have been my shortcomings, no one has ever questioned my honesty or veracity.

Naturally I admire and love my son and would defend his fair name. So do you and his host of friends throughout the state and nation admire and love him.

The Birmingham Age-Herald of recent date contained an article headed "A Sister's Wrongs Avenged," and with touching and pathetic appeals to the public mind and heart would, if possible, make the impression that the man who did the killing had only discharged a duty due said sister.

Now we would appeal to all fair-minded people in the world to reconcile, by any process of reasoning, the following antagonizing facts with the above statement.

Here are the true relations existing and which for many years have existed between the murderer and his sister.

First, he has never in any sense been a protector or provider, a fact known to this entire community. Both before and after the expiration of his term in the penitentiary, he has spent his time, excepting occasional intervals, varying from one to three months, a wanderer and exile from home and friends. Oftentimes his mother was in utter ignorance as to his whereabouts, turning up when in pressing need of food and clothing. I am creditably informed that this same relation of his in Birmingham who wrote the "touching article" above referred to, once found him in the streets of that city and bought him a decent suit of clothing before he would allow him to present himself at his home. So much as a provider.

Secondly—For two or three weeks, possibly longer, he has left his sister at a destitute home to shift for herself, he stopping whenever allowed among his relatives in the community. So much as a protector.

Thirdly—Since the murder, feeling her life in peril, by reason of the wrath of this same brother, she, with her children, has hastily left the old home.

Now these are not exaggerations, but truths ready to be attested by every citizen in this community. Furthermore, this same "injured sister," indignant by reason of glaring and cruel attacks upon her character and in vindication of the same, comes out in the public press and says the plea set forth by her brother to "avenge a sister's wrongs" is in no sense true. "O consistency, thou art a jewel." Again, we repeat the question, can these things be reconciled? No; after having resolved, from some other cause, perhaps an old difficulty eighteen years ago, perhaps envy, engendered by a comparison of his own blasted life with that of F. B. Lloyd, honored by the people and a brilliant future before him—let it be this thing or that thing that caused him to thus cruelly murder this friend of his boyhood and friend of his maturer years—we are sure it was not done to "avenge a sister's wrongs." We emphasize it, and in justice to the fair name of my honorable and honored son, the world should know it.

Allow me to say in conclusion, what I believe your entire staff will endorse, that Francis Bartow Lloyd was an honorable gentleman, loving and beloved by all who knew him. His happy home was open; his great, big heart was open; life to him was no idle dream; but in obedience to the "first great command and the second like unto it," he loved God and his neighbor, and full of sympathy, full of hope, he walked the earth a full type of earnest, honest manhood. But he is gone, a devoted son, who spared no opportunity to lighten the cares and anxieties of a father now advancing in years; a tender, provident husband and father is gone. But while we mourn his untimely death, and while we read through tears the messages of sympathy and condolence with which the mails are laden from all parts of the State and nation, we rejoice with the best assurance that his happy spirit is at rest forever in the realms of eternal bliss.

Ball in the Age Herald.

There are innumerable signs of a better time coming, which should encourage the citizens of Alabama; and among those hopeful indications comes the announcement of President J. K. Powers, of the university, that there will be no more foot ball or base ball played off the university grounds by the students of that institution. President Powers says the boys must do all their playing on their own campus. This information gives the friends of the State University great hope for its future success. That southern boys who are generally at a financial sacrifice, should spend their precious, irredeemable time rushing over the country playing foot or base ball with rival teams is a reflection on the Universities from which they go, and the young men who have been sent to college by self-sacrificing, ambitious parents to be prepared for the serious and inevitable affairs of life. It is essential to the healthy, active condition of the active mind that the body be well cared for, according to the best hygienic rules, but it is not necessary that two-thirds of his time kicking, pushing and running in order that he may acquire a thorough education. If the physical energy hitherto expended upon foot ball and base ball by American students had been used in acquiring an industrial and mechanical education, the health of the country would be quite as good, and the prosperity of the people greater. Dr. Powers deserves the thanks of the parents of the State. Let the boys play ball on their own grounds, but on these alone. If it become necessary for Alabama youths to expend their surplus energy in active, violent exercise, it would be well to establish an experimental farm at the University, where exercise can be united with useful occupation.

DEATH OF ISAAC WHORTON.

Mr. Isaac Whorton died at his home in Whorton's Bend, just below Gadsden, last Monday night, Aug. 23, after a short illness.

Mr. Whorton had been troubled with a rising in his head for the past week, and was in the city last Saturday to see a physician. While he was in considerable pain no one had the least idea that his illness would terminate fatally. The rising was so far in the head that it could not be reached; he gradually grew worse, and on Monday night suddenly expired.

Mr. Whorton was one of Etowah's thrifty and well-to-do farmers, a good citizen and a loving husband and father, and his loss will be sorely felt, not only by his family, but by his county.

Mr. Whorton was born December 23, 1848, and would have been 49 years old next Christmas. He was a member of Etowah Lodge No. 3990, K. of H., and was insured for $1,000 in that order. His remains were interred in Forrest Cemetery Wednesday afternoon with K. of H. honors.—Gadsden Times News.

The deceased was a brother to Mr. W. J. Whorton of this vicinity.

LARGE WHEAT CROP—RUSH ON MILLS.

The Anniston Hot Blast of recent date gives the following: "The flouring mills of Messrs. Morris and Downing at Choccolocco have been shut down for a week for repairs. This will throw them behind, as they are getting more wheat to grind this year than for many seasons.

The successful wheat crop in this section this year and the recent rise in the price, will probably induce a larger sowing of this important cereal this fall. This is a good way to settle the bread question and reduce the acreage planted in cotton."

A. M. (Dink) Pope, Calera's popular barber, is building a new shop opposite his present location. The feeling of improvement in the town is growing, and we will be a city yet.

Moments are useless if trifled away; and they are dangerously wasted if consumed by delay in cases where One Minute Cough Cure would bring immediate relief.—Dial Bros.

Owing to over crowding and bad ventilation, the air of the school room is often close and impure, and teachers and pupils often suffer from lung and throat troubles. THE BLUE AND THE GRAY.

Both men and women are apt to feel a little blue, when the gray hairs begin to show. It's a very natural feeling. In the normal condition of things gray hairs belong to advanced age. They have no business whitening the head of man or woman, who has not begun to go down the slope of life. As a matter of fact, the hair turns gray regardless of age, or of life's seasons; sometimes it is whitened by sickness, but more often from lack of care. When the hair fades or turns gray there's no need to resort to hair dyes. The normal color of the hair is restored and retained by the use of

An Ideal is not a mere imagination of what is or what may be; it is a conception of what should be—of something nobler than we have yet seen and better than we have done; and, when this conception takes form in the mind, though no external law may prescribe it, though no public opinion may espouse it, it speedily involves what may be a social law in the future, and what must be a private law for ourselves.

Actors like to play Hamlet, for then the ghost walks every night.

Where All the Trouble Started.
She—Do you think, at the rate woman is progressing, that the time will ever come when she will treat the man, instead of the man treating her?
He—I hope not. That was what got the whole human race into trouble, Eve's setting up the apples to Adam.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Lafayette's Grant of Land.
No man was ever more highly honored in this country than Lafayette during his second visit. In 1825 he came as the guest of the nation, remained over a year, and during that time visited every one of the twenty-four States which then composed the Union, and was everywhere received with popular enthusiasm. In consideration of his services during the revolutionary war Congress voted him a grant of $200,000, and in addition to that 24,000 acres of land, to be located by him anywhere among the unappropriated lands belonging to the national government. His 68th birthday was spent at the White House. After his visit he sailed for France in the Brandywine, and in 1834 died in Paris.

Miss Sibyl Sanderson.
This is the singer whom Antonio Terry, the wealthy Cuban, has frequently announced his intention to marry as soon as the divorce court released him from Mrs. Terry. As this event has come to pass in the shape of a decree issued by the French courts no legal barrier now stands in the way. Miss Sanderson has won distinction on the operatic stage, and is at present singing in St. Petersburg, where rumor says she is receiving much attention from the Czar. When she becomes Mrs. Terry she will not need to sing, as her husband to be is reputed to be worth between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

Unnecessary Generosity.
Jose Maria, a Spanish brigand who had received pardon of the government on condition that he renounced his exciting and unlawful profession, used to tell most entertaining stories of his past. On one occasion he said he had robbed an English gentleman and his servant of their horses and everything they possessed, save their clothes.

The Englishman was a pleasant, attractive youth, and submitted to the robbery with great good humor. This appealed to Jose Maria, and as they were forty miles from Seville, whither the traveler was going, he determined that he should not walk that distance, and gave him back his servant's horse and a doublet—sixteen dollars—out of the two hundred he had taken.

The youth thanked the robber warmly, and added that he had still a great favor to ask.

"Will you not return me my watch?" he said. "It was the parting gift of my dear father."

"Is your father alive," asked Jose Maria, "and does he love you very much?"

"Oh yes," said the youth, "he lives and loves me."

"Then," said Jose Maria, "I shall keep the watch, for if your father loves you so dearly, he is sure to give you another."

STATE TOPICS.
Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Lumber Plant Burned.
The plant of the Vine Hill Lumber Company at Vine Hill, Autauga county, was burned last Friday. All adjoining buildings and a large lot of lumber were burned. Loss, $25,000. Insurance unknown.

Engineer and Fireman Killed.
Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway Company engine No. 14, pulling a coal train, was wrecked Tuesday afternoon about 5 o'clock at Pratt City. Engineer Ed Searson was instantly killed, and his fireman, Emanuel Wilson, received injuries from which he died shortly after aid reached him.

To Devote Kaolin Deposits.
Maj. C. O. Godfrey of Fort Payne has secured a settlement of the litigation over the old kaolin mine at Eureka, and, backed by New York capitalists, will develop the kaolin deposits therein on an extensive scale. A large force of men is at work in the old mine. This is said to be the richest and most extensive kaolin deposit in the State.

Governor's Appointments.
The Governor has appointed William K. Campbell notary public and ex-officio J. P., Jones' Switch, Dallas county.
N. H. Robeson, constable, at Russellville, Franklin county.
John A. Fulford, constable, Point Clear, Baldwin county.
John P. Melton, justice of the peace, Dallas county.
W. D. Thomas, justice of the peace at Blocton.

Birmingham's Cotton Receipts.
Birmingham's cotton receipts for the new cotton year will reach 100,000 bales. Five years ago Birmingham marketed but 20,000 bales of cotton. During the cotton year just closed the total receipts were 80,000. This city has one cotton factory and another large one in course of construction, which increases its importance as a cotton center. Two large cotton compresses will also be operated this season.

Rust in Cotton.
Reports have been received at the office of Commissioner of Agriculture Culver from fifty-four of the sixty-six counties in this State as to the condition of cotton. The output for the State will not exceed 70 per cent of last year's crop. There has been heavy losses during the last two weeks on account of rust. The railroad commissioners, who have been over every railroad in the State, recently estimated the crop even lower than the above.

Colored School at Normal.
There are fewer better up-to-date schools in the South than the Agricultural and Mechanical College for negroes at Normal, near Huntsville, over which President W. H. Council presides. They have recently added to their well equipped school a large printing outfit, including a Campbell cylinder press, a large steam engine and sawmill equipments. The industrial display at the Tennessee Exposition made by this school is the subject of much favorable comment.

A Big Pacing Horse.
George M. Garth, of Courtland, Ala., the trainer of several fine pacing horses, has sold Big like to a Boston man for $800. His new owners had advertised him as the biggest pacing horse in the world. He is over seventeen hands high, and 4 years old. Garth says he is a little clumsy for track service now, but when he matures more he will make a record. He was trained by Garth on his stock farm two miles from Courtland.

Lott Suspended.
Governor Johnston has suspended from office E. B. Lott, tax collector of Mobile county, because of his failure to promptly settle up with the State. It is given out at the Governor's office that Lott is at least $26,000 behind with the State, and his shortage may go to $40,000, so it is stated. The suspension is the result of the examination of Lott's books, which has been in progress under the personal direction of State Examiner Purifoy for the past two weeks. It is understood that Examiner Purifoy has not yet completed his work, but he has been reporting the progress, and the figures quoted above are taken from these reports. Tax Collector Lott was one of the oldest county officials in Alabama, having occupied the office of tax collector of Mobile county for more than twenty-five years past.

County Officers' Books.
State Examiner Cowan has handed in his report of the examination of the offices of the tax collector and the circuit clerk of Chilton county. The accounts and the methods of J. T. Hubbard were found in the main correct, his whole indebtedness to the State being only $28. Circuit Clerk Vandiver's office affairs, however, abounded in inaccuracies and improper methods. Referring to the examination of his individual fee book, Mr. Cowan says: "In nearly every case is shown some irregularity. In some instances he charges for services not rendered, allows the Sheriff credit for executing papers not served, charges up witnesses for the defendant against the State, allows witnesses too much for attendance, and various other irregularities appear." The examiner, however, found only $81 worth of errors against the clerk.

Receivers Appointed.
In New York Thursday William C. Lane and Flavel McGee were appointed receivers of the United States Car Company, which has large car building plants at Urbana, O., Hegewisch, Ill., and Decatur and Anniston, this State. This action is believed to be a friendly one in the interest of the reorganization of the company, which has been in progress for some time, as the company had no indebtedness.
Steps will now be taken towards reorganizing the company upon a basis which will permit it to meet its fixed charges and current expenses.
If this can be done the works of this company will probably resume operations. This would mean the employment of at least 1,500 men. The plant at Anniston employs 1,000 men and the Decatur works about 500. Both plants have been idle for several years, the plant at Anniston never having been operated only for a short period.

State Normal College, Troy, Alabama.

Governor Johnston has recently appointed six new Directors for the State Normal College, at Troy, Alabama, in place of six whose times have expired. The new members are as follows, to-wit: Hon. C. A. Scott (ex-M. C. from California), Mt. Pleasant, Monroe Co.; Hon. A. A. Evans, Clayton, Barbour Co.; Senator D. C. Bethune, Union Springs, Bullock Co.; Hon. C. P. Rogers, Representative from (Letohatchie) Lowndes Co.; Hon. J. E. Cobb (ex-M. C. 5th Ala. Dist.), Tuskegee, Macon, Co.; and Hon. A. O. Lane, Birmingham, Jefferson Co.

These, with Hons. Chas. Henderson, O. C. Wiley and J. B. Knox, and Governor Johnston, State Supt. of Ed. Dr. J. O. Turner, and President E. R. Eldridge of the College, ex-officio members, constitute the Board. A called meeting for Sept. 10, to take action on important measures to be submitted by the Executive Committee and Faculty, looking toward the College's extension in various ways, will be held, and everything done that can be to make the session to open Sept. 21st, for forty weeks, better than all preceding it.

Some great advances are hoped for along several lines, of which due announcement will be made. Miss Willie McMillan, sister to Congressman Benton McMillan, of Tennessee, has been selected, recently, as Art Teacher, and she comes from the best masters, according to her testimonials.

Many school officers are receiving aid in the selection of teachers for common and high schools.

THE UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA.

Foot Ball and Base Ball on the Campus Only.

The ruling to this effect made by the Board of Trustees last year is still in force. Hence students will not travel over the state and country playing ball.

Some young men would prefer to have it otherwise. But it is thought that this course will meet the approbation of parents for many reasons. They believe that it will be more conducive to study, the real purpose for which they send their boys to college. Furthermore, College Athletics cost money. It is believed that confining the young men to their own campus will be in the interest of economy. These reasons will commend themselves to persons who do not object on the grounds of abuses that are likely to follow in the train.

The University of Alabama.

It will be gratifying to the friends of this institution to know that when it opens October 6th it is likely to have the largest number of new students in its history. It has been well advertised, and we all know the power of the press in such matters. It is seriously doubted if a paper in the state has failed to note in some way the signs of progress there.

INCURABLE DISEASES.
THE LIST DECREASES AS THE KNOWLEDGE OF SCIENCE INCREASES.

Story of a Man Who Was Given Up to Die by Several Physicians—Who Follows the Advice of a Friend and is Now a Well Man—A Wonderful Story.

From the Leader, Morrisville, N. Y.
"Yonder is a man," said the farmer to a reporter, "who is the talk of this community."

"He is Mr. William Woodman, of South Hamilton, Madison Co., N. Y., a well-to-do farmer, who is well known and stands high for honesty and thrift in this neighborhood."

On the following day the newspaper man called on Mr. Woodman in his comfortable, old-fashioned farm house.

"I have had serious thoughts of writing an account for the newspapers myself," said Mr. Woodman, "but as I am not accustomed to such work, I have never attempted it. Sit down and I will tell you all about it."

"I am fifty-nine years old. I contracted rheumatism when only fourteen years of age, then a severe cold from over exertion and from becoming over heated. My father was a farmer and insisted that the only way to make me strong was to do plenty of hard work. When, however, he saw me helpless in bed for six long months without being able to move except with help, he changed his mind, and forever after believed that children should not be made to do men's work."

"My growth was stopped by suffering, and I do not think I am an inch taller than that day, forty-five years ago. During the forty years ensuing after my misfortune, I was attended by seven doctors. I received temporary relief at times, from new forms of treatment, but always relapsed into a worse and more aggravated condition. The conclusion of all these gentlemen was that I was incurable, and all they could do was to ease my condition. After I grew to manhood I married and have been blessed with a family. My dear wife has had all the drudgery of nursing and waiting upon me, and the burden has been indeed hard to bear."

"Without hope from physicians I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which was highly recommended by my friends. I took them and within one week began to feel better than I had since I was first afflicted. I took these pills according to directions, and when the box was nearly gone I went over to Brookfield to an old friend who was in the drug business, named Dr. Aurelius Fitch, who likewise was a great sufferer from rheumatism. The doctor and I ordered several boxes of Pink Pills in partnership, he from that time keeping them on sale. Well, I continued to take them according to directions for the next three years and steadily improved, gaining flesh and strength. Until two years ago I was able to discontinue them, and now am as able bodied a man of my years as you will find. I ought to tell you that after I found the first box of pills the physician who was then attending me came in and I told him what I was doing. He said I was very foolish, that they would surely injure me, and it was his duty to tell me so. I told the doctor that I might as well die as to drag out a miserable existence, and so, notwithstanding his warnings, continued to take the pills. Thank God the doctor was not able to dissuade me, for to them I now ascribe all the comfort and happiness I have in the world. LATE TELEGRAPH ITEMS.

CHICAGO IS NOW THREATENED WITH A FREIGHT BLOCKADE.

Boy Killed in the Machinery--A Chattanooga Failure--Hanged Himself to a Transom--Steamers in a Collision--A Panic at Johannesburg.

Killed by His Son-in-Law. William Manning, a well-to-do planter, living ten miles northwest of Guntersville, Ala., was shot and killed Friday night by his son-in-law, John Rollins. Both were said to be under the influence of liquor.

Coal Found in Idaho. There is much excitement at Soda Springs, Idaho, over the discovery of what seems to be an extensive deposit of bituminous coal four miles from that city. The tests thus far made have proved it to be of excellent quality.

A Panic at Johannesburg. The situation at Johannesburg is critical and the local authorities are urging the government to adopt prompt measures of relief. The government has consented to name a commercial deputation which will set forth the situation in detail.

Surrounded by Forest Fires. Whiting, Ind., was surrounded on three sides by prairie fires Thursday night. Considerable property was destroyed and much more threatened, and apprehension was felt at Wilcox and Stiglitz Park, which are without fire protection. The people were out in force fighting to save their homes.

Steamers in Collision. The Hamburg-American Line steamer Prussia, Captain Schmidt, which arrived at Hamburg Thursday from New York, was in collision with the steamer Maas, outward bound, requiring the latter steamer to return to port for examination. The extent of the injury sustained, if any, is unknown.

Boy Killed in the Machinery. A fourteen-year-old boy of Kaufman, Tex., met a terrible death there at 6 p.m. Thursday at the McKinney gin. He became entangled in the shafting and his body was whirled around and around, breaking his arm and leg and tearing out great pieces of flesh and otherwise terribly mutilating his body. He died an awful death without ever being conscious.

Lower Duties on American Goods. The Madrid Spain, Official Gazette on Thursday, published the new customs tariff of Cuba. Nearly all American goods are subjected to lower rates. The tariff prohibits the entry into Cuba of arms, projectiles, munitions of war, dynamite, gunpowder, sugars (except Spanish sugar), honey, molasses, silver or bronze coins, secret pharmaceutical preparations, tobacco (except snuff), chewing tobacco and artificial wines.

Sixteen Killed at Lang. It is now believed that sixteen persons were killed in the Santa Fe wreck at Lang, Kans. Charred remains of three more bodies were found Friday. Two of the bodies, a man and a woman, were burned beyond recognition. Little remains of the third body--a shirt-bosom marked "W. B. E." a Knights of Pythias pin and a green stud may afford identification. Engineer Frisbie, who was injured, died Friday.

Hanged Himself to His Transom. R. T. Bray was found dead in his room at Danville, Va., Thursday, hanging by a rope attached to a transom. The body had evidently been hanging since Monday last. Bray was formerly a professor in the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas. He had been living in Danville about a year, and had been unfortunate in business, which caused a dependency that unbalanced his mind.

Must Pay Regular Rates. The treasury officials at New York have been served with a notice from the department at Washington announcing that the special government rate on currency shipments has been withdrawn, and that banks and all currency shippers will in the future have to pay regular express or mail rates. It is surmised that the government was led to take this step because of a mistaken idea on the part of many that gold was desired to fill the vaults of the sub-treasury.

A Chattanooga Failure. The Chattanooga Savings and Building association, Friday, went into voluntary liquidation and applied to the chancery court for a receiver to wind up its business. The association was organized in 1881 and up to 1893 did a very profitable business. Since that time its securities have shrunk and its business has decreased. The liabilities of the concern amount to $66,000. The assets, consisting of several cash items, bills receivable, etc., and real estate valued at $34,000 and outstanding loans amounting to $28,000, it is believed will pay the debts dollar for dollar. The liabilities are confined to stockholders, all of whom are local.

Need More Freight Cars. A freight blockade is now threatened at Chicago. For several days the receipts of grain have been larger than the elevators have been able to handle, and many of the roads are filling up their yards with loaded cars, which are crowding them very badly. The situation is made all the worse by the pressing need for cars that all of the roads are experiencing. The Timberman publishes an article on needed railway equipment in which it says: "The number of freight cars available for use Jan. 1, 1897, was but 1,189,927. During 1896 the railways hauled 773,806,714 tons 121 3/2 miles. The total freight movement this year will be at least 8,000,000,000 tons. To haul this amount the same average distance will require 1,355,048 cars." Taking into consideration the number of cars that will be abandoned and the number that will be turned out in 1897, it is plain that the railroads of the United States will be 175,000 cars short of their proper equipments.

Terrifying a Community. Constable Joe Barkman, received several messages from Sulphur, Tex., nine miles south of Texarkana, Ark., Thursday night, asking for ten men with rifles, to be sent at once. Barkman responded with several picked men, who found that George Kenney and Frank Harris were terrifying the citizens of that community, and were defying arrest, and had fired several shots at the sheriff of Cass county, Ark., who was attempting to arrest the men. A search was made for the men by Barkman, but only Frank Harris, a Mexican, was captured. He was brought to Texarkana and placed in jail.

Capital Stock Increased $3,000,000. At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf Railroad Thursday at Kansas City, it was voted to increase the capital stock to $23,000,000. The former capital was $20,000,000, which, according to the financial plan of the company providing for 800 miles of roadway, including sidetracks, has proven too small. The additional $3,000,000 of stock provides for 120 miles more track. It will be issued in amounts of $25,000 to each mile of track laid. The officials deny that Thursday's action of the stockholders has any reference to a branch from Mena to Hot Springs, Ark., or a branch to Fort Smith, Ark.

A Feud Started by the Hanging of Perry. The killing of Bely Lanier by Horace S. Perry and the execution of the latter at Decatur, Ga., Wednesday, has started a vendetta between two of the most influential families in Georgia. Perry maintained to the last his animosity towards Lanier, and his dying words were a statement to the effect that he was glad he shot Lanier, and would have done so again, if he were given the opportunity. Three of Perry's brothers were at the hanging, and the father and two brothers of Lanier were with them. There was no disturbance at the time, but it has been learned since that Perry's brothers have sworn to avenge his death. Perry was formerly United States marshal in north Georgia, and has many friends there. The Lanier family is one of the most prominent and influential in the State, and a feud between the two will unquestionably result in more bloodshed than any similar difficulty in history. Governor Atkinson is endeavoring to use his official position to bring about an amicable settlement between the two families. But there is very little chance of his success. The Perrys and the Laniers live in the same section of the State, and both families have been noted for many generations for their fighting qualities.

GEORGIA-TENNESSEE.

Boundary Line Between the Two States in Dispute.

There is now said to be grave doubt whether Chattanooga is in Georgia or Tennessee. Facts seem to justify the statement, and a boundary dispute between Georgia and Tennessee seems imminent. The true boundary line between these States is the 35th parallel of north latitude, and this was located by the survey of 1818 on a rock about two feet high and two feet broad on a mountain one mile and twenty-eight poles from the south bank of the Tennessee river.

The survey was made jointly by agents of Georgia and Tennessee, Jas. Camack, mathematician, representing Georgia, and James S. Gaines acting for Tennessee. The stone which they chose to mark the 35th parallel had these words engraved on it: "June 1, 1818, Var. 6 3-4 east, qr." On the south side this: "Geo. 35 North, J. Camack, qr." It will be noticed that the variation of the compass was 6 3-4 degrees east. This introduces the element of uncertainty in the survey. It is believed by experts at Atlanta, Ga., that an accurate survey will establish the boundary a mile north of Lookout Mountain, increasing Georgia's territory and her population about 100,000.

Think it Came From the Isthmus. The quarantine officers at the port of San Francisco, Cal., are on the outlook for vessels from Panama and Central American ports. They will take every precaution to prevent yellow fever being brought to San Francisco. They are acting on the belief that the fever in Mississippi came from the isthmus.

APPALLING DISASTER.

COLORADO CROWNS THE RECORD OF RAILROAD HORRORS.

Trains Collide, an Explosion Follows and Thirty are Dead and Nearly Two Hundred Wounded--Many of the Victims Buried Alive.

The worst wreck in the history of the State of Colorado occurred at 12:25 Friday morning on the track of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Colorado Midland railroads, one and a half miles west of Newcastle. After 12 hours incessant work by the wrecking crews in cleaning away the debris and rescuing the bodies of those who perished it is yet impossible to secure more than an estimate of the loss of life and not even those known to be dead have been identified. Many of the unfortunate never will be known and it is possible that the number killed will always be in doubt. The best information obtainable shows that fully thirty persons are believed to have perished while 185 were taken from the wreck suffering from serious injuries.

The wreck was caused by a head-end collision between a Denver & Rio Grande passenger train running 40 miles an hour and a special Colorado stock train running at a speed of probably 30 miles. So terrific was the concussion that both engines, baggage and express cars, smoker and day coaches and two stock cars were totally demolished and the tracks torn up for rods in both directions. To add to the horror of the scene the wreckage caught fire from the explosion of a gas tank on the passenger train and burned so rapidly that many passengers pinned beneath the debris were burned to death before help could reach them. The general opinion as to the cause of the wreck seems to be that Conductor Burbank, of the Midland special, anticipating the time of the passenger, undertook to "steal a station" and beat the passenger into Newcastle. Burbank escaped uninjured and upon orders from Commissioner Clarke has been placed under arrest by the sheriff. Midland Engineer Ostrander is missing and a thorough search all about his engine failed to reveal a vestige of his corpse.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Strause, who live a quarter of a mile from the scene, say that when the two trains met the shock literally hurled them out of bed. A relief train was sent to the scene and the more seriously wounded were sent to the company's hospital at Salida.

General Superintendent Staple, of the Denver & Rio Grande, happened to be in the vicinity of the disaster and soon reached the scene, taking charge of the work and removing the bodies. Ten bodies were found in the ruins. The charred remains of two women, apparently clasped in each others' arms, were found. Their heads and lower limbs were burned off. In the dress bosom of one was found a lady's gold watch, upon which was inscribed "From Mother to Mamie."

Telegrams inquiring for friends and relatives were received from all parts of the country Friday.

Frank P. Mannix, a newspaper man of Victor, Colo., who was in the smoker and escaped with some painful bruises, said Friday:

"Words fail to express the horror of the scenes. The crash came unknown to anybody. Suddenly all was darkness and confusion. The air was filled with cinders, splinters and heated gases. Then flames darted up on every side. The screams are simply indescribable. The flames were in a sense a God-send, for with their aid the windows were located, even though passengers had to jump through burning flames."

The accident occurred at the worst possible point. Two minutes' running and they would have avoided the wreck, as each engineer could have seen the approach of the other train. The trains collided on a curve or bend around a mountain, and there was no opportunity to avoid the wreck or even to slack their speed. The surviving train men say the trains were not running fast, but the facts seem to be that both the passenger and freight were going at full speed--about twenty miles an hour for the passenger and ten or twelve for the freight.

The Anti-Spiritualist Meeting.

The National Anti-Spiritualist meeting at Anderson, Ind., is creating intense interest and will for the next week, J. Stanley Grimes, of Chicago, who claims to have exposed the Fox sisters in '49, leads in exposure of mediums. The whole doctrine is fiercely attacked. Many spiritualists are arriving, among them Moses Hull, of Chicago, who will challenge the convention for a debate.

Postponed to September 28.

For several reasons that indicated best, the State Normal College at Troy, Ala., has postponed its opening to September 28. This will suit many students who could not enter at an earlier date. Troy is a remarkably healthy place, being 600 feet above the gulf, and no such thing as yellow fever has ever been known there. The college authorities anticipate a grand year's work.

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Coal Output.

The coal output in the Birmingham district is now 25,000 tons per diem. That means, reckoning six days a week as the working time, a monthly output of about 650,000 tons, a yearly output of over 7,000,000.

Sworn in as State Troops.

Col. James M. Cox, of Mobile, administered the oath of allegiance to the sixty-two members of the Eufaula Rifles last week. The measures for their uniforms have been taken, and they will soon receive them. J. R. Barr was elected captain, and Hamiter Graves first lieutenant.

Praising Alabama Wheat.

The operators of the Boyd flouring mill in Huntsville. In an interview, state that Madison county wheat is superior to wheat raised in Tennessee and Kentucky, and equal to that of Indiana and other wheat-growing States. Previous to this year the farmers of the county have planted very little wheat, having doubts of its quality. However, this year the grain forms a great part of the farmers' product.

Dummy Line Sold.

The Birmingham Railway and Electric Company have bought the Powderly dummy line. The arrangements are complete, but there are a few minor details in regard to the transaction yet to be arranged. It is said that the Birmingham Railway and Electric Company will equip the road with electricity and make a loop over its present division and the Powderly line.

Land for Settlement.

Uncle Sam's lands, the titles to which have recently been perfected in the Perdido decision, are being rapidly disposed of under the settlement laws at the land office. These lands were claimed by the Perdido Land Company, but in view of an adverse decision of the government recently, the lands became a part of the public domain, and are being disposed of to settlers. The lands are located in Baldwin and Monroe counties, and are worth something over two hundred thousand dollars.

Committee to Go to Washington.

It is probable that the special committee appointed by the Birmingham Commercial Club to look after the matter of endeavoring to secure the government armor plate plant for Birmingham will visit Washington in a few days for the purpose of appearing before the special naval board that have the matter in hand and urging them to visit this city and investigate its claims. Congressman Underwood of this city, Congressman Gaines of Tennessee and Congressman Livingston of Georgia are expected to accompany the committee to Washington. The committee will meet Monday to take steps on the subject.

Big Deal in Coal Lands.

A big deal in coal lands has just been consummated. The parties were L. B. Musgrove and Maj. G. D. Fitzhugh and associates on one side, and wealthy New York parties on the other. The New Yorkers have bought fifteen thousand acres of coal lands in northwest Walker and Marion counties. Mr. Musgrove put in about eight thousand acres and Fitzhugh and associates the rest.

The purchasers will at once set to work to develop the lands by opening up large mines. Another town will spring up in the corner of Walker county and another field of development be opened.

Two Important Raids.

The revenue officers in Northern Alabama have made two important raids this week. At Rockway, in Limestone county, Deputy Collector Logwood and Deputy Marshal Charles Logwood captured and destroyed a 250-gallon copper still, together with all appurtenances, and 2,000 gallons of beer. The still was owned and operated by W. T. Harrison and James Robinson, who were arrested and carried to Huntsville.

Near Milan, in Jackson county, Deputy Marshals Skelton and Arnold captured and destroyed a moonshine establishment that has been running for several years past. It consisted of a fine copper still with a capacity of 120 gallons and a copper worm. This was owned by Walker Matthews, one of the wealthiest men in Paint Rock valley, who has made whisky for two years past in open defiance of the revenue men, who have never been able to locate his place of business.

Surveying the Warrior Canal.

United States Engineer Joseph Ripley, accompanied by Assistants Barnes and Swift, left Birmingham with a corps of men on the official survey of the proposed Warrior river canal. The surveyors will probably set stakes at a convenient point and work both ways. Mr. Ripley has spent the greater part of the past week on the route, with City Engineer Kendrick, and has his plans mapped out for the work. The route of the proposed canal is as follows: Beginning on Five Mile creek, about eight miles above Birmingham, it will pass through North Birmingham, thence to Bessemer and Valley Creek, continue along Valley Creek to Look No. 3, on the Warrior river, thence to Tuscaloosa. From there the route extends along to the Tombigbee river, thence to Mobile along the Alabama and Mobile rivers. Valley creek will have to be locked, dammed and considerably deepened at points, and it is estimated that eight locks will have to be erected along the Warrior river between the mouth of Valley Creek and Tuscaloosa.

State Treasury Statement.

The fiscal year with the Alabama State Treasury concludes on September 30, but it is already evident that the receipts for this year will be between $50,000 and $60,000 in excess of those of last year, whereas the increase in the disbursements will reach probably $200,000.

This increase in disbursements is due to the expense of the last legislature, which cost the State $53,000; an additional interest of $70,000 on the bonded indebtedness of the State, by reason of the increase of the contract rate on the graduated bonds; an additional appropriation of $15,000 by the last legislature to the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo; an increase in the appropriation to the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institute at Talladega of $11,000, and an increase in payments from the school fund of $33,000 for public school purposes; the appropriation for codifying the laws, $12,000.

These several appropriations consumed $194,000 of the increase in disbursements and the balance represents the increase that is natural in the expense account of a growing State. Had it been possible to avoid these several extraordinary expenses, and had it not been for the Lott shortage, the treasury would have shown a profit this year of considerably over $60,000.

It is said that the filibustering steamer Laurada may be sold at auction. Here's a chance for Weyler to strike a blow for Spain by bidding her in.

A BIG MALT COMBINE.

MILWAUKEE MALSTERS AND BREWERS INTERESTED IN THE TRUST.

Company Formed in New York--To Be Conducted on Gigantic Scale--Virtually Control Business of the Country--Promoters After the Barley Market.

It is learned in Chicago that the men who were the principal promoters in the big malting company which was formed in New York a few days ago are the Milwaukee Malsters and Brewers. Instead of being a simple combination of malsters, it appears that the brewers are also interested in the combination, and that it is to be conducted on such a gigantic scale that it will virtually control the brewing business of the country. The American Malting Company, as the new combine will be known, will have a capital of $30,000,000, instead of $15,000,000 as was announced from New York. Half of this stock will be preferred, and on this there is a guarantee it will pay 7 percent annual dividends. It cannot be learned in Chicago who are the brewers outside of Chicago who are interested, but it is claimed that there are a number of Chicago and St. Louis concerns interested. The American Malting Company in the course of time will centralize the manufacture of malt in such places as Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Philadelphia and New York. All the smaller plants will be closed down. In this way it is calculated that millions of dollars will be saved annually and will go to swell the large profits which are already made by many manufacturers of beer.

One of the far-reaching effects which the promoters wish to bring about is the control of the barley market. There is a sharp competition between the malsters at the present time to get the best barley on the market and they force the prices up, but when the new company will be the only big bidder in the market, it is claimed that it can determine what the farmers will get for their barley.

Herman Nunnemacher, of Milwaukee, was, it is said, the agent of the Milwaukee concerns who brought about the formation of the trust. Frederick Pabst was evasive when asked about the matter, but finally said it may be that the big brewing company will take stock in the new malting concern. The leading brewers of the country have for years been interested in the malting companies of the country, as they form an important part of the brewing business. He would not say more, but practically admitted that the combine had been formed and the brewers are interested.

WAR IMMINENT.

A Dispute in Guatemala Over the Dictatorship.

News just received from Guatemala is to the effect that the country is in a bad way, financially and commercially. During the month failures amounting to $8,000,000 were reported. This total is a trifle misleading, as it represents Central American money, which is very much depreciated in value.

Reni Barrios, the man who was president and who declared himself dictator of the republic a couple of months ago, is exceedingly unpopular because of his recent high-handed action, and there is a demand that Prosper Morales, a lawyer and former minister of war, be chosen to succeed Barrios. To prevent this Barrios intends calling a session of the assembly very soon in order to have himself confirmed as dictator. If he is successful war is almost certain, because the country will not longer submit to his oppression. If he is defeated war is just as sure, because he cannot afford to be driven out of office.

Ex-President Barrios, who made it possible for Barrios to succeed him, has declared that he will never draw his sword excepting to fight Morales, who has threatened to stop his financial operations.

Barrios is alleged to have killed a number of prominent citizens of his country because he thought they were not in sympathy with him. Besides these, 243 men of lesser importance are said to have been slain by his order.

The Old Howard to the Front.

Inquiries are being made almost every day by parties wishing to come to Calera to get the benefit of our school. Unfortunately there are no vacant dwellings in the city to be obtained. Owing to overcrowding and bad ventilation, the air of the school room is often close and insular, and teachers and pupils often suffer from lung and throat troubles. News reached our city that burglars had made a raid on the little city of Wilsonville last night. The Southern depot and several stores were entered. They seemed to have been looking for cash, and very little of this was secured. The job is supposed to have been the work of negroes.

Our free school opened here Monday with Prof. Mynatt, as principal, and Misses Mary Liles, Susie Stone and Ruby Looney as assistants. The prospects are very flattering for one of the largest, if not the largest school in the county. Under our city government, all pupils living within the city limits receive tuition absolutely free.

BURGLARS AGAIN.

The Postoffice at this place was broken into and entered by burglars on last Monday night, the 13th inst. They were however discovered by night policeman Cliff Pilgreen before they succeeded in doing any serious damage. Policeman Pilgreen, as soon as he discovered them, went to secure assistance to effect their capture, but about the time he was getting back to the Postoffice with assistance the burglars took flight and made their escape.

It seems that they secured tools from the blacksmith shop of Mr. John Ingram and with these forced one of the back windows of the Postoffice building. They were making preparations to blow the iron safe open when discovered, and in their flight left powder, fuse and tools behind. One of them also left his hat. They damaged the door of the iron safe with drills considerably. They failed, however, to secure anything of value except about thirty-five cents in money. The Postmaster informs us that nothing else is missing so far as he has been able to ascertain.

There were two of the burglars, both white men. Every effort was made to capture them, but thus far without success.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

On last Saturday night, just before the family retired, the residence of Mr. John T. Wilson near Brierfield, was destroyed by fire. The fire originated about the smoke house and was making such rapid headway when discovered that it was impossible to check its progress. The residence and out houses in the yard were completely destroyed, though some of the furniture was saved. By strenuous efforts the barn and stables were saved. No satisfactory explanation of the origin of the fire had been arrived at at latest accounts. There was no insurance so far as we could learn. The friends of Mr. Wilson sympathize with him in his misfortune.

Mr. Wilson is about fifteen hundred dollars loser.

THE FAREWELL DAYS.

There's a murmur in the maples, a whisper in the vines,
A subtle sense of sorrow in the shadow of the pines;
And the stream in music flowing has the echo of a sigh,
And ripples: "Summer's going. Goodby—goodby!"

The lily seems to languish, the rose is ghostly white;
The golden sunflower droops and dreams through the enchanted night;
The wind is singing round the eaves, and ever with a sigh
That thrills and stills the listening leaves, it sings, "Goodby—goodby!"

"Goodby," the valleys echo: "Goodby," the hills repeat;
"Goodby," from daisied meadows, from gardens violet-sweet;
And bells in dells of twilight, beneath a misty sky,
Seem singing in their ringing: "Goodby—goodby!"

And all the hills sing: "Linger!" and all the valleys: "Stay!"
And all the gardens: "Rest thee here on jeweled beds of May!"
But a sigh is thrilling—filling the earth and weeping sky;
And love, with lips unwilling, kisses "Goodby—goodby!"
—P. L. Stanton, in Atlanta Constitution.

A WAVERING CHOICE.

BY JENNY WREN.

Alone in a large, comfortably, but somewhat sparsely, furnished room sat a young and beautiful girl.

Somewhat she and her surroundings did not seem in accord. The carpet on the floor was somewhat worn; the paintings on the wall gave no evidence of a master's touch; the upholstery was gaudy, rather than refined.

But the girl herself was attired in the latest fashion. Her dress was at once quiet and elegant, and but that she wore no hat, and leaned back the little head heavily on the cushions of her chair, you would not readily have imagined that this room and the one adjoining made the only home Irene Hutton and her widowed mother could boast.

Nor would one suppose that on this very morning, in the small, white hands which lay in such seeming listlessness in her lap, was the momentous scale which should decide the question of her whole future.

It was the old, old question, after all—love versus money—and alternately it balanced with her thought. She looked about the room, and her lip curled.

"Sentiment under these conditions!" was her mental reflection. "And what else could Harry offer me? What would his life and mine become in the ceaseless struggle to make both ends meet? Have I not seen enough of this wretched, genteel poverty? Poor mother! All goes that I may make a creditable appearance before the world; and now no wonder she thinks it hard that, after the long struggle to gain me a proper footing in the matrimonial market, I look coldly upon the first presentable bid. What matters it that the man is older than my father would have been? What matters it that I can never love him? I should wear diamonds; I should ride in my carriage. The dear mother would once more be happy, and only Harry and I would be miserable. Harry and I! Two paupers! What voice have we in the world? None—none!"

And then, with all a woman's inconsistency, down went the scale in favor of money, and down went the little head in the hands which figuratively held it, in a great burst of sobs.

"You mean you've decided to give me up, Irene?"

No one could dream the speaker, Henry Armstrong, could look so grave or speak so sternly, as when, a few hours later, standing in the same room where Irene had fought her fight, he thus addressed her.

His eyes, blue as heaven, seemed fitted only for laughter; his mouth, though it was marked by no lines of weakness, held wonderful sweetness in its corners.

He was a man, young and handsome, well calculated to win and hold a woman's love; and yet the love of the one woman in the world which was precious to him was slipping from his grasp.

"I can't help it, Harry," she answered, wearily. "I am selling myself—you and I both know that; but it must be done, dear. I haven't a cent in the world to bring you, and, poor as I am, I love luxury, Harry; and it would break my heart to see you grow old and gray in trying to make the income, not enough for one, answer the needs of two."

"But we are both young, Irene. With the incentive of your love I will soon double my income. Besides, one of these days I shall have plenty—you know that."

"Dead men's shoes, Harry. We don't either of us want to count on that, and there's no reason why your Uncle Richard shouldn't outlive you. Besides, he may change his mind about making you his heir. It's very strange, rich as he is, he won't allow you a penny now, and as to the incentive of my love, dear, it's only in romance that it has the desired money-making effect."

The girl's words were harder than her heart; but her listener could not look into its depths to discover the bitter ache which lent them their seeming coldness, and his own love and misery made them the more difficult to bear.

"It all comes to this, then—that you throw me over?" he said.

And somehow the question, quiet as it was, held such repression of feeling that Irene looked up, startled.

"Oh, Harry, don't be too hard on me! Don't doubt that my love was true—is yet—though my heart is breaking!"

"Your heart!" he echoed.

And then he laughed, but such laughter! It was more painful than any demonstration of grief.

"Do stones break?" he went on, "You have worn your mask well. Until tonight I never dreamed what lay beneath it. I wish you all joy in your new life! I shall doubtless live to congratulate myself that you tore off the mask in time. You have given me a cure for my folly, though for the moment it hurts. But the girl I loved is dead. In you I do not recognize her. Therefore I can say to you, not to her—goodby."

He bowed and left her, heedless of, or unhearing, the one choked utterance of his name, which was her sole reply.

Six years later, Harry Armstrong, little changed in outward seeming, paced up and down the deck of a steamer, three days out from Liverpool.

The weather had been stormy, and the passengers for the most part had been confined to their staterooms.

Only today a few of the ladies had ventured upon deck. One of these braver ones was seated at the extreme end of the ship, and around her was playing a little child—a lovely boy, four years of age.

"A young widow," thought Mr. Armstrong, stealing a cursory glance at the slender figure draped in heavy black.

A thick, blue veil quite concealed her face, and usually indifferent as he was to women, he felt a strange curiosity to see her life.

When he passed a second time he extended his hand to the child.

"Would you like a walk, my little man?" he asked.

The boy ran to him.

"May I take him, mamma?" he inquired, courteously lifting his hat; but if he hoped to hear her voice he was disappointed.

She bowed assent. He could not know that underneath the veil great tears were rolling down her cheeks.

The child was little more than a baby, his hair hanging over his shoulders in flaxen curls, but all his prattle was of "mamma."

"Where is papa?" questioned Armstrong.

Up went the little finger heavenward, while a solemn look stole over the baby-face.

"As I thought," reflected the man, and he felt a singular satisfaction in having his suspicion verified. "I will hear her voice at least," he determined, and he walked back to where she sat.

"Your little boy and I have become great friends," he said. "I am fond of children, and he has promised me we shall have many walks together."

"You are very kind," was the simple answer.

But Armstrong, as he heard it, grew deathly pale.

"Irene!" he said, as though the name burst involuntarily from his lips.

She instantly threw back her veil, but all trace of tears had disappeared, and only a smile was on her lovely lips as she extended toward him her hand.

"You won't refuse to shake hands with me," she said, sweetly. "I recognized you at once, Mr. Armstrong, and I also recognized that, on the narrow confines of the ship, avoidance of each other would be impossible. Here, at least, we may be friends?"

Not for six years—not since the moment he had left this woman's presence—had Harry Armstrong's heart beat as madly as in this hour; but her composure helped him.

He let his fingers close over hers with no warmer pressure than in unexpectedly meeting any chance acquaintance; but the warmth had gone from his tone, as he replied:

"Friends always, I trust. Six years have changed you very little, Mrs. Bacon."

A red flush rose to her cheeks as he spoke her name, and she answered hurriedly, as though some embarrassment possessed her.

"So my rival is dead," mused Armstrong, when he found himself again alone. "And the old madness is upon me. We both stand now on equal ground at least. Does she know? I wonder! Has she heard that one year after the day she jilted me I came into my fortune? Not a long waiting would it have been for either of us. Perhaps, as John Bacon's widow, she will endeavor again to inveigle me into believing her true. Ah, one lesson such as I have had lasts a man a lifetime. And yet—oh, God, why can I not forget her? Before I knew who she was the old attraction drew me toward her. After I leave this ship I pray that we may never meet again."

Perhaps because Harry Armstrong really was so earnest in this prayer he concluded he must make the most of the present. Perhaps it was the old story of the candle and the moth, but certain it was that day after day found him beside his old love.

They never spoke of the past. They never resurrected the dead. Their hands never met even in a "good morning." Yet they laughed and talked as though each did not feel the mad heart-beats every instant they were together.

It was the last day out. Irene and Harry were alone, the child playing at their feet, when a lady approached them, leaning on the arm of her maid, pale and wan from recent illness.

"I concluded the air might do me good," she said, languidly, as Irene quickly arose and assisted her to a chair, then turned and presented her to Mr. Armstrong.

"You are my little boy's friend," said the stranger, extending her hand gracefully. "He has talked so much of you—and Miss Hutton tells me you are an old friend of her own."

From one to the other Harry Armstrong looked in blank surprise.

He stammered some reply illy according with his usual ease, then, standing before Irene, he offered her his arm.

"Will you take a turn on deck with me, Miss Hutton?" he said, emphasizing her name.

She rose instantly. They walked to the other end of the ship, when he paused and confronted her.

"Irene, now tell me what it all means," he said.

"Only that I am, Miss Hutton still. I—I saw your mistake and encouraged it, hoping you might never know the truth. My mother died and I was penniless. I am companion to the lady to whom I just presented you and governess to the little boy."

"Why did you not marry?"

"You have no right to question me." "I assume the right, and, by the heavens above, you shall answer me."

"I—I could not. Oh, this is cruel, Mr. Armstrong! Yet perhaps I deserve that you should know the truth. I could not perjure myself at God's altar. Loving one man, I could not swear to love and honor another. I chose poverty, loneliness and my own self-respect."

"And the man you loved—you have ceased to love him?"

She made no answer, but her head bowed lower, and he could see the great tears rolling silently down her face.

"Suppose he could offer you today little more than he offered you then, Irene, what would your answer be?"

"Harry, Harry, don't mock me," she cried. "You cannot know the emptiness of my life or you would not hold out to me the semblance of its rich fullness. I deserve my fate. Let me accept it."

"Only in accepting me, Irene. Ah, my darling, it was your true self I loved, after all. You strove to wear the mask and could not. Heaven has indeed been kind to us, my love. I came on this ship a lonely, desolate man, though fortune has smiled upon me, and I can offer you, Irene, a home worthy of you. The old days of toil and struggle have ended; but after all they were the rich days, dear—rich in hope and rich in love. I have been poor ever since in all that makes life's real wealth—until tonight. Irene, you have loved me always?"

And over the wide ocean the winds swept and whispered answer. "Always."

And into two human souls crept perfect peace.—Saturday Night.

St. Elias Has Defeated Famous Climbers.

Four important attacks have already been made on the Elias peak: Lieutenant Schavaka's in 1885, which attained a height of 7200 feet via the southwest flank. This was futile enough to stir the blood of all good members of the Alpine club, for Elias is 18,000 feet high—not therefore among the very first giants, but grisly enough because of its Arctic condition. An Englishman named Topham went the Lieutenant 4000 feet better in 1891, and in 1893 Mr. Russell tried the northwest slope. The first effort failed, but next year he came back to the same starting point, and had climbed about 14,500 feet, when the weather suddenly thickened and the avalanches thrust him back. It is this northwest route that the Prince Luigi Amadeo, Duke of Abruzzi, and his comrades will probably take. On his staff, which includes four experienced Alpine guides and some Americans, is Vittorio Sella, the fearless Italian mountain climber; he takes with him a camera, with which he does wonderful work in reproducing impressive scenes at great altitudes, and in giving wonderfully faithful representations of the glaciers and their action on the earth crust.—Scribner's

IS UNDOUBTEDLY "YELLOW JACK."

Government Experts Express Affirmative Opinions.

DECISION REMOVES DOUBT.

Dr. Guiteras and Others Hold Autopsy On Body of a Victim.

A special from New Orleans says: Up to Thursday night there had been no change in the fever situation.

The news from the Mississippi Sound was satisfactory and disappointing—satisfactory in that Dr. Guiteras and the other government experts had declared that yellow fever existed at Ocean Springs and Biloxi, confirming the judgment of Dr. Oliphant and his associates, and disappointing because the fears of the public have been realized.

Of course the decision of Dr. Guiteras has set at rest all doubt that yellow fever exists at Ocean Springs. But the people there find some consolation in the fact that peculiar conditions surround the death of Sherry Seymour. He was in bad health before he was stricken, was dissipated and unnecessarily exposed himself.

He was first treated with primitive methods by his family, no physician was called for four days, and when he showed temporary recovery he over-ate himself and died. Dr. Guiteras, Dr. Murray and all who participated in the autopsy, declared, however, that there was no question that the man had died of yellow fever.

One of Dr. Guiteras' doubtful patients, a child, died Thursday.

Proves To Be Yellow Fever.

In Dr. Guiteras' opinion the prevailing fever is not yellow fever, but there are isolated cases of that dread disease. Dr. Guiteras has pronounced the case of Ernest Benges, now sick, as yellow fever. Late Thursday evening the three cases heretofore reported as existing at Biloxi were confirmed as yellow fever by Drs. Murray and Gant after a careful investigation.

They are thoroughly isolated and it is confidently predicted that a spread of the contagion will be prevented. The sensational report given out that there were seven additional cases in Biloxi is now pronounced to be without foundation.

A feeling of depression exists in Biloxi, but the little city is rising equal to the situation and a couple of tons of disinfectants are being scattered through the town.

A late dispatch brings the information that a lad named Theodore Sanchez, in Biloxi, shows a decided case of yellow fever, as diagnosed by Dr. Haralson. No communication is allowed with inmates of the house. Dr. Salamon and Dr. Kelly examined nine cases of fever in Moss Point. They declared that there is no case of yellow fever in that town, nor even suspicious case.

Precautions in New Orleans.

Dr. Guiteras, will go to Biloxi and Scranton after he has completed his investigation in Ocean Springs, Mayor Flower, of New Orleans, was asked if the fever would have the effect of inducing the authorities to give the city a cleaning up. He replied in the negative, but added, however, that as President Oliphant believed a thorough cleaning was required to keep the fever out, it would be done.

Passenger trains leaving the city Thursday carried only ordinary passengers. Dr. Seeley, who has been nursing patients at Ocean Springs, has been stricken with yellow fever at his home at Perkinston, Miss.

The case has been officially confirmed and Dr. H. S. Guley, of Meridian, state health officer, has gone to Perkinston to take charge of the town and establish quarantine.

ONE MORE VICTIM

Of the Disastrously Fatal Gas Explosion In Cygnet, O.

Fred Snyder, justice of the peace, died at Cygnet, O., from injuries received at the gas explosion in the town several days ago.

This makes six deaths, and three others, Carl Gibbons, LaFayette Sutton and Herbert Stevens, are dying.

Harry Stevens had both legs crushed so that amputation was necessary.

MILLIONS FOR PENSIONS.

Report From Interior Department Give Year's Figures.

The annual report of the auditor of the interior department at Washington shows that the annual amount paid for pensions during the past year was $140,477,637.

The payments on pensions account for the fiscal year 1896 was $128,722,127, and for the fiscal year 1895 $140,536,641; 1894, $138,119,551, and for 1893, $154,552,214.

The cost of the service last year was $3.99 per $1,000; for 1896, $4.07; for 1895, $4; for 1894, $3.77, and for 1893, $4.35.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

New Industries Projected or Established the Past Week.

Though the fall season has not fairly opened yet, southern correspondents report a large increase in trade. The demand for all manufactured products is active, and the mills that closed down during the dull season to curtail production have nearly all resumed operations.

The iron market is strong and sales are increasing with advancing prices. The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company have advanced schedule prices on pig iron 25 cents per ton and report a $50,000 sale of pig iron. Southern iron is in active demand and the outlook is very encouraging.

The lumber and textile industries show a corresponding increase in business, and some cotton mill companies, though running day and night, are still behind with orders.

Among the new industries reported for the week are the following: An electric light plant at Terrell, Tex.; flouring mills at Concord, N. C., and New Market, Va.; the American Mining and Exploration company, capital $200,000, at New Orleans, La.; the Mott Petroleum company, capital $150,000, Charleston, W. Va.; the Southwestern Production company, capital $30,000, Parkersburg, W. Va., to develop oil and gas property, and a knitting mill at Bronwood, Ga. Wood-working plants will be established at Crestview, Fla.; Louisville and Uniontown, Ky.; Earlybranch and Sumter, S. C.; Trimble, Tenn.; Lewisville, Tex., and East Radford, Va.—Tradesman (Chattanooga, Tenn.).

GEN. AVERY PASSES AWAY.

Death Caused by a Fall Which Resulted in Paralysis.

General Isaac W. Avery, a prominent Georgian, died Wednesday afternoon at his home in Edgewood, a suburb of Atlanta, from the effects of a fall which he sustained the night before.

Isaac Wheeler Avery was born at St. Augustine, Fla., May 2, 1837. His father traced his lineage to the English kings.

In 1861 he aided in the capture of Fort Pulaski, and volunteered as a private in the first company of the war in the Eighth Georgia regiment, and served to the end of the struggle.

He was in the Bull Run battle and was successively promoted to the rank of captain, major, lieutenant colonel and colonel of cavalry in the west, commanding a brigade the last year.

Just before the surrender he was made brevet brigadier general, but in the excitement and turmoil of the closing days failed to receive his commission. In the opinion of military men, however, he was entitled to that rank, and during the last years of his life he was known as General Avery, although with characteristic modesty he never claimed the title.

DEATH LIST GROWS.

Loss of Life In Santa Fe Wreck Was Frightful.

Twelve known dead, one missing and probably incinerated and fourteen injured, two of whom will likely die, is the record of the terrible head-end collision on the Santa Fe so far as known.

The first lists were mixed because of the confusion attending the wreck. It is not positively known that the list given is complete, as it is believed that several were burned to death and nothing left by which they could be recognized.

The bodies of eleven were found in the debris, three burned beyond recognition.

Nothing could be found of the remains of Wells-Fargo Express Messenger J. F. C. Sauer. A handful of charred bones taken from the wreck, however, are supposed to be his. Near them were found his watch.

GRAVES WILL BE MARKED.

Confederates Who Died In Northern Prisons to Receive Recognition.

The preliminary arrangements toward marking the graves of confederate soldiers who are buried from northern prisons have been made by a joint committee from Lee camp, the Daughters of the Confederacy and the Sons of Veterans, at Richmond, Va.

At a meeting of this body Thursday night a sub-committee was appointed to select the places at which monuments shall be erected.

RECEPTION TO THE PRESIDENT.

Citizens of Somerset, Pa., Give Him an Enthusiastic Welcome.

President McKinley was given a public reception at Somerset, Pa., Thursday evening. The crowd present numbered nearly 3,000, and as many people gathered in front of the Ensley residence, where the presidential party were serenaded.

President McKinley appeared on the porch, and in a five minutes' talk thanked the band and the crowd for the serenade, and then introduced Governor Lloyd Lowndes, of Maryland, who was to spend the night as the guest of Mr. Abner McKinley. The governor spoke in a happy vein for ten minutes.

HUMOROUS.

A bad sign—To sign another man's name to a note.

Short men always rise early; it is impossible for them to lie long.

"Wot's de matter wit' ye, Weary? Ye look sad." "Gee! I dreamed I wuz workin' in a soap factory last night."

Judge—Haven't I seen you before somewhere? Prisoner—I should not wonder. I have been in some queer places in my time.

"Gracious me!" exclaimed a lady in a Boston witness-box, "how should I know anything about anything that I don't know anything about."

"How dare you, sir!" she exclaimed after the deed was done. "You must not mind me," he replied. "I am a chronic osculatory kleptomaniac."

Mr. Kashbocks—My money is a lot of trouble to me. Miss Waying—They say every man ought to have some woman to share his troubles.

She—Is the bicycle taking the place of the horse in Paris? He—No, indeed! There isn't any old bicycle that was ever made that was good enough to eat.

Fuddy—As I was coming along I saw Gordon splitting wood. Duddy—Just like the clump! That fellow doesn't know the difference between exercise and work.

Jimmy Dragjeans—Aw, dat guy made me tired, fer he said he wuz savin' his money fer a rainy day. Casey de Kidder—Yes, an' den it will be too wet fer to burn it.

A political speaker accused a rival of "unfathomable meanness," and then, rising to the occasion, said, "I warn him not to persist in this disgraceful course, or he'll find that two of us can play at that game."

"That's Dobbins over there—that shabby fellow. You wouldn't think he had let a dozen or more fortunes slip through his fingers." "No, is it possible?" "Yes it is. He used to count pennies in the mint."

"They do say that every American is a born inventor," said the patriotic gentleman. "My husband," said the fat lady, "is an exception. He uses the same old excuses for being out late that I used to hear my father use."

Mrs. Jones—Why, Mrs. Brown, you're not going so soon? I thought you were to be here all the season! Mrs. Brown—I did intend to; but my husband has just sent me a check for two hundred dollars—without a murmur!

New Pedagogue (fresh from the East)—I know exactly what you want, gentlemen. You do not wish a lot of inconsequential facts crammed into the children's heads. You want me to teach the young idea how to shoot. President of the Texan School Board (enthusiastically)—That's it, stranger.

A Blunder in Spelling.

Through the blunder of some unknown person, committed years ago, a glaring piece of inexcusably poor spelling is still on view in the finance committee room in the city hall, and is the subject of much unfavorable comment by historical scholars. The portrait of the Rev. Henry Augustus Muhlenberg hung for many years in Independence hall as a tribute to the preacher-patriot's services during the Revolution, with his name beneath it spelled "Henery Muhlenburg." The same egregious errors are now visible in the city hall. The Rev. Henry Augustus Muhlenberg was one of the first Lutheran ministers in this country. On one occasion he carried a gun into his pulpit at Reading, and at the conclusion of the services invited all his male parishioners to follow him to Valley Forge, which they did. Dr. Muhlenberg was also the first speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States after the Constitution was adopted in 1789, and his name is at least worthy of sufficient remembrance to be spelled correctly.—Philadelphia Record.

By the Roadside.

"The trouble with your machine," said the scoffer in the buggy, "probably is that it was tired when you started out."

"Yes, sir," answered the cyclist by the roadside, still plying his air pump vigorously; "but it's getting its second wind."—Chicago Tribune.

This paper is entered in the Calera Post-office as second-class matter.

N. A. GRAHAM, Editor.
CALERA, ALA., SEPT. 23, 1897.

Alabama day at the Nashville Centennial has been postponed until October 22nd, owing to the prevalence of yellow fever.

Latest reports show that the cotton crop will be several hundred thousand bales less than the August and early September estimates.

The McKinley administration has not thus far shown much regard for the wishes of the people in this southland of ours. The newly appointed Postmaster at this place, Judge Jno. A. Campbell, took charge of the Postoffice as Postmaster Vance's successor on last Sunday, in spite of the wishes and protests of nine tenths of the people, the patrons of the office.

There is very little change in the yellow fever situation in Mobile. In New Orleans an increase in new cases is reported at last accounts. The situation at Biloxi, Ocean Springs and other points is about the same. The outlook on the whole seems to be more favorable than otherwise for an early termination of the plague.

President McKinley has forfeited the respect of the people of New Orleans among whom he had many warm admirers by appointing to the most important Federal office in that city a negro notorious for his vicious and corrupt character, a negro odious to respectable citizens of his own race as well as to the whites. Is this the way in which President McKinley expects to build up the republican party.—Atlanta Journal.

The present republican administration seems determined to give the southern people a full dose of negro officials, and the indications are that the purpose on its part is not so much to benefit the negro as it is to humiliate the southern white people by forcing them to submit to negro officials in offices where they come in most direct contact with the white people, ladies as well as gentlemen. It is that same old spirit of sectional hatred on the part of the North that deluged this country in blood in the sixties, and if continued may bring about similar fruit before the nineties pass by. Its object is, as is very evident, to bring about in the first instance a conflict of races in the South, and the officials of the administration, from President McKinley down, who are pursuing this policy, are criminally guilty of disturbing the peace, harmony and well being of the country. This is supposed to be a free republic—a government by the people and for the people, and not a despotism, but it appears from the reports from the little town of Hogansville in the state of Georgia that the federal officials seem to think that they are autocrats who must be obeyed; that the people have no rights that they are bound to respect; that if it suits their purpose to impose a negro postmaster upon them they must accept and receive him without protest or question, and if they dare to raise their voices in protest or to resort to other means to avoid coming in contact with or giving patronage to such official, to coolly inform them that they have got to take him and that they propose to see to it that they do take him and honor him and give him their patronage if it takes the United States to compel them. These autocratic officials call the protests of the people against such treatment rebellion, and call to mind what Uncle Sam did in 1861-5. Well it may be rebellion, but it is such rebellion as will always appear in this Southland whenever a negro is appointed an official over white people. If Mr. McKinley wants negro postmasters, why not appoint one for Canton, Ohio.

THE CALERA HIGH SCHOOL.

A Splendid Opening.—Eighty-Seven Pupils Enrolled.

The Calera High School threw open its doors this morning and the opening was truly a splendid one. At the appointed hour an audience of the parents and children of Calera to the number of perhaps three hundred assembled in the large chapel of the school building. The scene presented was an animated one, the bright-eyed children and the cheerful parents bespeaking the interest felt by all in the important occasion.

The School Board had exerted itself to make all necessary arrangements as complete as possible. An able corps of teachers had been secured, and the building had been put in order and furnished with excellent equipments and appliances. And now that the time had arrived for inaugurating this most important enterprise, the most important that has ever engaged the attention of the people of Calera—the establishment of a graded free school of high order in their town, all was expectancy.

Prof. C. C. Slaton, the principal of the school, called the assembly to order. After a few pertinent and timely remarks befitting the occasion, and music by the ladies, Rev. G. B. Russell offered prayer. At the conclusion of the prayer an appropriate song was given and the enrollment of pupils followed. When this was concluded it was announced that the number enrolled was eighty-seven.

As a protracted meeting was in progress at the Cumberland Presbyterian church near by, and the hour for the morning service had arrived, the assembly adjourned to attend the services, with the understanding that it would re-assemble at the school building at 1:30 p. m.

At the appointed hour in the afternoon the exercises were resumed. Appropriate addresses were delivered by Mr. L. V. La Taste, of Montgomery, the representative of the University Publishing Company, and Dr. C. C. Oliver and Prof. C. C. Slaton. Music was interspersed between the addresses. Miss Mary Huggins, the music teacher, presiding at the organ.

At the conclusion of the addresses Prof. Slaton, in behalf of himself and the other teachers of the school, thanked the audience for the interest manifested in the success of the school and expressed himself as very much gratified at the splendid opening.

The Sentinel congratulates the School Board, the parents and the teachers upon the successful inauguration and the brilliant opening of an enterprise which is destined to be of far reaching importance and benefit to this town and community.

Success to the Calera High School.

The shortage of Commissioner Culver appears to have been rather hastily reported. The indications are that it was a shortage only in appearance, or technically speaking. The illness and subsequent death of his clerk who kept the books occasioned it. As soon as the books were straightened out and the amount of money due was ascertained the Commissioner paid it over, having it in hand as he did all the time. The State is not a cent out, and the books and the money balance. This is the way The Sentinel understands it, and furthermore thinks that Gov. Johnston or whoever is responsible for the reported shortage has done the Commissioner a great wrong. The Sentinel does not believe there was any crookedness or attempt at crookedness on the part of either Commissioner Culver or his clerk, and believes further that the insinuation of any such condition as a shortage in his office was altogether uncalled for and unjust to Major Culver.

TRUSTEES HAVE A MEETING.

President of Montevallo Girls' School Gets His Money.

Montgomery, Ala., September 19.—(Special to Constitution).—The board of Trustees for the Montevallo Girls' School met in called session at the Governor's office yesterday, only five members out of thirteen being present—the Governor and Messrs. Moody, Wadsworth, Alston and McQueen.

While the meeting was called to specially consider the matter of free scholarships, that turned out to be a matter of small interest compared with a wrangle over paying to President Reynolds a little over $1,000 which was lost in the Commercial bank fail at Selma.

The money lost by Captain Reynolds was not part of the school funds.

but personal money, belonging to pupils, which they deposited with the president for safe keeping. It was their money to pay board and other expenses with, and it was his custom to keep it for them. He lost it in the bank failure, but made it good to the girls.

At two previous meetings of the board motions were made to pay this money to President Reynolds, but it failed. At commencement, with eleven members present, it received little support and was withdrawn. At the meeting today it was renewed and passed by a vote of 3 to 2, the Governor and Mr. Moody voting no.

The Governor's opposition was so emphatic that he had his written protest spread on the minutes. The money is to be paid out of incidental fees collected by the president.

Acting on the opinion of Attorney General Fitts, the board decided that the act calls for free tuition only in the county scholarships and for free board and tuition for one girl from each congressional district.

These district scholarships will be assigned at the regular annual meeting next commencement. Three hundred free tuition scholarships will be apportioned equitably among the counties.

WHAT IS THE YELLOW FEVER.

In view of the excitement occasioned by the outbreak of yellow fever on our gulf coast, it is pertinent to make some inquiry into the nature of this foul malady.

Dr. C. H. Tebault, of New Orleans, who has been identified with the treatment of yellow fever for more than thirty years, contributes to The Picayune, of that city, a thorough diagnosis of the disease. Says this able authority:

Yellow fever is an infectious, acute and eruptive fever. The eruption is so faint in some cases that it is overlooked before the physician sees the case, but if seen early, and a close inspection is made an eruption will be found on the skin and on the mucous membrane of the mouth and fauces. The eruption indicates that there is something of an irritant character in the blood, and is doubtless the cause of changes found in the internal viscera, especially the stomach and kidneys, producing in the stomach that softened condition found in its mucous coat, which superinduces black vomit through necrosis into some blood vessel of the stomach. This irritant substance circulating in the blood damages the kidney and is the cause of the albumen found in the urine associated with the disease. Yellow fever has three stages, the first, febrile, is ushered in suddenly with a chilly sensation, and often a distinct rigor. Fever rises rapidly; there is more or less headache and other pains and more or less irritability of the stomach and nausea. The first stage lasts from twenty-four hours to three days. This is followed by a remission, or second stage, where the fever subsides, pains disappear and the patient rapidly convalesces or merges into the third stage known as the stage of collapse. In this stage the fever becomes very much higher; the gastric irritability increases into great nausea and repeated vomitings. Albumen is found in the urine, and frequently blood oozes from all the mucous surfaces and is passed by the bowels. Black vomit is associated with this stage, the patient dies from exhaustion or gradually recovers by slow stages.

Dr. Tebault takes a hopeful view of the situation in New Orleans. On account of the lateness of the season and the well regulated sanitary condition of the city, he believes that no serious damage will be wrought by the plague and that after a few days the excitement attendant upon the outbreak of the fever will subside completely.

MINISTER ASKS INJUNCTION.

Dr. Dickinson Doesn't Like Ruling as to Girl's Industrial School.

Selma, Ala., Sept. 21.—Special.—Dr. A. J. Dickinson, pastor of the First Baptist church and who is spoken of for governor, today notified State Auditor White that he will be enjoined from turning over any of the state funds to the Girl's Industrial School at Montevallo on the grounds that section two of the act creating the school had been disregarded.

As he construes the section it provides for free scholarship and free board under certain conditions and requires all other pupils to pay tuition. He says that no tuition has been charged any pupil. The School had 250 pupils the first year and this the second year, about 600 have applied so far.

Dr. Dickinson, who is a trustee of the Judson Institute for young ladies, claims that the Industrial school as run will ruin the business of private and denominational colleges.

His institute opened today with the largest enrollment for many years. The Girls' Industrial school is extremely popular and the question raised will interest the entire state.

THE TRUTH STATED.

From the Albany, Ga., Herald.

The negro is all right in Georgia and can have friends amongst the best white people so long as he knows his place and keeps it; but the time has not come yet when it is safe to put him in official position over white people. The sooner the republicans understand this and the negroes themselves accept it as a fact the better for all concerned. Whether we have a republican administration at Washington, Georgia is, and will continue to be for generations to come, a white man's state, and anything that savors of negro domination will be resented. The better element will never resort to such deeds as that attempted at Hogansville last Wednesday night; but whenever public opinion is defied by political bosses, as was done in this case, there will be those who cannot be restrained from violence.

"My boy came home from school one day with his hand badly lacerated and bleeding, and suffering great pain," says Mr. E. J. Schall, with Meyer Bros. Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo. "I dressed the wound, and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely. All pain ceased and in a remarkably short time it healed without leaving a scar. For wounds, sprains, swellings and rheumatism I know of no medicine or preparation equal to it. I consider it a household necessity." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Dial Bros.

Owing to overcrowding and bad ventilation, the air of the school room is often close and impure, and teachers and pupils often suffer from lung and throat troubles. CHANGED HANDS.

Calera's postoffice changed hands on last Sunday. Mr. F. M. Vance, the retiring postmaster, leaves the office with the respect, confidence and esteem of all the people whom he has served so faithfully and so well during the four years and two months that he has held the position. As to his faithfulness in the discharge of the duties imposed upon him it is only necessary to say that during his entire term he was absent from the office six days, all told, and this was occasioned by illness. Ever prompt and attentive to his duties, he was ever ready to serve the patrons of the office. Pleasant, courteous and obliging, he was a postmaster "par excellence" of whom any community might well feel proud. The Sentinel is satisfied that it voices the sentiments of this whole community in saying that his retirement from the position of Postmaster at Calera is regretted by ninety-nine hundredths of the people of this whole community, regardless of political predilections. They would have been highly pleased, indeed, gratified beyond measure at his retention in the position. It seems, however, that the policy of the McKinley administration is not to please the people but to make appointments as objectionable as possible to the people said appointees are to serve, as is evidenced in the case of Postmaster Vance's successor as well as other appointments to similar positions in different portions of this Southern section.

Miss Alma Johnson, of Gadsden, was the guest of Miss Hattie Grim this week.

The Chancery court convened on last Thursday at Columbiana, Chancellor J. R. Dowdell presiding, J. B. White, Register. The cases against the Alabama Iron & Steel Co. at Brierfield, were among the most important cases on the docket that engaged the attention of the court. Some important cases looking to a disposition of them have been taken by the court. In referring to said matter the Birmingham News of yesterday says:

"In the matter of the receivership of the Alabama Iron and Steel Company, at Brierfield, Ala., Mr. A. J. Perry, acting under authority of the state Court, is still receiver as far as all moveable and personal properties are concerned. Dr. R. A. Swearing Won't Help It.
Swearing may make a fire burn, or it may make a deck hand hustle, but it won't help a catarrh, or ringworm. If you use Tetterlin, it will make you comfortable and save swear words. 50 cents at drug stores, or by mail for 50 cents in stamps from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together. Until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. It cures in one hundred dollars for any case. It cures Catarrh of the bladder, and of the rectum. Address F. J. WEIGHTY WORDS FOR Ayer's Sarsaparilla.
"I can sincerely say that I owe my life to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For seven years I suffered, with that terrible scourge Scrofula, in my shoulder and my arm. Every means of cure was tried without success. I had a good physician who tried in every way to help me. I was told to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I immediately began its use and after taking seven bottles of this remedy the scrofula was entirely cured."—Mrs. J. A. GENTLE, Fort Fairfield, Me., Jan. 26, 1896.

There is a proverb which says that, "when pain ends, gain ends too," which means essentially that the best part of life—the real gain of it—is in the struggle and the aspiration rather than in the attainment.

A Philadelphia contemporary seems to think it worth while to note that a resident of that town recently "was made mad by a mosquito bite." If it was a Jersey mosquito it was enough almost anyone mad.

THE CANTILEVER BICYCLE.
Mr. Nickall Pedersen, a Dane, Claims It's Just the Thing.
The accompanying illustration is from a photograph of the Cantilever bicycle, one of the latest novelties in cycle construction, and its inventor, Mr. Nickall Pedersen. One of the features wherein this machine differs materially from the ordinary bicycle is the weight. Cantilevers range in weight from the nine-pound racer to a wheel for rough use, which weighs fourteen pounds.

The construction is the outcome of the inventor's desire to secure a perfect seat. Mr. Nickall Pedersen is a Dane, residing in England, and he has been a wheelman for twenty years. His idea was to enjoy the comfort of a hammock on a bicycle, which he accomplished by the use of silk strings on which the saddle rests. The front forks are attached to the rest of the frame by a pivot connection at the top and by a strong pivot hinge at the point shown in the cut just where the lower part of the frame joining with the crank hanger goes up to a point near the top of the front wheel. This connection gives the machine a sensitive steering device.

Side Combs.
Side combs never were worn so much. And never were they so long. Some resemble the combs which extend from ear to ear which are worn by children. The material is shell or imitation. But they must be put in carefully (outside the strands over the roll) in such a way as not to destroy the rotundity of the halo. Sets of three combs, each four inches long, are also sold.

One arrangement of combs or another is quite necessary for outdoor use, because the wind is not respectful of pompadours. Bangs, decidedly, are passe. Such stray locks as have not grown to manageable lengths are curled and allowed to nestle about the forehead. But they must not have a fixed appearance.

The back hair is done high or low according to individual preference. Oftentimes it is twisted in Psyche effect. It is the saying of many women who know that a proper hairdresser saves half a season's wardrobe. This, because whatever her gown, a woman always feels distinguished if her head is at its best.

The largest number of cars handled in any one month last year by the association was 14,931. The business in August, this year, was greater than that by 6,412 cars, or about 65 per cent.

The total number of cars handled last year was 160,216. At the August rate of this year the total for 1897 will reach over two hundred thousand.

ATTACKED BY A CATAMOUNT.
Alice Gray, a member of a family who are camping at Elk River Falls, about nineteen miles below Decatur, was attacked and wounded by a catamount Tuesday night. The young lady was sleeping on a cot about midnight and was awakened by some creature breathing in her face. She screamed and the beast sprang upon her, burying its claws in her bosom. The animal escaped before any of the male members of the family could get there, but it was followed by the dogs and men and finally shot. It was a catamount, and measured three feet six and a half inches in length. In a near-by cavern three half-grown catamounts were discovered and killed. The young lady was not dangerously wounded.

BAD STATE OF AFFAIRS IN TALLAPOOSA.

A Dadeville special says: The grand jury now in session is forcing some startling facts to light.

Friday eight negro men and boys, reported to the grand jury to be at work in the farm of Ex-Sheriff J. W. Pace, were summoned to appear before the grand jury, and failing to do so, attachment was issued for them and deputies sent down to the Pace farm to enforce the attachments. The eight negroes were found by the deputies and brought before the grand jury. After hearing what the negroes testified, the Solicitor, with the entire grand jury, repaired to the court room and there the eight negroes were examined in open court as to why they had failed to respond to the summons issued.

They all swore that they were not allowed to come. Three of the negroes testified that they had been at work on the Pace farm for more than five years; that they had never had a trial of any kind, but had been taken up by Dan Scott at Sylacauga and taken to Pace's farm, locked up at night and forced to work during the day for more than five years. All of the others, except two, testified that they were brought from Sylacauga by the same man and in the same manner.

They all testified that they had been whipped and had scars on their bodies from it. One of them, who tried to escape about two weeks ago, had been run down by dogs, and as punishment for running off had been made to lay down and horses run over him, from which he had sores which have not yet healed. Attachments have been issued for other negroes who are reported to be at Pace's and every effort will be made to find them. The judge gave the grand jury a special charge, urging them to sift the matter to the bottom.

State Normal College, Troy, Ala.

The "College authorities" have postponed the opening from Sept. 21, as first announced, to Sept. 28, so as to better adjust to circumstances. The excellent health of Troy, and the generosity of her people toward the College and its students, insure all of safety, comfort and progress. This College annually turns out scores of fully, or partially, trained teachers, and school officers call for these, as it pays to have trained teachers as it does trained workmen of any kind. Alabama will soon admit no other kind than trained teachers in her school rooms.

Persons desiring scholarships should address Dr. E. R. Eldridge, the President, for blanks. Each Senator and Representative of Alabama's non-excluded counties can nominate one person to this State Normal College, at Troy. Many students have already secured scholarships.

A MOTHER'S EFFORT.
A Mother Sees Her Daughter in a Pitiful Condition, but Manages to Rescue Her.

From the New Era, Greensburg, Ind.
The St. Paul correspondent for the New Era recently had an item regarding the case of Mabel Stevens, who had just recovered from a serious illness of rheumatism and nervous trouble, and was able to be out for the first time in three months. The letter stated that it was a very bad case and her recovery was considered such a surprise to the neighbors that it created considerable gossip.

Being anxious to learn the absolute facts in the case, a special reporter was sent to have a talk with the girl and her parents. They were not at home, however, being some distance away. A message was sent to Mr. Stevens, asking him to write up a full history of the case, and a few days ago the following letter was received from Mrs. Stevens:

"ST. PAUL, IND., Jan. 20, 1897.
Editors New Era, Greensburg, Ind.
"DEAR SIR: Your kind letter received and I am glad to have the opportunity to tell you about the case of my daughter, Mabel. We don't want any newspaper notoriety, but in a case like this where a few words of what I have to say may mean recovery for some child, I feel it my duty to tell you of her case.

"Two years ago this winter Mabel began complaining of pains in her limbs, especially in her lower limbs. She was going to school, and had to walk about three quarters of a mile each day, going through all kinds of weather. She was thirteen years old and doing so well in her studies that I disliked to take her from school but we had to.

"For several months she was confined to the house, and she grew pale and dwindled down to almost nothing. Her legs and arms were drawn up and her appearance was pitiful. Several doctors had attended her, but it seemed that none of them did her any good. They advised us to take her to the Springs, but times were so hard, we could not afford it, although we finally managed to get her to the Martinsville baths. Here she grew suddenly weaker, and it seemed that she could not stand it, but she became better, and it seemed that she was being benefited, but she suddenly grew worse, and we had to bring her home.

"She lingered along, and last winter became worse again, and was afflicted with a nervous trouble almost like the St. Vitus' dance. For some time we thought she would die, and the physicians gave her up. When she was at her worst a neighbor came in with a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and wanted us to try them as they were advertised to be good for such cases, and her daughter had used them for nervousness with such good results that she thought they might help Mabel.

"We tried them. The first box helped her some, and after she had used three boxes she was able to sit up in bed. When she had finished a half dozen boxes she was able to be out and about. She has taken about nine boxes altogether now, and she is as well as ever, and going to school every day, having started in again three weeks ago. Her cure was undoubtedly due to these pills."

(Signed) MRS. AMANDA STEVENS.

PROPOSITION 2.

LIVER MEDICINE CERTIFICATES.

Write us 1st How long you have known, used or sold Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine. 2nd State Diseases it cured. 3d Give names of those cured. 4th State the difference between its strength and action and the strength and action of J. H. Zellin & Co.'s "Liver Regulator" and the Chattanooga Medicine Co.'s "Black Draught," both of which contain Woody Bulbs of Roots and Stems of Herbs, and have sold at about 6 cents per package, and should not retail at over 10 cents if consumers are not imposed upon, while Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine is made from the purest and most carefully selected Drugs, regardless of cost, with the Bulbs of the Roots and Stems of the Herbs by our secret process extracted and thrown away, cannot be sold at less than 25 cents. The reason of the difference is this: On June 20th, 1893, the Supreme Court enjoined J. H. Zellin & Co. from manufacturing and selling medicine under the name of "Dr. Simmons' Liver Medicine." Zellin's answer to our bill said, the medicine was designed as "cheap negro medicine for the negroes of the Mississippi Valley." And Zellin's manager testified in one case, and Zellin's advertisements said "that all the Liver Medicine they make is made by the same formula." What more conclusive evidence can there be that their Liver Medicine is "cheap negro medicine?"

Again, the United States Court, in the Zellin case at Knoxville, Tenn., enjoined the old proprietors of the "Black Draught" that it was established in 1840, and Rich our trade by allowing their customers to untruthfully represent it as the same as our genuine article, they giving color of truth to the deception by publishing the picture of a Dr. Simmons on their wrapper, thereby associating their article with the Dr. M. A. Simmons' Liver Medicine, which he established in 1840, and every package of which has borne his picture since 1840.

On receipt of letter enclosing a recently taken Photograph we will mail you a $1.00 Package Liver Medicine (FREE).

IF WE KNEW.

Could we but draw the curtains
That surround each other's lives,
See the naked heart and spirit,
Know what spur the action gives,
Often we should find it better,
Purer than we judge we should;
We should love each other better
If we only understood.

Could we judge all deeds by motives,
See the good and bad within,
Often we should love the sinner,
All the while we loathe the sin;
Could we know the powers working
To overthrow integrity,
We should judge each other's errors
With more patient charity.

If we knew the cares and trial,
Knew the efforts all in vain,
And the bitter disappointment,
Understood the loss and gain—
Would the grim, external roughness
Seem, I wonder, just the same?
Should we help, where now we hinder?
Should we pity where we blame?

Ah! we judge each other harshly,
Knowing not life's hidden force;
Knowing not the fount of action
Is less turbid at its source.
Seeing not among the evil
All the golden grains of good—
Oh! we'd love each other better
If we only understood!

The Colonel's Daughter.

A STORY OF THE REVOLUTION.

It was hot—hot—hot everywhere on June 29, 1778. Even Colonel Winthrop's leaf-embowered house in the beautiful valley of the Shrewsbury was at least 20 degrees warmer than the comfort of the occupants demanded.

Miss Betty Winthrop, followed by a colored lad, walked slowly up through the shrubbery. She had been out on the river in search of a stray breeze. Mistress Betty was the one thing on the Winthrop place whose appearance the elevated temperature did not affect unpleasantly. Indeed, if anything, it served to heighten her charms, deepening the rose on her softly rounded cheeks, intensifying the blue of her eyes and caused the tendrils of gold-brown hair to curl in closer rings.

She was a pretty picture as she sat in the shade, her white hands clasped about her knees, and so thought the shabbily dressed young man who rode up the long avenue leading from the high road. He dismounted at the foot of the piazza steps and, throwing the bridle to a boy, stood and looked irresolutely at her for a moment, then passed quickly up to the front door and disappeared into the house. Betty glanced carelessly at him and resumed her reverie, of which so uninviting looking a person could form no possible part.

Suddenly the voice of Don Carlos, her father's valet, broke up her dream.

"Missy, de cunnel done want yo'."

"Who was it that went into the house awhile ago, Carlos?" she asked, rising slowly.

"I dunno, missy. But I hear him say somethin' or 'nother 'bout a big battle dat was fo' yest'dy up at de Monmouth co't house—"

"What! Where?"

Miss Betty's cheeks were white enough now.

The colonel awaited his daughter on the piazza. He was a tall, spare man and walked with a limp.

"Father, is it true what Carlos tells me? Are you sure there has been a battle at Monmouth courthouse—and—that many of our men and officers are killed? Oh, father!"

"Come here, Betty. Fie, child; don't be foolish. A soldier's sweetheart and frightened, because, perchance, he has had to do a little fighting. Lucky dog to have a strong right hand with which to strike a blow for his country," and the colonel looked ruefully at his own right wrist, from which the hand had been severed.

"Oh, father, those horrible battles—" But at a glance from her father she stopped, compressed her lips and straightened her shoulders. "Do you believe, sir," she continued in a calm voice, yet with a look of intense anxiety in her beautiful eyes, "that many of our men have been killed—do you think—"

The colonel patted her cheek reassuringly. "Don't fret, my love. We have lost some brave men, I fear; though for the brave men in whose welfare you are particularly interested I fancy he is safe enough. But a gentleman arrived here 20 minutes ago who saw the whole encounter. You shall hear from his own lips what he has already told me."

The colonel led the way into the house. Father and daughter paused at the drawing room door. The man whom Betty had seen from the lawn stood in one of the deep windows. His back was toward them. He still wore his hat, and from beneath its brim a shock of black hair straggled down upon his shoulders. One arm was raised and rested against the window frame, and Betty noticed with surprise that the loose sleeve of his coarse gray jacket, which had fallen back at the wrist, revealed a bit of what looked like a military coat sleeve underneath.

"Sir," began the colonel, "I have told my daughter—"

At the sound of his voice, the man at the window turned hastily.

"My father," said Betty, and paused, looking curiously at the slouch hat, which he did not remove, though his hand sought it involuntarily. Something in the stranger's eyes was familiar, and she proceeded in a puzzled tone: "My father tells me that you bear tidings of the great battle fought at Monmouth courthouse. I am most anxious to hear them; but methinks I could listen with more comfort, sir, if you would remove your hat."

"Madam, I will," he responded and, flinging it off, along with a mass of black hair, revealed the face of Frank Balfour, a lieutenant in Washington's army and the affianced lover of Mistress Betty Winthrop.

"Frank!"

"Betty!"

Colonel Winthrop chuckled: "You see, my love, there is still a remnant of our army left."

"Thank God!" murmured Betty, whose face was hidden against Balfour's breast.

"Amen," echoed her lover and the colonel in a breath.

Then the colonel said: "I was right in thinking that you would prefer to hear what this gentleman had to tell from his own lips, was I not?" and without waiting for a reply to this evidently needless question, he continued: "I mean to send Carlos out to watch lest some stragglers from the king's troops get wind of your presence here alone and take it into their heads to pay us an unexpected visit. We are not far out of their line of march, if they are en route for Sandy Hook." With a kindly nod to the young people the colonel left the room.

"To think that I should not have known you from the first, Frank."

"And to think what a struggle I had to keep from running to you at once, when I saw you on the lawn, instead of revealing myself to your father first."

Sitting beside his sweetheart, her hand clasped in his, the young lieutenant told her how Clinton's army, with its horde of camp followers, had swept down through New Jersey, with Washington close in their wake; of the desperate battle fought the day before, near Monmouth courthouse. "We lay," said he, "within earshot of the British lines; our sentries patrolled close to their outmost pickets; and yet, when day broke and we looked across to where the night before a great army had been encamped, lo, it had disappeared as completely as if the earth had opened and swallowed it up. Our consternation knew no bounds, for we had gone to sleep with our hands on our sword hilts, ready to finish carving up the redcoats on the morrow; but they had outwitted us."

"This is all very wonderful and very interesting," said Betty, excitedly, "but how came you here?"

"Happily for me, sweetheart, I was one of a small detachment detailed to follow and keep watch on the enemy's movements. By the time we had completed these discoveries we were within a few miles of my dearest girl and my longing to see her became irresistible. So I confided to my superior officer somewhat of my anxiety and begged leave of a short absence, promising to rejoin the company tonight at a point half way between here and Monmouth courthouse, where a few hours' halt will be called. This he kindly granted, but urged me to assume some disguise, as the country about here is filled with British stragglers, scouts and reconnoitering parties, and were my identity to become known my freedom, to say nothing of my life, might pay the forfeit. As luck would have it, we came upon a farmhouse that had been ransacked by the redcoats in passing. The place was deserted, and I appropriated the materials for my disguise. I trust their owner will not begrudge them to me. The last part of my way I was somewhat disconcerted by the presence of a fellow who insisted upon joining me. His attentions and conversation were highly annoying, for he spoke disparagingly of our beloved Washington, so that my blood boiled within me, and I had much ado to keep from striking him down. As we parted at the foot of the avenue the fellow said, with a grin: 'Farewell; I see thou art as prudent as thy fellows.'"

"What did he mean?" asked Betty, fearfully.

"I know not, sweetheart, nor did I heed the impudent varlet. I am here with you—for the rest I care not."

Here the colonel joined them, and the three sat and talked happily. So absorbed were they that they did not hear the sound of hurrying footsteps in the hall, and Carlos, who had been running with night and main, appeared unexpectedly in their midst.

"Massa cunnel," he exclaimed, breathlessly, "dey is three men on horseback a piece down de road—two ob dem am redcoats. Dey's comin' fo' de lutenant, sho—dey ain't no 'scape!"

"Be quiet, you fool!" commanded the colonel, fiercely, running his fingers through his hair.

Balfour's hand had sought his sword hilt.

"That fellow I met on the high road must have given the alarm," said he. "Well, it's too late to run away now, for look! they've come inside the grounds."

"I'll be—I swear I'll shoot the first man who attempts to search my house," said the colonel, fiercely.

Betty stood with compressed lips and bent brows. Suddenly she said, in a quiet voice, as if thinking out every detail of her speech as she uttered it:

"Frank, I have a plan for your escape. But you must follow my directions implicitly. Conceal yourself in the shrubbery at the back of the house until Carlos brings you word that the coast is clear. Then follow him. He will take you by a short cut to the river, where you will find my canoe moored. Let him paddle you upstream to the Griggs farm; the people are well known to us. From there you can procure a good horse and—"

"But, my dearest love, what—" began Balfour.

Betty interrupted him imperiously: "I know what you would say—but you must do as I tell you—trust all to me and go." The girl's voice was almost stern, but her eyes were very tender.

"As you will," he said and stooped and kissed her. "Goodby, Colonel Winthrop."

"Goodby and God be with you," responded the colonel, solemnly. "What plan my daughter has for your escape I know not, but—"

"It will not fail, father. Frank, dear Frank, go," and Betty fairly pushed him out of the room and house.

"Remember my directions," she said to Carlos in the hall. "Keep watch on the three horsemen, and when you see them gallop away run to Lieutenant Balfour instantly. Go now, and order the big brown horse saddled in haste for a gentleman who will ride from here. He will mount in the stable yard. Hurry!"

Then Betty sped upstairs to the garret to a chest that contained certain relics of her father's regimental career.

Five minutes later the colonel, who had been watching the movements of the men on the avenue, was filled with consternation at sight of a young man dressed in the blue and buff of a continental officer, riding leisurely away across the lawn to the high road.

"What foolhardiness! What stupidity! That idiot Frank. He shan't marry my girl—to ride right down their throats without so much as his disguise. Fool—fool! Poor Betty!"

Meantime, one of the three horsemen who were advancing up the drive caught sight of the uniformed figure and with an exclamation turned his horse across the lawn and started in pursuit, followed by his companions. For an instant the young officer paused as if undecided, the next he struck spurs to his horse's flanks and plunged away over the green. Leaping the hedge that inclosed the colonel's place at this point, he turned into the road. The colonel watched the flying figures until they were lost to sight in the dusty distance, then turned away with an impatient sigh.

Through the lengthening shadows pursued and pursuers sped on. The brown horse, fresh from the stable, was swift and sure of foot and his rider handled him with consummate skill, holding him at a steady gait that neither lost nor gained upon the men who followed. Up gentle undulations, down little hills, through patches of shady wood and out again into the sunshine. Mile after mile slipped away under the flying hoofs. The three horsemen and their horses were getting brawn.

"Halt!" yelled the foremost. The road led into the depths of a pine forest.

"Halt, or we shoot!" he cried.

The young officer sped around a curve in the road and was lost to sight. When his pursuers again caught sight of him the brown horse showed signs of flagging, and they had gained perceptibly.

"Halt, or we shoot!" rang out the command again.

"Shoot if you dare, cowards!" called back a clear, dauntless voice.

A bullet whizzed past the fugitive's ear and lodged in the trunk of a pine tree. The brown horse plunged and reared and galloped on. Another bullet tore a hole in the blue coat sleeve.

The three men leaned forward in their saddles and urged on their laboring steeds. The pine trees hung heavy and low across the path.

"Stop, and you are safe—go on, and we'll shoot you down," panted the leader.

Another instant and the fugitive had drawn rein, so suddenly that his horse fell back upon his haunches. His hat, caught by a drooping pine bough, had been dragged from his head. The foremost of the pursuers saw a white hand raised hastily, as if to stay the flood of golden glory that tumbled down in many a shimmering ripple and sunny curl upon the fugitive's shoulders; saw him turn about his exhausted horse and saw—odds guns and pistols—that the young officer was no young officer at all, but a lovely girl, with flushed cheeks and bright, exultant eyes—clad in an ill-fitting uniform of a colonel in the continental army. As the three drew up almost abreast in the road facing her, she said, smilingly:

"Gentlemen, the chase is over. You have done bravely, but Lieutenant Balfour has escaped you."

"And you, madam," said one of the horsemen sternly, "had you no scruples in misleading us and hindering his capture? And do you know that there is a penalty attached to voluntarily aiding in the escape of a traitor?"

"La, is there?" said Betty, saucily. "It concerns me not, for I have aided no traitor to escape. And, pray, since you are so learned in law, what is the penalty attached to such a crime as that of galloping ten miles after a defenceless woman, because, forsooth, she has a fancy to ride forth attired in her father's old uniform? Methinks it should be heavy. And do you know, sirs, that one of your bullets pierced a hole in my father's coat sleeve and came near to shattering my arm? Fie, fie upon you!" And, chattering to her horse, Betty rode fearlessly through the midst of her late pursuers, unchallenged and unmolested. And Lieutenant Balfour, 15 miles up the river, galloped away to safety through the deepening dusk. —Frances A. Schneider, in Chicago Record.

SCENIC BEAUTIES OF ALASKA.

Ever Fresh Variety—Plains Like Flowery Seas—Denizens Make Wilderness Wilder.

To the lover of wildness Alaska offers a glorious field for either work or rest; landscape beauty in a thousand forms, things great and small, novel and familiar, as wild and pure as paradise. Wander where you may, wildness ever fresh and ever beautiful meets you in endless variety; ice-laden mountains, hundreds of miles of them, peaked and pinnaled and crowded together like trees in groves, and so high and so divinely clad in clouds and air that they seem to be long more to heaven than to earth; inland plains grassy and flowery, dotted with groves and extending like seas all around to the rim of the sky; lakes and streams shining and singing, outspread in sheets of mazy embroidery in untraceable, measureless abundance, brightening every landscape, and keeping the ground fresh and fruitful forever; forests of evergreens growing close together like leaves of grass, girding a thousand islands and mountains in glorious array; mountains that are mountains of the work of ice, mountains monuments of volcanic fires; gardens filled with the fairest flowers, giving their fragrance to every wandering wind; and far to the north thousands of miles of ocean ice, now wrapped in fog, now glowing in sunshine through nightless days, and again shining in wintry splendor beneath the beams of the aurora—sea, land, and sky one mass of white radiance like a star. Storms, too, are here as wild and sublime in size and scenery as the landscapes beneath them, displaying the glorious pomp of clouds on the march over mountain and plain, the fight of the snow when all the sky is in bloom, trailing rain-floods, and the booming plunge of avalanches and icebergs and rivers in their rocky gorges; while multitudes of wild animals and wild people, clad in feathers and furs, biting, loving, getting a living, making all the wildness wilder.—Century.

Church-Warning.

Not long ago, a visitor to King's Chapel, Boston, observed, in a corner of the lot to which his sight-seeing curiosity had led him, a mass of what appeared to be old junk. Investigation disclosed the fact that the pile of iron rubbish consisted of foot-stoves, used by the congregation before the more modern system of heating the whole building was introduced.

The conservative sexton, evidently regarding the big, new-fangled stoves as a Boston fad, had stored these little foot-warmers in a convenient place against their speedy recall to the pews of the recalcitrant worshippers.

The new method of heating met with scant favor from the orthodox, with their Puritan contempt of comfort. The Boston Evening Post of January 25, 1783, contained a poem, of which these lines show the deprecating spirit:

Extinct the sacred fire of love,
Our zeal grown cold and dead;
In the house of God we fix a stove,
To warm us in their stead.

Many serious objections beside religious ones were made to the stoves. It was alleged that they would be the means of starting many destructive conflagrations; that they caused severe headaches in the church attendants; and worst of all, that the heat warped the ladies' tortoise-shell back-combs!—Yonah's Companion.

HANGED.

A Negro Rape Fiend Meets Death at the Hands of a Mob

IN THE BROAD DAYLIGHT.

The Citizens of Hawesville, Ky., Rise Up and Deal Summary Punishment to the Perpetrator of a Heinous Crime—The Mob Did Its Work on Sunday.

At Hawesville, Ky., in the broad opening glare of a Sunday sun, in the midst of a protracted revival, not a mask to be seen, and in the presence of 300 infuriated people, Raymond Bushrod, at 5 o'clock last Sunday was made to pay the penalty of an assault on the person of 14-year-old Maggie Roberts. He was swung from a limb in the court house yard.

The story of the crime is as follows: Three miles below town, near Petri Station, he encountered Maggie Roberts, daughter of Ben Roberts, a prominent farmer. He ran her down, assaulted her, and accomplished his sensual purpose.

In addition to this, he beat and bruised her with an iron coupling pin and left her to die.

The news of the outrage spread and searching parties were sent in every direction, and he was captured in hiding at Falcon, a mining town four miles below the scene of the crime.

EMBARGO MODIFIED.

The State Board of Health Takes Action on Freight Traffic.

The embargo on passenger travel from Atlanta and the restrictions on freight traffic from all yellow fever infected points has been greatly modified by the State Committee of Health's suggestions, approved by the Governor. The Committee of Health, at their meeting in Montgomery Saturday afternoon, presented to the Governor the following recommendations:

Passengers from points beyond Atlanta will be permitted to come into this state, if, upon arrival at Atlanta, between sunrise and sunset, they are required to remain in the car, or are immediately transferred to another car, and not permitted to remain in the station more than fifteen minutes; nor outside the car; but no passenger car from Atlanta will be permitted to enter the state.

We make the following recommendations as to freights:

The following goods may be shipped from infected places in cars that have been thoroughly disinfected, under supervision of the officials of the Marine Hospital Service, at these places, and certified by said officials:

Class 1.—New machinery, brick, bar and sheet iron, tin, steel, agricultural implements, iron ties, wagons, hardware without packing, lime and cement.

Class 2.—All goods in original wooden or metal packages, not packed or broken in infected cities, shall be disinfected without breaking package.

Class 3.—Goods packed in textile material, and kept perfectly dry, shall be disinfected without breaking package.

All meats, whether packed or unpacked, except in tin, are excluded.

WILL USE SOUTHERN COAL.

ig Mississippi Packet Company Contracts for Alabama Fuel.

The West Alabama Coal association, composed of the leading coal mining companies in Walker county, Alabama, has begun to encroach upon the business of the Pittsburg operators on the Mississippi river. Within the past few days this association has closed a contract with the Memphis, New Orleans & Cincinnati Packet company to supply the company with all the coal it uses between November of this year and January, 1899, amounting to about 20,000 tons per year. It is reliably stated that the same association will very soon close similar contracts with the Anchor line of steamers on the Mississippi and the St. Louis and Mississippi River Transportation company. The aggregate of these contracts will be in the neighborhood of 100,000 tons a year. These companies have heretofore secured their coal in the North. The Alabama coal will be delivered to them at Greenville, Miss.

TIRED OF LIFE.

The dead body of Charles J. Floyd was found in the edge of a branch near his home, about twelve miles from Elba, Ala. Floyd was a man of family and some means, and was for a long time prior to his death in ill-health. He had often times said to his friends and family that he intended killing himself. He left his house a few nights ago, and his whereabouts remained a mystery until a searching party discovered his remains in the mud and water, and it appeared that he had been dead for a day or more. From the statements of the dead man while in life it seems that there is no doubt that he committed suicide.

TEN YEARS IN THE PEN.

Thomas N. Lowe, one of the parties who robbed the Southern Express Company's train near Calera, Ala., and who was recently captured in Indiana, was sentenced at Columbian Monday to ten years in the penitentiary.

NEARING COMPLETION.

The M. & O. Railroad Extension Will Take on Finishing Touches.

A big lot of contracts will be let in the city of Tuscaloosa on Thursday, October 7, by the Hanover Construction Company. Following is an outline of contracts to be let:

At Tuscaloosa one passenger depot building, one freight depot building, one sand house, one oil house, one coal bin, one engine house.

At Montgomery one freight depot, one engine house, one sand house, one oil house.

There is also to be built one shop building, which is scheduled for Montgomery, but may be transferred to Tuscaloosa.

There will also be let the contract for sixteen depot buildings at way stations, also contracts for twenty sets of section houses with tool houses for each and the placing of nine water tanks, consisting of tanks with pumping engines and boilers, etc.

This means that the Mobile & Ohio railroad is nearing the point, when trains will be operating between Montgomery and Columbus, Miss., via Tuscaloosa. The grading has been going on for months and track laying has been completed over a large portion of the extension. Trains will probably be operating early next year, if not in December. The management of the work can be well understood when it is known that $4,000,000 of bonds were floated by the Mobile & Ohio for that purpose.

LATEST FEVER REPORTS.

Following shows the yellow fever situation at infected points up to Monday night:

At Edwards 11 new cases; total cases to date, 168; deaths, 6.

Mobile reports 3 new cases for Monday and 2 deaths. Total cases to date, 54; total deaths, 8.

At New Orleans there were 22 cases Saturday, 17 Sunday and 22 Monday, with 5 deaths for the three days. Total cases, 158; deaths, 19.

Private advices say that the situation in New Orleans is considerably worse than the dispatches sent out would indicate. They are face to face with an epidemic, and it gets worse and worse every day.

One new case is reported at Ocean Springs.

At Biloxi 10 new cases are reported and 1 death. Total cases to date 97; total deaths, 4.

A case has developed at California, La.

SHOT WITH A WINCHESTER.

Joe Hughes shot and instantly killed Will Henderson Monday near Morris, Ala. Hughes took a Winchester rifle and went to Henderson's farm, several miles east of Morris station. Henderson was picking cotton in his field when Hughes came upon him. The slayer fired one shot at his enemy from the rifle. Henderson sank to the ground and died in a short time. The ball struck him in the left side, passing through his abdomen and came out on the rear right side. Both parties were white and well known at Morris. Hughes is still at large.

FELL FIFTY FEET.

Walter Cox, an old and respected resident of Pickensville, Ala., went to Vienna, Ala., last Friday night to transact some business. While there he met some friends. They had a few drinks together. Cox left his friends early in the night, however, and went to the country tavern and retired. At a late hour he awoke and arose from the bed, and, being very thirsty, went in search of a drink of water. Instead of going into the hall as he intended doing, he stepped out of the window and fell fifty feet to the ground. One side of his body was crushed into a pulp. He died within fifteen minutes after the fall.

RECOVERING THE BODIES.

Three bodies have been taken from Slope No. 2 at Belle Ellen, Ala., which caught fire last week. The bodies were those of Hubbard Foley and Herman Kramer, white, and Henry Reeves, colored. It was thought two or three other bodies would be taken out later. The fire is not out, but it is believed that it is under control.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

The Girl's Industrial School at Montevallo will open next Monday, the 4th inst., for its second year. The prospect for a large attendance is very bright. The accommodations have been enlarged and extended during the past summer, and a hundred and fifty more pupils can be accommodated this season than last. The large and handsome dormitory building is now completed and has been furnished and thoroughly put in order. This will furnish a home for about one hundred girls. Many of the citizens have enlarged their residences, while a number have erected new and roomy dwellings with the view of accommodating as many girls as possible; also Hotel Magnolia, a new and commodious building erected by Mr. H. S. Latham, has been closed as a hotel and rented to a gentleman from Gallion, Ala., who will make it a boarding place for the school girls. With these enlarged facilities and the co-operation of all the citizens of the town who, just as they did at the last term, will throw open their homes to the girls, it will be readily seen that a largely increased number of pupils from all sections of the state will be enabled to enjoy the benefits and blessings of this school. Montevallo is now alive and active with the bustle of final preparation for the reception of the school girls, and the opening of the school on next Monday. Every man, woman, and child in the town is thoroughly interested. The school and its success are the subjects of greatest concern. All are animated by the same purpose, and all are working with a will in harmony with President Reynolds and his faculty to make this second year of the school still more successful than the first.

The yellow fever is still bearing sway at Mobile, New Orleans and Edwards, Miss., and other points. As yet there is no improvement in the situation. If anything, according to latest reports, it is worse, especially at Edwards where a large number of new cases are reported, but there have been comparatively few deaths. Nothing, but frost it seems, will stay its progress, and that is some weeks off.

The Sentinel believes that if the farmers who can, will hold their cotton for thirty or sixty days that they will realize a much better price than it is now bringing.

Mr. P. W. White, the Advertiser states, has resigned his clerkship in the State Auditor's office to take effect the 1st of October.

Alabama Day at the Tennessee Centennial Exposition has been changed from September 29th to October 22nd. Nashville has no quarantine in force against any section.

Hon. T. G. Bush, the Alabama member of the monetary commission, has returned from New York and will go down to Selma today to look after the interests of the Mobile and Birmingham railroad. Capt. Bush states that the monetary commission will gather information necessary to come before it largely through subcommittees, and will not finish its labors for several weeks yet.—Hot Blast.

Capt. S. F. Nunnallee, the grand old man of the Alabama press, has purchased the Bibb County Press, and will go to Centerville to give the people of Bibb a good weekly newspaper. This he is able to do, and will do. He will not only furnish Bibb a good paper, but will make that county one of the best and most honorable citizens it has ever had. He will carry with him to Bibb the best wishes of all Anniston. Let the people of Centerville rally to the support of this grand old man. He is worthy of all the help they can give him.—Anniston Hot Blast.

SOUTHERN SEED CONGRESS.

An Important Meeting to be Held at the Capitol To-Day.

Nashville American, 28th inst:

This morning at 10 o'clock the first Southern Seed Congress will be called to order in the office of the Commissioner of Agriculture, at the Capitol, and it will be the beginning of a movement that will be of vast importance to the South.

For some time past Commissioner J. T. Essary has cherished a project which will save Southern farmers millions of dollars every year. The idea is none other than an effort to educate the Southern farmer to raise his own garden seeds instead of going north for them.

Some time ago Mr. Essary wrote to every State Governor in the South asking the appointment of delegates to a Seed Congress to be held here, and all of the Southern States will be represented tomorrow.

This is the first meeting of the kind ever held in the South and Mr. Essary hopes to make the organization permanent. The Congress will be in session two days.

MR. REYNOLDS EXPLAINS

Concerning the $1,000 Paid him by the Board at a Recent Meeting.

Special to the Age-Herald. Montevallo, Sept. 25.—H. C. Reynolds, president of the Girl's Industrial School at Montevallo, has written Gov. Johnston a letter concerning the $1,000 recently voted him (Reynolds) at a meeting of the Board of Directors here. The communication is dated Montevallo, Sept. 21, and is as follows:

"I desire to make some corrections regarding a report of the meeting of the Board of Trustees held at your office last Saturday. The report states that the money lost in the Commercial Bank was the private funds belonging to the girls of the college, which was in my hands to pay board, etc. Now, I contend, and the gentlemen who favored refunding me the money contend that this is not a fact. I was put in charge of the school as acting president by Gov. Oates, with full authority to organize and open it on Oct. 12, 1896. I was instructed to arrange for boarding places for the pupils and advertise it through out the state. I immediately went to work, got up the entire expense for the session course, issued a prospectus which stated what the terms would be. This was presented to the Board, and no objection was offered to it. The girls made payments on these expenses to me, there being no treasurer for the school, for which I receipted them in the name of the school, as president. In these amounts incidental fees were also paid to me, which of course belonged to the institution, and was not the private money of the girls, as the article stated. All this money was deposited by me in the name of the 'Girl's Industrial School' in the Commercial Bank of Selma. In the latter part of December this bank failed, carrying with it not only these funds, of $1,000 deposited in the school's name, but my private funds also.

"At a meeting here last commencement the question was brought up, and as there appeared to be some opposition, I asked that the matter be withdrawn. Those favoring the question have all along contended that I should be reimbursed, and, further, that they would see to it that I was. They believed it right and legal, so did I. They acted under convictions of what they deemed just and proper, and I think the account of the meeting given out by the reporters was a reflection both on them and myself.

"With consent of my friends on the Board who have been so kind as to see fit to reimburse me for the loss I sustained, I will cheerfully donate the entire amount to the cause."

A PATHETIC SCENE.

T. N. Lowe, One of the Men Who Robbed the Louisville & Nashville, Given Ten Years.

A pathetic scene was witnessed in the Circuit Court at Columbiana on last Saturday, the 25th inst. The occasion was the arraignment of T. N. Lowe, charged with robbing the express car on the Louisville and Nashville railroad two miles north of Calera last March.

The prisoner was brought before the court. He is a small man with dark mustache and keen, piercing black eyes. Judge Brewer read the indictment to him. The last count of the indictment was under the recent State law making train robbery a capital offense. As the Judge was about to propound the usual question to the prisoner, "Are you guilty or not guilty as charged," the solicitor moved the court to not proceed to the last count of the indictment, making a statement of facts showing good reasons why this should be done. The Judge granted the motion and proceeded to arraign the prisoner on the other counts.

He propounded the question as to guilt or innocence and the prisoner responded that he was guilty, that he had violated the laws of his country, and with voice tremulous with emotion and eyes suffused with tears told how he had been led off into this crime, declaring that it was his first offense and showing deep penitence for his participation in same and declaring his purpose to refrain from violation of the law in the future and to lead an honest life. He then threw himself upon the mercy of the court and asked that he be given the lowest punishment under the law.

Mr. J. L. Peters, County Solicitor, representing the Solicitor of the Circuit, made a statement in behalf of the prisoner, stating that information had come to him leading him to believe that the public interest would be best served by extending leniency to the prisoner. The Solicitor then suggested that Mr. H. C. Fisher, Superintendent of the Southern Express Company, was present, and by permission, would make a statement.

Permission being granted, Mr. Fisher arose and said that he had been Superintendent of the Southern Express Company for fourteen years, that when he entered the service of said Company he had obligated himself to serve the company, looking to its every interest except when that interest came in conflict with his conscience, to the best of his ability. This he had always endeavored to do, and he had given this case close attention and thorough investigation. He had enquired fully into the antecedents of Lowe, his family connections, his past life, etc., and he was satisfied that this was his first offense, and that Lowe was unduly persuaded or intimidated by Hyatt, the ring leader of the robbery and he appealed to the court, not only as a representative of the Southern Express Company, but as a man, to give Lowe the lowest sentence allowed by law. Mr. Fisher was visibly affected during his appeal to the court and showed that he was a man of the tenderest feelings and of noble and generous impulses. The judge, jury, lawyers and spectators were all moved with sympathy for the young offender, and tears were very near in many eyes when Mr. Fisher resumed his seat.

Judge Brewer announced that in view of the facts stated and the request of Superintendent Fisher he would make the sentence ten years, the lowest penalty under the law. When the Judge made this announcement Mr. Fisher remarked that he wished that it was only five.

The prisoner was then returned to jail. Sentence will be passed upon him the latter part of next week which is criminal week.

Giving Away Brides.
Among the novel means by which some people of London subsist is that of giving away brides at the altar. The custom has grown to considerable proportions of late, and a member of a firm of fashionable costumers, in speaking of it recently, said: "You, of course, recognize the fact that in this great city are scores of hard-working girls who are miles away from their relations and who have always been too busy to cultivate many friends. Well, when these girls are about to marry young fellows who are similarly circumstanced the question arises as to who shall give away the bride."

"I can answer that question for them at once, for I have connected with my business an ex-major in the army, a member of an ancient family and a man, too, of unimpeachable character. He is poor, but he dresses well, has beautiful white hair and looks the kindly father to perfection. I introduce him to the bride and bridegroom, and he, for a moderate fee, gives the former away. Sometimes he takes the whole arrangements of a breakfast and so on upon himself, and he is a fine speaker on occasion. He is always a welcome guest with these people afterward."

A Red Handed Murderer.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. TRADE CHECKED.

The Demand for Staples is Noticeably Decreasing.

SHARP ADVANCE IN IRON.

The Yellow Fever Quarantine, Which Extends from Texas to Georgia, has Brought Wholesale Trade to a Standstill in the Gulf States.

Bradstreet's review of trade for the past week says:

There is a check to the sweeping demand in staples noticeable throughout the country for the past six weeks. The yellow fever quarantine, which extends from Texas to Georgia, has brought wholesale business to a practical standstill throughout the greater portion of the region embraced by the Gulf States. At centers of distribution in Eastern, Middle and Central Western States the recent activity in dry goods, hats and hardware has fallen off, but in the Northwest and on the Pacific coast buying by interior merchants and the free distribution of merchandise continue to be features. Demand for heavy textile fabrics has been stimulated by colder weather, and St. Louis merchants say the yellow fever scare will have no effect upon trade at that city, as Southern merchants had supplied themselves there before the quarantine was enforced. The outlook for business in parts of Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee and Georgia is for a much duller season than had been expected.

Favorable features of the week are found in sharp advances in prices for iron and steel, heavy sales of Bessemer pig iron, steel billets and rails and a prospect that iron and steel prices will go higher in the near future. Wool is also higher and woolen goods for 1898 delivery are up 10 to 15 per cent, with the outlook favoring a further advance. The increased volume of general trade is also stimulated by the continued heavy movement of cereals to tide water, the almost unprecedented large quantities exported each week and the increased number of people finding employment in industrial and commercial lines as compared with a year ago, together with the tendency of gold to come here from abroad.

Exports of wheat (four included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and from Montreal this week amount to 9,623,493 bushels, compared with 6,269,948 bushels last week, 3,930,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 3,151,000 bushels two years ago, 2,562,000 bushels three years ago, and as compared with 3,490,000 bushels in the corresponding week of 1893.

Exports of Indian corn aggregated 4,027,142 in the week one year ago, 1,360,000 bushels two years ago, 1,040,000 bushels three years ago and as contrasted with 813,000 bushels in the like week of 1893.

There are 237 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, compared with 286 last week, 321 in the third week in September, 1896, 189 in 1895, 204 in the like week in 1894, and as contrasted with 232 in the corresponding period in 1893.

There are 35 business failures reported throughout the Canadian Dominion this week, against 36 last week, 34 in the week a year ago and 35 in the corresponding week of 1895.

UNION WITH UNCLE SAM.

The Hawaiian Senate Ratifies the American Treaty.

The Hawaiian Senate, in session on September 8, adopted the following resolution by unanimous vote:

"Be it resolved by the Senate of the Republic of Hawaii, That the Senate hereby ratifies and advises and consents to the ratification by the President of the treaty between the Republic of Hawaii and the United States of America on the subject of the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to the United States of America, concluded in Washington, June 16, 1897, which treaty is word for word as follows:—The text of the treaty then follows.

DEATH IN A WRECK.

John D. Young met his death in a head-on collision on the Georgia and Alabama road Tuesday morning. The colored fireman, whose name has not been ascertained, was also killed. Conductor R. G. Boyd was dangerously wounded, and may also die. The occasion was the attempt of an extra freight, laden with cotton, to make one more station before the west-bound local freight train was due.

Owing to the heavy freight, it failed to make the time, and at 4:30 a. m. came in collision. The two engines were a total wreck, together with twelve box cars.

KILLED HIMSELF AND FAMILY.

The slaughter of a mother and six of her children occurred at the home of John Boecker, a farmer, living eight miles west of Carroll, Iowa, last Monday night. Afterwards the fiendish or demented husband and father, at whose hands they died, completed his bloody work by sending a bullet into his own head, inflicting a fatal wound. The family were prosperous Germans, and as far as known lived happily. No motive for the tragedy has been discovered.

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

RECOMMEND IMPEACHMENT.

At Florence the grand jury rendered a sensational report Friday evening, recommending the impeachment of Sheriff Carson for drunkenness in office, and giving a gentle warning to the road commissioners for several beats that the roads must be worked better.

BIG FIRE AT EAST LAKE.

College Station, near East Lake, is in ashes. The entire business portion was destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon. Twenty-one frame buildings went up in the flames in the remarkably short time of a few minutes. The total loss is estimated at more than $20,000, largely covered by insurance.

PUT UP THE BARS.

The existence of a case of yellow fever in Atlanta caused Captain M. H. Amerine, State quarantine officer, to institute a rigid quarantine against that city Friday. The order went into effect at sunrise, and the regulations are the same as those applied to New Orleans and other infected districts.

IN SEARCH OF GOLD.

Col. I. B. Stone, Greer Mason, John Freeman, Schuyler Harris, J. F. Walker, P. B. Laklow and George Ragsdale compose a party that has left Athens for Arizona, where they will seek gold. The party had made considerable preparation for the trip, and has ample equipments for prospecting.

ROASTED.

A negro woman named Duncan locked her three small children in her dwelling near Coosada last Friday night and went to a party. Fire broke out at midnight and burned the house to the ground. The children were roasted under the bed, where they had crawled, seeking protection. The woman is guilty of murder under the law of Alabama.

SHORTAGE PROMPTLY PAID.

In the examination of Commissioner Culver's books last week a shortage of $6,000 was discovered, which was promptly paid by Mr. Culver. The commissioner explains that the shortage was due to errors appearing in his vouchers, caused by the continued illness of his chief clerk, Donald Sessions, who died last month, his assistant not being able to keep up with all the work.

PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENTS.

The president has made the following appointments for this State: Leander Bryson, marshal for the Middle district of Alabama; James C. Leftwich, colored, receiver of public money at Montgomery; Robert Barbour, register of the land office at Montgomery; Judge Steele, register at Huntsville, and H. V. Cashin, colored, receiver of public money at Huntsville.

DEMAND FOR PIG IRON.

It is given out that Alabama furnaces have sold pig iron up to January 1 next year.

As a result a number of orders are being accepted for delivery after that date. Such conditions have not prevailed in this section in many months, and the activity of the pig iron market is the subject of much comment.

Fifteen furnaces are in blast in the Birmingham district, and two others are ready for the torch. Heavy shipments of pig iron are reported.

TAX ASSESSOR SHORT.

Assistant Examiner Foster has found another former tax assessor almost $3,400 short in his settlements with the State and county. Mr. Hugh J. Stephenson, of Colbert, is the unfortunate, but, according to the special report, his delinquency appears to be the result of an accident rather than of a deliberate intention to wrong the State. He is now arranging to pay the State the full amount he is due. It will take his home and all that he possesses to pay up, it is stated, but he promises that the State shall not lose a cent by him.

FIVE MINERS ENTOMBED.

Slope No. 2 of the mines at Belle Ellen is on fire, and considerable damage has already been done. Five men are beyond the flames, and are thought to be dead. They are miners who were cut off by the flames before they could be rescued. They are: Hubbard Foley and Herman Garner, white; Frank James, Henry Reeves and William Fairfax, colored. There may be others, but these are known to be cut off. The men are undoubtedly dead, as the fire has been raging some time. One of the State mine inspectors went to the scene, and at his advice the entrance was closed to prevent the ingress of air to feed the flames. It is the intention of the fire fighters to pump water into the slope.

NEW COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS.

A CONTRACTOR KILLED.

J. G. Lallande was shot and killed by A. Stoneking at Tuscaloosa Friday. The cause of the shooting seems to have been over a very trivial matter. The two men having had a quarrel over treating a crowd to cigars. There was nothing thought of the matter until shortly afterwards, when they met again in a saloon and Stoneking offered to treat to drinks. Lallande refused, saying he would not drink with one who was not a gentleman. Stoneking then left the bar and went to a hardware store, where he purchased a 38-calibre Colt's pistol. Returning in a short time and entering the front door of the saloon, he saw Lallande standing at the cigar case. Stoneking began cursing and abusing Lallande, and as Lallande turned to face him Stoneking drew his pistol and fired once, the ball striking Lallande in the abdomen, who immediately sank to the floor in a dying condition. Stoneking was immediately arrested and taken to jail. Lallande was junior member of the contracting firm of Dunn & Lallande of Birmingham, who are grading the Mobile and Ohio Railroad. Stoneking was also a contractor.

SOUTH CAROLINA LADIES

DON'T LIE.

Mrs. C. McEwen

Inman, S. C., says: I have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine for years, with the best of results for Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Indigestion and Swollen Feet. It cured Miss S. Hammett of a complication of diseases; she says it saved her life. I think it far exceeds "Zellin's" and the "Black Draught" medicine.

Falling of the Womb.

The cases of uterine displacement are very numerous, and constitute a protracted cause of intense and wide-spread suffering. Its symptoms are bearing-down or dragging sensations, pain or weakness in the back, sometimes a sense of goneness at the pit of the stomach. It may result from too frequent childbearing, wearing garments that compress the waist and abdomen, over-eating, standing on the feet too long, and general debility.

We would strongly urge the use of Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine which will purify and vitalize the blood, give tone and strength to the muscles of the uterus, so that it will be kept in place. To facilitate a quick and complete recovery, we recommend as an injection our Mexican Female Remedy, which will produce the happiest results.

M. A. Rutherford

Walhalla, S. C., writes: I have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine more than 20 years, for Torpid Liver and Dizziness. I take a dose every two weeks and feel all right. I know it is far superior to "Zellin's" and "Regulator" in my case.

Womanhood.

The health and well-being of mankind depend upon the physical health and perfection of womanhood. Among the diseases which most impair the female constitution are leucorrhoea, irregular and painful menstruation, falling of the womb, chlorosis, scanty or too profuse menses. These diseases can be cured. Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine is a delightful remedy to take, entirely harmless, free from narcotics, purely vegetable and produces no unpleasant after-effects. It is unequalled as a uterine tonic and curative agent for all female diseases, as it is impossible for weakness of the uterus and generative organs to exist when it is faithfully and persistently used. Consideration is another bene of woman's life which can be cured by using Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine.

THE SECRET OF POWER.

Of all the men whom I admire
There's not a one who may aspire
To stand as high, and none who can
As does the truly "quiet man."

If any being on the earth
Gets credit far beyond his worth,
That one can be none other than
This unobtrusive "quiet man."

No matter what's within his head
His silence is interpreted

To be a sign that wisdom lies
Behind his inexpressive eyes.

If so he drops a word or two,
His friends will search 'em through and through

To meanings deeper in intent
Than e'er the speaker thought or meant.

If so, by chance, he takes a stand,
Assumes position of command,

Surprised approval greets him then,
And you shall hear from other men:

"Some weighty reason lays behind
An act so foreign to his kind."

When things go wrong his moveless stand
Is credited to scorn of fate;

So softly to himself he swears,
'Tis thought he murmurs pious prayers,
He's so misjudged, his flaws at length
Are twisted into points of strength.

Poor humankind awaits command
From all it doesn't understand,

And he may work his own sweet will
Who has the art of keeping still.

The Discontent of Helen.

"What a bright little girl!"

That is what Mrs. Marchmont said, one bright summer morning, lingering in the doorway of Mrs. Hammond's thrifty dwelling and laying her hand among the fair curls of Helen, Mrs. Hammond's little girl. That was myself.

I liked Mrs. Marchmont. She was a beautiful woman, intellectual, cultivated, refined. And I was pleased that she noticed me and liked me.

My father was not a rich man, not at all "well-to-do," as the phrase goes. My mother had to do her own housework and latterly had kept me at home from school to help her, needing that help very much with three children younger than myself. The circumstances troubled me. I wanted to possess advantages like other girls whose parents were better off than mine. Then Mrs. Marchmont came on some errand—to get references concerning a housekeeper, I believe—and noticed me in the way I have recorded.

"Does she attend school?"
"No," my mother said and explained the reason, expressing her regret, at the same time, because I was so fond of study. And she would have liked to give me a good education.

"Let her come to my house some day and look at the books in the library," said Mrs. Marchmont. "She may bring home any of them that she likes."

My mother thanked her cordially. And how happy I was!

She came again after that and took me to spend the day with her. I cannot tell how much I enjoyed my visit. I saw such a number of beautiful things—pictures, statues—a hundred lovely and curious objects from far-off countries. And I brought home a book.

I went there quite frequently after that. Not often to stay, but always welcomed kindly and always bringing home a book.

In three years Ada, the sister next in age to myself, was 15. Now Mrs. Marchmont persuaded my mother to send me to a first-class academy for a year or two. She herself would bear the expense, and Ada would take my place.

After some demur my parents consented, thanking her earnestly for her kindness, as I did. And I went.

I suppose there were few girls happier than I during the two years I was at school. I studied to my heart's content and made excellent progress. At the end of two years I came home finished, as the saying is. I went to Mrs. Marchmont's. I was 18 now, rather pretty and with my ideas a little elevated beyond my position in life. I took note of the black servant at the door; the height and grandeur of Mrs. Marchmont's rooms, the elegance and richness of the appointments that everywhere met my gaze. My kind friend was delighted to see me, made a thousand inquiries concerning my attainments and showed altogether an interest in me that pleased and flattered me.

"Now you must come often and see me," she said. "I shall be glad to see you."

I went home pleased, yet discontented. I had seen just enough of the ease and the enjoyment of life and the desirableness of riches to make me dissatisfied with my own humble fortune and surroundings. I looked at the plain, small house I lived in—at the small, low rooms and their plain and well-worn furniture—with a secret feeling of heart-sickness.

"What is the matter, Helen?" asked my mother.

"Nothing, mamma," was my answer. She did not press her inquiries then. She was a wise as well as a good woman. But I know she watched me and guessed the cause of my serious looks.

But the next day she said: "I am glad your father is getting along in business better than he used to, Helen, so that we need not send you out to earn your own living in the world. I was afraid a year or two ago that I should have to. You do not know what a relief it is to me that I can keep you at home."

Her words conveyed to me, as I think she meant they should, an idea of how much harder my life might have been than I now found it. I thought about the matter and honestly tried to feel how comparatively well off I was. But it was hard, after all. Our little dwelling did not grow any larger, the rooms were quite as low and small as ever, the furniture no less plain and old-fashioned. Yes, I was glad that I was not forced to get my own living in the world; but for all that I was discontented.

"Mother," I overheard Ada saying one day, "Helen isn't happy, I think, because we are not rich, like Mrs. Marchmont."

"Are you happy with your humble circumstances, my dear?" asked my mother.

"Why, I would like to be rich, of course," said Ada; "but we can't be rich, you know; and then we are so comfortable—we have each other and a really pleasant home; and—yes, mamma, I am happy, I'm sure. Only I feel sorry for Helen."

I could not help feeling rebuked. And at night, when my father came home, more tired than usual, he put on his slippers and stretched his weary limbs, saying:

"I have had such a busy day, Mary, and it seems good to get home to you and the children."

He kissed her tenderly and took little Johnny on his knee, his face wearing such a good smile, such a look of rest and contentment.

"Come," he said after supper, "let us sing."

We had no piano, but we got our hymnbooks and sang together—my father and mother had beautiful voices, and Ada's was a correct and musical alto; and the music and the words were so sweet and tender that it melted my heart. I thought what if that loving little choir were broken. And I realized that we were indeed happy; that the lines had fallen to us in pleasant places; that I myself was naughty and ungrateful to be discontented.

That night my father was taken ill, and I was startled—frightened—self-condemned. Especially when I knew that he was suffering great agony—that he was very sick—that the doctor said his illness was a very serious and dangerous one. I thought, what if my father should die!

For two or three days his case was doubtful, and what a sad household was ours! The little ones were taken to the house of a kind neighbor. Mamma and Ada and I watched and nursed our poor father night and day, not knowing whether he would live or die. I cannot tell you how I felt.

The house seemed so desolate, with papa lying sick, and when I went into the rooms downstairs I thought how happy, how contented I should be in them—how cheerful I could be then—how golden and sunshiny the whole little dwelling would seem if papa would get well again. And I prayed, humbly and penitently, that he might be restored to us.

He was. After one sad and anxious week the doctor said he was mending, and if ever there was a happy, glad and grateful girl it was I.

I went about the house like a new creature the day he was to come down stairs, brightened and beautified everything about the rooms to the best of my ability—hung the canary in the sunshine and made the place beautiful with blooming geraniums and roses and heliotropes and hanging vines. And I saw that the fire in the open grate burned clear and bright; that the hearth was clean and no speck of dust about, and papa's favorite books lay ready to his hands, and first of all the great Bible, out of which I myself read aloud a psalm of thanksgiving for him and all of us that night.

I was so happy that mamma could not but see the change in me, and she took me in her arms and kissed me silently and, oh, so tenderly.

And after that I could not and did not murmur any more. But, instead, I went about, daily making our before despised little house as pleasant as I could, until I wondered to see how beautiful and cheerful and pleasant it really was; wondered, too, that I had never felt it before. But I knew the reason I had been so blind was because I would not see.

Mrs. Marchmont had come two or three times while papa was ill. She came again, now he was down stairs, and made a long call. As she went away she lingered at the door.

"Do you know, Mrs. Hammond," she said to my mother, "do you know how I like to come here? Do you know how pleasant it is here?—such a home-feeling comes over me when I get among you all, in this little nest, that I almost hate to go away. It looks like a picture in there. And you are all so happy."

She looked back into our little sitting room with a smile of real pleasure. And how pleased and happy I was.

The next week Mrs. Marchmont invited Ada and me to come and take tea with her and go with her and her husband to hear a celebrated lecturer in the evening. When Mr. Marchmont came home from the store he brought with him Henry Earle, one of his clerks, whom I had seen before, once at their house and once at the store, when I went there with a message from Mrs. Marchmont to her husband. We all took tea and went to the lecture together. And Mrs. Marchmont kept Ada over night with her, but I went home after the lecture, and Henry went with me as far as my own door.

I met him at the Marchmonts' more than once after, for he was a favorite with Mr. Marchmont, and they invited him there often, and sometimes we went again, as on the evening I have spoken of, to a lecture or reading, and he always waited upon me home. Presently he came to see us there.

I did not exactly know why, but I could not help feeling a little earnestness that my father and mother should like him. I thought they ought to.

For myself, it had become pleasant to me to meet him. I had learned to like his gentle smile, the glance of his kind eyes, the sound of his voice, that seemed always, somehow, to take a sweeter tone to me than to others. And I was glad when papa and mamma both seemed to like him very much and asked him to come again.

"He is very sensible, very intelligent, very refined—a gentleman, my dear Helen—yes, I like him extremely," said my father. And mamma said she thought as he did, and that it was quite pleasant to see Mr. Earle once in a while of an evening.

Mrs. Marchmont kissed me one day. "So Henry comes to see you now?" she said, smiling.

I blushed—I could not reply.

"I wanted to tell you," I answered, "but—I did not—I did not—know exactly how."

She laughed at my stammering confession and kissed me again.

"How did you know he came?" I managed to ask.

"He told us last night," she replied. "He wanted us to know and approve, which, of course, we did," she added, smiling archly.

Nothing more was said at the time, but my cheeks were burning, and I was so glad to get home and hide myself in my chamber.

"He wanted them to know and—approve." The words repeated themselves over and over in my ears. What did they mean? What could they mean? There was only one thing, that my own heart kept telling me again and again, telling me that I knew—I knew—I had known this long while. And I put my fingers on my ears, but I could not keep the sound out.

He came—it was a lovely night in June, bright with the full moonlight and sweet with the breath of early summer in our little suburban lanes—and asked me to walk with him.

I cannot tell how far we went. It was a long way, and we said not a great deal, I think, all the while, only walked and walked, with my arm in his and his hand holding mine silently and tenderly.

It was nearly ten when we got back. Papa and mamma and the children had all gone upstairs. And we went in and stood in the little sitting room, with the beautiful moonlight falling all about us, through the windows curtained and draped with honey-suckles and roses.

And then Henry, with his arm about me and his face near mine, told me how much he loved me—how he wanted me to marry him.

"Will you, Helen?" he said. And I was so happy, so glad, that I had no words to give him, and could only hide my face. But he knew.

He was only a clerk in Mr. Marchmont's counting room, with a salary that was certainly not a fortune, and he could only give me a house as big as this, he said; but Mr. Marchmont said he was to do better soon, and, meanwhile, loving each other well and truly, he thought we could get along nicely, if I could be satisfied for his sake.

I was more than satisfied; I was glad—happy—overjoyed beyond words. I, who had been such a murmurer—so ungrateful and discontented and repining.

But I had learned a lesson now. I knew that it was not riches and station, but true worth and loving hearts, that made real happiness, after all, and I welcomed my lover, with his clerk's salary and the little house no bigger than the one I had lived in all my days, and had nothing left to ask for.

We have more money now, to be sure, and live in a larger house than in those days, and my husband is Mr. Marchmont's partner, instead of his clerk; but the day when I gave myself to Henry without a fortune was the happiest I had ever known, and though we are rich now I have known no happier one since. I had all I could ask for that day. I needed nothing more.

The repairs to No. 3 blast furnace, of the E. & G. Brooke Iron Company, are about completed, and it is expected that it will be put in blast by Nov. 15th. A Celebrated Case.
The case of Mrs. Myra H. Atkinson, wife of Gov. George W. Atkinson, on the charge of forgery, in the circuit of Gilmer county was begun at Wheeling, Va., Friday. The case grows out of a long standing dispute over the large estate of her husband, Judge G. D. Camden. Her claim is that the papers alleged to be forgeries are not such. That she was at the time managing her invalid husband's business and that all receipts and other papers were signed for him by her, she signing his name "Per Mrs. G."

Greece's Worst Foe is the Kaiser.
During the course of a lecture which she delivered on Monday at Naunton, Warwickshire, Mrs. Ermiston Chant, the social reformer who went to Greece with a party of nurses during the war between that country and Turkey, said the crown princess of Greece, Princess Sophia of Russia, had told her (Mrs. Chant) that the worst and most cruel foe of Greece was not the sultan of Turkey nor the Turks, but it was her own brother, Emperor William, of Germany.

The Choctaws to Emigrate.
Mr. Peter Hudson, a citizen of the Choctaw Nation, and superintendent of the Female Academy at Tusahoma, stated in Mena, Ark., Wednesday, that a movement was on foot looking to the sale by the full-blood Choctaws of all their rights in the Indian Territory, and the removal of the entire tribe as far as represented by the full-bloods to a tract of land in old Mexico. Jacob Jackson, the oft-defeated candidate for chief, will lead the tribe to the new lands.

A Peculiar Damage Suit.
A novel suit has been brought by H. A. Clark and Fanny B. Clark, his wife at San Rafael, Cal., against James Hayden, of Tiburon. They want $25,000 damages for injuries sustained by Mrs. Clark while riding a hobby horse at El Campo, a summer resort. The horse, which was on a merry-go-round, owned by the defendant, became unmanageable through the collapse of the machine. The lady was thrown, and so badly hurt that she may be disabled for life.

Saved by His Teeth.
Gohnn Cohen, an employee of Kramer's livery and undertaking establishment at St. Louis, owes his life to the strong teeth with which nature has endowed him. At an early hour Friday Cohen quarreled with Chas. Moye, a fellow-employee, who, from a distance of five feet, fired at him with a 45-caliber revolver. The bullet struck Cohen full in the mouth, causing him to fall.

Then he got up and spat out the bullet and with it came three front teeth. Except for the loss of his teeth, Cohen was not injured, and his escape from death is considered marvelous.

To Be Restocked With Fish.
The Onachita river, near Hot Springs, Ark., is to be restocked with game fish. Ex-Mayor R. L. Williams has received a communication from B. B. Brice, of the United States commission of fish and fisheries, at Washington, notifying him that a consignment of black bass and croppie would be shipped there very soon, with instructions to place himself in readiness to receive. On account of the laxity in the enforcement of the law regarding the catching of fish in Arkansas, the supply in the Onachita river has been largely reduced within the past few years.

Carlists Ripe for Revolution.
The London Daily Mail, in its special article Saturday, on the Spanish situation, says: "The symptoms of the Carlism agitation are every day becoming more manifest and attracting the attention of the Spanish government. Carlism emissaries are visiting the provinces of Navarre and Castellon where the party has its strongest supporters. There is the best reason for believing that the signal for rising will soon be given. The revolt will probably occur in Navarre or Castellon, and the population of the Basque provinces is also ready to rise. The Carlism press has changed its tone and now hints that Don Carlos may intervene. At the same time it is asserted that a Carlism company has entered into a contract with the Republic of Andorra, under which the company is granted the privilege of manufacturing arms and explosives within the territory of the republic."

A Wife Sells Her Husband for $4,000.
According to the St. Louis Post Dispatch John A. Truitt, a conductor on the Northern Central Electric street car line was sold Friday by his wife for four thousand dollars to a woman who declares that she loves the man more than his wife does. The deal was the sequel to the following remarkable statement made to Mrs. Truitt by a Mrs. Stephens, who lives in that city with her father: "Mrs. Truitt, I love your husband and I want him. I have traveled the world over and he is the first man I ever loved. I will give you $4,000 cash for him if you will give him up. Truitt who is the father of four children, seems to agree to the deal. It is stated that last Tuesday Mrs. Truitt, knowing that her husband loved another woman, attempted to take her life by swallowing morphine."

Suicides' Day in New York.
Nearly a score of unfortunates met tragic deaths in and about New York City Friday. It was suicides' day. No day within recent years has been so replete with tales of weak human nature. Here is the list: Mrs. Caroline Rivinius, of West Point, N. Y., and her children, Laura, 15 years old, William, aged 11; Albert, aged 8, and Elizabeth, aged 5, found dead in the West Shore Hotel, asphyxiated by gas, thought to be murder and suicide. Harmon S. Burt, of Norwich, Conn., Devonshire Hotel, found dead in bed from poison; C. F. K. Royce, San Francisco, found dead at the Grand Union Hotel, asphyxiated. Dr. Robert W. Flagg, physician of Yonkers, leaped from a window in the Murray Hill Hotel and died in the afternoon. Theodore Miles, suicided by shooting. Rudolph Knoche, out of work, drank carbolic acid and died an hour later. At White Plains, Edward L. Hafner and Frank C. Holly, of Norwalk, were found dead in their apartments, asphyxiated by gas. At a picnic in the outskirts of Brooklyn, Thos. Klinger killed John McNally by a blow from his fist. George Martin, serving a sentence for burglary in the Kings county penitentiary, cut his throat with a piece of glass and cannot recover. Michael Walsh died at the Fulton Hotel, from the effects of drugs.

A Boy and His Six-Shooter.
Walter Waites, a white boy, aged 15 years, entered a negro joint on East Main street, Ardmore, L. T., Saturday night and proceeded to clean out the place with his six-shooter. Two negroes, Jim Cogle and H. C. Lee, who were slow about vacating, received a portion of the flying lead. One bullet struck Cogle in the abdomen and was extracted from near the hip joint. Cogle received a painful flesh wound in the left arm.

Bicycles in France.
The bicycle census recently taken in France has been made the subject of a report to the State department by United States Consul Germain at Zurich. He shows that during the last calendar year 329,818 wheels were registered, as compared with 256,084 in the preceding year. Paris paid one fifth (or $121,575) of the whole amount realized from the bicycle tax.

NOW AFTER GREENLAND.

RUMOR THAT THE UNITED STATES WANTS IT.

Overtures Said to Have Been Made the Denmark Government—The London Daily Evening News Gives Prominence to the Story.

There is a rumor in Canadian circles that the United States government has made overtures to the government of Denmark with the object of acquiring Greenland from the latter country.

The London Evening News gives prominence to the rumor, and says: "Under ordinary circumstances, even if true, the report would excite little interest, but coupled with the news of the hoisting of the Union Jack over 'Baffin's Land.' It becomes of great moment it appears that Baffin's Land was never formally acquired by the English, although it has been regarded as English for half a century. Hudson's Strait is destined to become part, in the future, of a great grain carrying route between Liverpool and Winnipeg, which will be a powerful rival of the American land routes. The Americans have no port or footing on the eastern shores of the continent north of Maine, and if they are to participate in the advantages of the Hudson Bay route it has been apparently urged that their government secure some island or peninsula without delay."

The Evening News adds to this comment an interview with an unnamed Canadian official to the effect that the hoisting of the Union Jack over Baffin's Land was undoubtedly evoked by the report that the United States government had its eye upon that territory. According to the official quoted there is nothing to prevent the United States purchasing Greenland from Denmark.

In conclusion, the Evening News remarks: "If the Americans acquire Greenland there will be difficulty ahead for our transatlantic commerce and international relations. If they have not already acquired it, what is to prevent our securing it?"

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND

Says Catholics Are Free to Use Any Language They Please.

In the course of the installation of Bishop Trobec, the new bishop of St. Louis, Minnesota, Archbishop Ireland, after calling attention to the many nationalities in the diocese of St. Louis, said:

"It has sometimes been said that there is among Catholics in America a diversity of opinion as to the use within the Catholic church of foreign languages. There is no diversity of opinion. Americans and Catholics will, before this altar of truth, believe and assert that men are free to speak what language they will, to retain what memories they will, provided that always America and the language of America and American institutions obtain their best loyalty. Catholics in America may kneel before their God and pray in the language that best expresses their emotions."

"The holy Roman church within recent times, has promulgated in this regard the law of liberty by sending a message from the eternal city that Catholics in America may speak and practice their religious duties in the language they may choose. The decree of Rome proclaims that immigrants and their children are at liberty, if they will, to join parishes where the English language is spoken. By implication, the decree allows to them the liberty to speak and practice their religious duties in other languages, if they prefer those languages."

Steamer Doric Arrives.

The steamer Doric arrived Friday afternoon at San Francisco, from Hong Kong and Yokohama, bringing the following advices: Reports from all parts of Japan indicate that the rice crop will exceed in quantity any during the past seventy years. The crop will be from 15 to 40 per cent above the average. The Jiji Shimpo says that the days of the present Japanese cabinet are numbered, and ascribes the principal reason to the alleged fact that it is divided against itself. To make next year's income equal to the contemplated expenditures, it is proposed to raise 12,000,000 yen by increasing the rate of the sake toll and interdicting all brewing of sake for domestic use, but to refrain from any other addition to the present weight of taxation. When the new tariff is put into force it will yield an additional revenue of 6,000,000 yen. A revival is perceptible in Yokohama business circles. The recent apathy is ascribed to fears of the probable effect of the change in the currency that comes into force at the beginning of October. The Japanese railroad bureau has ordered twenty locomotives from the United States. Yokohama, Tokio and neighboring districts were visited on the morning of September 9th by a severe typhoon. Much damage was done on land and sea, and a number of lives were lost. Shipping suffered greatly.

The University of Alabama opened most auspiciously yesterday. There were eighty eight new students to matriculate. The number of young men in attendance was about one hundred and fifty. Eight young ladies entered. The law class is reported as small, but the indications are that it will number about twentyfive. The prospects are said to be very bright for one of the most successful school years within the history of the college. President Powers is to be congratulated upon the flattering opening.

The Government Armor Plate Board will visit the South about the 18th of the present month with the view of looking over the location in this section offered for the Armor Plate Plant. General Weyler declines to resign the Captain Generalcy, and offers his services to the government. He wants to stay in Cuba. Childersburg a Jonah.

The Selma Journal says: "Childersburg seems to be a sort of a Jonah for the trainmen on the Southern. It was at Childersburg that Captain Ab Pitner stepped on a rock in getting off his train and was laid up for seventeen weeks. Friday Mr. Jim Lanham, the flagman on Capt. Seward's train, stepped from the coach while the train was moving and missing his foot, fell to his knees badly barking his shins. Mr. Lanham swapped runs with the down coming train flagman and returned to the city. He will be able to be out again in a few days."

SHOT HIMSELF.

A Hogansville, Ga., special of the 5th inst., says, that it now turns out as an afterclap to the negro Postmaster Loftin sensation that he shot himself only to make himself a martyr in order to get attention and preferment. This explains why the government has dropped its threat of prosecuting a number of prominent citizens.

It looks as if the administration up at Washington does not regard Mr Aldrich as the congressman from the Fourth district. In this the administration is correct beyond a doubt. HEADQUARTERS ALA. DIVISION

United Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Circular Letter No. 1.

Auburn, Ala., 28, Sept. 1897.

Having been honored with the position of Commander of the Alabama Division of United Sons of Confederate Veterans, and having appointed Prof. A. F. McKissick, Adj't Gen'l., it is our earnest desire during the coming year, to build up and extend the organization of United Sons of Veterans in Alabama. To further this end your attention is directed to the following facts in regard to the condition of the cause in this state:

Alabama is so well represented by Camps in the United Confederate Veterans it is unfortunate that so little effort has been put forth to organize Sons of Veterans. Only one Camp of Sons now exists within the limits of the state and that one is located at Auburn. The patriotism of the Veterans of Alabama is finely shown by the ninety two Camps which they reported at the Nashville Reunion. The Sons need to have their enthusiasm also aroused, and, therefore, this circular letter is addressed to the people of the state.

The object of this organization of Sons into Camps is to "perpetuate a record of the services of all living Confederate Veterans and, as far as possible, of those of their comrades who have preceded them into eternity. Also to instill into the descendants of these Veterans a proper veneration for the spirit and glory of their fathers."

Any one reading this circular will show his love and veneration for the Southern Confederacy if he will send to the Commander of Alabama Division, United Sons of Confederate Veterans, Auburn, Ala., the names of those Sons who are residing in his neighborhood. Earnest efforts will be put forth this fall to organize as many Camps as possible in Alabama and all information and literature will be supplied to all parties who may apply for the same and who will assist in the organization of the Sons. Respectfully,

P. H. MELL,
Commander Ala. Div.

Death of Mr. B. B. Warren.

The sad news of the death of Mr. B. B. Warren at his home in Montgomery on yesterday reached here this morning. Mr. Warren resided for many years in this county where he was well known and most highly esteemed and his many friends will hear of his death with regret. The Advertiser of this morning says in regard to same:

"The condition of Mr. B. B. Warren has been one of solicitude to his friends for several days, and when on yesterday he passed away there was little surprise, but general sadness throughout the city. He suffered from Bright's disease, and has been critically ill for about ten days. The end came at about 2 o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. Warren has lived in this city for many years, and has recently been prominently associated with its commercial interests, being one of the largest and most successful wholesale merchants. He came here from North Carolina, where members of his immediate family now reside. He has one brother, Mr. J. R. Warren, with whom he was for many years associated in business. In 1872 he was married to Miss Turner, of Lowndesboro, to whom six children were born, and with the mother survive him. The funeral will take place this morning at 11 o'clock at the Court Street Methodist Church.

Illinois permits white and negro children to attend the same schools. Her leading citizens have spoken of the excellent results of that policy and the Chicago people have abused the southern people because the negroes were forced to accept separate schools. Now the board of education at Alton, Ill., has provided separate schools and the negroes refuse to patronize the schools thus provided. They want their children to attend the white schools and will ask the courts to compel the board of education to grant their demands. Thus it appears that the citizens of the State in which Chicago plays an important part, is growing weary of social equality, yet the Chicago papers insist upon negroes being appointed to prominent offices in the South. If the negroes win this case at Alton it will be giving the Illinoisans a dose of their own medicine. They ought to have it.—Huntsville Mercury.

A few weeks ago the editor was taken with a very severe cold that caused him to be in a most miserable condition. It was undoubtedly a bad case of la grippe and recognizing it as dangerous he took immediate steps to bring about a speedy cure. From the advertisement of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the many good recommendations included therein, we concluded to make a first trial of the medicine. To say that it was satisfactory in its results, is putting it very mildly indeed. It acted like magic and the result was a speedy and permanent cure. THE CALERA PEAR.

The Sentinel in its last issue mentioned the fact that a basket of fine pears grown in the Adams Orchard had been shipped to Mr. H. C. Fisher, Superintendent of the Southern Express Company, at Nashville. Mr. Fisher, in the following letter to Mr. D. E. McLendon, the Southern Express agent here, acknowledging receipt of same, shows his appreciation of this pear and what he thinks might be the result from the extensive cultivation of this fruit in this immediate section:

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 2, 1897.
Mr. D. E. McLendon, Agent,
Calera, Alabama.

DEAR SIR:

Mrs. Fisher and I are very much obliged to you, indeed, for the basket of very nice pears which we received in due time and enjoyed very much. If the trade can be brought to realize what fine pears these are, it seems to me that the pear industry at Calera ought to be an extensive interest. Yours truly,
H. C. FISHER,
Superintendent.

Misses Julia McKibbin and Celeste Brinkerhoff went up to Newala yesterday on a visit to the family of Mr. W. E. Brinkerhoff.

Circuit Court.

The civil docket occupied the attention of the court last week and quite a number of cases were disposed of.

The case that attracted the greatest attention during the week was the suit of Mrs. Sarah A. Hall against Shelby county for $200 damages to her land by the pollution of a stream of water running through it, caused from the emptying of the sewerage from the county court house and jail into the stream above her land. The case was taken up Thursday and was hard fought all the way. It was given to the jury on Saturday morning and resulted in a verdict for the defendant, the jury being out only a few minutes.

J. M. Reynolds, Esq., of Montevallo, was in the city yesterday.

Esq. E. L. Fulton, of Saginaw, was in the city Tuesday.

Yellow Fever Germs.

breed in the bowels. Kill them and you are safe from the awful disease. Cascarets destroy the germs throughout the system and make it impossible for new ones to form. Cascarets are the only reliable safe-guard for young and old against Yellow Jack. 10c, 25c, 50c, all druggists.

Mrs. Frank Gist and children visited relatives in the city yesterday.

Mr. John Hendricks, a former resident of this place, now a compositor on the Talladega News-Reporter, was a pleasant caller at this office one day last week. John was en route home from a sight seeing trip to the Nashville Exposition.

On Saturday and Monday evenings last the railroad authorities at this place had to utilize freight cars to convey the trunks of the Polytechnic girls from this place to Montevallo, so numerous were they that the baggage cars of the passenger trains could not transfer them.

Two Millions a Year.

When people buy, try, and buy again, it means they're satisfied. The people of the United States are now buying cascarets and cathartic at the rate of two million boxes a year and it will be three millions before New Years. It means merit proved, that cascarets are the most delightful bowel regulator for everybody the year round. All druggists 10c, 25c, 50c a box, cure guaranteed.

If A. M. True, a printer and ebort hand reporter, will correspond with this paper, he will hear some things to his interest.

Mr. J. R. Browning of the Beeswax neighborhood was in the city Tuesday and gave The Sentinel a pleasant call.

Hon. Neal Dow, the life time champion of the cause of temperance, died at his home in Portland, Maine, a few days ago at an advanced age. His remains were laid to rest with simple and impressive services on the 5th inst. A large concourse of prominent citizens from different portions of the State being in attendance.

NOTICE.

Parties having lands to sell may find it to their interest to call at the

SENTINEL OFFICE.

"My boy came home from school one day with his hand badly lacerated and bleeding, and suffering great pain," says Mr. E. J. Schall, with Meyer Bros. Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo. "I dressed the wound, and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely. All pain ceased and in a remarkably short time it healed without leaving a scar. For wounds, sprains, swellings and rheumatism I know of no medicine or prescription equal to it. I consider it a household necessity." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Dial Bros.

CONCORD LOCALS.

Miss Maggie Garner is visiting relatives at Montevallo this week.

Mr. J. Alex Moore made a business trip to Clanton Saturday.

Mr. Homer Bristow, of Jemison, was a visitor in the community Sunday.

Misses Ella and Hattie Garner entered the Alabama Polytechnic School for Girls at Montevallo this week.

Rev. Job Reynolds has been holding a meeting at Oak Grove, near Jemison. He reports a good meeting.

Mrs. S. A. Curry, Mrs. E. Eddings and Mrs. N. C. Moore attended the quarterly conference of the M. E. at Salem Monday.

Miss Kate Garner left for Clanton Saturday where she will teach during the winter.

Mr. J. M. Burnett, of Thorsby, entered Concord school last week.

Yellow Jack Killed.

Cascarets, candy cathartic kills Yellow Jack wherever they find him. No one who takes cascarets regularly and systematically is in danger from the dreadful disease. Cascarets kill Yellow fever germs in the bowels and prevent new ones from breeding. 10c, 25c, 50c, all druggists.

MONTEVALLO.

The girls are here. They came from the North, East, South and West and between each point of the compass, by rail, in carriages, wagons and buggies. That they are pretty, sweet and winsome is a generally admitted fact. Three hundred and ten have already arrived and every train arriving at our town swells the number. That we are glad to see them hardly expresses our pleasure.

Mr. William Henry Perry, Tom Walker, not the devil and Tom Walker, but a near relative of the aforesaid, and Charles King, all of the dusky Ham tint, unwilling to devote their energies to the acquisition of this worlds wealth, decided to take the short cut by robbing the store house of H. C. & W. B. Reynolds. They are now residing at the Palace Hotel at Columbiana, Col. E. F. Vest, Proprietor. There are still other candidates in our town for the same high positions with flattering prospects of being elected.

From the appearance of the deputy sheriff in our town inviting delinquents to appear at criminal court as witnesses it appears that Judge Brewer has a very strong desire to see them, in fact, he is very much "attached" to them, so much so that he required several of them to sign their names to a small bond. The boys will all be on hand.

H. C. Fancher & Co. have sold out their lively stable to Geo. Kroell who now has the onliest lively Stable in town.

Operator T. P. Ellis visited relatives at Stanton last week.

The Shelby County Bank, a new enterprise recently established in our sister town, Montevallo, has a card elsewhere in the Sentinel to which attention is invited. This Bank will fill a long felt want at Montevallo and will, we believe, prove a great convenience to this entire section. Mr. Burgess Little, a thoroughgoing business man as well as a most agreeable and obliging gentleman, is the Cashier in charge. He will take pleasure in serving you. Patronize the Shelby County Bank.

Grand Jury Report.

The State of Alabama, Shelby County, Circuit Court. Fall term, 1897. To the Hon. Geo. E. Brewer, Judge, presiding.

The grand jury empanelled at this term of the court having finished its labors make the following as its final report:

We have examined the books, papers and accounts of all the county officers and find them correct and well kept.

We find the county jail secure and the prisoners properly cared for.

The courthouse is in good condition but at the suggestion of some of the county officers we recommend that as soon as it can be done the commissioner's court have the wooden shelving in the vaults replaced by metal ones of some kind, as a precaution against fire.

The poorhouse is well kept and the unfortunate inmates are receiving all the attention they require.

The bonds of the county officers we find are sufficient and secure, except those of G. B. Spradley, justice of the peace, beat 15 and Daniel Lambert, constable, beat 6. The bonds of these officers have become insufficient on account of the death and removal of some of the sureties. They should have attention.

We find that the public roads of the county are not in as good condition as they should be, and we call upon the road officers to look after them with more diligence in the future than they have in the past.

During our session we have had several very serious cases to investigate, which has prevented us from adjourning at an earlier day. This we regret, but it was unavoidable.

We have investigated 40 cases and returned into court 26 indictments.

Thanking your Honor for the able charge given us and Solicitor Wilson for his assistance, we now beg to be discharged.

J. J. VINCENT, Foreman,

Yellow Fever Prevented.

There is only one sure way of preventing yellow fever. Destroy the germs of the disease by using cascarets, candy cathartic, and keep the system clean by continuing their use. The tried and tested safe-guard against yellow fever is to place your faith in cascarets, 10c, 25c, 50c, all druggists.

McLEAN INJURED.

Freight 72 Ran Into a Train of Freight Cars.

Yesterday as freight train 72 was passing Woodlawn on the Southern railroad it ran into a string of coal cars standing on a siding and injured R. E. McLean, the flagman.

Flagman McLean had thrown the wrong switch, and as he was standing between the coal cars when the collision occurred it was miraculous that he escaped death. As it was he was badly hurt. The force of the impact caused the ends of the two cars between which he was standing to drop downward, catching the lower part of McLean's body as in a vice.

He was removed to the Hillman hospital.—Age-Herald 7th inst.

Mr. McLean was a resident of Columbiana, in this county, for a number of years and has many friends in this county who will regret to hear of his misfortune. The Sentinel hopes that his injuries may not prove serious.

A Pitiful Case.

A Frenchwoman has invented a home bicycle exerciser consisting of a base resting on the floor with two upright posts, one for the handle bars and the other for the pedals, the latter being connected to a shaft carrying a sprocket wheel, which is geared to a brake mechanism to make the work hard or easy, as desired, a speed indicator being attached to the handle bar.

Want Bugs Protected.
For some time past British entomologists, or bug-hunters, have been exercised over the extermination of certain insects in consequence of the zeal of the collectors, who roam over the country with butterfly nets. It would be difficult to protect butterflies and moths by legislation, as has been done for birds, so an association has been formed under the auspices of the Entomological Society of London. The members agree to leave rare insects alone for awhile and to do all in their power to curb the sporting instinct in others. The insect collector who abides by it will be more than human, remarks London Graphic. Imagine a stamp collector agreeing not to pick up a rare specimen from the roadside, yet a similar temptation will be met and have to be resisted by the insect collector.

The Worst Boy in School.
He was about the worst boy in the school and the teacher had punished him again and again until she had begun to consider him in the light of a natural enemy, and she felt that the boy's feeling for her must be almost one of hatred. So it was in the nature of a surprise when, in view of the approaching holiday separation, other boys of the school brought to her desk little gifts of remembrance, to have the bad boy approach with some hesitation and place a box of candy on her desk.
"But I don't think I can take it, Tom," she said. "You have been too bad a boy; you have seemed to do everything you could to displease me."
"Oh, please take it, Miss Blank," said the bad boy in entreating tones, "I worked after school hours to get the money to get it."
And someone felt tears coming very near the surface then, for the bad boy was a poor boy and had not so many pleasures in life that he could be expected to sacrifice any of them for anyone.—Exchange.

Value of a Trade School.

A difficult piece of investigation has been carried through, with interesting results, by the superintendent of the Hirsch Trade School, says the Jewish Messenger. A census of the graduates of the last three years shows that, of 70 per cent, whose course it has been possible to trace, more than two-thirds are to-day successfully engaged in practice of mechanical trades. This demonstration of the value of the school method has the added importance of disposing finally of the contention that Russian Jews are not apt material for artisans. Intelligent choice of the branches taught and a rigorous insistence on good workmanship, have insured an opportunity for each graduate to earn a living even in a season of "hard times." It is certain that a taste of the sturdy independence of such a career will forever preclude a return to the debasing conditions of the sweat shop.

SHE SUCCEEDED.
How Queen Victoria Remembered an Old English Lady.

An old lady in rural England surprised her friends by announcing at table one night that she would go to London in June to see the jubilee procession. Some of her relatives warned her of the burdens of age and failing health, but she would not listen to their objections.

"I know," she said, "that I am eighty-three, but I was in Westminster Abbey when the Queen was crowned, and I shall go up to London to see the jubilee parade."

The objects shifted their ground. They mentioned the high prices which windows and platform-seats were already commanding, and suggested that she was hardly rich enough to hire any place along the six-mile route.

"I shall arrange that little detail," she replied, confidently. "I shall write to the Queen about it. She will know my name, for it is one of the oldest in England. She will insist upon having a seat provided for me."

The old lady's enthusiasm amused her friends, but she was wiser than they were. She wrote a respectful letter to the queen, relating her good fortune in having been a witness to the coronation service, and also of the first jubilee festivities ten years ago, and adding that although she was 83 and very feeble, she was bent upon going up to London and seeing the second jubilee show.

The letter was sent to Windsor palace, and was answered by the Queen herself with little delay. She was touched by the old lady's anxiety to witness the parade, and moreover recognized the name as one which had come down from the era of the Norman Conquest. The reply was cordial and gracious, and was in the Queen's own hand. She thanked her correspondent for the loyal interest displayed, and announced that she had given orders that a window in Buckingham Palace should be reserved for her on the day of the jubilee parade. She hoped that one of the oldest and most respected of her subjects would live to occupy a seat in the window.

When this gracious letter was received the old lady was triumphant, and all her friends were called upon to rejoice with her.

"I knew," she told them, "that the Queen had a kind heart, and also a good memory for a historic name like mine."

The Queen has a womanly instinct in such matters. She knew how much pleasure she could confer upon a worthy lady of ancient lineage by exceptional kindness and honor. By thoughtful and considerate deeds like this she has endeared herself to her subjects.—Youth's Companion.

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

EFFECT OF THE DROUGHT.
The continued drought is playing havoc with navigation on the Tennessee river. The river is lower now than for fifteen years, and no boats are running between Florence and Knoxville. Boats are tied up all along the river, and great quantities of merchandise lies at the various landings awaiting shipment.

A FATAL FALL.
While the residence of J. W. Echols, at Gurley, was burning Thursday morning, Dr. J. C. Flynt fell in a dry well twenty feet deep, and was probably fatally injured. The top of the well had burned, and Dr. Flynt fell through, carrying a mass of flames down with him. Dr. Flynt is a prominent physician and a distinguished Mason.

WILL GO TO TUSKEGEE.
Hon. James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, will visit the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, Tuskegee, of which Booker T. Washington is founder and principal, Wednesday, November 17, 1897, for the purpose of delivering an address at the formal opening of a new building to be devoted to training in agriculture, horticulture, dairying, etc. This is the first building in the negro schools to be devoted to agricultural purposes.

FIFTH BODY FOUND.
The body of Billy Fairfax, the fifth miner who perished in the fire in the Belle Ellen mines in Bibb county, was recovered Friday.
All the water has not been pumped out of the mines yet. The body was found just under the first sheet of water, and as quickly as possible it was carried to the outside and buried. There was no telling how Fairfax had died, whether from burns or from smothering. His body had been decomposed for some time.

DROPPED DEAD AT BIRMINGHAM.
Dr. P. K. McMiller, a justice of the peace and a well-known citizen of Birmingham, dropped dead in his office early Thursday morning of apoplexy. He had been in good health apparently, and had just come down for his day's business when the fatal stroke occurred. Dr. McMiller was nearly 60 years old, and had resided in Birmingham for about fifteen years. He was secretary of the local camp of Confederate Veterans for many years.

SHORTAGE IN LANE'S ACCOUNTS.
State Examiner Cowan reported to the Governor Thursday the result of his investigation of the books and accounts of the department of agriculture during the term of office of ex-Commissioner Hector D. Lane. The sum of the report is that Mr. Lane's chief clerk, Mr. Leslie A. Smith, of Limestone, has been found to be due the State $2,750. The amount will be made good in a few days, as Mr. Smith has means sufficient to protect the State from loss, and his bondsmen are worth many times the amount.

POLITICS IN JEFFERSON.
A call has been issued for a meeting of the county democratic executive committee for October 9 to receive the resignation of Hon. John H. Miller, county chairman, and elect his successor. Mr. Miller is an avowed candidate for circuit judge of the Ninth judicial circuit, and desires to be released from the committee chairmanship in order to make his race unhindered. The two leading candidates for chairman are Alderman Henry B. Gray and Dr. J. S. Gillespie, the former a gold man and the latter a free silverite.

MATTHEWS COTTON MILL SOLD.
The Matthews cotton mill at Selma, Ala., a plant which cost $350,000, and which has been closed for several months on account of foreclosure proceedings necessitated by the failure of the Commercial bank January last, was sold Friday to Dr. O. F. Cawthon, of Mobile; Dr. A. W. Cawthorn and O. H. Cawthorn, of Selma, for $70,200. The Cawthorns are largely interested in cotton mills at Stonewall, Miss., and other places. They announced that the mill will be started up in thirty days, and will be run to their full capacity. It requires 350 hands to man the plant.

STATE FINANCES.
The cash in the State strong box was counted by the Governor and Secretary of State Thursday, the last day of the fiscal year. The amount on hand exactly balanced with Treasurer Ellis's statement.
The following was shown as the condition of the treasury:
Balance September 30, 1896, $58,319.40; receipts from October 1, 1896, to September 30, 1897, $2,174,644.37. Total, $2,232,963.77.
Disbursements from October 1, 1896, to September 30, 1897, $2,191,983.56. Balance in treasury September 30, 1897, $40,980.21.

A BRAND NEW TOWN.
A new town, which the projectors hope to make a city, is to be started in Tuskaalosa county by the Alabama City Land and Improvement Company, of which Col. Newton N. Clements, of Tuskaalosa, is president, and Col. W. J. Plows, of New York, vice president. There is already a post office in Alabama named Alabama City, but that does not bother the two colonels and their partners. The new town is to be located sixteen miles east of Tuskaalosa on the line of the Mobile and Ohio railroad. Oil mills, lumber mills, cotton factories and other industries are proposed to be established. The company claims to have plenty of financial backing.

BRIEFLY NOTED.
Boats are tied up along the Tennessee river on account of low water.
The Alabama river at Selma is two feet lower than ever before known.
The telephone line connecting Gadsden and Ashville has been completed.
The new rolling mill at Sheffield will soon be under way of construction.

KILLED HIS FRIEND.
Details of a Foul Crime Unearthed in Montgomery.

A murder case rivaling in horrible details the Guildensoppe tragedy has developed at Montgomery.
Oscar Gillis, porter for Marks & Kohn, grocers, and John Glover, butler for Henry Well, roomed together in an out-house on Mr. Well's fashionable residence premises on Perry street, four blocks from the business center.

Two weeks ago Gillis disappeared, and the following day some unknown person telephoned his employers that the porter had gone to visit friends in South Alabama.

Last week Glover left the city without notice.
Friends of Gillis suspected something was wrong, and told the police their suspicions, but the officers, knowing the sensational disposition of the negro, ignored the matter. Some local reporters, however, made a story out of the rumors for the afternoon paper in Montgomery recently. This stirred up interest in the case, and that night reporters and some of Gillis' friends commenced a careful investigation.

It was learned that there had been gambling in Glover and Gillis' room one night about two weeks ago; that Gillis had won, and had several hundred dollars; that Gillis had disappeared; that a negro who had seen Glover several days afterwards digging a deep trench in Well's garden, was told by Glover that it was intended to bury some weeds and trash; that the negro cook, who occupied a room adjoining Glover's, had seen him lift Gillis' body over the brick division wall one night about a week afterwards, and was told that Gillis had been sick and was being taken to the train.

The investigating party found that the garden had been recently worked and sowed in turnips, but by candle light and with the aid of a fence palting the location of the alleged trash pit was discovered by the looseness of the earth above it.

After industrious digging, Gillis' badly decomposed body was found shortly before 1 o'clock Saturday morning, wrapped in quilts and bound with cord like an Egyptian mummy.

Evidence since obtained indicates that after the card players had gone Glover crushed his roommate's skull with a bed slat and then cut his throat with a razor. That he then wrapped the body in a quilt and kept it in his room about a week, then dug the hole in the garden, buried it in the dead of night, sowed the ground above it in turnips and left the city for Atlanta.

The police are trying industriously to capture him.

The best acquaintance a man has is the stranger who knows neither good nor bad of him.

A. Chapman and W. R. DeLoach, the present incumbent, have announced for probate judge of Hale county.

It is said that $1,000,000 in checks, registered letters and money orders for Montgomery people is held up in Mobile on account of mail quarantine.

The State convention of the Baptists of Alabama will be held at the East Lake Baptist church beginning Friday, November 12, and running into the following Tuesday.

Governor Johnston wants competent volunteers to attend the waterways convention to meet at Davenport, Ia., October 5. Only one delegate has been appointed—N. H. Sewell, of Bessemer.

J. M. Hardy, of Limestone county, was arrested by revenue officers on Thursday on the charge of counterfeiting, and was committed to jail. He had in his possession a mould for counterfeiting nickels.

The merchants and farmers of Camden and vicinity are suffering serious inconvenience for lack of facilities for shipping cotton. It has been eighteen days since a boat left any wharf in that part of the river on the way to any market.

Wednesday morning Dick Bynum, a negro well digger, was overcome by damp air in an old well near Courtland, which he attempted to clean out. He fell from the bucket while being hauled up and died before he could be brought to the surface.

The governor and commissioner of agriculture Thursday, according to law, burned all the fertilizer tags remaining in the hands of the commissioner. The law requires that on the last day of the fiscal year all of the unsold tags shall be burned.

Three Alabama women obtained the highest mark possible upon examination at the National Conservatory of Music at New York recently. The ladies were Mrs. H. H. Sinnige, of Birmingham; Miss Carrie Bridwell, of Birmingham; and Miss Nellie Knight of Anniston. They were put to a severe test, and each one came out with "A A" to their credit, showing them to be vocalists of rare power and cultivation. The award for such an excellent showing is a free scholarship in the institution.

"Herbert Watts is a clever fellow. He couldn't find an umbrella that would roll tight enough to suit him. What do you suppose he did? 'I cawn't imagine.'" "He had an umbrella cover made for his cane."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

GEORGIA LADIES

TELL THE TRUTH.
Mrs. Wayne Simmes
Bullard, Ga., writes: Eight years ago I had Slow Fever 8 months. Five Doctors attended me, but I continued to grow worse until I commenced taking Dr. M. A. S. L. M. Simmons Liver Medicine three times a day, and I was well before one package was taken. Have taken a few doses "Black Draught," but did not think it cleaned my Liver as well as Dr. M. A. S. L. M.

Female Complaints.
There are two critical and even dangerous periods in female life, when the greatest care is necessary.
The first, when the girl passes from childhood to womanhood; if through ignorance or neglect this mysterious development is interfered with or thwarted, even in the smallest degree, they are liable to some malady frequently proving most serious, such as hysteria, fits or even consumption; while at the second period, called "change of life," there is often much distress and danger. At both these periods of life Dr. M. A. S. L. M. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine is invaluable, and it is recommended that a dose of it be taken twice a week for some time, before and during the menstrual period, and for strengthening the system we strongly urge the use of Dr. M. A. S. L. M. Simmons Liver Medicine, a dose at bedtime.

R. J. Redick
Seville, Ga., says: I have used Dr. M. A. S. L. M. Simmons Liver Medicine in my family for 20 years with success in many cases of Indigestion and Sour Stomach. I think it superior to "Theodore's Black Draught" and "Zellin's Regulator," and I shall recommend Dr. M. A. S. L. M. as long as I live.

Hysteria
Is caused by natural or acquired feebleness of constitution, malnutrition and, chiefly, derangements of the sexual system, such as menstrual irregularities, delayed development of the generative organs, or too strong sexual propensities. During a fit, the patient's clothes should be loosened; she should have an abundance of fresh air. The sudden, copious and constant application of cold water to the head and face will cut the fit short. Between the paroxysms, Dr. M. A. S. L. M. Simmons Liver Medicine should be taken to correct torpidity of the bowels, and a course of treatment with Dr. M. A. S. L. M. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine which is specially adapted to remove the uterine disorders.

LIFE'S COMPENSATIONS.

The skies cannot always be clear,
My dear,
The merriest eye must still have its tear,
My dear;
The clouds that are frowning above us to-day
Will presently break and go floating away,
And the skies will be blue that are sullen
and gray,
My dear!

We can't have just happiness here,
My dear;
You would never be glad if you ne'er shed
a tear,
My dear;
The sorrow that lurks in your bosom, today,
Like the clouds, when you've wept, will go floating away,
And the skies will be blue that are sullen
and gray,
My dear.

If it's going to rain, it will rain,
My dear,
No matter how bitterly we may complain,
My dear;
There are sorrows that every good woman must bear;
There are griefs in which every good man has a share,
It is only the fool who has never a care,
My dear.

The skies cannot always be clear,
My dear,
Sweets wouldn't be sweet were no bitterness here,
My dear;
There could never be joy if there never was sorrow,
The sob of today may be laughter tomorrow,
And there's sadness as well as vain trouble to borrow,
My dear!

The True Story of a Sauce.

BY MARGHERITA ARLINA HAMM.

This is a true story of low life and also of a great sauce. What his real name was no one ever knew. He had come into Rivington street in the arms of a drunken woman who inexplicably had considerable money. On this account, and also on account of her generosity, she was welcomed by the society of that downtown district.

Her name was Mary. Her family name was somewhat obscure. Once when arrested she gave it as Jones, another time as Schmidt, a third as Bonaparte and a fourth time as Washington. This variety showed her to be a woman of some information, if nothing else.

The baby was a bright-eyed little thing, which was lame. The woman was kind enough to it in her own rough way and left the child largely to its own resources.

It was clever and soon found out which of the neighbors were kind and liked children and which did not. Jamsey, for so it was called by its mother, managed to get along like thousands of others in the submerged Tenth. He grew, but on account of his infirmity grew in a different way from the other children of the neighborhood. He did not care much for playing, but liked housekeeping, dolls and other girlish recreations. When he was four he could make himself quite useful in the kitchen and was so careful that he could be safely intrusted with plates, tumblers. When he was six his mother died.

No one ever appeared to claim the body, and the city buried it without ado. The kind-hearted policeman talked of taking the boy to a nice orphan asylum, where the children are all dressed in uniform and are trained to walk alike, talk alike, eat alike, read alike and think alike and very often to misbehave and die alike.

He found to his surprise that even down in Rivington street there was an invincible antipathy to asylums. Mrs. Mueller, a childless German woman, said that the baby should stay with her as long as she lived and that no Irish policeman should take it away and have it ruined in an asylum. So Jamsey became a member of the Mueller family, which consisted of the lady in question and her husband, who was employed in an uptown brewery.

Mrs. Mueller, like all German housewives, had a mania for cleanliness. In her particular religion it preceded godliness. She had the same reverence for a scrubbing brush that a poor Hindu has for Juggernaut, while a bar of soap gave her more pleasure than the heaviest black silk dress.

Undoubtedly the cornerstone of her love for Jamsey was his taste for household pleasures, and they made a fine pair.

Although lame, he would lend a fair hand to her scrubbing up the floors and polishing the windows and in doing the family ironing. He was invaluable in washing and wiping the dishes, and by degrees he came to cook all her favorite dishes as well as she herself did.

Once or twice she let him cook by himself, when he surprised her by the tastiness of his finished work. After that, when she had what she considered leisure, she would teach him all the secrets of old German country cooking as she had learned it in her youth, of fashionable Berlin cooking, where she had been a cook some eight years before marrying and coming to this country.

Jamsey made wonderful progress, and at 13, as Mrs. Mueller fondly admitted, was almost as good, if not very much better, than herself. The old lady had not neglected Jamsey's education. He had gone to the public school and had made fair progress. He had learned German from Mrs. Mueller and her husband and picked up a capital smattering of French from Monsieur Bonhomme, the poor little cobbler in the basement of the tenement.

About this time Jamsey heard of the cooking school. It was conducted by some charitable ladies who lived uptown and was held one evening a week.

He obtained Mrs. Mueller's consent and applied for admission. He was a pretty boy; though poor, was as clean and neat as if he had been a millionaire's son. Although older than the other children, he was admitted to the class.

Before the first lesson was over the teacher found in amazement that in many respects the boy knew more of cooking than she did. After three months had passed, she said to him one day:

"Jamsey, you better go to a higher school."

Jamsey knew of none. "Didn't his friends know?" Jamsey had no friends.

The teacher thought herself and gave him a letter to an eminent teacher of cookery uptown. He was very well received when he presented the letter, but was broken hearted when told that the instruction cost $25 a quarter.

Jamsey had never had more than a many cents in all his life. He mused a little while, and then he said:

"Please, ma'am, I want to learn cooking with you, and I haven't got any money. But if you'll teach me what you know I'll teach you what I know, and I'll wash your dishes and clean your kitchen besides, in the bargain."

The professor of culinary art laughed very heartily and being a good-natured soul took Jamsey in upon these terms. One day a pupil desired to learn how to make two or three German dishes. Her husband expected to entertain some friends from Berlin and wished to surprise them. The professor was at a loss to answer, being, at a matter of fact, utterly unfamiliar with Teutonic cooking. Jamsey, seeing the dilemma, whispered to the teacher:

"I know how. You let me teach her."

The professor said: "Thanks, Jamsey," and told the pupil that her assistant had made a specialty of German cooking and would be only too glad to give her the requisite tuition.

The lady accepted, and Jamsey was unspeakably happy. He gave three lessons and did it so well that both professor and pupil were deeply pleased. Better still, the pupil, who was very well to do, gave the little cripple a $5 bill. He thanked her, chuckled, and then went home as fast as his lameness would permit. When he burst into the room where Mrs. Mueller was scrubbing the underside of the table, and handed that astonished woman a clean, crisp bill, she could not find words to express her feelings.

She went to a closet, unlocked and opened an ancient trunk and took from it a Dutch cap, black velvet, with a band in which red, yellow, blue, orange, green and violet were massed in crazy style, and put it on the boy's head.

She said: "My boy, you have earned your first money, and you are now a man. You shall wear a man's hat. That hat is what my husband wore when he got out of his apprenticeship and became a brewery man, free and independent himself."

The professor was very well pleased with Jamsey's tact and gave the boy a very thorough training. Two years he remained there, at the end of which time the professor said that Jamsey mastered the profession. Jamsey was sorry to hear the news, because he was ambitious to learn everything there was in regard to the kitchen.

He had made a little money during the time, and he had bought cookery books under his teacher's advice. The latter had also presented the boy with foreign books, especially those in French and German, which were unknown tongues to her, but not to Jamsey.

He had also secured a number of implements and had refashioned many to suit his own ideas. He was going on 15, and, though small for his age, he had already the soul of a man. About that time Mr. Mueller was taken sick.

Ere long the sickness ended, and Mrs. Mueller was a widow. What money there had been put by had been largely consumed during Mr. Mueller's sickness, and his insurance was very small.

At the furthest there was but $1200, and out of this came the expense of the funeral and the cemetery. In Rivington street they follow the ancient Irish practice of robbing the living to honor the dead. There was a fine hearse and many carriages, a coffin, which the neighbors called "perfectly illigant," a lot and a handsome tombstone.

There were the usual funeral festivities, and when this was over about $700 remained. Mrs. Mueller, the evening after the funeral, said: "Jamsey, we'll have to go to work very soon. We have only a little money, and it won't last two years if we are well, nor one year if anything happens to us."

Jamsey said: "I start out tomorrow, Frau Mueller, but you are too old to work at all. I'll get the work and take care of you," and so Jamsey started.

He tried one restaurant, and the proprietor, with an oath, said he didn't want any children around. "Get out!"

He tried another, and there was no vacancy. He answered 12 or 15 advertisements, but received no reply. He then secured employment in a Bowery restaurant, where on the third day he was brutally beaten by a waiter whom he detected robbing the owner.

He was a plucky boy and was not disheartened. It was very hard, however, and it became doubly hard when Mrs. Mueller one morning could not get up, and the doctor said she would have to remain in bed for many weeks.

The new burden acted as a stimulant upon the boy. He was up early in the morning and made the breakfast and cleaned up the rooms. He then arranged medicines and a cold luncheon on the table alongside of the bed and then went up into the street to look for employment. An entire month passed, and then inspired by a happy thought he presented himself one morning before the proprietor of one of the great restaurants of the city.

The proprietor said: "I'm afraid you're too young, my son, but you might go down stairs and see the head chef. He attends to that part of the business." Jamsey was encouraged by the manner in which he was treated, and went to the great kitchen beneath the dining hall. The chef had just come in, a handsome, black-mustached, rosy-cheeked Alsatian, who looked at the boy and said: "Well, what is it?"

Jamsey said: "I'd like to be a cook here, sir."

The chef smiled and said in his own language: "What a dear little fellow." Then in English, "Can you cook?"

Happily for Jamsey he responded in French, "I think I can cook as well as most men, sir. I'd like to have you try me."

His native tongue aroused the chef's interest. He said, "You speak my language."

"Yes," said Jamsey, "I speak some French."

"Do you speak German?" asked the chef.

"Yes," said Jamsey.

"Can you cook in French and German styles?"

"Yes," said Jamsey, proudly.

"Well, you are a brave boy, and I'll try you, anyhow. You go over there to that stove and cook me some lamb chops in some French way and also in some German way, and if they are all right I'll engage you."

Jamsey went to work in a hurry. The other cooks looked on amused by the boy's enthusiasm. He picked out a German sauce which he had learned from Frau Mueller and improved upon himself. For the other dish he made a special sauce which the cooking professor had taught him.

They were about finished, and he had raised the saucepan containing one, when a clumsy scullion going past, either by accident or through mischief, ran against him, and the contents of one saucepan went into the other.

It had no more than happened when the chef reappeared from some other part of the great establishment below stairs. He walked over to where the speechless boy stood and said:

"Hallo, that's a handsome sauce. I don't remember ever having seen it." He took the large spoon which was in it and stirred it. The stirring gave it a finish to the mixture, which made it very attractive to the eye. It was of a rich green, with a wonderful perfume and a smooth, velvety exterior that was very appetizing. The chef raised the spoon and tasted it, smacked his lips and said:

"My son, that is the best sauce I have tasted in ten years. You can put on your cap and apron and go to work now, and I am very glad to get so promising an assistant in my kitchen."

The sauce has been made many hundred times in that restaurant since then and is as popular as ever.

Jamsey has risen to be the second in command and is looked up to by all the other employees of the house, and Frau Mueller has left Rivington street and presides over a very pretty flat near Central park, where Jamsey makes his home.

Simple Cure for Gout.

Potatoes, it seems, are a cure for gout. The working people in Ireland, who live chiefly on the potato, never suffer from this dreadful complaint.

FEVER FRIGHT NOW IN TEXAS.

Local Physicians Assert That It Is Not Yellow Jack.

DR. GUITERAS SAYS "YEA."

Reports From New Orleans and Other Points.

Dr. H. A. West, a member of the Galveston, Texas, board of health and the nominal head of the board during the sickness of City Health Physician Dr. C. W. Fisher, made the following announcement Saturday night:

"Dr. Guiteras has reported to Dr. Wyman that there are eight positive cases of yellow fever in Galveston. We, the local physicians of Galveston, held an informal meeting Saturday night to discuss the matter. Some of the physicians do not agree with Dr. Guiteras, and they thought we should not submit to his opinion; others agreed with him. Some of the physicians did not feel that the facts justified the opinion that the cases are yellow fever."

Dr. Guiteras would not give out his report Saturday night, but through Dr. West it was learned that Dr. Guiteras thought that the disease would not be widespread or of a virulent character.

Dr. C. W. Truehart, who has been through several yellow fever epidemics, says:

"I have examined two of the cases which Dr. Guiteras considered suspicious and I saw not the slightest trace of yellow fever. I have found no symptoms of yellow fever in my practice, and I do not believe it exists in Galveston today."

There is every indication that if the disease is yellow fever it is a very mild type and will be attended with little or no mortality.

The opinion of the majority of the physicians at Galveston is that there is no yellow fever at Galveston, but a type of dengue fever has existed for the past sixty days; that there have been 15,000 cases of dengue and not a single death.

People Are Stamped.

Despite the assurance of Dr. Guiteras that there is no need for alarm or excitement, or necessity of leaving the city, a perfect heira has set in, and every regular train leaving the city is packed with people fleeing from the disease, and special trains are in demand.

Situation At Other Points.

The fever situation at New Orleans Saturday was practically what it was on Friday. New cases were numerous and the deaths as early as 6 o'clock had almost reached the highest number heretofore reported. The official report of board of health Saturday was as follows: Cases of yellow fever, 25; deaths, 6; total cases of yellow fever to date, 540; total deaths from yellow fever to date, 56; total cases absolutely recovered, 222; total cases under treatment, 262. Sunday's record was thirty-seven new cases and five deaths.

Mobile's health officers reported Sunday seven new cases of yellow fever, two deaths in the city and one at Magazine Point, three miles distant, and three recoveries.

Biloxi board of health report for Sunday: Yellow fever under treatment, 93; new cases, 15; total yellow fever to date, 291; total deaths to date, 12.

RATIFIED THEIR NOMINATIONS.

New York Republicans Boost Their Ticket In Mass Meeting.

The republican municipal nominations were ratified at New York Saturday night at a mass meeting at Cooper Union. Every seat in the big hall was occupied and the assemblage was an orderly one.

The several candidates as they made their appearance on the platform were received with cheers. Senator Joseph B. Foraker, of Ohio, was the principal speaker.

The most remarkable thing that occurred during Mr. Foraker's speech was the wild cheers which broke out among the audience when the speaker mentioned Henry George. The body of the hall was well filled with George men who broke out like mad at the mention of his name.

ENGLISHMEN SHOW INTEREST

In the Campaign For Municipal Offices In Greater New York.

A London cablegram says: Not even in the case of a presidential campaign in the United States have the English newspapers displayed such interest as they are now taking in the struggle preparatory to the election of a mayor of Greater New York.

Even the heavy weeklies devote much space to the subject. The Spectator and the Speaker, both print articles on the mayoralty contest. The Speaker says:

"Never since the days of imperial Athens or republican Rome has a municipal contest involved such important issues. Many a king has not had so much power as the mayor of Greater New York will have."

TALKED OF CUBA.

McKinley and Cabinet Have Interesting Session.

A Washington dispatch says: The cabinet was in session for nearly two hours Friday, all members being present except Secretary Gage.

Foreign affairs did not occupy much of the time and the discussion was devoted mostly to the forthcoming annual reports of the several heads of the departments. These reports or an abstract of them are desired by the president, so that they may be discussed in his annual message to congress. Postmaster General Gary remained with the President for some time after the other members of the cabinet went away, discussing postoffice appointments.

There was some discussion of the Cuban question and the seal conference, but owing to the fact that both these matters are in a transitory condition, no definite action was decided upon.

The president had hoped to secure a reply to his representations to Spain during the present month, but it was at the meeting that the Spanish cabinet crisis probably would cause delay in the matter.

There was more or less speculation on the part of members as to what would be the temper and character of the reply when it should be received, and the opinion was general that the ministry would manifest a desire to cultivate friendly relations with this country. The desire of the administration appeared to be to meet these advances, if they are accompanied by a policy on the part of Spain toward Cuba that will hasten the close of the war in accordance with American ideas.

It is recognized that some time will be necessary to demonstrate the policy of the Sagasta cabinet and the president's advisers are understood generally to favor the policy of allowing a reasonable time before following up the first note delivered by Minister Woodford with another of more pressing character, as originally had been intended in case the first note should not bring a satisfactory reply.

There was more or less discussion also of the proposed fur seal conference. It was stated after the meeting adjourned that it was not yet considered as absolutely settled that Great Britain would not participate in the conference.

The meeting also developed a confirmation of the report that the Union Pacific syndicate had agreed to increase its bid to the government to $50,000,000 and that the attorney general, in view of this fact, had decided not to appeal the case.

President McKinley will probably go to Canton at the November election. His trip has not been fully arranged, but he has been asked to visit several places in the city while in Ohio, and these invitations may be accepted if the president can spare the time. He probably will attend the opening of the Carnegie public library at Pittsburg if his trip to Canton is not prevented at the last moment.

AGAINST WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Virginia Presbyterians Sit Down On the W. C. T. U.

East Hanover Presbytery, at its meeting at Burkeville, Va., which has just closed, declined to recognize the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, not because the Presbytery is not in favor of temperance, but because the Woman's Christian Temperance Union is understood to be in favor of, and contending for, woman's suffrage. The Presbyterian church takes strong ground against women having the ballot or holding public office under the government.

The church does not recognize any organization that goes into politics, whether their principles be sound or unsound.

WILL RECALL WEYLER.

Spanish Cabinet Names Successor to the Captain General.

The Spanish cabinet has decided upon the immediate recall of Gen. Weyler from Cuba.

A decree will be issued appointing Captain General Blanco y Arenas, marquis of Pera Plata, governor general of the island. The queen regent will sign the decree.

General Weyler has given an emphatic and absolute denial to the report that he would resist removal from his command in Cuba, and in certain contingencies might espouse the Carlist cause.

DEATH OF AN EX-SENATOR.

Hon. John McPherson of New Jersey, Passes Away.

Ex-Senator John Roderick McPherson, of New Jersey, died Friday night at Taylor's hotel in Jersey City. He had been sick for some time with intestinal trouble.

A few days ago he was obliged to take to his bed. His condition was not alarming until toward the last. Finally heart trouble set in as a complication, and the former senator's wife and daughter, who had gone to Washington some days ago, were telegraphed for.

Mr. McPherson sank rapidly, and death resulted from heart disease.

CAR BREAKERS ARE INDICTED.

Five Dalton, Ga., Merchants Held as Accessory.

ARRESTS CAUSE SURPRISE.

Bohannon and His Gang are Caught Red Handed.

Dalton, Ga., is in the throes of a great sensation.

The Whitfield county grand jury has found thirteen indictments against Walter Bohannon and his gang of car robbers, ten indictments against half a dozen merchants for receiving stolen goods; and it is still taking evidence.

Bohannon, the notorious leader of the worst band of robbers since John A. Murrill's days, has weakened and his companions in crime are thoroughly demoralized.

The members of the gang now in jail are: Walter Bohannon, Ben Pearce, Sam Painter, Tom Kinneman, Ed Morris, colored; Bill Long, Ralph Ellison. Out on bond are: Anthony Cook and Charley Hill, two negro draymen; Luke White and Jim Harris.

The merchants who were arrested for receiving stolen goods and who gave bond are:

John Bender, member of council; Drew M. Peoples, member of council; T. N. Peoples, Jr., G. M. Cannon and Anderson Giddings.

As to the guilt of the actual members of the robber gang there is not the shadow of a doubt. They realize this, and it would not surprise any one if every outlaw in the band pleads guilty and takes his sentence without a murmur.

Some of the indicted merchants declare that they are innocent of crime and say they will fight prosecution to the finish.

For some time gossip ran wild and many an innocent man's reputation has suffered, but when the trials are over there will be no trouble about distinguishing the honest merchants from the dishonest.

The five merchants under bond are among the most prominent business men in Dalton.

Roads Lost $100,000.

The band of car-breakers has been operating for twelve years. The Southern railway has paid out nearly $50,000 in claims for stolen goods and the old East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia lost every bit as much.

Probably no railroad has ever been preyed upon so long and disastrously as the Southern and its predecessor have suffered.

Detectives have been at Dalton off and on for years trying to ferret out the mystery. They found that Walter Bohannon was probably the leader, but they could never catch him in the act, nor could they find sufficient evidence against him to convict until a short time ago.

HAWAIIAN NEWS.

Senator Morgan Addresses the People of the Islands.

The steamship China arrived at San Francisco Friday from Hong Kong via Honolulu with the following Hawaiian advices:

HONOLULU, October 4.—The steamer China brought word that Councillor Akiyama, of the Japanese foreign office, attempted suicide at Yokohama on September 2d. At last accounts he was in a critical state. Akiyama arrived here last May to assist Minister Shimamura in handling the Japanese immigration matter.

He proved to be a bright young man of considerable experience in diplomatic work. He was ordered home in July and the impression got abroad at the time that he failed to accomplish what was expected of him by his government, and that he had gone home in disgrace. At any rate, prior to his departure the matter had been taken entirely out of his hands.

The decision of the lower court in the case of the steamship China has been affirmed. This gives her the right to fly the Hawaiian flag.

Senator John T. Morgan, of Alabama, addressed a large number of natives on September 30th. He spoke of the benefits annexation would bring to the Hawaiians.

MURDER HIS MANIA.

German Admits Killing Eighteen of His Fellow Beings.

Advices from Rotterdam state that a man named Gustave Muller has surrendered to the city police, confessing the murder of his wife and child. As proof of the truth of his confession he produced from his pocket four human ears.

The police, on searching his house, found the two bodies. Subsequently he confessed that he had also killed his parents, mutilating their remains in the same fashion.

He also made the astonishing statement that he had similarly disposed of fourteen other wives.

CALERA, ALA., OCT. 14, 1897.

Last week broke the record for the Tennessee Centennial Exposition. The attendance was 92,445.

The London Times, the thunderer of the English press, thinks nothing will be heard of the Bank of England's offer to hold silver as a part of its reserve fund.

The old Dutch Church of Sleepy Hollow, made famous by Washington Irving, on last Sunday celebrated its 200th anniversary at Tarrytown, New York.

Gold imports have begun at a lively rate, millions of the yellow metal being on the way to New York from Europe. The movement will probably continue for two months.

The "Birthday Trade Edition" of the Opelika Post, which was received at this office during the past week, was a creditable sheet, and the many handsome advertisements contained on its beautifully printed pages indicate the growth and prosperity of that city.

The Troy Standard came to us this week in five parts, each part containing four pages. It was issued as a trade edition, and its advertising and write ups of the various business enterprises and firms of Troy speak well for Troy and reflects credit upon The Standard and Editor Graves.

Hon. H. D. Money has been appointed by Gov. McLaurin to fill the unexpired term of Senator George, deceased, as United States Senator for Mississippi. Senator George declined to become a candidate just before his death, and the Legislature elected Mr. Money as his successor, but Senator George's term does not expire until 1898.

The Armor Plate Board will leave Washington for Birmingham on next Saturday evening and arrive in Birmingham on Sunday evening. The Board will spend two days in the city and vicinity inspecting the advantages offered for the location of the Armor Plate factory. The citizens of Birmingham are fully awake to the importance of the occasion and we have no doubt will spare no pains to present the manifold advantages of Birmingham for the location of said plant.

The Free Coinage ticket for City officers in Indianapolis, Ind., was elected on Tuesday last. Taggart, the free silver candidate for Mayor, and 11 out of 15 Councilmen were elected by a plurality from 3000 to 5000.

The Sunny Southland in its last week's issue took the position that it had in the six weeks of its publication here given Calera the best advertising this town ever had. The Sentinel takes issue with it on this proposition, and denies the allegation most emphatically. The Sentinel furthermore asserts, that during several years of the past, notably, the years 1884, 5, 6, and 7, The Sentinel advertised to the world the many advantages and attractions of Calera and vicinity much more specifically and comprehensively than the Southland has ever dared to do. In one or two issues during that time it circulated more papers than the Sunny Southland's entire output of papers yet published and with every issue it doubled, according to the Southland's own statement, the circulation of the Southland. This circulation was not confined to Alabama or Shelby county, but ranged from Maine to California. Now if the Sunny Southland had said that it had advertised Calera in Iowa better than it was ever advertised there heretofore we would have nothing to say. That is probably true, but Iowa is a very small portion of this great country.

ALABAMA DAY AT THE CENTENIAL.

Governor Johnston on yesterday issued a proclamation in which he calls on the people of the state to attend the Nashville Centennial on Alabama Day, the 22d inst., and make that day a brilliant one. He reminds the people that the Centennial management have extended every courtesy to Alabama, and has furnished the State a splendid opportunity to advertise its matchless resources. He thinks Alabamians should show their appreciation by celebrating Alabama Day with enthusiasm and numbers worthy of their state.

The exercises on that day promise to be full of interest. An effort is being made to have a large representation of the Alabama soldiery present to add to the pleasures of the day. The railroads have announced a rate of one cent per mile for all points north of Birmingham, plus admission to the grounds and three quarters of a cent, plus admission for points south of that city. This is only $3.75 for the round trip from Birmingham, $4.73 from Calera, and $5.20 from Montgomery.

Montgomery had a pretty lively yellow fever scare last Sunday. It resulted from a rumor that Mr. O. W. Stebbins, a citizen of that city had died of yellow fever. A prompt investigation was made, and an autopsy and microscopic examination was conducted by the State Health officer and eminent physicians of the city which resulted in demonstrating the fact that the deceased did not die of yellow fever, but that death resulted from cholera morbus, accompanied by disease of the liver. As soon as this was known the excitement subsided, and all Montgomery breathed easier. The Advertiser exhibited commendable enterprise as well as most excellent judgment in getting out an extra Monday morning edition giving the result of the autopsy and thereby relieved the anxiety of the people. There is no estimating the worth of that edition to our Capital city as well as to the State at large. The Advertiser is a level headed paper anyway, and knows how to do the right thing at the right time.

Hon. Jas. W. Caldwell, ex-congressman from the 3rd Kentucky district, in a letter to the Courier-Journal of recent date discussing the political situation and replying to those who had criticised him for declaring the free coinage of silver a dead issue, says: "I see no hope for the free coinage of silver, and know quite well that never again can Mr. Bryan, as the advocate of free silver, array behind him all the forces that supported him in 1896. Though I may be mistaken, I am fully convinced that in 1900 the issue will be fiat money and the government control of railways, etc., for I believe that many Populists, even, have already abandoned free silver as an issue too narrow (as Mr. Watson is reported to have declared) to promise even a hope of success." Mr. Caldwell is a free silver democrat of the State's Rights school, and was a strong supporter of Mr. Bryan on the free silver issue, and hence his views as to the silver question are entitled to more than ordinary weight.

Heavy showers broke the long drouth in the South and West on last Sunday. Rain fell very generally, in Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Arkansas, Missouri and Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kentucky, and we may also, say in the whole of the Mississippi valley.

The Annual Statement of State Treasurer Ellis to the Governor shows that a net deficiency of $315,670.42 existed in the State treasury at the close of the fiscal year Sept. 30th, and adding to this a number of appropriations that fell due Oct. 1st, amounting to $50,000, the deficiency is $365,670.42.

Rev. Sam Jones will celebrate his fiftieth birthday, Oct. 16, with an elaborate dinner at his home at Cartersville, Ga., to which many prominent men are invited.

Shelby Items.

The writer went over to Shelby on yesterday to find that the works will resume on the 20th inst. For over a year they have been closed and a state of almost complete inactivity has prevailed. But as there seems to be a hopeful resumption of work almost everywhere in the iron producing districts, so here the same interest is seen in getting things under way.

The store will be opened as a preliminary on the 15th and Mr. Geo. Crossett, a very worthy merchant of Shelby and for years an employee of the Company in the capacity of supervisor of the ore raising department, will be installed as manager. He is regarded by every one who knows him as a sterling man and citizen and will undoubtedly bring a large trade.

Of course the establishment of a store of the proportions that will doubtless be necessary to supply the hands will operate materially in taking the trade away from the merchants who are doing business there. Self interest will force the employees to do their buying from the Company store and a system will be established to secure it. What the outcome will be is now difficult to surmise as the lots were sold originally under a guarantee by the Company not to run the store. Since then this matter has been adjusted, it is thought, with a majority of the investors and the guarantee has been rescinded with a great many, but not all. Whether those who have not released the Company are able to force the same legally to abide by their promise not to open their store, is a question yet to be settled.

It will be at least 30 days before the making of iron will begin, as the stock of coal and ore has, to a large measure, been exhausted. Houses will have to be repaired and the old hands called in.

This is the second time the furnaces have closed down. It presumably will be the last as the greatest factor, it is thought, in the maintenance of continuous work will be found in operating the store. If this had been done before it would probably have been that the works would have never stopped. The old local management will be retained with the following gentlemen in the named positions:

General Superintendent, Capt. J. P. Christlan; Assistant Treasurer, E. T. Witherby; Chief Book Keeper, A. H. Avery; Coal Supervisor, Chas. Sparks; Yard Master and Shipping Clerk, C. F. Bowles; Manager Store, Geo. Crossett; Manager Stables, Blackford; Manager steam shovels and ore washer Thos. Crossett; Master Mechanic shops, Mr. Wm. Craig; Master Carpenter, Mr. Kifer.

Solidifying the Southern Whites.

Sichmond, Va., Times.

Mr. McKinley's appointments of negroes to important public positions in the States to the south of us have excited the alarm of the southern people and have revived much of the old-time terror of negro rule. These appointments have in one day undone all that had been done toward ending the race issue in the south, and they have again solidified the whites so that nothing whatever can separate them while the federal administration retains its present position.

The Shelby Sentinel.

CALERA, ALA., OCT. 14, 1897.

The weather is all that could be desired for gathering the cotton crop.

Ground has been broken for an addition to the Orphan's Home at Talladega.

U. S. Senator Tillman of South Carolina, is quite ill at Columbia. He has jaundice.

Hon. Charles H. Jones, former U. S. Senator from Florida, died at Detroit, Michigan, on the 12th inst.

Alabama should bear in mind that it is their duty to make Alabama Day the 22 inst., at the Nashville Centennial a grand success.

Two important municipal elections were held on the 12th inst. One at Indianapolis, Ind., the other at Chattanooga. In both instances democrats won.

The meeting of the trustees of the Girls' Industrial School which was to have been held in Montevallo on the 20th inst., has been postponed until the 29th inst.

The Municipal election in Chattanooga, Tenn., on last Tuesday, resulted in a democratic victory, changing the republican majority of two years ago of 500, to a democratic majority of 995.

Will Hunter, a notorious negro convict made his escape from Pratt mines on Thursday afternoon, but was recaptured by the Marshal of Warrior on last night. The Marshal had, however, to shoot him two or three times to effect his capture. His wounds are reported as not serious.

Evangelina Cisneros, the beautiful Cuban maiden who was imprisoned in Havana by Butcher Weyler's orders and whose case has attracted so much attention, recently made her escape, by the aid of friends, from the prison and thence from Cuba a few days ago. She arrived in New York on the Ward Line steamer Seneca on yesterday, and is now in that city with friends. The New York Journal it seems was largely instrumental in effecting her escape.

Mr. E. P. Lacy, a grandson of Senator Pettus and his private secretary, met with a very unfortunate accident near Clay's Station in Autauga county, on yesterday. While out hunting he accidentally shot himself in the left arm, a wound being inflicted which necessitated amputation. He was taken to Selma by a special train, arriving at 4:30, p. m., and the arm was amputated above the elbow at 6, p. m. His condition was reported as critical.

The yellow fever situation does not improve, on the contrary, it appears to be growing worse. Especially is this the case in New Orleans, where it has now reached the epidemic stage. At Mobile and other points it also continues to grow worse. Wagar, a lumber camp in Washington county, on the Mobile and Birmingham road about 125 miles from Selma, is now afflicted with the dread disease. Reports from Galveston are more favorable.

The October statement of the Treasury Department shows that the money in circulation in the United States has increased nearly one hundred million dollars in the past year. The gold in circulation was $528,098,753 on October 1st compared with $478,771,490 at the corresponding date last year. Silver certificates have increased $20,000,000 and standard silver dollars in circulation have increased nearly a million. And all this has happened in the face of the things told us just about a year ago, that terrible times would overtake the United States if she did not adopt the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and thus "increase the circulating medium." The circulating medium has been increased a hundred million in a year, and that, too, without the "aid and consent" of the depreciated money metal whose free mintage would have reduced the value of every silver coin.

A Good Location For a Wholesale Jobbing House.

The Sentinel has frequently mentioned heretofore that there is not a better point in Alabama for the establishment of a wholesale jobbing house than Calera. The wonder is that it has not long since been occupied by some enterprising and progressive business man.

Calera has all the advantages and none of the expensive disadvantages that pertain to many larger and more populous towns. In the matter of transportation facilities it is not surpassed by Anniston, Selma, Montgomery or Birmingham, and in the matter of rents and city taxes it has the advantage of all these places. Freight rates equally as advantageous as any of these points mentioned can be secured.

In addition to this it is centrally located as to the aforementioned places with a large section of country tributary, the trade of which is of immense proportions and which would naturally gravitate to this point. Besides, Calera is the headquarters of the line trade of the state, a trade of no mean proportions itself, and which gives employment to a large number of people.

It is also conveniently situated to the coal and lumber industries of this and adjoining counties, and in addition to these the agricultural interests within the radius of its influence are of considerable magnitude.

In addition to all these, being located at the crossing of the two great leading railroad lines of the South, and being also the terminus of the Alabama Mineral railroad, it enjoys to a large extent the circulation of a large amount of money distributed here monthly by these railroads.

In natural advantages, inviting facilities and favorable surroundings no town in Alabama, that the Sentinel knows anything of, can compare with Calera as a location for a wholesale general merchandise jobbing house. Such an establishment in the hands of progressive, enterprising business men would be a grand success as well as productive of the greatest good to this whole section. The opportunity is here and the place is awaiting an occupant. It will not be for long. Some enterprising business man will surely come in and occupy.

Yellow Jack Killed.

Casarets, candy cathartics kills Yellow Jack wherever they find him. No one who takes casarets regularly and systematically is in danger from the dreadful disease. Casarets kill Yellow fever germs in the bowels and prevent new ones from breeding. 10c, 25c, 50c, all druggists.

WHY THE SOUTH PROSPERS.

From the Philadelphia Stockholder.
New England is feeling to a very serious extent the competition of the large number of cotton mills established at the south within the past few years. Proximity to the cotton fields, and the large amount of cheap labor obtainable in that section, give southern manufacturers a very ponderable advantage in rivalry with the older centers of cotton manufacture. Eight years ago the southern mills were consuming about 546,890 bales of cotton annually, while in the past year actual consumption is estimated at 1,042,671 bales. In other words, the south's manufacturing capacity has doubled within a decade.

From the New York Mail and Express.
At no time since the states of the south, casting off the lethargy that followed the awful results of the civil war, began to compete with the north and east in manufacture, have the statistics of the mills in Dixie been so eloquent as at present of progress and of promise. As cotton is the great staple in production, so must cotton manufacture become and remain the great feature of industrial activity, its depression or prosperity indicating largely the general condition of the people.

From the Boston Globe.
Nor is the south a stranger to woolen manufacture to the extent that we often suppose in the north. In the seven states above mentioned the woolen mills number 88, and are situated as follows: Alabama, 2; Georgia, 5; Kentucky, 18; Mississippi, 1; North Carolina, 13; Tennessee, 25; Virginia, 24. Unlike corn and wheat, cotton yields much of its profit in the manufacture of it, and as the south has come to be so great a developer of her own staple it may safely be said that she deserves fully as great a measure of congratulation on account of prosperity as does the booming west. And not only does she deserve it, but the north does not begrudge it of her.

CANDIDATE BRYAN'S VISIT.

He May Learn the Truth, But Will He Admit it?

Huntsville Mercury:

When Hon. Wm. Jennings Bryan has visited Alabama and made his argument in favor of keeping up the financial fight begun at Chicago last July, the people will begin to line up on the question of eliminating national issues from the next State campaign. Bryan's visit will be made in December and by that time the people will have begun thinking of and planning the coming campaign.

It will not be difficult to show the people that party interests demand perfect unity inside Democratic ranks. So far as national issues are concerned the free silver faction of the Democratic party is in control and will likely so continue, but does that justify the majority in absolutely ignoring a large and intelligent minority? Would it not be better to lay aside the thorn and cultivate party friendship?

When Mr. Bryan sees the situation as it exists and is made to understand the pressing need of important State legislation, he will hardly advise a continuation of the Chicago fight. If he wants assurances that a majority of Alabamians favor silver coinage he can have them in abundance, but if a party fight is precipitated by an injection of national issues into the State campaign our State ticket will be endangered and possibly, defeated.

A HAPPY MISSION.

Mr. A. J. Powers, of the firm of Towers & Co., of this place, left a few days ago for Cedar Bluff, Miss. He went on a happy mission as he will on this evening be united in marriage with Miss Bertha Wade, a charming young lady of that place. Miss Wade has visited Calera and made many friends while here. Mr. Powers is to be congratulated upon his good fortune. The newly wedded couple will be at home in this city after the 20th inst. The Sentinel extends good wishes.

Yellow Fever Prevented.

There is only one sure way of preventing yellow fever. Destroy the germs of the disease by using casarets, candy cathartics, and keep the system clean by continuing their use. The tried and tested safe-guard against yellow fever is to place your faith in casarets, 10c, 25c, 50c, all druggists.

The October report of the United States Agriculture Department shows that the condition of the cotton crop has fallen off from 75.3 to 70, and if the reduction in yield is in the same proportion, estimates on the size of the crop should be cut down at least 10 per cent. The department's showing is calculated to upset the bears in the cotton market, and in the natural order of things prices should now rise.

The Industrial School for Girls at Montevallo is progressing most satisfactorily. The attendance numbers three hundred and twenty-five, and is composed of a splendid army of young ladies from all sections of the state. The accommodations are ample to accommodate those in attendance, and there is room for fifty or seventy-five more. Already pupils and teachers are getting down to solid work. The music class alone numbers 167. The outlook is most flattering for a prosperous and successful term.

At the request of Rev. Andrews, who preached to the children of the city this afternoon, Prof. Slaton brought the pupils of the High School over to the church in a body. The long line of children of all sizes attracted considerable attention as they marched through the streets.

Mr. Lee Campbell, a former railroad man of this place now section-master at Demopolis, was with home folks here Sunday.

"Little John" Ozley keeps nice fresh sausage every day.

Mr. W. E. Brinkerhoff and family of Newala visited relatives in the city this week.

Mrs. Fannie Bristow is visiting the family of her son, Mr. Bremond Bristow at Talladega Springs.

Yellow Fever Germs

breed in the bowels. Kill them and you are safe from the awful disease. Casarets destroy the germs throughout the system and make it impossible for new ones to form. Casarets are the only reliable safe-guard for young and old against Yellow Jack. 10c, 25c, 50c, all druggists.

Two Millions a Year.

When people buy, try, and buy again, it means they're satisfied. The people of the United States are now buying casarets candy cathartics at the rate of two million boxes a year and it will be three millions before New Years. It means merit proved, that casarets are the most delightful bowel regulator for everybody the year round. All druggists 10c, 25c, 50c a box, cure guaranteed.

Mr. J. F. Snyder, of the Southern Railway, gave the Sentinel a pleasant call yesterday evening.

Judicious Expenditures Cause Big Returns.

To the merchant who is happy if he can sell his goods at an increase of ten to twenty per cent. over the cost how almost incredible must it seem that typewriting machines and bicycles, which cost from about sixteen to twenty-five dollars to manufacture, can be sold for $100—or even $50—each?

What machines are more universally used today than these two, excepting the sewing machine?

How hard the merchant struggles for his ten per cent. profit while the typewriting machine and the bicycle sell at a price which is from four to six times the cost of manufacture.

Judicious and continuous advertising has made this possible.

Fair Enough.

Extracting Gold.

A process of extracting gold by which every particle of the metal in the ore is recovered is stated to be in successful operation in West Australia. It is called the ore atomic process. Gold quartz is crushed into small lumps and is then put into a closed chamber, subjected to the heat of a furnace, to the action of water and of hydrogen gas. This eliminated sulphur and reduces all oxides to the metallic state. After being heated, the material is suddenly cooled by jets of water—an operation repeated several times till the quartz crumbles to powder at the touch of the finger. It is then thrown into a tank and the gold is separated by washing. —Chicago Tribune.

In speaking of the widow of William Morris, who has just asked that letters of the dead poet be sent to her to be used in his biography, the Boston Transcript says: "Her extraordinary beauty was for years in her youth a sort of outward and visible sign in this world of what the young painters and poets of Morris' set were striving for in art. It is her face which appears in numbers of the paintings of all the pre-Raphaelites, notably in Rossetti's—her wonderful brow, with the thick masses of hair above and the not-to-be-forgotten eyes and mouth, appearing in many pictures, well known also in copies and prints dear to many lovers of art, who have not associated them with the personality of the woman who became the wife of William Morris."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

There are in Connecticut alone 54 women who are daughters of soldiers who fought in the Revolutionary War. It is estimated that over eight tons of diamonds have been unearthed in the South African fields during the last eighteen years. These represent a total value of $280,000,000.

A postmistress in Ohio has lost her government position by getting married. This is very illogical on the part of the government; the young woman couldn't possibly have better demonstrated her ability to manage the mails.

The Legislature of Michigan refused to grant an appeal from farmers of the state to prohibit for five years the killing of quail, but did prohibit for that length of time the killing of prairie chickens within the limits of the state.

There are in the Southern States nearly 100 endowed schools and colleges devoted to negro education. These institutions represent an investment of nearly $10,000,000, and are maintained at an annual expense of about $4,000,000, by far the greater part of which is borne by Northern philanthropists. Most of these colleges have been in operation for the past twenty years, some of them for the past thirty years. It is quite safe to estimate, however, that at least fifty of these schools have graduated a class every year for the past twenty years, and to estimate further that the graduating classes have averaged thirty members each. This very conservative estimate indicates that the negro colleges have graduated 30,000 pupils.

A proposed tax on telegraph poles has been in litigation some years between the city of St. Louis and the Western Union Telegraph Company. The city laid a tax of $15 per year on 1509 poles, or $22,635 per annum. The company was sued for this amount and the United States Supreme Court has now rendered a decision against the city, the tax being considered neither just nor equitable. An Eastern paper, in noting the foregoing facts, says that the end of litigation has, by no means, been reached in this decision.

The American Baptist Year Book for 1897, just issued, gives the following denominational statistics: Ministers, 27,257; churches, 40,658; members, 3,324,038; Sunday schools, 23,787; teachers, 164,431; scholars, 1,590,190; universities and colleges, 37 theological seminaries, 7. The members of denominations which are in harmony with the Baptists in the matter of church polity and immersion number 5,134,378.

The silk manufacture of the United States is judged by the wages paid. Paterson, N. J., heads the list, paying $5,021,000. Tren in order are: New York City, $4,144,500; Philadelphia, $1,639,000; Yonkers, $347,000; Jersey City, $326,000; Chicago, $295,000; Allentown, Pa., $392,000; Brooklyn, $278,000; Scranton, Pa., $170,000; San Francisco, $83,000.

Speaking of the fighting spirit natural to mankind the Galveston News says: "Nine mortals of ten have in them a demand for somebody to fight for and somebody to fight against. There are few patient philosophers who are broad and strong enough to hold themselves above the prejudices of their own people and judge the whole world fairly. Manifestly to do this would even now be considered treason in some of the so-called civilized nations of the world."

Bagpipes, it seems, are coming to be the fashionable musical instrument among the English ladies. What women who have nothing to do will not think of for a fad would, in the opinion of the Pathfinder, be a novelty in the history of the grotesque.

The Philadelphia Record says: "With the recent sale of the towboat Colonel Thomas A. Scott, which is to be converted into a wrecking craft, the old type of sidewheel towboats has disappeared from the Atlantic coast of the United States. Not long ago it was a common sight to see them with dozens of barges slowly but surely working their way up and down the Delaware river. On the inland waters of the United States a few still remain, but their days are numbered, as the propeller type of towing craft is much easier handled and does better work."

Curious facts have lately come to light concerning the Island of Sakhalin, which lies off the eastern coast of Siberia. Cold winds and sea currents circulate around it, and produce on the island a reversal of the ordinary course of nature respecting the arrangement of temperature. Usually the air is warmest near sea level, and coldest on highlands and mountains, but in Sakhalin the coldest air is found near the sea, while in the lofty interior of the island the climate is mild, and even sub-tropical plants flourish on the heights.

Maryland farmers have had their clover destroyed by the hundreds of acres each year for four or five seasons past, the wicked work having been done by a little beast of the weevil sort, against which all the ordinary insecticides were powerless. This spring the creature appeared again in large numbers, and the farmers appealed to the state entomologist for aid, declaring if he would not give it to them, and at once, they would be forced to abandon the raising of what has hitherto been one of their most profitable crops. An official investigation of the matter was immediately begun, and, curiously enough, the first discovery made was that it will not be necessary to do anything at all. Nature, in her wise way, has decided that this particular weevil has carried things with a high hand long enough, and she has turned loose upon it a minute fungus which is working so effectively that anybody who wants one of the clover eaters in his collection would better secure a specimen at once. Large numbers of the doomed weevils have already been attacked by the fungus, and each of them is a centre for the infection of his fellows. It is a plague from which there are no recoveries, and the prospects are that a few weeks will free the clover fields of the pests from whose ravages whole counties have suffered severely.

American meats have a hard time in Germany. They must pay a heavy duty on arriving at the port of entry, run the risk of confiscation and immediate destruction if they fail to pass the far from friendly scrutiny of examiners stationed at each place of consumption, and, if they can still compete with the costly home product after paying the cost of this examination, they are likely to encounter a local law which prevents their sale except as poor stuff to be eaten at the purchaser's peril. At Freiberg, for example, no dealer in food can keep the imported beef or pork unless he displays prominently a sign on which is printed the words, "Inferior American Meats for Sale Here." That is not a legend calculated to attract profitable trade, and naturally it is never seen except in shops supplying the lowest class of patrons. The importation of live animals from to hand, or by regulations like that America is entirely prohibited in Germany. Pickled, salted, and smoked meats are practically excluded by repeated taxation as they pass from hand just described. Canned meats and lard in small quantities manage to make their way into some parts of the country, and even these are subject to constant attack on the ground of imaginary defects in the quality of the preservatives used. Curiously enough, the restrictions imposed are most stringent in Saxony, a state which is industrial, not agricultural, and disposes of a large amount of its manufactures in the United States.

PRAYING BICYCLES.

Japanese Now Attach Prayer Wheels to the Hubs of Their Bicycles.

The bicycle is now employed to aid the pious Buddhist in praying with greater ease, but yet, as he hopes, with great effect. It is from the ingenious and enterprising country of Japan that this new departure is reported.

The Buddhist has done his praying with the assistance of a wheel. The prayers are placed inside the wheel, which turns around, following the direction of the sun, and delivers up to Heaven the prayers of the owner, or of all whose thoughts are fixed upon it. Some enormous wheels are capable of praying for thousands of people. This mode of worship may seem somewhat irresponsible to Western people, but the Buddhist, who is a subtle reasoner, would be able to explain why it is satisfactory.

In various parts of the vast territory in which the Buddhist faith is held different motive powers are used in these prayer wheels. Some humble persons turn the wheel by hand, but not if they can help it. On the hills of Tibet, a great stronghold of pure Buddhism, the wheels are usually so built that the wind turns them. In other places they are moved by water power.

But it is obvious that the wind must fail occasionally, and that this may happen when the Buddhist is particularly in need of copious prayer. Water power, too, is often lacking.

So the ingenious Jap now attaches small prayer wheel to the hub of his bicycle, and when he takes a ride he combines worship with recreation. By glancing at the pedometer he can tell just how much praying he has done. He can also keep an accurate daily record, which will enable him to tell after a number of years just how much praying stands to his credit. In this way Buddhism seems to have given a zest to bicycling which no other religion can supply.

Fisherman's Worst Enemy.

There is in New York rivers and lakes a parasitic fish, the lamprey, which lives entirely by sucking the blood of other fishes, attacking even such vigorous fish as the black bass and the pickerel. Professor Gage of Cornell University has seen 12,000 of these lampreys spawning at one time in the inlet to Cayuga Lake alone. By actual count twelve out of every fifteen bullheads caught in Cayuga Lake and tributary stream have been attacked by bloodsuckers, and Professor Gage, who has made a special study of the lampreys, makes the sober scientific statement that they actually destroy more good food fish than all the hooks and nets of all the legal and illegal fishermen of New York State. The lamprey is about the size and has somewhat the appearance of an eel. An effort is now being made to obtain from the State a small appropriation to see whether the lampreys can be exterminated by trapping them as they go up the creeks to spawn in the spring, as Professor Gage thinks they can. If so, we may see the day when fishing with nets may safely be made legal throughout the State.—New York Press.

An Ideal Light Breakfast.

People who take only a light breakfast can add to its nourishing qualities by beating the white of an egg into a fine cereal. The egg should be beaten stiff, but not until it crumbles, or it will appear in fine crumbs throughout the dish. It should be stirred in just as the cereal is taken from the fire, the egg thus being sufficiently cooked. If the cereal is preferred cold, for warm weather, it may be turned into individual molds, with a little fruit—plums, peaches, jelly, or even ripe strawberries. The cereal will harden in about twenty minutes, and may be served with whipped cream and powdered sugar. This makes a pretty dish, and the breakfast, with a cup of coffee, contains all the necessary food condiments.—New York Times.

PHYSICIANS BAFFLED.

Prof. R. S. Bowman, Instructor of Natural Science in Hartsville College, Cured of a Severe Illness by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People After Physicians Failed.

From the Republican, Columbus, Ind.
Prof. R. S. Bowman, the able instructor of natural science in the famous Hartsville (Ind.) College, is well and favorably known, not only as an educator, but also as a minister of the gospel, as for a number of years he was pastor of the United Brethren church at Charlotte, Mich., before coming to Hartsville.

PROF. R. S. BOWMAN.

Some time ago he had a severe illness which was cured almost miraculously. A reporter hearing of this, interviewed him regarding his experience. Prof. Bowman was in the midst of his work when the reporter called, but he cheerfully gave him a hearing.

"A year ago last fall," said the professor, "I broke down with nervous exhaustion, and was unable to properly attend to my duties. I tried different physicians but with no relief, and also used many different proprietary medicines, spending almost fifty dollars for these medicines alone. I then succumbed to a seige of the grip in the middle of winter, and was left in a much worse condition. My kidneys were fearfully disordered, and my digestion became very poor. I was indeed in a bad condition."

"A minister in conference learning of my condition advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had heard much about the wonderful curative powers of this medicine, but it was with reluctance that I was finally persuaded to try it, as it seemed that nothing could do me any good. However, I procured three boxes of pills and took them strictly according to directions. By the time the last dose was taken I was almost cured, and in better health than I had been for years. I continued using the pills awhile longer and was entirely cured. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

Such was Professor Bowman's wonderful story, which was fully endorsed by the following affidavit:

HARTSVILLE, Ind., March 16, 1907.
I affirm that the above accords with the facts in my case.

R. W. BOWMAN.
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 16th day of March, 1907.

They are sold in boxes (never in loose form, by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or directly by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Mechanism of the Human Body.

The human body is an epitome in Nature of all mechanics, all hydraulics, all architecture, all machinery of every kind. There are more than three hundred and ten mechanical movements known to mechanics to-day, and all of these are but modifications of those found in the human body. Here are found all the bars, levers, joints, pulleys, pumps, pipes, wheels and axles, ball and socket movements, beams, girders, trusses, buffers, arches, columns, cables and supports known to science. At every point man's best mechanical work can be shown to be but adaptations of processes of the human body, a revelation of first principles used in Nature.—Ladies' Home Journal.

One of the standing needs of the country, says a sloppy organ, is more Massachusetts people. They will be more needed, perhaps, when the rate of illiteracy is reduced in Massachusetts to the Western average.

The revival meeting at the Methodist church is still in progress. There is a good deal of interest manifested and there have been several conversions. The congregations attending are large, especially at the night services, and very attentive. Rev. John Andrews is doing the preaching and he presents the truth in a strong and forceful manner.

A Genuine Pentecost.

The meeting at Hull just concluded at the Big Sandy Baptist Church is an instance of a modern Pentecost. The preaching was done by Rev. W. B. Carter the regular pastor of the church, one of the most gifted of preachers, and as a result of the meeting there were 47 additions to the church. Of these 43 were baptized at the river on Sunday. The whole country side was at the service and it is said the crowd probably numbered 1000. Several Tuscaloosa people were there and the scene is described as a wonderfully impressive one. So large a number of people baptized at one time has not been known in this part of the world.—Tuscaloosa Gazette.

J. C. Berry, one of the best known citizens of Spencer, Mo., testifies that he cured himself of the worst kind of piles by using a few boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He had been troubled with piles for more than thirty years and had used many different kinds of so-called cures; but DeWitt's was the one that did the work and he will verify this statement if any one wishes to write him.—Dial Bros.

Florida's Haven for Criminals.
Tampa is entitled to the distinction of being the best place for criminals in the United States. The cause of this is the inefficiency of our courts of justice. Criminals are not punished. Bad men are imprisoned, but they live better in jail than outside. As birds in a cage sing and grow fat, so these men play the fiddle and chew tobacco, and have a good time at the people's expense.—Tampa News.

We do not admire everything Cupid does, but there is no denying his good taste and sense in dressing.

Sound Blindness.
We have all heard often enough of color blindness. Many people, although they possess perfect eyesight for reading or seeing long distances, yet can't for the life of them distinguish green and red, and many other pairs of colors. Lately it has been found that some suffer from an exactly similar affection of the hearing powers—that is, an inability to distinguish particular shades of sound arising from some obscure affection of the ear, yet quite distinct from deafness. One boy, in doing dictation, always spelt "very" "vought." He could not distinguish at all between the sounds of "very," "perry" and "polly," and yet he could hear at as great a distance as anybody. Another youngster would spell "different" "drif-ent." He said that was how it sounded. And several others ran the letters "r," "n" and "l" together in a hopeless way.

Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running ear, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

SHOT HIS SON.

John Branyon, who lives near Mechanicsville, Ga., killed his 16-year-old son Monday night. His father mistook him for a burglar and fired, killing him instantly.

THE DROUGHT BROKEN.

Rain has fallen throughout the parched belt in the western states and the long disastrous drought has at last been broken. Reports from Kansas, Nebraska, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas and Minnesota show general rains still falling.

LOST HIS ARM IN A GIN.

Warren Hundley, superintendent of Toney's gin at Swancott, had his arm entangled in the ginning machinery Saturday and it was fearfully torn. Physicians amputated the arm and Hundley is in a precarious condition.

GRANTED MORE TIME.

The Birmingham Industrial Company, which proposes to bring pure artesian water into Birmingham, was granted the extension of time asked for at a meeting of the city council. Under the terms the company must begin a part of the work, enough to show its earnestness, within six months, and is granted until October, 1899, to complete everything and have the water flowing into Birmingham.

FILLING VACANCIES.

The Jefferson county democratic executive committee met in Birmingham Saturday for the purpose of filling vacancies on the committee and accept the resignation of John H. Miller, chairman, who has become a candidate for one of the judgeships in Jefferson county. There was a lively race to succeed Chairman Miller, the candidates being J. S. Gillespie, a pronounced silver advocate, and Henry B. Gray, a gold follower, though strictly a party man. The vote stood 29 to 24 and Gillespie was afterwards elected by acclamation.

MURDER AT ROCK SPRINGS.

Paul Alexander was murdered by Frank Martin at Rock Springs Saturday. Both are young white men and employed at the lime works. Martin, who is the fireman, accused Alexander of stealing a monkey wrench. In the dispute which arose Martin picked up an axe and struck Alexander in the side and then split open his head. Immediately after the killing Martin fled and was supposed to have hidden in the mountains. Later Martin came in and gave himself up to the authorities.

CAPT. DUNCAN DEW DEAD.

Capt. Duncan Dew, a well-known citizen of Greene county, and an ex-Confederate soldier, died in Birmingham Friday. For a long time Capt. Dew was engaged in the cotton business in Mobile, and at the time of his death was worth over $250,000, being the largest owner of prairie lands in the state. He was the son and only surviving member of the family of the late Duncan Dew, Sr., who made over $1,000,000 in Greene county before the war. Capt. Dew was in the Confederate army, being attached to the Nineteenth Alabama infantry. He participated in all the battles of the western army. He was a Master Mason and a member of the Royal Arch Knight Templars. He leaves a number of relatives in the vicinity of Eutaw, who will inherit his wealth, he having died a bachelor.

PARDONS GRANTED BY THE GOVERNOR.

Governor Johnston on Saturday took up the various applications for pardon of convicts and granted the following:

G. A. Deans, of Jefferson county, convicted of false pretense and sentenced to twelve months hard labor. This seems to be the first offense of this young man and there seems to be some question whether he intended to defraud or expected to make the remittance. On account of his youth and good character I will give him the benefit of the doubt, and direct that a parole be issued to him conditioned on his conducting himself as a peaceable, law-abiding citizen.

Ed Willingham, of Morgan county, convicted of grand larceny and sentenced to twenty five months.

Mrs. Emma Mashburn, convicted of bigamy at the circuit court of Jackson county and sentenced to two years.

Rush Lewis, of Elmore county, convicted of rape and sentenced to life imprisonment.

BIG STRIKE AHEAD.

The Secretary of the Federal Trades of London, comprising thirty important industries, announces that the executive committee has definitely decided to call out all its members in sympathy with the struggle of the engineers against their employers on Friday next, when it is estimated 400,000 men will be out of work on account of the great labor dispute.

KILLED IN HIS BARN.

James Chapman, who lives six miles north of Jackson, Miss., has been assassinated. The killing occurred while Chapman was in a barn caring for his stock. Chapman failed to return, investigation was made, and he was found dead with a horrible wound in the back of his head.

FINDS CURE FOR YELLOW FEVER.

A dispatch from Montevideo says that Professor Sanurelli, who discovered the yellow fever bacillus, announces the discovery of a curative serum.

MISSISSIPPI'S NEW SENATOR.

Gov. McLaurin has appointed Senator-elect Hernando De Soto Money as United States senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Senator J. Z. George, whose term expires in 1898.

COMING NEXT SUNDAY.

The Armor Plate Board, appointed by the last Congress to investigate the feasibility and cost of constructing a government armor plate factory will be in Birmingham next Sunday evening. Definite information on this subject has been received from the board itself.

SERIOUSLY WOUNDED.

Mrs. James Calvert, living about five miles from Warrior, in Blount county, was seriously wounded by the accidental discharge of a double-barreled shot gun. The gun was lying on a table in the room when a small boy cocked and fired it. The load went through a plank wall and struck the lady, who was sitting on the porch. She would have been killed if the wall had not impeded the shot.

SHOTGUN QUARANTINE.

Owing to the rigid shotgun quarantine in Mississippi the Southern Railway has decided to run no passenger trains further west than Columbus, Miss. Heretofore these trains have run between Birmingham and Greenville, Miss. Travel west of Columbus, however, has been killed by the quarantine, and from now until the quarantine is raised only mixed trains will run between Columbus and Greenville.

THE EMIGRANT FRAUD.

"African Charley," a negro who claims to be from Africa, is in the northern end of Sumter county enrolling negroes to go to Africa. He charges $1.50 for enrolling them, and says he will have a boat at Gainesville to take them straight through to Africa.

He tells them that when they reach there the president of this country will give each one $100 and a large tract of land. They keep him busy enrolling, and some of Sumter county's best negroes are going.

RICH CLAIM OBTAINED.

T. M. Hobbs, son of the late Capt. Thomas H. Hobbs, has just returned to Athens from Venezuela. He and Maj. E. C. Gordon, with a well-known engineer, spent some weeks in the neighborhood of the Orinoco river.

They secured a river grant rich with gold. Mr. Hobbs brought home some valuable nuggets of gold and pieces of quartz. The party has purchased and shipped machinery to work their claim. One claim near by is said to have yielded in past years $30,000,000.

WILL NOT RENEW LEASE.

Governor Atkinson has made public that portion of his message to the general assembly, which meets on the 20th instant, in which he discusses the disposition of the state's convicts on the expiration of the present leases. The governor recommends that the leases be not renewed. He rejects the proposition to employ the convicts on the public roads and recommends the establishment of a reformatory for juvenile criminals.

Briefly Noted.

Hon. R. T. Simpson, of Florence, has announced himself a candidate for the democratic nomination for associate justice of the supreme court.

W. L. Hackett, the recently elected mayor of Courtland, Ala., has resigned his office. The city council held a special meeting and elected Alderman A. J. Crosthwaite to fill Hackett's unexpired term.

The report in a paper in a neighboring town that two cases of small-pox existed in Decatur is without foundation. Members of the county health board say there is not nor has there been a case of the disease there this year.

YELLOW FEVER.

The Latest Reports Show That the Epidemic is Still Spreading.

From the returns there is little hope in the yellow fever situation. At New Orleans the average number stricken each day is about forty. Monday 38 cases were reported and 4 deaths.

Mobile reports 5 new cases Monday and no deaths. This makes a total of 125 cases and 20 deaths to date.

Dr. Guiteras declares there are 4 cases of yellow fever in Houston. Dr. Swearingen, state health officer, has issued a proclamation quarantining Galveston and Houston, saying there are a few mild cases in each.

At Nita Yuma 6 cases are under treatment and 1 death reported.

At Edwards, Miss., the number of new cases is growing small for lack of material. Five cases developed Monday, with 2 deaths.

One case developed at San Antonio and the patient died Monday.

Dr. Guiteras has reported to Surgeon General Wyman that there are eight cases of yellow fever at Galveston, Texas. The local physicians do not agree with Dr. Guiteras, believing it to be dengue fever.

Two cases of yellow fever have developed at Magazine Point, Ala.

MISSISSIPPI'S NEW SENATOR.

Gov. McLaurin has appointed Senator-elect Hernando De Soto Money as United States senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Senator J. Z. George, whose term expires in 1898.

Had No Use for Anthracite.

Edmund Carey, of Benton, is in this city this week attending court. He was one of the early residents of Wilkesbarre, and was born Aug. 12, 1822, on a farm at the lower end of town, now known as Carey avenue, which has been named after the family. His father, George Carey, was one of the settlers who had the handling of the first anthracite coal in Wyoming valley. He helped open a striping in Pittston township, now known as Plains township, in 1815, and in the spring of that year loaded a raft with several others and took it down the Susquehanna to Harrisburg, where they sold the raftload of forty tons of anthracite for $10. They were discouraged at such remuneration and left the transportation of coal dormant until 1820, when they took another raftload down and failed to find a buyer. They were so discouraged that they dumped their load of black diamonds into the Susquehanna at Harrisburg, and as far as these early pioneer shippers were concerned, the opening up of a coal market was ended.—Wilkesbarre Record.

The Union Jack.

The origin of the word "Jack" is unknown. The meaning, as understood to-day, is "something shown," and in this sense the application of the word is now limited to the Union flag. Some have supposed it to be derived from the jack or jaque, the tunic worn in early time by men-at-arms, those of Englishmen being decorated with the cross of St. George; which jackets, when not in use, were hung in rows, side by side, thus displaying the blood-red cross, which was at once their banner and their shield. Others regard the name as coming from that of the sovereign James (Jacobus or Jacques), who was the first to hoist it as a national emblem.

How to Laundry Fancy Linen.

To wash embroidered linens so as not to fade the colors, fill a tub half full of warm water, to which add a little Ivory Soap. Wash each piece through the suds carefully, rinse in blue water, to which a little thin starch is added. Hang in the shade to dry. Iron on the wrong side, pressing down heavily to bring out the stitches, thus restoring their original beauty.

ELIZA R. PARKER.

The Extent of His Superstition.

To a little extent I am superstitious, says a Virginian. I moved into a new house a couple of years ago, and somehow things seemed to grow worse constantly. First it was one thing, and then it was another. I mentioned the matter to an old colored auntie, who did our laundry work, and she told me it was because there was no toad frog in the cellar. She said it was good luck for a new house to have a toad in the cellar and that many builders always left a frog in the cellar when they finished a house. As it was such a simple matter to set things right I caught a toad and put it in the cellar, and, strangely enough, things began running all right immediately. Since then my cellar has never been without a toad frog, and to that extent I am superstitious.

Paved with Grass.

It is proposed to pave London roads with compressed grass blocks. The claim is made that the pavement of these blocks is noiseless and elastic, resists wear well, and is impervious to heat and cold. Its manufacturers guarantee its life for five years.

Had Lost Caste.

"You no longer recognize Miss Barnes."

"No. I can't afford to."

"Why not?"

"She is still riding a '96 wheel while I have a '97 model.—Chicago Post.

Every one believes he does not "go the credit" he deserves.

Some things may be done better in Canada than in this country. For example, there is the gold commissioner. He sits on the case on the ground where the dispute arises, hears evidence while the witnesses are yet alive and available, uses his own common sense and good judgment and renders his decision in time for the legal owner to work his claim next day. The chances are ten to one that the gold commissioner gives better satisfaction generally in a mining camp than could any poking process of appeal.

TEXAS LADIES

SPEAK THE TRUTH.

Do Leon, Tex., writes: I am a widow, and can strongly recommend Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, it having saved my life 6 years ago, when I was down with Liver Complaint and Kidney Disease. I think it a far better medicine than what made by "Zellin" and "Black Draught."

Gestation: During the period of gestation the tension upon the muscles and ligaments of the womb is greatly increased and the blood vessels are taxed to their utmost. If there is any tendency to uneasiness or pain, we recommend frequent warm injections of our Mexican Family Remedy and two or three doses, every day, of Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine. This treatment will strengthen the ligaments, will assist in holding the uterus in place, lessen pain, make the uterus more pliable and elastic, and prepare the organs for the final effort. It also lessens the danger of death to child and mother, and fortifies her against liability to convulsions, flooding and other dangerous symptoms, and with ordinary prudence guarantees a rapid recovery.

THE DAY WE GATHERED GOLDENROD.

A day of glancing arrow-points
Yet swathed in shadows, olive deep,
When curling leaves were shaken down
And drifted in a pungent haze;
When scarlet flowers fell asleep,
Each in a filmy pillow-pod,
And all the world was half adream—
The day we gathered goldenrod.

So still the air, in passing by
A risk of gathered corn we heard
A harvest spitter's startled flight
Wherein a yellow blade was stirred.
Some late and lingering autumn bird
Sang low, his lazy head nod;
No haste nor harshness seemed to mar
The day we gathered goldenrod.

Hattie Whitney, in Woman's Home Companion.

Wild brambles trailed a thorny web;
The sumach's lighthouse towered high;
And damson plums made purple spots
In orchards that we wandered by,
A light was in the autumn sky;
A warmth was in the autumn sod;
Deep autumn turquois tipped the heights,
The day we gathered goldenrod.

Our ways have somehow slipped apart
Since then, and you would think it strange
The trifles of one idle day
Arise through every bitter change
And follow me in life's wide range;
To me, perhaps, it seems as odd
That Time will never let me lose
That day we gathered goldenrod.

CAPTAIN SPANKER.

BY JERRY COBB.

"Never let me here you speak of him again as Miser Spanker," sharply ordered the old lady with a gentle and attractive face as she turned upon her pretty granddaughter. "Never!"

"But, grandma, that's what they all call him," stammered the girl, who was shocked by discovering for the first time that her revered ancestor had a temper in her composition.

"That's the way of the world," with diminished fire and a careful readjustment of the cap that had been set away by her unwonted display of vigor. "We jump from appearances to conclusions, and the result is a great deal of injustice to our fellow creatures. We are forbidden to judge at all, and we certainly should not render a verdict till we ascertain the inmost facts. That's the way your grandfather would have put it were he alive. He was by far the ablest lawyer in all this section."

Fearing a diversion to the older woman's favorite theme, the younger one promptly interrupted. "But isn't Captain Spanker close-fisted and penurious? His housekeeper has to take a meal out every once in a while to keep from starving, and they say that his grocery bills are less than those of his poorest tenant. I can quite believe that he puts in the first half of every night counting his gold."

"Margaret Penley, sit down and hold your tongue. I just got through telling you it was wrong to talk as you're doing, yet you persist in it. I know the captain and you don't."

"O, I have a slight personal acquaintance with him, grandma. He presented me with the image of a pine block one day and took particular pains to tell me that I was a real trim looking 'little' girl, though he knew that Dick had asked me to be his wife. He acted abominably about that, and I just believe that it was because he was too stingy to give Dick a start in life. Why, the horrid old captain roared out as though he was hailing a distant ship and declared it nothing but a silly, stupid, childish affair. It was worse than being a miser to come between two young people as deeply in love as Dick and myself."

"You're just as set as your grandfather was, Margaret. It is a great deal easier to get along with girls when one has to spank them into obedience than when one is reduced to reasoning with them. Perhaps I shouldn't tell the captain's secrets, but there doesn't seem any other way to convince you. I was quite a belle when I was young," and the handsome grandmother blushed as she gave a deft push to her side curls. "Among other suitors I had Captain Spanker. He was a spruce young sailor then and of good family. Ours, you know, was among the most prominent in the state. I preferred your grandfather, but the captain and I always remained good friends. He finally consoled himself by marrying Dick's mother. He was a little fellow in a brave sailor suit when they accompanied the captain on a voyage to China. It was a venture of his own, and the result was that he smuggled in an immense cargo of opium, landing it at an out-of-the-way and unused harbor on the southern coast. As a result of this defrauding the government he became a very rich man for those days and, at his wife's solicitation, bought the fine place where he now lives and settled down to enjoy life as a gentleman farmer."

"And you defend a smuggler, grandma?"

"There you go again, forming an opinion on partial information. Seafaring men, then, had very little regard for the revenue laws. They regarded them as an unjust restriction upon their trade and chances to make money. But when he was thrown with different associations his estimate of his duty toward the government was changed, and he resolved to pay the duty on all that cargo as conscience money. I think it was about $10 a pound. At any rate it amounted to a very large sum and few would have undertaken to pay it from a mere sense of patriotism and right. I know that the captain consulted your grandfather, who gave his approval and assisted in borrowing the money on mortgages covering the captain's estate. The sending of the money to the treasury created a great deal of comment at the time, but only three of us knew who had sent it. The captain's wife signed the securities, but she died without ever asking what the money was for. She was the most confiding woman I ever knew."

Richard knows that the land is encumbered, but thinks that it is only to use the money in better paying investments. The aim of the captain's life from that time to this has been to redeem the estate and leave it clear to his son. He has given the young man more than he would have accepted had he known. He went through college, contracting unnecessary debts, as boys will do, and then came home to fall in love with you. "You speak as if that was a misfortune."

"No, but the captain is very proud and very determined. I think he is more determined than your grandfather was. You must remember that I refused the captain, and he would never consent to his son marrying my granddaughter unless he had a fortune and a standing equal to her own."

"'Unto the third and fourth generation,' quoted the girl with a tremulous smile. "But I'm in love with the grim old captain, now, and the only way to get him for a father is to marry Dick, just as I intend doing. Miser, indeed! He's grand and noble, no matter if he was a smuggler or pirate or whatever it was. No wonder Dick's so dashing and brave and independent. He only writes me that he's doing very well out there, but he wouldn't talk about coming home to fix things up with the dear old governor," as he calls the captain, unless he was successful. Dick thinks all the world of him, though they did quarrel."

"Why doesn't he write his father, then?"

"Because he forbade it when they parted, and you know they are not a yielding family, I believe. I wish they were more so."

At the very time this conversation was going on the few people that the captain had about him were rapidly concurring in an opinion that he had gone crazy. His two latest meals had been like banquets compared with his usual repasts. He had issued a standing order that hereafter he would live as became the proprietor of one of the finest landed properties in the state. In the evening he went so far as to sing in his foghorn voice some of the nautical classics that only go at their best in the teeth of a gale. The simple truth was that he had paid the last dollar due on the mortgages and was now longing for the safe return of Dick, who had threatened to own a gold mine before he came back to claim a bride. The captain even thought of Margaret, and how like she was to what her grandmother had once been, but dismissed her with a conviction that she would not have remained true to Dick on so weak a foundation as a girl's first love.

Within a week the quiet community was shocked by the report of Richard Spanker's death. He was on his way home and had been shot by train robbers whom he had attempted to resist. The letter bringing this brief account of a tragedy that left the captain nothing to live for and almost broke the heart of Margaret, told that the papers and money belonging to the young man had been forwarded. They followed closely and showed that Dick had made good his promise to win a fortune. He was richer than the captain himself. Then the girl pocketed her pride and went to Dick's father. She read him the love letters from his son, and in each of them was some sentiment of regard that filled the old man with rejoicing while he groaned at the thought of what might have been. The beautiful young woman and the captain were drawn to each other in their common affliction until she was as his daughter and had already been named as the sole inheritor of his property. One afternoon they sat talking in the library when one white-faced servant rushed through the hallway to the rear of the house while another stood, wide-eyed and speechless, supporting herself against the newel post.

"Dick," shrieked the girl, as a merry laugh came from without.

"Dick," echoed the hoarse voice of the old captain as he caught the fainting girl on his arm and stood as though to defend a beleaguered ship.

"What's the row, governor? Did I give you a bit of a fright?" shouted the same jovial voice. "And Margie, too?" as he encountered the obstacle to giving the captain a soulful embrace. "Allow me," and he transferred the burden to his own arms. Nor was it water that brought her back to consciousness and blushes.

And the first coherent sentence of the captain was: "She's yours, Dick."

Yes, it was Dick, bigger, handsomer and more manly than ever. His volunteer traveling companion had laid him out with the heavy butt of a Colt's revolver while they were on their way to the nearest depot for the East, and it was the robber who had been killed with all Dick's money and papers on his person. When grandma and the captain danced quaint old figures at the wedding it was plain to the pretty bride that they were living for the time in the atmosphere of 40 years ago.—Detroit Free Press.

KLONDIKE DUST.

Odd Facts and Fancies About the New Land of Gold.

A mule express is to be established between Dyea and far-off Dawson City during the coming winter. The enterprise is in the hands of C. H. De Witt and John Roberts. Their scheme is to locate stations about fifteen miles apart along the whole route, and keep up communication by mules, carrying packs of provisions right through the winter.

A St. Louis man, William Scharfberger, has obtained a patent on a machine designed to overcome the difficulties of mining in frozen ground. If it works well, the Klondikers will not have to build fires and thaw out the soil to get at the gold in winter. The machine consists of a steel screw, which is worked into the ground like a post-hole auger. A cylinder of the same diameter as the screw, and two feet in depth follows the screw into the ground, and within the cylinder is a well bucket, which has an open bottom, into which the detached gravel and dirt are forced. When full, this bucket is elevated by a windlass attachment, and can be washed out and panned while the bucket is returned to the well for another load. The machine will weigh less than sixty pounds, and two men at the ends of the levers can bore a hole into solid limestone if necessary.

It is understood that the Dominion government has under consideration a project in connection with the administration of the Yukon district which is novel, but appears admirably calculated to meet the conditions existing in the new communities of the extreme Northwest. It is the establishment of what might be termed a "treasure house," in which will be stored the gold of the miners, and for which they will receive draft on United States or Canadian banks of the full market value of their gold dust. The passenger lists of the steamers that have sailed from American ports show up to a recent date no less than 5566 persons had left en route to the gold fields of Alaska, and a conservative estimate places the number who have gone from Vancouver and British Columbia at 2000 or more. As the rush shows no signs of abatement as yet, the chances are that more than 15,000 people will have set out for Alaska before the Klondike fever subsides.

The largest mass of gold ever dug out of the soil of California was at Carson Hill, Calaveras county, in 1854. It weighed 195 pounds. Klondike has not yet beaten that record, but Klondike is young yet.

It is to be remembered that the total area of the Klondike diggings up to date does not cover over 200 square miles from Dawson City.

A monthly mail service has been established between Circle City and Juneau. This mail service is for United States mail addressed to Circle City, and the mail is sent through from Juneau in a sealed bag, which cannot be opened in transit. Mail for Dawson City, on the Klondike, Forty Mile and Fort Cudahy will not be carried in this mail, as these points are in Canadian territory. Communication with these points will be irregular and difficult, but arrangements have been made to forward mail from Circle City by the Arctic Express company.

All the veteran Yukon miners unite in giving one bit of advice to intending Klondikers—don't start till next spring!

Remarkable Case of Dirt-Eating.

A remarkable instance of dirt-eating came to light here (Maysville, Ga.) a day or two ago. Liza Wellington, a negro woman about thirty-six years of age, entered a doctor's office and called for "medicine to make her quit eating dirt." The physician asked a few questions, and found that the woman was in the habit of eating a wash-basinful of dirt daily. The woman declared that the dirt gave her more satisfaction than a first-class meal at the hotel, and that she had taken so much dirt from the back of a chimney on Mr. Brazelton's farm and used it as an article diet that the chimney was in danger of falling. The doctor says that the woman's health is not seriously impaired. She has an ashy appearance, but is active and strong enough.—Atlanta Constitution.

No Mistake About That.

LIVELY TIMES IN DALTON.

MORE SENSATIONS SPRUNG IN THE CAR PIRACY TRIALS.

CAPTAIN PEEPLES IS CONVICTED

He Was Agent of the W. & A. Railroad. Another Prominent Merchant Is Arrested.

Nearly all of Thursday and Friday in the now celebrated car robber cases at Dalton, Ga., was taken up in the trial of Captain T. J. Peebles, the agent of the Western and Atlantic railroad at Dalton.

Notwithstanding that Captain Peebles was ably defended, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty.

Peebles has been the biggest game so far that the prosecution has brought down. His conviction created terror among the accused, who have not yet been brought to trial. There was some doubt about getting twelve men with the courage to find him guilty. He has the reputation of a fighter.

The defense had the jurors polled, but every one answered that it was his verdict. Judge Fite did not pass sentence. There may be another case against Peebles. It is rumored that he may be tried for receiving stolen tobacco from Bohannon. The penalty in the case already decided may be either a fine or imprisonment in the chain gang or penitentiary. The recommendation leaves it to the judge to say whether it shall be punished as a misdemeanor or as a felony. Captain Peebles has been agent of the Western and Atlantic railroad in Dalton for five years.

Peebles was charged with buying a carpet from Walter Bohannon. The latter said that he sold it to Peebles and received the money for it. The defense attempted to impeach Bohannon, but the jury believed him, and the citizens generally believed. Peebles was deserted by his two sons at the critical hour, and he had to rely for his defense wholly upon his own statement and the evidence of a negro employee. The defendant said that his son Drew, a member of the city council, had bought a carpet for him a year ago last summer in Chattanooga. The father did not produce any receipt or memorandum of any kind to show where they got the carpet that ruined him.

"There Are Others."

Anderson Giddings, a small merchant of Tunnel Hill, pleaded guilty Friday to an indictment charging him with receiving stolen goods. Sentence was deferred in his case, too.

The case against Mack Cannon was called, but it was passed. Cannon's trial will probably last two days. This will be a sensational case. Bohannon says that Cannon often bought goods of him. There was one lot of clothing for which the Southern railway paid McTeer & Co., of Knoxville, $1,200. Bohannon says that Cannon paid him $85 for the lot.

Cannon is the wealthiest merchant in Dalton, and has the largest clothing trade in north Georgia. Everything is done in his wife's name. The store is known as the Baltimore Clothing House.

W. B. McCarrson, who runs a large store in North Dalton, was arrested Friday for dealing with Bohannon's band of robbers.

The grand jury has been investigating C. C. Bemis, the father-in-law of Drew Peebles, who skipped.

There is an indictment against one Buckholtz, who has a restaurant.

Many Ladies Present.

More ladies were in court Friday than at any previous time in Whitfield's history. The ladies are for convicting nearly every time. One of them asks that it be clearly stated that the members of Dalton's 400 do not regard Bohannon as a hero.

Lee Arwood, who pleaded guilty to buying a bicycle from Bohannon, withdrew his plea and went to trial while the Peebles jury was out. Bohannon stated that he did not think Arwood knew the bicycle was stolen. Arwood said that he did not know it, and on this testimony Judge Fite directed the jury to acquit the young man. So he was really tried and acquitted within the ninety minutes that the Peebles jury was out. This was the first one to get off, and he had pleaded guilty.

KENTUCKY RAVISHERS INDICTED.

Seven Charged With Criminal Assault, and Will Hang if Convicted.

The special jury of Campbell county, Ky., Thursday night reported the indictments of the gang that criminally assaulted Mrs. William Gleason on the night of October 6. Seven were indicted for criminal assault, the penalty for which in Kentucky is death.

Six were indicted for complicity in the outrage, the penalty for which is from ten to twenty-one years. John Shannon, Matt Meenin, Hubert Metter and William Shorely were released. All those indicted are in jail, and there will be speedy trials.

THE CEILING CAME DOWN.

The "Dangers of a Great City" Realistically Experienced in Cincinnati.

"The Dangers of a Great City," on the stage of Robinson's opera house at Cincinnati Friday night, was cut short in its performance by a tragic realization of the actual dangers of a great city.

The house was fairly well filled. A little before 8:50 o'clock, without warning and with a crash, the great central truss of the ceiling, eighty feet long and thirty feet wide, came plunging down. The ends of it struck on the two gallery wings and doubled it up in the center, sending it down into the parquet with a great scattering of joists and timbers.

Pandemonium reigned. The news spread rapidly and there was a rush of patrol wagons and of firemen to the scene. The salvage corps with its wagon was first on the ground and it was followed by all the police patrol wagons, who carried the injured to the Cincinnati hospital.

The list at the hospital showed three dead, five dangerously, if not fatally, wounded and twenty-six more or less seriously injured.

NOTED ROBBERS CAUGHT.

Chicago Police Trap Four of the Most Daring Crooks Extant.

A Chicago dispatch says: Chief of Detectives Collier and four of his men have effected one of the most important captures of criminals recorded for years past.

As a result of efforts of the officers, four of the most successful and daring burglars of the United States and Canada are under arrest and $25,000 worth of stolen property in the hands of the police awaiting identification. The men under arrest are: "Sheeny Joe" Rubenstein, the leader and brains of the gang; James Williams, Harry Rogers, James Flaherty.

Letters in the men's possession, which have passed between them show that they had been taking a flying trip from coast to coast, robbing right and left. These letters also showed they had agreed to meet in New York City October 1st and then go to St. Louis, where the goods would be disposed of.

DISPUTE OVER BOUNDARY.

Maryland and Virginia Have Difficulty On Their Hands.

A Richmond dispatch says: Governor Lowndes, of Maryland has informed Governor O'Ferrall that in his opinion it is necessary to have the boundary line between Maryland and Virginia in the Pocomoke sound and river established and that he himself will have the matter attended to.

The matter referred to has been repeatedly investigated by both the states concerned and Virginia has always taken the ground that the present boundary line is the one laid down by the Black and Jenkins award. Four years ago the legislature of both states appointed special commissioners, who went over the ground very carefully and the Virginia committee afterward reported in favor of retaining the existing boundary line.

The Maryland people declined to accept this line.

TENDER JUMPED THE TRACK.

Quarantine Regulations the Indirect Cause of a Train Wreck.

A fatal accident occurred on the Mobile and Birmingham railroad, near Milhouse station, twenty-five miles south of Selma, Ala., Friday afternoon. The engineer and fireman were killed and several persons injured.

The road is cut in two by quarantine regulations and a local passenger train is run down the line each morning, returning in the evening. There is no way to turn the engine, and it is run backward on the return trip.

While approaching Milhouse at a rate of twenty miles an hour on straight track the tender of the engine in front jumped the track, causing the whole train to go down a twelve-foot embankment. The men killed were caught under the engine.

EDITOR STEAD'S LATEST.

He Declares Uncle Sam Will Destroy Seals If Question Is Not Settled.

The Review of Reviews (London) says that Editor Stead, while in Washington recently, discovered that unless the sealing question is speedily settled the United States will order the destruction next season of the entire herd of seals on the whole of the Pribylof islands.

SON CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Shaw Is Believed to Have Killed His Mother and Grandmother.

At Camden, N. J., Friday Eli Shaw was placed under arrest by the police officials and formally charged with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Sarah Shaw, and grandmother, Mrs. Emma Zane, which occurred several days ago.

The arrest was based on newly discovered evidence, including the finding of a .32-caliber revolver, of which two chambers had been fired, at the bottom of a chimney. The pistol was thrown into the chimney through a stove hole in the room in the third story, which had been occupied by Shaw.

A STEAMER SINKS; MANY DROWNED.

The Triton Struck Upon Rocks and Goes Down.

HER LOAD WAS TOO HEAVY

Spanish Soldiers and Civilians Among the Lost.

A special from Havana says: The coasting steamer Triton, from Havana to Bahia Honda, province of Pinar del Rio, has been wrecked between Dominica and Mariel, on the north coast of that province. The steamer went ashore Saturday morning during heavy weather, grounding about eight miles from the coast.

The Spanish gunboat Maria Cristina and the tug Susie left Havana at once for the scene of the wreck.

It is said the Triton had on board over 200 passengers, soldiers and civilians.

Owing to the heavy sea that was running the gunboat Cristina found it impossible to reach the scene of the disaster till Saturday night.

On board the Triton was $31,060 in silver to be used for the payment of the Spanish military and naval forces.

The Triton, it is stated, was overloaded. She carried a large quantity of groceries and ammunition and had on board ninety-three rifles for the government troops.

A later dispatch states that the gunboat Maria Christina returned to Havana Sunday from the scene of the wreck, accompanied by the gunboat Susie, which went with her.

The two vessels arrived at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, the gunboat having on board nineteen and the tugboat twenty-three of the members of the lost ship's company, of whom thirteen are civilians and soldiers. The whereabouts of the others of the company are unknown.

It seems that the Triton struck the rock during a heavy rainstorm. Her cargo shifted and fifteen minutes later she sank in 120 fathoms of water.

A scene of terrible confusion and panic ensued as soon as the passengers realized the meaning of the crash. In a wild struggle they rushed for the boats. The first boat that was lowered capsized immediately and all of its occupants were drowned in the whirling waters. The next was struck by an enormous wave and turned over, drowning twenty, but the frail craft righted again and eight who had been thrown out regained it.

Some were good swimmers and kept themselves afloat for hours; others floated about for twenty-four hours on planks. Four soldiers on planks, whom the strong current carried east of Havana, opposite Morro castle, were saved by a pilot boat going toward Cardenas. They declare that on Saturday evening there were many others near them on planks, but when Sunday morning dawned all others had disappeared. Some of them probably became food for sharks.

VINCENT SWAYED JURORS.

His Closing Speech For Luetgert Elicits Wild Applause.

The last words in defense of Adolph L. Luetgert on trial at Chicago was spoken Saturday. Former Judge Vincent, chief counsel for the defense in the great murder trial, closed his address to the jury. As he bowed to the jury and took his seat an outburst of applause shook the courtroom.

The jurymen stood up and the court bailiffs shouted in vain for order. Several hysterical ladies were escorted from the room. Judge Tuthill ordered the jury to its room and delivered himself very forcibly on what he called a disgraceful scene.

After order had been restored court was adjourned until Monday, when State's Attorney Deneen closed for the prosecution.

SPANIARDS ARREST WOMEN.

Cases Are Similar to That of Evangelina Cisneros.

According to reliable information the police of Guines, Havana province, have arrested and imprisoned Senorita Blanca Ortega, a young woman of distinguished family, and Senorita Virginia Castellanos.

CHARGES BY BROTHER-IN-LAW.

Jones Says McCullough Is Both "Thief and Murderer."

Damning and bitter charges are brought against John McCullough by Mr. Kimsey Jones, who charges McCullough with the murder of his sister. He is accused by his brother-in-law with being "first a thief and then a murderer."

Mr. Jones says that the next trial will develop a case against McCullough that will be twice as strong as the last trial showed. There are many facts he says that were not brought out at the last trial, and the next trial he is determined to bring out everything.

CALERA, ALA., OCT. 21, 1897.

Hon. Chas. A. Dana, the Veteran Editor of the New York Sun, died at his home in Glencove Long Island on the 17 inst., aged 78 years.

The Government Armor Plate Board has visited Birmingham and other Southern points and looked into their manufacturing enterprises and possibilities. They were surprised and delighted with what they saw in the Birmingham district.

The Illinois Car and Equipment Company of Anniston, says the Hot Blast of last Sunday, received an order yesterday from the Southern Railway Company for one hundred Wick's refrigerator cars. The Hot Blast further says that this is the first time an order for refrigerator cars has ever come south of the Ohio river, and it will give Anniston and the local car works the biggest advertisement they ever had.

Financial Review: The most unkindest cut of all is the action of that "Bryan Free-Silver Club of Canton, Ohio," which, the other day, adopted resolutions denouncing the democratic party and transferring its allegiance to the Populists. That a free silver club named for Williams Jennings Bryan and hailing from the home of Wm. McKinley should deliberately desert and denounce the element of the democratic party out of which it grew last year is not only surprising but what is much more important, significant. Its significance is the disintegration of the silver democracy, so called; the drift of the free silver element toward populism, and the gradual return of a large share of the Bryan wing of the party to the old and tried party principles.

YELLOW JACK.

Latest reports from the yellow fever stricken districts are not very encouraging. There is no lagging in the march of the dread disease. The number of new cases daily reported continues to be about the same. The death rate, however, continues low showing that the fever generally is of a mild type.

The report from Montgomery for yesterday was five new cases and one death. It is believed that there are a good many more new cases there than have been reported. It seems to be admitted now that the fever has been in Montgomery for the past thirty days or more.

Dr. Purser has Yellow Fever.

Mrs. D. I. Purser has gone to New Orleans to join her husband, who went down several weeks ago to be with his congregation, and who has now been seized with yellow fever. A telegram received yesterday evening states that Mrs. Purser found the doctor very ill indeed. This is sad news to Tuscaloosa and our state as well, for Dr. Purser is a divine of wide reputation. The prayers of people all over the land will go up for the recovery of this consecrated man of God, who went fearlessly to his duty in the face of the dread epidemic. For the devoted wife who has gone to the bedside of her husband is also the greatest solicitude felt.—Tuscaloosa Gazette.

Alabama's Industrial Progress.

The Constitution is gratified to note the steady industrial development which is going on in the state of Alabama. The mineral output of the state of Alabama for the first six months of the present year is as follows:

	Tons.
Coal	2,263,523
Coke	562,142
Iron ore	1,080,908
Pig iron	504,997
Limestone, for flux	117,962
Bauxite	2,472
Building stone (cub. yds)	21,700

These figures not only show the extensive resources of the state of Alabama but also the wide-awake and progressive spirit of its people.—Atlanta Constitution.

FOR SECRETARY OF STATE.

From the Greenville Advocate.

The lamented Bartow Lloyd would have been the next democratic nominee for the office of Secretary of State, had he lived, and it is, we believe, also conceded that this part of the state, and this county, should be represented on the state ticket by one of her distinguished sons. Taking this position for granted, the Advocate proposes to day the name of a man who is most eminently qualified for the position, a man who has all the elements in his character to make an officer of whom the whole state will be proud. He is a christian gentleman who is well known throughout the state, having filled the office of Grand Dictator of the Knights of Honor for the past three years and having visited many counties in the state looking after the interests of this great benevolent organization. He has made friends wherever he has been, for no one can meet him without being favorably impressed.

We therefore propose the name of Mr. Edward R. Adams, of this county, for the office of Secretary of State.

Mr. Adams is the son of Hon. Stephen Adams, of Mississippi, who represented that state in the U. S. Senate in 1852-56.

Mr. Adams was born in Mississippi in 1846, and though a boy of only 16, enlisted in the Confederate service and served to the close of the war.

He lived in Mobile for a number of years, but came to Greenville fifteen years ago and has been identified with everything that was good in it ever since.

Mr. Adams has always been a democrat and has never voted any other ticket; but is not a politician and has never offered for an office of any kind. He was elected Grand Dictator because the Grand Lodge recognized in him the man to move the order on and upward, and the first year proved that they made no mistake, and contrary to the custom, he was unanimously re-elected and last year for the third time they conferred that honor upon him.

He has represented the order in the supreme councils for the past two years, and made himself felt and recognized as one of the leading members of that great body. These honors were bestowed upon him without his seeking, simply because of his competency and fitness for the positions.

Many of Mr. Adams' friends are urging him to make the race and he is seriously considering the matter. The Advocate, as well as his other friends throughout the State hope that he will consent, enter the race and be nominated and elected.

THE SOUTH'S PROGRESS.

The Philadelphia Ledger one of the staunchest and most reliable newspapers of this country congratulates the South upon her progress, commenting as follows:

"The extent and variety of the material development of the South and the revival of business in that section are of the most gratifying character. Mines, manufactures, agriculture and transportation are healthfully active, and employment is abundant, with wages and prices buoyant. The crops have been more than ordinarily fruitful, with reservation as to cotton and tobacco, compensation for the latter being had in an increase in quotations. The Southern farmer is beginning to diversify his crops. He no longer stakes his all on cotton and prospers or fails as that staple is remunerative or unsuccessful. He is giving greater attention to cereals, to fruit and garden produce, and finds the results greatly to his satisfaction. Mining operations are being conducted on a more extensive scale, with greater intelligence and system and the products are being marketed in a more business like way. Manufactures show a wonderful growth, and the South is preparing to supply its own needs in this particular by making up the finished article with the raw material and the labor at the door. Notable progress is shown in the textile trades. With its own cotton and the fleece of its own sheep the South is getting ready to make its own cities and towns veritable hives of industry. Less attention to politics and more attention to business, less repining over the lost cause, and ambition for the future, less sectional distrust and more friendly co-operation with Northern neighbors—this is the spirit of the South of today, and it is, indeed, a pleasure to learn that under such worthy inspiration that section is fast assuming the proportions of a land overflowing with milk and honey.

A FINE RECORD.

There Are Now More Students at The University of Alabama Than at Any Time in The Past Six Years.

The second week of the present session of the University closes today. A glance at the attendance as compared with the enrollment as shown by recent catalogues reveals the fact that there are more students now at the University than at any one time for six years. There are 172 students now there. The enrollment as shown by the last six catalogues was as follows.

	Academic	Law	Total
1896-97	131	36	167
1895-96	154	31	185
1894-95	160	20	180
1893-94	148	18	166
1892-93	138	26	164
1891-92	148	19	167

Hence it is safe to say that in no time in these years has the attendance reached the present figures, 172. It is believed by President Powers that the enrollment this year will go to 200. When it is remembered that weeks ago he promised 100 new students and that there are already 99 such, it will be seen that his estimates are at least worthy of consideration.—Tuscaloosa Gazette.

THE YELLOW SCOURGE.

The yellow fever situation for the past few days has been the absorbing theme throughout this section. The uncertainty that so long prevailed as to the situation at Montgomery; the dillydallying of the Montgomery board of health, their slowness or inability to diagnose the suspicious cases reported at that place tended to create uneasiness in the minds of all the people of the country most intimately connected by rail or otherwise with that city, and when it was at last decided officially that yellow fever was prevailing in Montgomery, that uneasiness turned into alarm. People in many places became panic stricken, and rigid local quarantine regulations were put in force by all surrounding and adjacent towns and villages; and those places that had previously quarantined against fever points, redoubled their precautions against Montgomery, and are now enforcing their quarantine regulations most rigidly. Some of these places in their alarm have lost their heads and are extending their quarantine against places that from all appearances are not in half the danger of the infection that they are themselves. Our neighbor, the town of Columbiana for instance, is a case in point. Her people have, we understand, quarantined against Calera, when the fact is Calera was never in a more healthful condition than at this time. There is no sickness of any description here; there are no refugees from Montgomery or any other infected point, but there are refugees from that city in Columbiana whether there is any sickness or not. Calera has for some time maintained a quarantine against all the infected districts and still maintains it. Our people believe in being careful and cautious but do not see any reason for losing their heads or getting wild with fright. The situation is indeed a critical one, and it should be met with coolness, discretion and good judgment. The Sentinel does not apprehend any serious results in this immediate section. The lateness of the season, the sure approach of cold weather, are in our favor, in addition to the healthfulness of this region in which many physicians and people of experience with yellow fever do not believe the disease could spread, even if it should by any mischance be brought here. Our neighbor towns, therefore, may rest easy so far as Calera is concerned. There are no yellow fever refugees, no sickness of any description here. No person from an infected district is allowed to stop here. There is only one passenger train a day each way on the L. & N. road. Every precaution is being used to prevent the introduction of the disease. In addition to our local quarantine officers, state quarantine officers, and quarantine officers from other points, are watching the trains here every day. Hence in the event that at any time anything like a suspicious case should appear here, it will be reported at once—but we apprehend no such a result.

Birmingham is now the capital of Alabama, at least it is the head quarters of the Governor, and will remain so doubtless during the prevalence of the yellow fever in the Capital city. Gov. Johnston was out of Montgomery when it was officially announced that yellow fever existed there, and he has very wisely concluded to remain away and make his headquarters in Birmingham until the fever spends its force or is checked by cold weather.

Rear Admiral John Wardin of the U. S. navy is dead. He has for a number of years been a prominent and gallant official.

Geo. M. Pullman, the sleeping car king, died suddenly at his home in Chicago, on the morning of 19th inst. of heart trouble in the sixty-sixth year of his age.

Rev. D. I. Purser D. D., who has been reported very ill with yellow fever in New Orleans is now said to be improving and strong hopes are entertained for his recovery. This will be gratifying news to his many friends in all sections of the state.

Senator Morgan and daughters arrived in San Francisco on the 19th inst., on their return from the Hawaiian Islands. It is stated that the Senator is more in favor of an annexation now than he was before making the trip. He thinks that the United States must possess these Islands.

Gov. Johnston and staff left Birmingham this morning for Nashville to be present at the Centennial Exposition on tomorrow, Alabama day. The military of the state will be represented by the Birmingham, Tuscaloosa and Anniston and perhaps other of the North Alabama companies. The prevalence of yellow fever in the southern part of the state will keep a large number from attending.

Nearly all of the newspapers of the state are in favor of laying aside national issues in the next state campaign. The Democrats of Alabama are divided on the currency issue and if that issue is brought into the campaign it will cause a division in the party that will be hard to heal, and one which may give the Republicans and Populites control of the state. Democrats must stand together if they expect to win.—Oneonta Democrat.

The pipe works of the Anniston Pipe and Foundry company has for several years been Anniston's pet industry, and the announcement that the work of rebuilding the burned building will commence this morning, will be tidings of good news to all in Anniston and surrounding country, as the six hundred men employed by this industry helps not only Anniston, but every nook and corner of Calhoun county.—Hot Blast.

CHAIRMAN JONES.

He Gives His Views of the State Campaign as to the Silver Question. Washington, D. C. Oct. 11, 1897.

Hon. John W. Tomlinson, Birmingham, Ala.

My Dear Sir—Your letter, enclosing clippings, received. I regret that my absence from the city has prevented my receiving them earlier. The Republican in papers and their allies, the gold press, are constantly discovering that the "silver craze is dead." This is just as well founded as their discoveries that I and other Democrats do not consider bimetalism as any longer the issue. Misrepresentation of principles, parties and men, has been their favorite method since the contest began and I have no doubt it will continue until they are crushed.

The campaign was opened last year with vigorous charges on all sides that we were "marchists," "incendiaries," and "revolutionists," that we recklessly disregarded all authorities, precedents, etc., etc., and had no other incident which could be imagined or manufactured to sustain their charges was gladly magnified and circulated all over the country. And I am sure that timid men were influenced by these mendacious charges, and either failed to support or actually went to the other side. To avoid the least appearance of foundation for such complaints, I believe it to be wise that all our subordinate party organizations shall carefully confine themselves to the exercise of such powers as clearly belong to them. I have said this, and the gold press has found in the declaration a proof that I have abandoned the silver issue. This of course is absurd.

A state convention is, however, the supreme party authority in a state. It has the power and the right, and it is its duty to express the views of the party for its state on all questions. It should determine what degree of prominence shall be given to any local question, in any local contest, and its decision is final. It has the right to announce the position of the party in the state upon any question, state or national, and no one has a right to criticize or complain of such action, for it is clearly within the power and authority of such convention. All members of the party in the nation being interested in the action of a state convention on national questions it seems to me that a member of the party outside of a state may with propriety use his influence in a state in favor of an expression on national issues, in accordance with the views he may entertain.

The last national convention expressed the principles of the great party to which you and I belong, in a clearer and stronger manner than had been done for years. It evaded nothing, but spoke the simple and direct truth on all issues. It was this which gave the people faith and hope.

I have not the slightest fear that any backward step will be taken. Those who had misled and betrayed us before are gone out from amongst us, and will not hereafter be present to distract our councils.

United and full of courage, we will keep right on, regardless of the misrepresentations of the enemy, and I have no doubt of our overwhelming success. Very truly yours,

JAMES K. JONES.

A Montevallo Blaze.

Just as we are going to press we learn that a dwelling house at Montevallo, owned by Dr. Trammell, was destroyed by fire this morning about daylight. This house was situated between the new residence of C. C. Vandergrift and the residence belonging to E. F. Vost and occupied by F. F. Crowe. These two residences made very narrow escapes and were only saved by hard work on the part of the citizens. We did not learn the origin of the fire or the extent of the loss.

Yellow Fever Prevented.

There is only one sure way of preventing yellow fever. Destroy the germs of the disease by using cascavets, canly cathartic, and keep the system clean by continuing their use. The tried and tested safe-guard against yellow fever is to place your faith in cascavets, 10c, 25c, 50c, all druggists.

The October Number of The Pelinestor is called the Autumn Number, and its representation of the new Russian blouse-waists, fan-back skirts and all the other Autumn novelties in dress modes and millinery is made complete by a series of artistic color plates. The literary features include a bright and crisp novelette, "A Triumph over Mind," by Anna Eichberg King, author of the captivating Kitwyk Stories. The Definer is the woman's favorite magazine, and is issued by the Famous Fashion Publishers, The Butterick Publishing Co. (Limited), 7 to 17 West Thirteenth Street, New York, at the remarkably low rate of $1.00 for a year's subscription, or 15 cents per copy.

NOTICE.

Parties having lands to sell may find it to their interest to call at the SENTINEL OFFICE.

Yellow Fever Germs

breed in the bowels. Kill them and you are safe from the awful disease. Cascavets destroy the germs throughout the system and make it impossible for new ones to form. Cascavets are the only reliable safe-guard for young and old against Yellow Jack. 10c, 25c, 50c, all druggists.

CONFEDERATE PENSIONS.

The State Auditor has announced that the Confederate pension warrants for the year will go out within the next week or ten days, and that there is an increase of about 1,800 names on the roll. This increase will cut the appropriation down so that each pensioner will only receive $12 or $13 instead of about $17, as heretofore. The auditor is mailing the following circular letter, which explains itself: "Enclosed please find a copy of a letter this day mailed the probate judge of your county, with the request that you aid us in giving the Alabama pensioners their small pension without cost or expense to them. These warrants will be received from you by the treasurer as cash. I, therefore, request that you not only receive them in payment of taxes, but that you cash them when convenient to do so. Besides being an accommodation to the pensioner it will save the State the cost of transmitting the money."

Yellow Jack Killed

Cascavets, candy cathartic kills Yellow Jack wherever they find him. No one who takes cascavets regularly and systematically is in danger from the dreadful disease. Cascavets kill Yellow fever germs in the bowels and prevent new ones from breeding. 10c, 25c, 50c, all druggists.

The cause of the prolonged cough has been discovered. Up in Tennessee recently a wonderful baby was born. It is related that the child had a full set of whiskers a mouth full of teeth, and an air of gloom, and that after looking upon the world with evident disapproval, it rose up in its cradle and announced that it wasn't going to rain for seven years, and dropped dead. The Memphis Commercial Appeal is responsible for the story.

A few weeks ago the editor was taken with a very severe cold that caused him to be in a most miserable condition. It was undoubtedly a bad case of la grippe and recognizing it as dangerous he took immediate steps to bring about a speedy cure. From the advertisement of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the many good recommendations included therein, we concluded to make a first trial of the medicine. To say that it was satisfactory in its results, is putting it very mildly indeed. It acted like magic and the result was a speedy and permanent cure. We have no hesitancy in recommending this excellent Cough Remedy to anyone afflicted with a cough or cold in any form—Banner of Liberty, Libertytown, Maryland. We clip the following from the Age-Herald's society column pertaining to Blocton, Ala., which will be read with pleasure by the many friends of Mr. Samuel J. Morgan in Shelby:

"Mr. and Mrs. Mims Walker, of Fannsdale, have issued invitations to the wedding of their daughter, Margaret, to Samuel J. Morgan, of this place. Mr. Morgan is the storekeeper for the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company here, and deserves the prize he has won. Immediately after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Morgan will start on an extensive tour through the north and west.

The attention of the readers of the Sentinel, especially the ladies, is invited to the advertisement of Millinery Goods and Dressmaking by the firm of McKibbin & Blevins appearing elsewhere. These ladies have opened an up-to-date Millinery store in the building recently occupied by the postoffice. Their stock of new goods is an exceptionally attractive one, is indeed a feast for beauty loving eyes. The beautiful hats, trimmed and untrimmed, the dainty materials, the bright colors, the fetching styles, the popular shapes and the correct patterns all attest the fact that they intend that their customers shall be served with all that is the latest, choicest, and most attractive in the art Millinery the present season. They also make a specialty of their dressmaking department and invite one and all to give them a call when wanting anything in their line. See advertisement.

Messrs Elbert and Dixon McLendon, Henry Alexander and Oscar Pilgreen, a quartette of railroad boys, left yesterday for Nashville to visit the Centennial.

On last Sunday night at Rocky Mount Church, where a camp meeting was in progress, ten miles south of Calera, there was, we learn, a considerable fight participated in by a number of young bloods of that vicinity. Sticks, stones, and fists were the weapons, hence there was no very serious damage resulting.

J. C. Berry, one of the best known citizens of Spencer, Mo., testifies that he cured himself of the worst kind of piles by using a few boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He had been troubled with piles for more than thirty years and had used many different kinds of so-called cures; but DeWitt's was the one that did the work and he will verify this statement if any one wishes to write him.—Dial Bros.

The proceedings of the House of Commons make very strange reading for an American occasionally. Recently that body of august legislators called up a usurer before it and lectured him solemnly upon the error of refusing to answer its summons and reply to certain questions of a committee. On the same day it refused to exercise similar authority toward a man of means who had offended it by the same cause. The "mother of parliaments" is not more just than other and newer bodies of lawmakers.

Pumice Stone in America.
Heretofore our supply of pumice stone has come almost exclusively from Italy. Now an American product is forcing its way into the market. This material has been found of excellent quality in Western Nebraska, and in a pulverized form. There are seven different deposits, these comprising in all about 400 acres. According to a report made by Prof. R. G. Salisbury of the University of Chicago, there are approximately 800,000 tons in sight. The deposits, with adjoining lands, have been acquired by the Chicago Pumice Company. They, however, desired also a lump pumice stone. After much search such a deposit was found in Utah, 245 miles south of Salt Lake City. This property comprises 120 acres, and it is virtually an entire mountain of the material of all degrees of purity.—Manufacturer.

New View of the Matter.
Mamma—"How hot you are, Tommy your clothes are wet through, I declare!"
Tommy—"Can't help it, ma. The heat makes me cry all over."—Pick-Me-Up.

Occasionally there is found a man engaged in commercial pursuits who possesses great talent in artistic lines. Rogers, the poet, was a banker, and our own Halleck and Stedman were engaged in business having little to do with the muse. A noted poet of the West is a marker in a poolroom, and he doesn't write verse about Derby day, either, but about daffodils and azure skies. At least one successful merchant in Chicago dallies with literature, on the side, as it were. These remarks are called out by the discovery in London that the man who composed the music for its latest successful opera is a financier, whose musical accomplishments have never been suspected even by his intimate friends.

Gladstone's Career Equaled.
Mr. Gladstone, who celebrated his 57th birthday on the 29th of December, is younger than a former American Congressman and Cabinet minister whose old age is as vigorous as that of the great English statesman. Col. Richard W. Thompson, of Terre Haute, Ind., who was a Whig leader in the days of Jackson and Clay, who was the close friend of Lincoln, and who served as Secretary of the Navy under Hayes, will be 88 if he lives to the 9th of next June.

If, instead of being influenced by a hazy and undefined feeling, we bring clear thought to bear upon it, we shall find that the only supreme and final test of conduct must ever be the convictions which we hold at the time.

Not whether any other person or the whole world approve or disapprove, nor even whether we may or may not continue in future years to maintain them ourselves, must be our question, but whether at the present moment we believe in our inmost heart that such a course is the true and right one to pursue.

If this be not our guide—if any other voice, opposing that of conscience, be obeyed—then we act in defiance of our own moral sense, which is plainly the snapping of character.

Coining of Silver.
The common impression that the government is coining no silver is a mistake. The coinage of silver is still continued, although by the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act no bullion is now purchased by the government for use in coinage, there being on hand November 1, 1893, the enormous stock of 140,699,852.67 ounces.

Animals and the Weather.
Many naturalists insist that animals have a special sense which enables them to foresee approaching changes in the weather and conduct themselves accordingly. Hens, ducks and geese are well known to make preparations for rain, and hours before the change is apparent to human beings these creatures may be seen oiling and dressing their plumage. Pigs frequently prepare a shelter for themselves before a storm; a pig carrying a mouthful of straw is to the farmer a sure sign of rain. Dogs and horses exhibit unusual lassitude before rain, and the cat washing her face is, among housewives, a certain sign. The croaking of the "rain crow" is considered, in the country districts, as an indication of bad weather, while even ants and bees, when rain is approaching, seek their homes, the former retreating to their holes and closing the entrance, while the latter hurry to their hives as though conscious that danger was in the air.

A PECULATING GOOSE.
Carried Off a Gold Watch, and Got Servant in Trouble.

It is doubtful is another dumb animal ever caused greater mischief than a goose did recently in Lanesboro, N. Y. That goose stole a dozen valuable articles and brought about the discharge of a servant. For a long time the family of Mr. Albert Jenks has been missing valuables, and charged their disappearance to Miss Annie Coogan, a domestic. The girl was threatened with arrest to make her confess and when she protested her innocence she was discharged. As articles continued to disappear the family was in a quandary. A pet goose had a trick of knocking at the door in quest of dainties, and on being admitted would go all about the house. One afternoon recently Mrs. Jenks was amazed to see the goose take a gold watch and chain in its mouth and go outdoors. She followed and saw it hide the timepiece in its nest. Thus the mystery of the missing articles was explained. Among the dozen articles found in the nest were two gold thim-bles, two scarfpins, a tortoise shell comb and a watch. The parents of the Coogan girl threaten to sue the Jenks for defaming their daughter's Jumped to His Death.

S. S. Bishop jumped from a wagon with which a team was running away near Greenville, and struck the hard earth so forcibly that his skull was fractured and death resulted.

Accidentally Shot.
Saturday in a barroom, at Troy, Tom Davis and Will Scarborough were playing with a pistol, when George Champion came up and took the pistol and supposing it was unloaded accidentally shot Will Scarborough through the left side. Scarborough will die. Champion was arrested, but Scarborough insisted on his release, saying it was accidental.

Owe Their Back Taxes.
At Huntsville Tax Commissioner R. P. Turner has prepared his report to be submitted to the state auditor. The report shows that property to the value of $505,000 had escaped taxation for several years and raises conceded by the examining board amount to $235,000, making a total of $740,000 over the assessments of last year.

An Expert Asked For.
Dr. Sanders, state health officer, and the local board of health say there is no yellow fever at Montgomery. They hold two cases open for observation. One, Dr. Sanders has thoroughly examined, and he says he finds no symptoms of yellow fever. He finds more in the other, and awaits other developments.

In the meantime the board has wired Surgeon-General Wyman requesting that he send an expert to diagnose the disease that is prevailing. Later—the board of health with the concurrence of the state health officer, acknowledges that there are two cases of yellow fever in Montgomery, and several suspicious cases under observation. The patients are Patrick W. White and Thomas Gradon.

The Armor Plate Board in Birmingham.

The government armor plate board, charged with the duty of inquiring into the feasibility of a government armor plate factory and localities for such a plant, arrived in Birmingham Sunday night from Washington. The board consisted of the following naval officers: Commodore J. A. Howell, chairman; Capt. A. H. McCormick, Civil Engineer M. T. Endicott, Chief Engineer J. H. Perry, Lieut. F. F. Fletcher and Lieut. W. I. Chambers. The board has come to Birmingham for the purpose of investigating her resources in the manufacture of iron and steel and to gather data to record in their report to the secretary of the navy. They have not come for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not they shall report Birmingham as a suitable place for the erection of a government armor plate plant. They will make no recommendation in favor of any place. They are simply to ascertain and collate data, which they will submit to the secretary of the navy upon their return to Washington. The duty of the secretary of the navy is to make a report on the facts and data gathered and collated by the board and give the same to congress when it meets again on December 1. Then the work of each community desirous of securing the government armor plate plant, in case such is ordered to be built, will commence. Congress has not even decided on erecting such a plant and no money has been appropriated to that end.

Monday's Fever Reports.
Since yellow fever appeared in New Orleans 100 deaths have occurred out of a total of less than 900. Early Monday afternoon more than thirty new cases had been reported for the day with seven deaths.

One case was reported at Baton Rouge, the capital of the state, Monday.

Two new cases were reported at Cayuga, Miss., Monday, with one death.

Reports from Edwards show two new cases and three deaths.

Rev. Father Dennis died with the disease at Bay St. Louis, Monday.

Scranton reports twelve new cases.

Two cases were reported at Pasagoula. No deaths.

Biloxi's board reports sixteen new cases and no deaths.

At Mobile six cases and one death is the yellow fever report for the past twenty-four hours.

Historic Town Destroyed.

Historic Windsor, one of the most beautiful towns in Nova Scotia, was devastated by fire Sunday. The area covered by the flames is nearly a mile square, and of the 400 or more buildings occupying the section barely half a dozen scorched structures remain. The origin of the fire is attributed to a lightning stroke.

No lives were lost, although the streets were perilous with flying bricks and slates which the fierce hurricane drove like thunderbolts from the roofs. The total loss is estimated roughly at $3,000,000.

Fumigation Headquarters at Atlanta.

Atlanta has been made the fumigation headquarters for the South. All the mail in the entire country that must be fumigated is sent there to be disinfected by the formaldehyde gas fumes. Not a single letter that demands fumigation fails to be sent there to be punched and disinfected.

Had Unstamped Liquor.
Robert Strain, a Limestone county farmer, was arrested Monday for having unstamped liquor in his possession. He was tried before a United States commissioner and placed under a $500 bond.

Weems Surrenders.
Matt Weems, the young white man who shot and killed Will Gambel near Mt. Pinson last Tuesday, surrendered to the sheriff of Jefferson county Monday. He claims the killing was in self-defense.

Mr. Carson is a Dallas county contractor of responsibility and experience. The new road, which means so much for Selma, is now a surety. Work will begin, unless yellow fever interferes, October 25.

Rock Run Furnace to be Operated.
John M. Bass, president of the Rock Run Furnace Co., in an interview Monday, says that his furnaces at Rock Run, Ala., Lenoir, Tenn., and his shops in Chicago, St. Louis and Fort Wayne have all been consolidated into one corporation with $7,000,000 capital and that they will all be put in operation at their full capacity. The bonding of these plants was perfected Saturday in the east.

Took Paris Green to End His Life.

B. H. Cooper, one of the best known and most prominent citizens of Tusculum, died Friday night at 11 o'clock from the effects of three spoonfuls of Paris green, taken with suicidal intent. He was apparently in good health Thursday, although dejected in spirits and despondent. He remarked to a physician prior to his death that the rash act was done premeditatedly; that he wished to die, and had taken the poison to bring about death. The deceased was 57 years old, a justice of the peace for this precinct. He was a widower, leaving a grown son and daughter. He was the eldest son of the late Lydal B. Cooper, one of the most prominent and distinguished lawyers of Northern Alabama. Several years ago Lang Cooper, his youngest brother, was found dead on the streets of a Missouri town with his throat cut.

A Nerve Farmer Captures a Murderer.

Joe Hughes, who shot and killed Wm. Henderson near Morris, in Jefferson county, about four weeks ago, was captured Saturday afternoon and is now in the county jail.

Saturday evening Sheriff O'Brien was notified that a man answering the description of Hughes was in custody at Double Springs, in Winston county, and he dispatched a deputy sheriff to the place.

The story of his capture is as follows: Last Saturday morning a man who had the appearance of being a tramp applied at the house of a farmer living near Double Springs for something to eat. He was asked to remain to dinner and did so. At the table the farmer noticed that his guest had a "double thumb," and, having read of the killing of Henderson and seen the published description, he decided at once that the man was Hughes. The only weapon in the house was a 22-calibre Flobert rifle, but the farmer decided to attempt the capture anyway, and presently he surprised his guest by leveling the rifle at him and telling him to march. Hughes gave up at once and walked on to Double Springs with the farmer following behind, rifle in hand. At Double Springs the prisoner was locked up.

A FINE RECORD.

More Students at the University Than at Any Time in Six Years.

The second week of the present session of the University closes today. A glance at the attendance as compared with the enrollment as shown by recent catalogues reveals the fact that there are more students now at the University than at any one time for six years. There are 172 students now there. The enrollment as shown by the last six catalogues was as follows:

	Academic	Law	Total
1896-97	131	36	167
1895-96	154	31	185
1894-95	160	20	180
1893-94	148	18	166
1892-93	138	26	164
1891-92	148	19	167

Hence it is safe to say that at no time in these years has the attendance reached the present figures, 172. It is believed by President Powers that the enrollment this year will go to 200. When it is remembered that weeks ago he promised 100 new students, and that there are already 99 such, it will be seen that his estimates are at least worthy of consideration.

Chas. A. Dana Dead.

Charles A. Dana, editor of the New York Sun, died at his home in Glen Cove, Long Island, at 1.20 o'clock last Sunday afternoon. Mr. Dana's death had been expected for several hours, and his family and physicians were at his bedside when the end came. His condition had been such for several months that the members of his family had kept themselves in constant readiness to go to his bedside at any moment. The cause of Mr. Dana's death was cirrhosis of the liver. On June 9 he was at his office apparently strong and healthy. The next day he was taken ill and he never afterwards visited New York. He was 78 years old.

HE WAS A BRILLIANT CLERK.
How a Virginia Prodigy Gave a 10 Per Cent. Discount.

I once had a promising bud of genius in my store down on the James River, said a Virginian to a reporter. I keep a general store there, and this bud, that promised to bloom into seven kinds of a loo loo flower, came to me from the far end of Prince George County, on the introduction of a friend of mine and his, who said as he wasn't good for anything else, perhaps he might be made handy in a store. I took him, just to be accommodating, of course, and promised to give him a chance to rise.

He was about 10 years old, and wrote poetry between times, so I put him to sweeping out as a starter. He could sweep well enough, and after a week I put him to doing the chores, and advised him to study the stock while he was resting.

After about six weeks of this kind of training I concluded he knew enough to take charge of my scrap counter, which was a counter where I put all my old stuff about every sixty days, with the most of it marked in big figures and with the additional information to those looking for bargains that there would be 10 off for cash.

Trade was lively the morning I put him at it, and he was doing as well, if not better, than the more experienced clerks, for I noticed several people getting around his way and getting out pretty quick with what they had bought. I didn't think much about the whys and wherefores until the young fellow came to me at the desk with a suit of clothes in his hands to ask me to explain something. The suit bore a large white card inscribed with a big black "88."

"I don't quite understand this," says he. "The others I sold were marked $10.75, $11.50, $11.98, $12 and $12.48, and it was easy enough to calculate what 10 off would be and sell them for 75 cents, $1.50, $1.98, $2 and $2.48, but I'll be doggoned if I see how you're going to throw $10 off of an $8 suit, unless you want to give the customer $2, and I reckon you ain't that liberal, even at the scrap counter, are you?"

It mighty near gave me a spasm, that did, concluded the gentleman, and I put another clerk at my discount counter p. d. q.

A doctor, writing on the subject of the suppression of useless noises in cities, which he claims will hasten toward convalescence many a patient whose nerves are now too racked by perpetual racket to give the system a chance of recuperating, says he remembers one delightful ward in his training school wherein the "sister" used to insist on a "silent hour," from 2:30 to 3:30 daily. It was the only ward in the hospital which enforced this golden rule, alike beneficial to the nurses fortunate enough to be drafted there and the patients therein, who flourished and blossomed forth into amazing convalescence under the silence system and the good nursing which accompanied it. For the "sister" was a born nurse, and she had the real sympathy and womanliness which caused her to appreciate the balm and healing of that one quiet hour in the day.

It was a male surgical ward, and the patients, on first admission, used to chafe somewhat at "sister's" dictum—against which there was no appeal—"no conversation or newspaper reading during the hour." But gradually each patient came to appreciate the soothing lull in the busy hum of the ward, and "sister" and her staff used to watch with satisfaction how patient after patient fell gradually under the soporific quiet of the time, and went off into comfortable sleep, which frequently lasted long after the prescribed limit. The good humor of the ward was most exceptional.

The senior surgeon of the hospital was never tired of saying, "The patients here, sister, get on as if by magic. What spells of witchcraft do you weave to heal them so quickly?"—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Skin and Eyes Yellow.

This disorder finds its direct cause in some derangement in the liver and its closely allied glands. The bile, instead of passing out through the bowels, has been obstructed, and finding no outlet through its usual channels, has accumulated and been taken up by the absorbents and distributed over the system, poisoning the blood and disturbing all the functions of the body. In the treatment of this disease, Dr. M. A. Simmons' Liver Medicine should be used every morning until the complexion becomes clear.

LOVING WORDS.

"Loving words will cost but little,
Journeying up the hill of life.
But they make the weak and weary
Stronger, braver for the strife.
Do you count them only trifles?
What to earth are sun and rain?
Never was a kind word wasted.
Never one was said in vain."

When the cares of life are many,
And its burdens heavy grow,
For the ones who walk beside you,
If you love them tell them so.
What you count of little value
Has an almost magic power,
And beneath their cheering sunshine,
Hearts will blossom like a flower."

BOX FIFTY-TWO.

BY ROBERT W. RISE.

This is the story Sam Merrow of the World told me one morning at a quarter of four, as we were walking uptown after having put the paper to bed. If any other man had told it I should have simply said that it was a lie, but as I have never known Sam to lie about anything I give it for what it is worth. Bryne, the city editor, says that so far as he knows it happened just as Sam tells it, and they say Pemberton does, too, although he's working on the New York Sun now, so I can't swear to that.

"When Kitty Andrews said she'd marry me, I suppose it made me about the happiest man in the newspaper business," was the way Sam began his story. "You fellows who have always lived with your folks don't know what it means to have been without anything you might call a home and to have lived round at boarding houses and cafes since you were a boy, as I have done. It sounds mighty fine to say you're your own master and accountable to no one, but you get dead tired of it by the time you're 30, and you wish to Heaven that there was someone for you to be accountable to; someone who cared whether or not you came home at night and took some interest in you and what you did. Well, you can imagine how I felt, then, when I found out that I, who have no single thing about me to attract a woman, had won the heart of the dearest little girl in the world."

"It was two nights after she told me that I was sitting in the office, waiting with the philosophical content of a man on call for something to turn up. I had the last call, from 7 to 3, and ordinarily I should have looked forward with anything but pleasure to such a long pull, for it was a dull evening, and there was not a thing in sight which would be likely to take me out, but that night the time passed quickly and pleasantly, for I could sit there and think of Kitty and wish that I were with her. She had been staying with her sister at North Beach and was to come up that evening. There was no one to come with her, but it was only a short distance from the boat to a car which would take her home, so I did not worry about her."

"It was early in the evening, and, of course, at that time it was very quiet in the big office. Of all the reporters there was only one other in beside myself, and the four rows of desks shone closed and empty in the bright glare of the electric light. The only sounds which broke the stillness were the muffled conversation in the city editor's room and the rattle of Pemberton's typewriter as he worked on a story."

"That was at 10 o'clock, but the hour had not more than sounded when there crept over me a most indescribable feeling of terror and dread. There was no reason for it, no possible explanation of it, but it came on me suddenly, and it grew and grew until it seemed as though I should spring out of my chair and scream aloud. Now, you know me. You know I've no more nerves than a graven image, yet there I was with every nerve in my body quivering with forebodings and fright without any apparent cause. I could not sit still, but got up from my chair and began pacing up and down the office, faster and faster. Then the dread took a more definite form, and I could feel that it was some danger to Kitty that was moving me so; that somewhere, and not very far away, she needed me and needed me fearfully. I could almost hear her voice calling me for aid, and the longing to go to her, if I had only known how or where, shook me like a reed. What made it worse was that I knew she must be somewhere in the city at that time, but even knowing this I could not tell where to go to her and could not bring myself to leave my post on a mere impulse, so matter how strong it was."

"I paced up and down, up and down, getting more nervous and excited, when all of a sudden the fire alarm tapper over the door of the city editor's room began to strike, and from the first tap of the bell it sounded like a summons to me. We didn't ordinarily answer a first alarm, and yet I could feel that I should answer this one and that it was more to me than a mere fire alarm; that it was something of vivid personal import, though what I could not tell."

"I stood in the centre of the floor, counting the strokes of the tapper with every nerve on the quiver. One—two—three—four—five—rang out the little bell. Then a pause; and again, one—two. I did not wait for instructions, but reached my looker in a couple of jumps. The city editor put his head out of his door and, seeing that I was going, simply nodded. 'Get a gait, Merrow,' he said, but I did not need to be told that. Fifty-two was our scare box. We never waited for a second alarm from there, but jumped the moment it was rung in. It was right in the heart of the dry goods district, where the big buildings, full of inflammable material, give the finest chance for a fire. It sounded especially scary at night, when there was no one round down in that part of the city, and a fire would have a fine chance to get a good start before it was discovered."

"I knew all this well, but this and more would not explain the way I ran to that fire. Although it was a sharp night I did not wait to take my overcoat, but cramming my hat on my head went flying down the stairs, taking all sorts of chances of sprained ankles, and tore up the street like a wild creature. It was half-past ten by the clock on the Liverpool Life Insurance building, and there were not many people on the sidewalk, but I could not wait to pick my way through them and ran up the middle of the street as I had not run for years. I could feel that the fire itself had no connection with the way I was running, nor with the alarm, and that something more to me than life itself hung in the balance, though what I could not tell. I slipped and stumbled on the pavement; I strained and struggled, and my breath came in great gasps and sobs, and still I could not go fast enough."

"I've answered that box a dozen times, and I've never thought of going any other way than down Canal street. I knew that was the quickest way, but in spite of the desperate haste that was dragging me on, I gave that way no thought, but kept straight on up Main street to East. I did not pause, for my way seemed as clear as though someone ran before me, beckoning me on. Down East street I turned, and here I was all alone, and my footsteps echoed loudly back from the deserted buildings as I ran. Far down the street I could see something coming, and coming fast, and as I saw it an overpowering fear took possession of me, and I knew that I must meet it before something, what I could not tell, happened."

"Then in an instant I saw what it was; a great dray, probably that of some belated teamster coming from the ferries, but now without a driver, with the reins on the horses' backs and the horses themselves tearing wildly up the street, with the dray bounding and thundering behind them."

"And then, only a short distance ahead of the oncoming dray, I saw someone crossing the street, and my heart leaped up in my throat as I recognized the trim little figure I knew so well. All in a second I saw her stop, hesitate, turn back, trip on something in the street and go down directly in the path of the maddened horses."

"I gave a great sob of terror and bent forward, striving to run faster as the realization of what it all meant came over me, but it was like running in a nightmare; my feet were as though anchored to the ground, and I seemed hardly to move. I paid no attention to the dray; my whole life and soul were in reaching that little heap on the ground before it, and I felt that if I could not do that it was better that I, too, should go under the oncoming hoofs."

"It was all over in a second, although it seemed years, so keen was my agony. The horses were almost on me when I stooped and, hardly pausing in my run, lifted her in my arms. I made a bound to one side, but as I did so the shoulder of the off horse struck mine, and I was whirled round and dashed to the ground, stunned and bewildered, but holding Kitty safe in my arms, while the dray went thundering by almost above us."

"I was on my feet in an instant and lifted her from the ground. I leaned against the building, holding her close to me and shaking from head to foot, while my teeth chattered as if with ague. My whole being had been so racked and torn by the fearful strain I had gone through that I was nearly out of my head, and I shivered and cried and laughed as I tried to tell her in wildly disconnected sentences how I happened to be there and how thankful I was and how I loved her."

"And she, brave little woman, only cried a little on my shoulder, and then was as calm and sweet as ever and tried to soothe and steady me, who, strong man that I was, was far more frightened and unstrung than she."

"Soon I became calmer, and as soon as I could think at all I felt an overpowering thankfulness for our escape; thankfulness even that the thing had happened, for in those few awful moments before I picked her from the ground I had realized, as I could never have realized otherwise, what she was to me. For I knew then that if I could not have reached her in time there would have been nothing in life worth having for me, and that I should not have tried to escape the death which was to be hers."

"She gathered from my disconnected talk that I was on duty at a fire, and she would not hear of my leaving my post to go with her. It was only a few steps to her car, and so in a few moments I was alone again, and she was on her way home. Only before she got on the car she put her hand in mine and looked up into my eyes."

"Don't think that I'm not thankful, dear," she said, "nor that I don't feel what you've done. Only I can't tell you now—here."

"I started back for the office and then remembered what I was there for and ran for the box again. I reached it in a few minutes, but to my surprise everything was dark, and there was a policeman leaning up against it."

"What was the alarm for?" I gasped, all out of breath."

"What alarm?" said he, looking at me disdainfully."

"The alarm that was rung in from this box a little while ago."

"There ain't been no alarm rung in from this box," said he."

"I looked at him in a dazed sort of way. 'I know better,' I said. 'I've just come from the World office, and it was rung in there not 15 minutes ago.'"

"Well, young feller," he said, turning away, "I guess you'd better go back to the World office and get your breath. There ain't been no alarm rung in from this box tonight."

"That was all I could get out of him. It didn't seem so strange to me then, for my mind was still in a whirl from the fright I had had, and I think nothing would have surprised me much, so after he'd gone I wandered round trying to locate the fire and, finding nothing, gave it up and went back to the office. I went in and stood by the city editor's desk without speaking. In a minute he looked up."

"Well," he said, "how was the fire?"

"It didn't amount to anything," I answered. "What box did you make it?"

"What box? Why, fifty-two of course. Why do you ask?"

"Oh, nothing," I answered; "I thought perhaps I might have made a mistake."

"Then I went out into the local room, and as soon as I got inside the door Pemberton called across to me."

"How was box fifty-two?" he said."

"Then you made it fifty-two, did you?" I asked."

"Sure," said he, "didn't you?"

"By this time I had pretty well gotten over my fright and was able to think clearly again, and I couldn't understand it at all. It was perfectly certain that that alarm had been rung in our office; we had all three heard it; but it was also perfectly certain that it had not been rung from the box, and how else could the tapper have sounded in the office? There was something ghostly and creepy about the whole thing that gave me a queer feeling. I puzzled over the matter for a long while before I went to sleep that night, and I've puzzled over it much since then, but I've never come across a logical explanation of it. The only thing that ever looked like a solution was something that happened next day. I was in the office again in the afternoon, and I saw a couple of the telegraph company's men coming down from the roof, where they'd been fixing wires. I thought I might get some clew from them, and when I asked them what they'd been working on I found that one of the company's wires had fallen in the night and dropped across our fire alarm wires. I told the lineman about the alarm ringing in and asked him if his wire could have anything to do with it. He looked at me quizzically, with one eye shut."

"Well," he said, slowly, "she grounded on a trolley wire on Belden street for a few minutes, and if she'd happened to take just the right charge there at just the right time, and if she'd happened to strike your wires at a place where the insulation was broken, and if the wind had bounced her about just right she might possibly have rung the tapper in some kind of fashion, but the chances of her having rung in a good clear alarm would have been," he said, speculatively, "about one in a hundred thousand."

"When I told Kitty about how I'd been called to her, just when she needed me so desperately, she was deeply touched."

"Don't let's wonder about it, dear, or try to find out what it means," she said, slowly and thoughtfully, laying her cheek against mine. "There are some things which we can't understand and which it's not meant that we should understand. It was something more powerful and mysterious than electricity that called you to me, dear, so let's leave it that way and take it as a sign that you were meant to watch over me and that you'll always be near when I want you."—The White Elephant.

Annual Report of the Chief of Engineers the Army.

Gen. Wilson, chief of the engineers of the army, has made his annual report to the secretary of war. It is devoted to the fortifications and river and harbor improvements of the country. Estimates for coast defenses for the years 1898-99 are as follows:

SPAIN'S REPLY

To Minister Woodford Summed Up in a Few Words.

In the special note to United States Minister Woodford the government declares that Spain has done all in her power to end the war in Cuba, and cites the many sacrifices which have been made by the nation, the number of troops sent to Cuba and the reforms which are to be carried out in the island, which are fully described.

The note ends with the statement that "Spain will not admit the right of any foreign power to interfere in any of her affairs."

The note also declares that if the United States does not stop the sailing of filibustering expeditions from American ports Spain will re-establish the right to search vessels anchoring in Cuba waters.

Wants Fabulous Prices.

On the steamship George W. Elder, which leaves next Friday night for Dyea, Alaska, Charles E. Vest, of Portland, Oregon, will ship 4,000 dozens of eggs and about a ton and a half of poultry, fresh meats and oysters, which he expects to transport over the Chilcoot Pass to Dawson City by dog train before Christmas. The eggs have all been prepared and are ready for shipment. They were broken into cans, sealed up and then frozen. Vest has four others associated with him, and they expect to realize $100,000 out of the venture. They expect to sell the eggs at $35 per dozen and the poultry at fabulous prices.

ARMY REPORT.

General Miles Submits Estimates to the Secretary of War.

MORE SOLDIERS ARE NEEDED.

The General Wants Two More Regiments of Artillery and Five of Infantry—Will Take Fifty-eight Million Dollars to Put the Country in Condition of Defense.

Gen. Miles, major-general commanding the army, has made his report to the secretary of war. In it he makes reference to the reports of the general and other officers subordinate to him in rank. Gen. Miles says in part:

"The army, although inadequate in point of numbers, was never in a higher state of efficiency, both as to the character and qualifications of its officers and intelligence and loyalty of its soldiers. Important changes and improvements have been made along the Atlantic and gulf coasts, and especially in the mounting of modern artillery and the appliances adopted for the defense of the coast."

Attention is called to the condition of affairs in Alaska and a number of recommendations relative thereto are made.

Continuing, the report says: "During the last ten years much attention has been given by the government to the question of coast defenses, and most beneficial results are now becoming apparent. Approximately $26,000,000 has been appropriated by the government, which is nearly one-third of what is required to put the country in a safe condition of defense. Although the general desire of our people is to maintain a condition of peace with all nations and the policy of the government is one of good will and peaceful relations with all others, yet nothing could be more injudicious than to remain in a condition of insecurity and permit the lives of millions and the accumulated wealth of many generations to be destroyed or endangered by any foreign power with which we are liable to come in contact."

He recommends fortification appropriations as follows:

Hampton Roads, $463,000; approaches to Wilmington, N. C., $397,000; Charleston harbor, S. C., $150,000; Key West, Fla., $50,000; Pensacola harbor, $32,000; approaches to Mobile, Ala., $307,000; approaches to New Orleans, $319,000; Galveston, Tex., $419,000.

He recommends strongly an increase in the army of at least two additional regiments of artillery.

He also urges the necessity of adding five infantry regiments to the army and recommends that congress fix a standard of strength on a basis of the total population. This standard, he thinks, should be a maximum of one enlisted man to every 1,000 population and the minimum one soldier to every 2,000 population.

Fever Gives Way to Tragedy.

Interest in the progress of the fever in Biloxi was swallowed up in the contemplation and excitement of a most horrible murder and arson committed upon a most estimable couple of elderly people living out on Back Bay, about three or four miles from the city.

Word was brought to the city about 4 o'clock Friday morning that the Parkhurst property had been burned and that Mr. J. L. Parkhurst and his wife had been consumed in the flames. A man named Gibson, his wife and one Volkes are under arrest.

The autopsy held showed that the aged couple had been murdered, and evidence showed that they had been killed before they retired at night. Rumors and threats of lynching are rife.

No More Appointments at Present.

The president has determined not to consider any new appointments until congress meets, owing to many requests that have come from senators and representatives that consideration be held up until they can see the president; also the great pressure of other business, which is occupying the president's time.

Thousands of Lives Lost in a Cyclone.

Advices from Manila says a cyclone occurred October 12, and that Carigara and Suruyo, on the eastern coast of Leyte, one of the Philippine Islands, have been wiped out, and that an immense wave swept inland, engulfing the villages. The cyclone also swept the island of Samar. The full extent of the catastrophe is not yet known.

The jury in the famous Luetgert case at Chicago has disagreed and have been discharged by Judge Tuthill. The jury stood nine for conviction and three for acquittal. It was deadlocked for thirty-eight hours. Luetgert was on trial for the murder of his wife.

CALERA, ALA., OCT. 28, 1897.

Two hundred and seventy-six years ago at Plymouth, Mass., the first oysters were served.

An eminent speaker once said to a class of students: "It is impossible to succeed in anything or at any place without being polite."

It costs less to raise hogs, cattle, sheep, poultry, corn, wheat and all food crops, in Alabama than they can be bought elsewhere.

The first Thanksgiving dinner was celebrated in this country two hundred and seventy-six years ago at Plymouth, Massachusetts.

Farmers in several counties in this state have resolved to grow more food crops and less cotton than heretofore. This is a good move and one worthy of emulation.

Wm. Sandhu, a prominent citizen of Cherokee county, and for the past four years postmaster at Leesburg, committed suicide by shooting himself with a shot gun on the 25th inst. Cause unknown.

The new President of the State University, Prof. J. K. Powers, has barred "foot ball" in that institution of learning. Another mark of improvement in the University of our commonwealth.

The yellow fever situation does not seem to improve at Montgomery, Mobile and New Orleans--on the contrary it appears to grow worse--at least a considerable increase in number of cases appear. No new cases have been reported at Selma and no deaths for some days.

The Illinois Car and Equipment Company at Anniston has increased its force to 450 workmen. This company has a large order from the L. & N. and everything is hustling. This means nearly $1000 per day added to Anniston's business.

A close observer of events, and a good business man once said that "the deadeast town in the state is that town where a newspaper is published that has not a single advertiser." He should have added: "The deadeast business man in any town is the one who does not advertise his business."

The color of the two-cent postage stamp is to be changed from a carmine to a green, the color used on the government notes. The ten cent postage stamp, now printed in green, will be changed to carmine. The change is an economical measure. The difference in the cost of inks will save the government $10,000 annually.

The blowing, kicking, and bragging of the Montgomery Journal and Advertiser calls to mind the following: "Loud talking, big advertisements and boasting news papers are not always impressive. The public has a way of judging men and things on their merits, and in the long run its conclusions generally are right."

Some of the Alabama dailies are accusing Gov. Johnston of enforcing the quarantine too strictly, and others say he violated it in going out of Montgomery himself, while others are crying "it is all politics, and in the interest of the Chicago platform, and Johnston for the governorship" all seeming to forget the fact that Gov. Johnston is only enforcing the law, as he understands it, provided in such cases of epidemic.

Yellow fever made a new record at New Orleans Monday, there being eleven deaths and fifty seven new cases. There were two deaths and three new cases at Memphis and one death and two new cases at Montgomery. Sporadic cases have developed at Cincinnati and Atlanta. Official denial is made of reported cases in Birmingham. All the infected cities report a total of eighteen deaths and 111 new cases.

ANNISTON'S QUARANTINE.

The city of Anniston was considerably stirred up on Tuesday night last when it was ascertained that Governor Johnston had quarantined the State against Anniston. In reply to an inquiry why it had been done when there was not a suspected case of fever in Anniston, Governor Johnston wired: "Quarantined because it has permitted refugees from infected places to remain there on advice of physicians."

Anniston then enquired what physicians advised that Anniston be quarantined against. The citizens, also, held a meeting and instructed a committee to communicate with the governor protesting against quarantine as hasty and ill advised and asking that quarantine be removed. No answer being received, the city council met and passed the following ordinance:

Be it ordained by the city council of Anniston, that whereas Birmingham is harboring within her borders the Governor of the State and other noted refugees from Montgomery, it shall be unlawful for any of the above described persons from Birmingham to enter this city unless they have been thoroughly fumigated.

The quarantine against Anniston was ordered raised on yesterday, as it was stated by the city authorities that the few refugees in Anniston had slipped by the quarantine officers without the knowledge or consent of the city authorities and upon the promise of the city authorities to isolate the refugees that have come into her borders.

Alabama Day, last Friday, the 22nd inst., was, from all accounts, a grand success. Gov. Johnston and staff, a good representation of the State Military, bevy of lovely young ladies and delegations of prominent citizens were present to do honor to the occasion. The exercises throughout were very interesting and the addresses and papers were excellent. Especially were the papers read and the addresses delivered by the ladies spoken of in the highest terms. Gov. Johnston was also highly complimented upon his speeches. The day was perfect and the occasion passed off most delightfully to all. Col. A. M. Shook, Vice-President of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company, in speaking of Alabama Day said: "Alabama did herself proud last week," continued Colonel Shook, "and I believe had a larger day than any other State with the exception of Tennessee. The people from Alabama received much commendation for the manner in which they turned out, conditions in over half of the State being unfavorable for a successful turnout."

Gov. Johnston has been severely censured and criticised by some of the press and people of the state for leaving Montgomery and establishing his headquarters in Birmingham. The Evening News of yesterday gives the following in relation thereto:

The facts in regard to Governor Johnston's coming here are that he left Montgomery on Thursday night, October 14th, and came to Birmingham where was Mrs. Johnston ill. On Saturday following, Birmingham quarantined against Montgomery and the Governor at once went to the Mayor and said he would leave the city if his restrictions required it, and was advised they did not. The State quarantine was not put on till the following Monday and in no case has it been made retroactive. A number of Montgomery people went to other points in the State before the State quarantine was put on against the city, and all were allowed to remain. After the State quarantine a place then it is that refugees are prohibited from stopping anywhere within the territory of the State.

"A large force of hands," says the Hot Blast, "are at work clearing away the debris preparatory to rebuilding the Pipe Works which were burned recently in Anniston." It is calculated that the work of rebuilding will be completed by the 1st of January, next.

A Washington special of Oct. 22nd says: The monetary commission today adjourned until Nov. 3rd, next. It is understood that a practical agreement has been reached as to the general outlines of a plan for a reform in the currency, and that soon after they reassemble they will prepare for the public a statement of their conclusions.

Binger Herman, commissioner of the general land office, has submitted his annual report to the Secretary of the Interior, and an approximate estimate of the quantity of vacant public lands in the several states and territories at the close of the year shows that Alabama still has 532,339 acres.

Taylor Delk, the famous Georgia outlaw, has been sentenced to the penitentiary for life.

THE CLOSING WEEK.

The present week affords the last opportunity to visit the Tennessee Centennial at Nashville, as it will close forever Saturday night. Thursday will be the great day of the week. It will be John W. Thomas and Atlanta day combined. Nashville will turn out in honor of the splendid services of Major Thomas as President of the Exposition and the largest individual factor in its success, and Atlanta will be represented by thousands in celebration of that city's special day.

The Tennessee Centennial has been a success beyond expectations. It is not expected that it will realize any dividends, such not having been in contemplation, but it is understood that it will practically pay out, which is more than most such affairs do. The appearance of yellow fever in the South operated greatly against the attendance from the Gulf States, during September and October, but the people of Tennessee, Kentucky and surrounding states not infected by the dread disease have rallied nobly to the support of the Exposition during the closing months and the result is that the falling off will not be as great as it might have been otherwise.

The Exposition is a wonderful educator. It will advertise the South's resources and possibilities in a manner which will bear fruit for decades to come. It stands today as a monument to Southern pluck and Southern enterprise. It is a pity that every person in the country cannot see it. —Birmingham News.

GOOD NEWS, IF TRUE.

San Francisco, Oct 25.—The claim of Dr. Joseph O. Hirschfelds, of this city, that he has discovered a cure for consumption, announced last April, has been investigated by the faculty of the Cooper Medical college. Sixteen patients who have been treated with oxytuberculin, as the doctor calls his preparation, have been examined and the report to be made this week will be favorable. Dr. L. C. Lane, president of the college, announces his faith in the inquiry which is in no sense a secret one, as the method of its preparation is freely given to the medical profession.

Mr Bryan's persistence in the support of free coinage of silver calls to mind a story told by Senator Evarts at a dinner given to Senator Spooner some years ago, at which Senator Stewart insisted on presenting his usual oration on the silver cause. "I am reminded," said Evarts, "of an experience in visiting an insane asylum, where I found a man astride a table which he imagined was a horse and which he was lashing and spurring vigorously. Thinking to humor his fancy, I spoke to him and remarked that he had a very nice hobby. 'Hobby,' he replied, this is no hobby, it is a horse. 'What is the difference, my friend,' said I, 'between a horse and a hobby?' 'The difference,' said he, giving the table another lash with his whip, 'is that you can get off of a horse but you can't get off of a hobby.' "—Financial Review,

Hon. W. C. Scarbrough, who was in the city yesterday, probably raised a larger wheat crop this year than any man in Calhoun county. Saving enough to supply himself and tenants with bread, he has one thousand bushels for sale. No doubt many will be surprised that so large a wheat crop was raised this year by one farmer in this county. The farmers are again demonstrating that wheat can be grown here successfully. —Hot Blast.

SECRETARY GAGE'S PLAN.

Birmingham News:

Secretary of the Treasury Gage seems to be more in earnest in urging financial reform than any other member of the McKinley Administration. The Secretary has a plan which he will recommend to Congress. It does not call for the retirement and cancellation of the outstanding greenbacks, but provides a fund of $325,000,000 to be used in redeeming paper money, none of which will be reissued except in exchange for gold.

Mr. Gage's idea is to encourage an extension of the national banking system by in effect repealing the tax on national bank circulation. He also suggests that banks be permitted to issue up to par on a new issue of Government refunding bonds, first to the extent of each bank's capital, and then to 25 per cent above that, the Government to be secured by a first lien on all the assets of the bank, by a redemption fund of 10 per cent, and finally by a safety fund of $5,000,000. The issue of bank notes would be restricted to denominations of $10 and upwards.

As a preliminary step the issue of 2 1/2 per cent United States refunding bonds, redeemable at the option of the Government after twenty and within fifty years, is suggested, these bonds to be used, as far as practicable, for refunding the entire existing national debt. It is proposed that $200,000,000 of them be sold to partly provide for the $325,000,000 gold fund to be used in redeeming outstanding notes, and that the balance form a basis for the bank note circulation.

It is understood that Mr. Gage will urge the adoption of his plan by Congress. But is added that if his scheme is not satisfactory he will support any currency reform plan which he may regard as sound. The country looks to the present Administration to inaugurate financial reform. Now that all hope for an international bimetallic conference is dead, it rests with the Administration to provide a remedy for our financial ills. If it fails to act it will have neglected to do that for which it was chiefest of all elected. Mr. Gage is, the News believes, sincere in his efforts. Now let him receive the cordial support of the Administration and Congress in his endeavors.

A FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 25.—Harry Cassin, ex-bank cashier, is a fugitive from justice. When his case was called in the criminal superior court this morning he did not respond. Cassin was indicted last spring for embezzling $71,000 of the funds of the Georgia Loan, Savings and Banking company, a corporation of which he was cashier. He gave bond in the sum of $10,000, which was signed by Banker F. M. Coker, of this city, who, it is said, was indemnified against loss by the father in law of the young banker.

It is said that Cassin is in South Africa, and that he is doing well in a business venture in which he is engaged.

Senator Morgan Seriously Sick.

A San Diego, Cal., dispatch of the 26th inst., brings the unpleasant news that Senator Morgan is at the Coronado Hotel in that city quite sick. The dispatch further states, "the Senator's illness is said to be due to cold which he caught on the steamship Oregon. At an early hour this morning a telephone message from the Coronado Hotel stated that the Senator was suffering from a high fever."

WHAT THE BOARD FOUND.

The Armor Plate Board found on their tour to Birmingham and Sheffield that Alabama could make iron cheaper than anywhere else in the Union. This ought to decide the matter of the location of the proposed plant.—Florence Times.

Abbeville Times: Lots of women think they want to vote, when all they want is a voter.

How fever epidemic now prevailing in the southern part of the state has completely demoralized business and railroad travel in that section of the state.

Prof. Charles W. Shields, of Princeton University, has withdrawn from the Presbyterian Church because of the hostile action of Presbyteries and Synods resulting from his petition for a liquor license at Princeton Inn.

Heavy gales have done much damage along the New Jersey coast and up Delaware bay. Several vessels have stranded, railroad tracks are submerged and much destruction has been wrought by the winds and tides.

The yellow fever invasion of Selma has, we learn, caused a perfect stampede from that city. It is stated that there are not three hundred of the white population left there, all the others have departed for the higher latitudes of Tennessee and Georgia.

Officials at Washington believe the basis of Spain's reply to Minister Woodford's note will be the charge that the United States has not observed the requirements of international law in the matter of preventing filibustering. This the State Department will be prepared to prove untrue.

Sheriff O'Brien and his chief deputies have caught up with a gang of six negro thieves and got them in the Birmingham jail, and have recovered many stolen articles, recognized as the property of parties in the city and taken from the through and local freight trains on the various roads running into that city. West Jones a negro sharper was the leader of the gang.

The long trial of Luetgert, the Chicago sausage maker, resulted in a mistrial, the jury standing nine for conviction and three for acquittal. The defendant, it is stated, will make application for bail. The district attorney will oppose granting bail and it is thought will put the case on the call for trial again and in that event it is among the possibilities that the big sausage maker may again be on trial for his life at an early day. Speaking of the prospects for a new trial, Judge Tuthill said: "I fancy Luetgert will never again be tried in a court in this county. That is a question which must be decided upon when the state gets ready to make another move. From the wide publicity, however, which the newspapers have given the evidence in the case, the marked attention which it has attracted in all parts of the country and the frenzied interest which the people of Chicago have taken in the outcome of trial since the case went to the jury, I hardly think that the prosecution can find twelve men who have not already tried the accused in their own minds and either acquitted or convicted him. That is the problem confronting the State's Attorney now, and unless he solves it by producing the men, of course, Luetgert will go free."

Edwardsville Standard News: A land like ours—a land without a winter! We do not know half its worth. Life is everywhere, and warmth and beauty. Lawns are green as emeralds; the roses bloom as if they thought it was June, and other flowers lift fragrant faces till the world is aglow with color and with light. The mocking bird calls to you from the tree top, and the humming bird flutters amid the vines. Fresh fruits are upon bush and tree, and all things tell of life and growth and gladness. Be content, and let the gold that is in the bosom of Alaskan fields lie there till the slow Northern summer comes, and the danger is not so fully to the front as now.

Elwood Gann had the misfortune on last Saturday, while chopping some wood, to cut his left foot very severely. We are pleased to learn, however, that he is getting along very nicely and the wound is healing rapidly.

A few weeks ago the editor was taken with a very severe cold that caused him to be in a most miserable condition. It was undoubtedly a bad case of la grippe and recognizing it as dangerous he took immediate steps to bring about a speedy cure. From the advertisement of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the many good recommendations included therein, we concluded to make a first trial of the medicine. To say that it was satisfactory in its results, is putting it very mildly indeed. It acted like magic and the result was a speedy and permanent cure. We have no hesitancy in recommending this excellent Cough Remedy to anyone afflicted with a cough or cold in any form.—Banner of Liberty, Libertytown, Maryland. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Dial Bros.

The attention of our citizens is invited to advertisement of the fresh meat market recently opened in this place by Mr. Jim Pilgreen. He proposes to keep constantly on hand the very best meats that the country affords and will do so if he meets with sufficient encouragement. A regular meat market is a great convenience to the public and should be liberally patronized. Mr. Pilgreen has had considerable experience in the business. He knows good meats and understands having it nicely butchered. When needing anything in this line give him a call.

Mixed Train.
Commencing with today, on account of the quarantine regulations, all trains on the Alabama Mineral branch of the L. & N. will carry freight cars. This will cause the trains arriving here to be from one to three hours late. Superintendent Knox thought of discontinuing the passenger trains entirely, but finally decided to carry one passenger coach together with freight cars.—Hot Blast.

Sylacauga's Quarantine.
Sylacauga has quarantined against the world, and her regulation permits of no passenger traffic further than to allow people to go out of the city. The L. & N., however, does not furnish this opportunity, as it goes right on through just as if Sylacauga was not in existence.—Hot Blast

J. C. Berry, one of the best known citizens of Spencer, Mo., testifies that he cured himself of the worst kind of piles by using a few boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He had been troubled with piles for more than thirty years and had used many different kinds of so-called cures; but DeWitt's was the one that did the work and he will verify this statement if any one wishes to write him.—Dial Bros.

TO OPEN MINES.
General Shelley and Northern Capital interested in the Enterprise.
Gen. C. M. Shelley has leased a large and valuable tract of coal land near Scottsville in this county, and will commence developing it at once. It is said that within sixty days after the new road is completed the shipment of coal will commence. These mines are to be worked on an extensive scale. It is said that Northern capitalists are backing Gen. Shelley in the enterprise. Work commenced Tuesday morning grading for the siding at the depot. Mr. Val Driskall has secured the contract, and bids are busy giving it the proper grade. Centreville ought to have a big celebration on the day the first train is run through. A brass band, the beating of drums and old-time speech-making will do our people good.—Centreville Press.

It will be remembered that General Shelley leased 100 convicts from the State of Alabama some time ago. The opening of these mines explains the lease. The convicts will probably be used in them.

J. M. Thirswend, of Groesbeck, Tex., says that when he has a spell of indigestion, and feels bad and sluggish, he takes two of DeWitt's Little Early Risers at night, and he is all right the next morning. Many thousands of others do the same thing. Do you?—Dial Bros.

Grisham, of Gaars Mills, La., has to say on the subject, viz: "I have been a sufferer from chronic diarrhoea ever since the war and have tried all kinds of medicines for it. A poor miner in Pennsylvania is said to have fallen heir to $75,000 by the death of an uncle who came to him in the disguise of a tramp and was kindly received. This story reads as though it had been written by some William Whiskers with a fancy for tales of imagination and a desire to have his kind treated well by those whom they would in the future solicit for "handouts."

The first thing the women will do when they get into power will be to enact a law compelling a man to love only one woman at a time.

Ant Pie.
Savages, we know, indulge in such luxuries as grubs and locusts, but for a civilized white man to finish up his dinner with a dish of raw ants seems too nasty to be credible. Yet in Mexico it is the custom—and a custom adopted by plenty of colonists and visitors.

The ant eaten is called the honey ant, and is perhaps as curious an insect as lives. With a tiny head and legs, it has a huge body as big as a large pea, and this is yellow and swollen with excellent honey.

In each nest there are 300 or 400 of these honey ants, which are attended by thousands of others. The honey ants hang on to the roof of the cells in the nest while the others feed them. They are, in fact, living storehouses of winter food. An observer says that if one of the honey ants falls from his perch a worker will go and pick him up and replace him. This is as if a man were to walk up the face of a cliff carrying a large buffalo or cart horse on his back.

Value and Price.
"I suppose, of course, that's a $100 wheel."
"That's what it is."
"How much did you pay for it?"
Chicago Post.

The life of a farmer has often been called a life of drudgery. There is no occupation that has a larger ratio of insupportable labor to one whose tastes are in harmony with rural life. The weak point in American farming has been the lack of appreciation of the equipments necessary to a successful career. Too many of them have been willing to be thieves of the soil's resources, that they might swell their bank accounts. To the young man or young woman fairly educated there is no more promising field of enterprise.

Train Service Badly Crippled.

All passenger trains on the Alabama Great Southern road have virtually been abandoned south of Birmingham on account of the yellow fever below that place. Trains Nos. 3 and 4 are annulled, while Nos. 1 and 2, the Cannon Ball New Orleans-Cincinnati trains, do not discharge or take on passengers, express or baggage in Alabama or Mississippi south of Birmingham.

No Modification.

Governor Johnston, after taking the opinion of the state board of health and other eminent physicians as to whether it would be safe to permit refugees from infected places to stop anywhere in the state, has refused to permit any modification of the present quarantine regulations. The consensus of opinion is that it would not be safe to permit refugees to stop in the state, hence the governor's action.

Patient Died by the Roadside.

The dead body of an unknown man, apparently an Irish laborer of middle age, was found Sunday afternoon near the Washington Ferry roadside, about four miles from Montgomery. His skin was yellow and his eyes were sunken. He was shabbily dressed and neglect had evidently contributed to his death. It is likely he was suffering from the effects of yellow fever and fell by the roadside and died.

Saloon Unearthed in an Abandoned Mine.

Last Saturday the Marshal of Warrior unearthed a novel saloon and landed an alleged enterprising bar-keeper in jail. For some time the negroes about Warrior have been obtaining whisky from a mysterious source, and the officials have endeavored to locate the "wild cat." Groups of negroes were followed and watched on frequent occasions, and it was found that the old unused Hoehne mine had a strange attraction for them. Further investigation resulted in finding a bar-room flourishing in defiance of the law. A white man named Marion Creele was arrested on the charge of selling whisky without license, and now languishes in jail.

MEXICAN TRADE.

Alabama Coal Invading the Southern Republic.

Captain W. H. Hughes, representative of the Louisville and Nashville railroad and the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, has just returned from Mexico, where he went to introduce Alabama coal, with a view to opening up an extensive trade in that country. Captain Hughes took with him through the ports of Pensacola a sample car of 1,200 tons of the Alabama black diamond, which was sold to the Inter-Oceanic railroad, which terminates at Vera Cruz. The railroad management liked the coal so well that it closed a contract for a year's supply, amounting to 100,000 tons. The contract dates from January 1, and the coal will take the place of English coal and native woods, which the road has been using as fuel. Captain Hughes received assurances that other large consumers of coal will buy from Alabama as soon as their existing contracts with English operators expire. The recent action of congress in removing the discriminating duty imposed on Mexican vessels loading coal shipments at American ports has enabled Alabama operators to place their product in Mexico on equal footing with English coal—free of duty. However, the Alabama article has a big advantage in the matter of freight rates. It is believed that the Alabama operators will be able to build up a large coal trade in Mexico.

NINETEEN LIVES FIND WATERY GRAVES

A Passenger Train on the New York Central Plunges Into the Hudson.

When nearly opposite Garrison, N. Y., Sunday morning, an eastbound New York Central passenger train, which left Buffalo Saturday night, plunged into the river.

Neither engineer nor fireman will ever tell the story of that terrible moment, for with his hand upon the throttle, the engineer plunged with his engine to the river bottom, and the fireman, too, was at his post. Behind them came the express car, the combination car and the sleepers, and these piled on top of the engine.

What seems to have happened was that underneath the tracks and ties the heavy wall had given way and when the great weight of the engine struck the unsupported tracks it went crashing through the rest of the wall and toppled over into the river.

Then there happened what on the railroad at any other time would have caused disaster, but now proved a very blessing. As the train plunged over the embankment the coupling that held the last three sleepers broke and they miraculously remained on the broken track. In that way some sixty lives were saved.

The number who lost their lives in the watery grave is placed at nineteen, and there is little doubt that this is the total number of killed. The bodies of the engineer, fireman and Mr. Van Etten's secretary are still in the river, with little hope of their recovery.

To Extend to Montgomery.

Henry L. Lamb, of New York, vice president of the Chattanooga Southern railroad, has been in Chattanooga for the past two weeks. Mr. Lamb stated before leaving that the company had decided to extend the road to Montgomery at once. The extension will begin at Gadsden and go by way of Anniston. The road at present runs from Chattanooga to Gadsden and is there bottled up. It is the purpose of the management to make connection with the Plant system at Montgomery for a southern connection. The road will be constructed of the heaviest steel rails and will develop a section now remote from railroad connections. Engineers are to be put to work making the permanent survey.

Young Girl Gets $25,000,000.

After a search for heirs extending over a score of years, the vast estate of Imblay Clarke, at San Francisco, now appraised at $25,000,000, seems about to come to its rightful possessor, the daughter of Clarke, a mine owner who died in Australia over twenty years ago. She is Grace M. Elliott, adopted daughter of William H. Elliott, a saloon keeper, who took her from the Home for the Friendless in 1878, when the matron assured him her parents were dead, her father, Imblay Clarke, leaving her in the home, and that he afterwards died in Australia.

Tragedy at Selma.

Monday afternoon a bloody tragedy took place at Matthews' bar, Selma, resulting in the killing of Orange Peebles, a colored man, by another negro named Big Joe Wilson. He and Bishop had been playing dominoes. They went to the bar and Peebles asked Bishop to drink. They had some words and Wilson commenced an attack on Peebles, cutting his jugular vein and inflicting a terrible wound in close proximity to the heart. Peebles fell forward on the counter and then staggered to the alley and fell inside the billiard room, bleeding profusely. He expired in a few minutes. Wilson was apprehended after an exciting chase and sent to jail.

More Cases at Memphis.

The board of health officially announces four new cases of yellow fever at Memphis. All four cases are directly traceable to the McFerrin residence. The people seem to have confidence in the ability of the board of health to hold the disease in check, and there is no excitement.

Light frosts 24 in the northern part of the state Monday and Tuesday mornings.

THE JOKERS' BUDGET.

OBLIGING HIM.

"I want a dollar, Jones, and I want it bad."
"All right. Here's a counterfeit."

WORSE.

Mrs. Klondike—And did the landlord press you for money?
Tramp—No'm. He stomped on me, mum.

IMPORTED OR NATIVE.

Facetious Customer—Bring me a couple of links of dog.
Obliging Waiter—Certainly, sir; Dachshund or mongrel?

DISSATISFIED.

"When did she first seem to become dissatisfied with your present?"
"When she accidentally ran across the price mark."

A POPULAR YOUNG MAN.

Miss Laura—Do you believe, Mr. Litchel, that stolen kisses are sweetest?

Chollie—Aw, weally, I don't know. I've never had to steal any yet.

MAKING PROGRESS.

"So you proposed to her," said Willie Washington's friend.

"Yes."

"Did she give you any encouragement?"

"Some. She didn't laugh."

HAD HIS TROUBLES.

"Dear heart!" he protested. He pressed his hand nervously to his brow.

"Give me liver," he exclaimed, abruptly, for he had but seven cents.

SELFISH.

"Why do prosperous men always say that the ladder of success is made up of broken rounds?"

"Well—they do it so that other fellows won't try to crawl up after them."

GREAT DEMAND.

"That Miss Goldrick seems to be awfully popular with the young men."
"Popular is no name for it. Why, do you know her father has actually got out a printed form of declination of offers for her hand?"

A PUZZLED YOUNGSTER.

Willie—Ma, can people leave parts of themselves in different places?
Ma—No; don't be ridiculous.
Willie—Well, Mr. Jiggs said he was going to Arizona for his lungs.

BY THE BOTTLE.

Ethel—Who was that man you just bowed to?

Penelope—That was Dobson, the great composer.

Ethel—A composer, did you say?
Penelope—Yes. He manufactures soothing syrup.

NO POSSIBLE DANGER.

"What do you consider the most absolutely certain way to distinguish toaststools from mushrooms?"

"Cook them, get some other man to eat them, and then watch his symptoms."

A RULE OF RECOGNITION.

"I can tell everything that man writes," remarked the discerning citizen.

"How?"

"If it's poetry he begins each sentence with 'O,' and if it's prose he begins it with 'I.'"

AN EXAMPLE.

"It's the man who persists as'll rise in the world," remarked Mr. Rafferty, sententiously.

"Thru' yer yez," replied Mr. Dolan. "An' fur proof O' kin point till the tombstone is a fri'nd that persisted in thawin' dynamite be a shtove."

AND SO IT GOES.

"This article, 'How to Keep Well,' is not completed," said the editor-in-chief.

"No, sir; the editor of the Health Column took some lobster last night, and he hasn't been able to work today," replied his assistant.

ANSWERED.

"What are the 'Powers' of Europe?" inquired the very young woman. The veteran diplomat looked at her thoughtfully and then replied:

"For a long time past they have been chiefly conversational Powers."

FULLY APPRECIATED.

"Wonderful!" exclaimed the enthusiastic tourist from Boston, as the steamer came in full sight of the fortress of Gibraltar.

"It is great," asserted the equally enthusiastic tourist from Chicago; "I wonder what the British Government would take to let that rock be used for advertising purposes."

CAUSE FOR REJOICING.

Sunday School Teacher: And when the prodigal son returned home his father fell upon his neck and blessed him. Why did he do that?

Scholar: 'Cause he was so glad to think he didn't come back with a wife and family, I s'pose.

NO RECOMMENDATION.

"Did you buy that horse Skeemer wanted to sell you?"

"No, sir-ee! Afraid of him."

"Didn't Skeemer say the ladies in his family drove him regularly?"

"Well, he said he let his wife's mother drive him every day."

NO MORE FUN IN IT.

Scorchier—I'm not going to ride the wheel any more.

Friend—What's the matter? Come near breaking your neck?"

"Lots of times; but that's not it. There's no more fun in it. Pedestrians have learned to be quick and it's impossible now to knock any of them down."

An eighty-year-old man of Somerville, Me., who for half his life has been partly blind and partly deaf, has recovered his senses in full without treatment.

The following is an excellent specific for weak and irritable nerves, taken before meals: One teaspoonful of tincture of calumba, in water, and after meals take one teaspoonful, in water, of this mixture: Bromide of soda, four drams; tincture of nux vomica, four drams; compound tincture of lavender up to three ounces.

SMILE WHENEVER YOU CAN.

When things don't go to suit you
And the world seems upside down,
Don't waste your time in fretting,
But drive away that frown;
Since life is oft perplexing,
Tis much the wisest plan
To bear all trials bravely
And smile whenever you can.

Why should you dread the morrow,
And thus despoil today?
For when you borrow trouble
You always have to pay.
It is a good old maxim
Which should be often preached—
Don't cross the bridge before you
Until the bridge is reached.

You might be spared much sighing
If you would keep in mind
The thought that good and evil
Are always here combined.
There must be something wanting,
And, though you roll in wealth,
You may miss from your bosom
That precious jewel—health.

And though you're strong and sturdy
You may have an empty purse—
And earth has many trials
Which I consider worse—
But whether joy or sorrow
Fill up your mortal span,
'Twill make your pathway brighter
To smile whenever you can.

The End of Claire's Story.

BY ANNIE HAMILTON DONNELL.

"Of all things!"

I jumped to my feet in amazement. "Yes," she said gaily, "it's me"—Claire was never strong in grammar—"did you think it was my ghost? Jack's here, too, the dear boy. It's sort of a belated honeymoon, you know. We had to put it off till now. There he is—Jack! Jack!"

She called him in her sweet, shrill voice, very much as she might have been calling me if—if things had been different.

We were at Dunlop's. It was out of season, and who could have dreamed of seeing Claire Chittenden there? Why, bless you, I was there for the express purpose of not seeing her.

"Dunlop's," I had reasoned, "will be such a good place to forget Claire in," and so I went to Dunlop's. And here was Claire, as gay and bewitching as ever, honeymooning with Jack Chittenden under my very eyes! Tell me fate is not the superlative of cruel. "He didn't hear me," murmured Claire. "I'm really and truly afraid Jack is a little deaf—dear boy! Don't they have cures—Keeley cures or something—where they cure deafness? I shall take Jack there. I'm not going to have to make love to him through an ear-trumpet!"

Under the gay railery in her voice lurked actual concern. Claire Anthony-Chittenden (confound the last name) actually concerned! I looked at her again and this time noted the little, matronly airs she assumed. They were certainly becoming to her.

"Why don't you give me your chair or get another or something so we can have a little chatter like old times? I'll give you till Jack comes back. Wait!" She pulled my sleeve as I was starting away for another chair. "There they come! I want you to notice them—look!—those two ladies coming this way down the hotel steps. I can't get up a bit of curiosity about them in Jack—he says they're well enough and then forgets all about them. Do be interested in them to keep me company, Evan."

Of course when she called me "Evan" I was at her command.

The two women approached us and slowly passed. The elder one walked a trifle in advance of the other.

"She always does," commented Claire, reading my thoughts as easily as ever. "That's why I decided at first the young lady was a nurse or companion or something. But it's just the other way—the older lady's the nurse and mother, too. It's a very interesting story, as far as I've got, and I'd wager my best—well, second best, anyhow—bonnet that I've got it right so far. And now, just as I'm getting on so finely in it, Jack must start up and translate me overland to San Francisco. Isn't it a shame? We're going on the 11 o'clock tonight. Well, when you're married that's the end of you, you know."

She sighed charmingly. Her old merry laugh rippled through the sigh into gentle explosion.

"Is it?" I said, absently.

The two women were coming back toward us, and with unconscious rudeness I looked straight into their faces. Afterward, when Claire was safely out of the way, I remembered just how gentle and sad the young woman's face was, and even how something dark and fuzzy and soft around her neck accentuated the expression and brought into clear contrast the pale, perfect oval of her face.

"Yes, on the 11 o'clock tonight," Claire was running on. "Too bad! In two or three days more I'd have finished out the whole story to my satisfaction. Men never have any imagination."

"I accepted the snub meekly for myself and Jack, too."

"But women have enough to lap over. So you're at your old tricks again? Do you keep right on making stories out of everybody you run against?"

"Well, I've made one out of those two ladies, anyhow, and it only lacks a chapter or two of completion. Oh, I'll tell you what! I've got an inspiration—you shall finish the story for me."

"Men have no imagination. I'm a—"

"And next time I see you," she went on, regardless, "you shall tell me how it ends. There comes my Jack this minute. He doesn't look as if he missed me a bit!"

"When you've missed him so inconceivably! How are you, Chittenden? This poor wife of yours has missed you—"

"Jack, it's a fib. I haven't missed you a fraction, dear."

Later, when she went away, she said, remindingly: "It's a bargain, then?—about finishing the story, I mean."

And of course I accepted the task. It would give me something to do, and, besides, I hadn't got over my old habit of obeying Claire.

But it wasn't until the 11 o'clock was half-way to San Francisco that I remembered that Claire hadn't told me the beginning of the story. I must make my own beginning, then, as well as ending.

As chance would have it, on the very next afternoon an episode happened that helped me out a good deal. I had opportunity to do a trifling service for the elder of the two mysterious women, and after that the story-making was easy enough.

Mrs. Beebe was from the first such an assistance to me. Indeed, she very nearly took the entire task into her own hands or on the tip of her own loquacious tongue.

Mrs. Beebe was the older woman's name—Mrs. Joseph McIlvaine Beebe. Her daughter's name was old-fashioned and a little startling—Mary Ann. I don't know why it was, but from the beginning it pleased me that she did not shirk into "Marianne," or slip an "ie" into the y's place and add an "e" to the name. I liked the old, ugly name. My mother's name was Mary Ann.

"It's for her grandmother, you know," Mrs. Beebe explained to me, "on her father's side. She left Mar' Ann all her money, and Mar' Ann will stick to the name just as it is. Horrible, isn't it? But I slide over it as fast as I can, and that helps out a little bit. Poor Mar' Ann!"

Mrs. Beebe invariably said "poor Mar' Ann" to close her remarks. And she always drew along, quavery breath and wiped her eyes.

The daughter I came to know very slowly indeed. She was very quiet and followed her mother about with a gentle persistence that surprised me, that is, until Mrs. Beebe enlightened me.

"It's a part of her—trouble," she said, mournfully. How well I grew to know that little dash of hesitancy before poor Mar' Ann's "trouble."

"It's the way it affects her. She can't bear to have me out of her sight an instant. She follows me about and clings to me so. It's very wearing, but I try to endure it—poor Mar' Ann!"

"Poor Mar' Ann!" I echoed, inwardly, glancing over at her as she sat a little apart from us. Her sweet, sad face was turned away, and her eyes, looking listlessly ahead, seemed to see nothing at all. There was very little to see at Dunlop's, anyway.

Mrs. Beebe's plaintive voice ran on in my ear uninterruptedly and unheeded, for I was looking at Mar' Ann. I was noticing the soft, clear tint of her face and how her fingers had a way of twining and untwining almost constantly. "Another sign of her—trouble," I thought, pityingly.

Why did not her mother lower her voice? Surely it hurt the poor girl to sit there and listen, listen, unless—but I refused to finish out that thought.

It was impossible. I could not look at her delicate, sensitive face and make myself believe the trouble could mean that. The mind behind that face must be sensitive, sane, alert. A sudden fierce championship of Mar' Ann leaped into being. "Poor Mar' Ann!"

"Hush," I murmured, "she will hear you. It will hurt her."

The delicate color in the girl's face, I was sure, flamed up for an instant. But her mother laughed at my warning.

"Oh, you needn't worry about that," she said, her voice still unsoftened. "Mar' Ann never notices a word I say. She doesn't hear. She's perfectly satisfied just to have me close to her. That's why I don't feel as if I could shut her up away from me—in an asylum, you know."

"Mother!"

I started—the voice was so sweet and pleading.

"I want to go back now, mother," Mar' Ann said, gently.

But when they had gone a few steps Mrs. Beebe slipped back to me and prodded my arm sharply with her finger. Her face was quite excited and set.

"I—I don't know but I shall do it, though—soon," she said, in my ear. "I don't know but I'll have to. It's so wearing, you know—not being able to get away a minute alone. I guess she'll drive me to it—poor Mar' Ann!"

Then they went back to the hotel together. I sat there still, thinking of Mar' Ann all the afternoon—of Claire not at all. Somehow I was getting on famously at forgetting Claire. Dunlop's was just the place. I was even forgetting that it was Claire's story I was interpreting and not my own. If I had occasional conscience twinges and natural hesitancy at letting Mar' Ann's garrulous old mother let me into the sacredness of Mar' Ann's trouble, as she did, it was really of little avail in the end. For a day or two I tried to keep her at bay, but it was almost necessary to be rude to do it. She haunted me with her plaintive stories that ran on and on tirelessly.

She would talk to me, and it was always of Mar' Ann. Moreover, I convinced myself, when I thought of Claire at all, that I owed it to my promise to her to take honest advantage of all my opportunities. If it had seemed to annoy Mar' Ann—but Mar' Ann never appeared to notice me at all.

And so the days—and the story—went along. I thought I could hardly be better acquainted with two strange women than I grew in those days to be with Mrs. Beebe and her poor daughter. And if the pity in my heart for gentle Mar' Ann grew, as pity will, to love, no one was wiser in the least.

The day before I left Dunlop's something happened. I was going through the hall, by the Beebe's door, to my room. A sudden piteous cry coming, muffled, through the panels, woke me out of my thoughts—Mar' Ann's cry. Mar' Ann's hands were shaking the door.

"Let me out! Oh, for pity's sake open the door and let me out!" she pleaded. "I must get out! I must find mother! Mother—she has gone away! She looked me in! Oh, let me out, for the love of God!"

My heart leaped at the anguish in the sweet voice. I would let her out, anyway—nothing could have held me back. One of the keys on my bunch fitted, and I turned it quickly. Mar' Ann came out with a little leap and hurried away.

"Come," she called back to me, help me to find her. Oh, we must find her soon or I cannot bear it! Mother! Mother!"

I could hardly keep up with her swift steps. I could not bear to look at the pain in her white, frightened face.

We went toward the water. It was Mar' Ann's idea. When we found Mrs. Beebe she was standing on the edge of the little lake. The poise of her figure had nothing terrifying in it for me then—not until years afterward. But Mar' Ann sprang forward with a clear, piercing cry and caught her mother in her arms.

"Mother! Mother, I have found you! You will never leave me again? Say you will never leave me again, dear!"

That evening Mrs. Beebe volunteered to explain the exciting little episode to me, though against my will. She had quite recovered her customary calmness of manner and was inclined to feel grieved with Mar' Ann. Poor Mar' Ann! Her lips still quivered with excitement, and the frightened look was still in her eyes. I could hardly bear it.

"It's very wearing," her mother said. "You can see yourself how it is. I can't get away a minute for even a little walk alone. She follows me—through the key-hole I should think!"

Her shrill laugh made me angry in a helpless, dull way.

"I looked her in myself, and I did think I could have a minute's peace by myself," she lamented on, "but it's no use. There's only one way, and she'll drive me to that pretty soon."

I went away from Dunlop's the next day.

It was three years before I saw Claire again. Then I was married, too.

"You don't say so!" Claire cried, with a great pretence of dismay. "Well, you're like all the rest of the men—ugh!"

We had met in the city park, and she sat down on one of the benches and motioned me down beside her.

"Oh, she can wait," she said, calmly. "You're to tell me the end of the story, you know."

"The story?" I queried, though I knew very well what she meant. I could remember things as well as Claire.

"Of course. How did it end? Just as I knew it would, I suppose. The daughter, poor thing, got worse. Now, I just wonder if you ever saw them again? Did you?"

"I saw the daughter again."

"Oh, the daughter! Well, go on."

I flicked the crisp grass-stalks with my cane, thinking of the wet, dreary day I met Mar' Ann and the little, quick flash of pleasure in her eyes. How her sweet face had changed the day to a radiant one for me.

"Well, are you going on? If not, I am."

Claire's voice jarred me back to the present.

"Oh, yes, certainly," I apologized.

"What shall I say?"

"Say it all, of course. What stupide me! Tell me where you met her, when, how—everything. It was my story, and I want to know the end of it."

"No, I think it was my story," I said, gently, "but you shall know the end. I met her one day in the rain, almost three years after."

"Alone? No, of course not. Her mother wouldn't have left her alone a minute."

"Her mother was dead."

I watched Claire curiously.

"Her mother died in the asylum, you know. Mar' A—she told me about it. She said the poor woman got beyond her watching and care, and there was no other way. It wasn't safe to let her be unrestrained that way, with nobody but Mar'—with nobody but her daughter to take care of her. They were afraid she would—well, take her own life. She got very near it once. So she died in the asylum—poor woman! It almost broke her daughter's heart."

Neither of us spoke for a minute or two, then Claire drew in her breath with a little whistle of surprise and said, slowly:

"Well, whoever would have thought that was the end of the story?"

"It wasn't," I said, quietly. Then I fell to clipping off timothy heads again and remembering Mar' Ann and Mar' Ann's shy, gentle ways and the little, startled, happy look that came into her face when—but Claire was talking again.

"You fell in love with her—so that was the end?" she was saying.

"Well?"

"Well, of course, I might have known it would be. I hope you don't think that end surprised me, sir. It was the other one—the poor crazy mother. I hardly know how to believe it yet. Confess, now, you thought, too, it was the daughter instead. Say you did."

"I did."

"Of course you did. How could the daughter let people think so all that time? How could she?"

"We couldn't, you or I, Claire," I said, "but she could. It was to shield her mother—I suppose you would call it just love, that's all. There's something somewhere in the Bible a little like it."

I got up then in undisguised hurry to go on.

If there was genuine emotion in Claire's vivacious face as I looked down into it—was there?—she shook it off instantly. She poked me with her parasol and cried, banteringly:

"Well, sir, I hope you've confessed it all to your wife, like a good boy."

"Bless you," I said, gaily, "I confessed in the same breath I proposed to her—when I met her in the rain, you know."—Woman's Home Companion.

STURGEONS IN COMMERCE.

Some of the Points of Singularity About the Fish.

A sturgeon is naturally an inhabitant of the large rivers and brackish water of the north temperate zone, more particularly of Europe and America, says the San Francisco Chronicle. The Sacramento, the San Joaquin, Russian River and the Columbia on the west and the Hudson and Delaware on the east are very favorable to its production in great quantities.

The importance of the fishery to San Francisco is shown by the amount brought into the market, in the first three months of last year, being 79,761 pounds.

This interesting and curious fish has many points of singularity. Its armed exterior skeleton seems to point to its being one of the few descendants of the ganoid or armor-plated fishes of the prehistoric ages. The position of the mouth is much the same as in the shark family, but its form and function is rather that of the remora, or sucker family. The flesh, too, is remarkable as being reddish and yellow and part white. English fishermen call it "beef and veal." In that country it is usually cooked by baking with a stuffing of fine herbs.

There are several varieties of the sturgeon family, the sturgeon proper (acipenser sturio), the beluga and the sterlet being the principal, the two latter kinds belonging to the Russian waters.

Some twenty-five years ago there were millions of sturgeons in San Francisco bay and tributary waters, principally in the mouths of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers, where they lay on the muddy bottom feeding on clams and bottom fishes. The Chinese, who have an inordinate fondness for gelatinous substances, such as isinglass, sea swallow nests, trepang, etc., imported from China a very deadly hook for capturing the sturgeon, which they caught solely for the marrow in its peculiar backbone. They stripped out the backbone and threw away the rest. Some of the backbones were sent to China, where isinglass is made from them and also a highly tenacious glue. The principal use, however, is for making gelatinous soup.

GEORGE DEAD.

The Noted Single-Taxer Passes Suddenly Away.

BRIEF SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

At the Time of His Death He was Candidate for Mayor of Greater New York on the United Democracy Ticket—His Son's Name Substituted for Mayor.

Henry George, the candidate of the Jeffersonian democracy for mayor of Greater New York, died Friday. His death is thought to have been due to apoplexy.

Mr. George had just returned to the Union Square Hotel from several large mass meetings in the Borough of Queens and Brooklyn.

The work of the night seemed to have told on him. He complained of being tired, but his friends and relatives, who awaited him, thought it was only the natural fatigue due that follows such hard campaign work as Mr. George had been doing. Not long after reaching the hotel he retired. It was about 3:30 o'clock when Mrs. George was awakened. She found Mr. George sitting in an arm chair.

Mrs. George at once grew anxious as to her husband's condition. Mr. George gradually grew incoherent and lapsed into unconsciousness.

A call was sent to a physician, and he came without delay. Mr. George was still unconscious. All efforts to revive him failed. Without a sign of recognition to those around him he passed peacefully away at 4:45 o'clock.

SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

Henry George, political economist, was born in Philadelphia September 2, 1839. He attended the public schools until 14 years old, learned the printer's trade, went to sea, and settled in California in 1858. He worked at his trade in a newspaper office until 1866, then changed to a reporter, rose to be editor, and became part proprietor. While editor of the Sacramento Reporter he was in harmony with the democratic party, but bitterly opposed to the railroad and other monopolies of the state.

Shortly afterward he entered upon literary work, his first publication, on land-ownership, was Our Land and Land Policy. The attention which this attracted led him to a very detailed and laborious investigation into the causes of industrial depressions and the increase of want with the increase of wealth. In 1879 he published the results of his investigations under the title of Progress and Poverty, and in August, 1880, removed to New York. His books gained an immediate and wide reputation, and within a few weeks after his arrival in New York he was in receipt of requests from all parts of the country to give public expositions of his theories. He then went to Ireland to study the land question. While abroad he lectured throughout England, Scotland and Ireland. Returning to New York and resuming lecturing, his views were adopted by the United Labor party, which made him its candidate for mayor of the city in 1886. He received 68,110 votes against 90,552 for Abram S. Hewitt, democrat, and 60,435 for Theodore Roosevelt, republican.

In 1887 he was nominated by the same party for secretary of state, but was defeated.

His sixth book, Protection or Free Trade, was published in 1886, and The Condition of Labor: An Open Letter to Pope Leo XIII., 1891.

At the time of his death Mr. George was a candidate for mayor of New York, having received the nominations of the silver Democrats, Populites, single taxers and several other factions. All of these nominations he accepted and he was engaged in the campaign when his demise occurred.

The Thomas Jefferson democracy Friday afternoon substituted the name of Henry George, Jr., for the name of his father, Henry George, deceased, as a candidate for mayor of Greater New York.

Andree's Balloon.

Dispatches received from Vardoe, an island in the Arctic ocean off Finmark, which, with Vardoehus, is the most northern point in Northern Europe, say the public there is fully convinced of the truth of the report that a whaling ship sighted Professor Andree's balloon floating on September 23 near Prince Charles promontory, Spitzbergen.

Dr. Otto Nordenskiold, the well-known Arctic explorer, will superintend an Arctic exploration at the joint expense of Norway and Sweden to see whether any trace of Prof. Andree's balloon can be found.

MUST TAKE WHAT'S LEFT.

Southern Looms Are Destined to Make the Cotton Goods.

At Thursday's session of the New England Cotton Manufacturers' Association, held in Philadelphia, a large number of technical papers were read. One of the most important papers was by Arthur Parkinson, of Providence, R. I., on the "Manufacture and Export of Cotton Goods," during which he said:

"It is well known that Southern manufacturers, with the present conditions, can undersell or compete easily with the Eastern mills on medium and coarse fabrics and the future looks dark for New England. The facilities of manufacturers have been so increased that in many lines of goods the existing manufacturing establishments can produce a vast amount more than the United States can consume, and it seems likely each year will cause stagnation for the industry, and, of course, the usual stoppages of the mills during certain periods. As a result of this continued competition in certain lines of goods for the home market, the prices are low, wages are low and tariff legislation cannot help matters for the merchant. The jobber is bound to buy in the cheapest market, and that means Southern looms will be engaged ahead and the New England mills must take what is left."

PULLMAN'S WILL PROBATED.

Two Sons Get But a Small Share—Charitable Institutions are Remembered.

The will of George M. Pullman was filed for probate last Thursday. To his widow he left the homestead on Prairie avenue. Sufficient funds are also set aside to provide her with an income of $50,000 yearly during her life. One million dollars each is left in trust for his two daughters, Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, of Chicago, and Mrs. Carolan, of San Francisco. An income of but $3,000 yearly is provided for his two sons, George M. Jr. and Sanger W.

About $150,000 in sums of $10,000 and $20,000 is left to various charitable institutions in Chicago. A sum of $200,000 is given for the erection of a manual training school in Pullman, which is also endowed with $1,200,000. Five old employees are given $5,000 each. Two sisters and two brothers of the dead millionaire are given $50,000 each and another brother gets $25,000.

The total value of the estate is shown by the petition for letters testamentary $7,600,000. Of this amount $8,800,000 is personal property and $800,000 realty.

How They Stand in Georgia.

According to the report of Judge Turner, principal keeper of the Georgia state penitentiary, there are a goodly number of farmers in the state prison, but only two newspaper men—one reporter and one printer. There are 975 laborers and 863 farmers in the penitentiary. Of the other occupations, none are represented by over 100. Carpenters come next, with 28, and brickmasons next, with 27. There are 24 painters and 21 cooks, 18 sailors and 15 coachmen. Eleven merchants are doing penal service, but the prison walls enclose but 2 newspaper men—one reporter and 1 printer—while the school teachers show up with 5 convicts, and, strange to say, the preachers are represented by 2 zebra-striped workers. There are 58 women in the penitentiary.

Mississippi Isolated.

Mississippi has struck the final blow against railroad transportation in that state so long as the yellow fever epidemic continues. Not only is it maintaining strict quarantine against adjoining states, but her own citizens are now prevented from traveling from one town to another. Half a dozen railroads entering the state of Mississippi through Alabama were practically compelled to discontinue the running of trains of any kind.

Mysterious Rain Falling.

The people of Macon, Ga., are all stirred up over the mysterious falling of rain from a clear sky, which has been in progress for several days. The rain falls only over Rose Hill cemetery. Thousands of people visit that locality daily, but no one can account for the phenomenon.

A Wonderful Operation.

Dr. Garey, of Mexico City, has performed an operation, declared to be without a parallel, having successfully operated on and saved the life of a man who had received a knife wound in the upper right hand side of the neck, cutting into the carotid artery. The patient lost three litres of blood and was in an exhausted condition. The artery was tied and the doctor, waiting an opportune moment when the anæsthetic containing a small quantity of blood, removed the coagulated blood and succeeded finally in stopping the hemorrhage. The patient in fifteen days has been pronounced cured and is strong and active.

DEATH OF HENRY GEORGE.

Henry George, author of Progress and Poverty, and candidate of the party styling itself the Thomas Jefferson Democracy for Mayor of New York, died at 5:45 o'clock on Friday morning last at the Union Square Hotel of cerebral apoplexy. In his great Cooper Union speech accepting the nomination for Mayor less than a month ago, he said: "I'll make this race if it costs me my life. This is a call to duty, and as a good citizen I have no right to disregard it on account of mere personal consideration." True to his word he died as he wished to die—in harness fighting for his cause—toward the close of the greatest municipal political contest the world has ever seen. He made several speeches to immense audiences the night before he died and arrived at his hotel about 1 o'clock. The organization of which he was a candidate nominated his son Henry George, Jr., as his successor.

QUARANTINE RAISED.

Governor Johnston has lifted the State quarantine from North Alabama, Calera being the dividing line. This opens all the northern half of the State to mail, passenger and freight service with Montgomery, Mobile, New Orleans and all infected places. It does not however, prevent any place from establishing a local quarantine that desires so to do.

If the armor plate plant is built in the South it will employ a force permanently that will bring large amounts of money, and will revive business in this district. It will give the South a large slice of the government appropriations made by each congress. It will consume an increased amount of mine and agricultural products, and help the South financially in more ways than one.

Train records show that the railroads brought 49,306 people to Nashville for the celebration of Thomas day at the Centennial Exposition. There was not room in Nashville for all to sleep. The Exposition closed last Saturday.

The report of the Director of the United States Mint states that this country last year coined over a third of the total coinage of gold in the world.

RICH VEIN OF GOLD IN CLEBURNE Anniston Hot Blast.

Messrs A. B. Hilton and G. Riley, who have been prospecting in the gold fields of Cleburne, made a rich find a few days since some two miles from Chulafune, which is only six, teen miles from Anniston.

They were working up a branch looking up an old mine when they found good signs of gold and, in- tigating further, discovered a very rich vein. They took out about 30 pounds of quartz and brought two pieces of it weighing a pound in to the city with them. This pound of quartz contained over $60 worth of gold, the yellow metal showing in almost pure layers.

No finer specimens have ever been seen here and Mr Riley, who has spent his life in gold fields of North Georgia and the West, says he never saw anything richer. The find is on the Higginbotham & Striplin prop- erty.

A Splendid Record.

Despite the drouth, political agita- tion, yellow fever and nearly all the other ills that could afflict such an enter-prise, the Tennessee Centennial Ex- position was attended, during the six months the gates were open, by more than a million and a half visitors, and is prepared to discharge in cash all its financial obligations. It is a record in which our sister State may well take a large measure of pride.—Louisville Times.

TUESDAY'S ELECTION.

IT IS VanWYCK!

TAMMANY VICTORIOUS

PARKER CARRIES N. Y.

Former Republican Victoreis in the Empire State Reversed.

KENTUCKY RECLAIMED—OHIO STILL IN DOUBT.

VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND STILL IN LINE

New York, Nov. 3.—The result of the municipal election in Greater New York reverses the conditions of 1896. Van Wyck's plurality is about 85,000, and his entire ticket is elected with majorities from 70,000 to 160,000.

Collier's plurality over Fitch, republican, for Comptroller is over 100,000.

Parker, democrat for Judge of State Court of Appeals, carried Greater New York by 106,000 and his total plurality over Wallace, republican, below Bronx river, will not be less than 108,000, insuring his election and democratic success in the state.

The unofficial vote for Mayor of the city is as follows: VanWyck 235,180, Low 149873. Tracy 101,386, George 20,386, Gleason 521. The metropolitan district is normally democratic, and the plurality of VanWyck is a return to normal conditions in elections not influenced by national issues.

IN NEW YORK STATE.

Albany, Nov. 3.—Complete returns from the state demonstrate that the republican landslides of the past two years have been reversed, if not by as large majorities for democrats, at least changing something like 240,000.

OHIO IN DOUBT--MAY REQUIRE OFFICIAL COUNT TO DECIDE.

Columbus, Nov. 3.—The result of the election is still in doubt. With more complete returns today than were returnable last night. It is evident that it will require the official count to satisfy the contestants. The closeness of the vote has caused an intense feeling and usual cry of fraud.

State headquarters will be kept open all the week or till the official counts are made in all the 88 counties of the state. Both republicans and democrats are claiming the state.

Hanna's Chances Very Slim.

Columbus, Nov. 3.—A. O. Meyers, at the democratic head quarters, says not one fusionist assemblyman from Cincinnati will vote for Hanna for Senator.

A republican says two republican representatives elected will not vote for Hanna. He can be elected without them, if the republicans have 74 on joint ballot as is now claimed. But this is doubtful.

KENTUCKY.

Louisville, Nov. 3.—The chairman of the republican committee concedes the defeat of Mayor Todd, republican, by Weaver, democrat, but claims gross frauds were perpetrated in reaching this end. Some wards which were expected to be strongly republican, Todd did not poll half of the vote.

Kentucky wheels into democratic column by a majority of 25,00 to 30,000 majority, electing Samuel J. Shackelford, silver democrat nominee for Appellate Court Clerk. The silver democrats will have a majority of over twenty in the two houses of the general assembly.

VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND.

Richmond, Nov. 3.—Light vote all over the state. Less interest manifested by the republicans than by the democrats. The democrats majority for the state ticket is very large. The democrats will have two thirds of the legislature.

Returns from the state indicate that the democrats will have 60 and the republicans will have 57 on joint ballot, which insures the election of Mr. Gorman to United States Senate.

THE OTHER STATES.

New Jersey only voted for state senators, electing 14 republicans and 7 democrats.

Massachusetts elected a republican governor by a decreased majority.

Pennsylvania, as everybody expected has gone republican, the vote being light and the majorities reduced.

The election in Nebraska resulted in the election of the democrat-popu- lite fusion ticket by about 12,000.

The latest returns from Colorado indicate the election of the republican tickets, only cities and towns electing municipal officers,

BIRMINGHAM'S ADVANTAGES.

Nashville American;

A pamphlet prepared by Hon. Oscar W. Underwood, Congressman from the Birmingham district, shows the advantages Birmingham possesses for the location of a Government armor plate factory. In a letter to Hon. John Wesley Gaines, of this city, accompanying one of these pamphlets, Mr. Underwood says: "There are twenty-five blast furnaces in this county, and the distaace they are required to transport the raw material to the furnaces varies at the different furnaces as follows: Iron ore, from two to fifteen miles; coke or coal, from one-quarter of a mile to twelve miles; limestone, from six to twenty miles. By reason of the very cheap cost of assembling the raw material at the furnaces, this district is making pig iron at the lowest cost of any place in the world. We have one steel plant in active operation, with a capacity of 160 tons per day, and the steel now being made in Birmingham is of a quality equal to the best, and identical in composition to that furnished the Government in armor plates for our vessels. The Carnegie Company has purchased large quantities of our pig iron, as much as 25,000 tons in one order; it has been used in the manufacture of steel, and some of it being used in the manufacture of armor plates. There is no part of the United States where armor plates can be manufactured at as low a cost to the Government. We are 258 miles from the seacoast, and located in the mountains, where there would be no danger from an attack in time of war, and the recent improvements on the Warrior River, when completed, will give us water transportation to the sea at Mobile."

He had been troubled with piles for more than thirty years and had used many different kinds of so-called cures; but DeWitt's was the one that did the work and he will verify this statement if any one wishes to write him.—Dial Bros.

The first semi-monthly entertainment of the Calera High School was given on Friday evening last, and all who attended had a very agreeable and pleasant evening indeed. Where all did so well and with so much credit to themselves and teachers, we refrain from mentioning any personally, but are requested to say that the Southland should have reported Miss Cattie Pilgreen instead of Miss Givhan as one of the readers.

Rain began to fall on Sunday morning and continued slowly till after night fall and during the night heavy showers were frequent, and on till 10 o'clock Monday, when the wind changed from Southeast to Northwest. On Monday night and Tuesday, at intervals, it rained, but cleared up on Tuesday night and Wednesday morning we were visited by the heaviest frost—and thin ice—since last Spring, and at this writing—Wednesday afternoon—we are threatened with a still heavier one for this morning.

The three year old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place; and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by Dial Bros.

MONTHLY SCHOOL REPORT.

Calera, Ala., Oct. 20th, 1897.
To President and Members Board of Trustees of Calera Public School.

GENTLEMEN: In accordance with rule 7, page 9, of High School Catalogue, we beg to make the following report of Calera High School for the first month, ending Oct. 20th, 1897:

	Male	Female	Total
Enrollment	62	52	114
Av. Daily Attd.	45	47	92
Av. per cent. Attd.	72	90	81

As was announced, the school opened with eighty-seven, and the fact that the remaining twenty-seven entered at irregular intervals, accounts for this month's seemingly small average. It is safe to say that the ensuing month will show up a very creditable daily attendance.

There has been, from the beginning, practically no friction in our work, and we have no case of insubordination or wilful disobedience to report.

The Principal desires to express his appreciation of the zealous co-operation of his Assistants with regard to discipline as well as to other matters pertaining to the successful progress of the school.

Were the rules on pages 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 of the catalogue read by the patrons there would be cause for complaint at the failure on the part of parents to send in written excuses for continued absence or tardiness on the part of their children. Often we are put to great inconvenience to ascertain whether the pupil has had a valid excuse for absence or tardiness or not.

We wish to urge upon the patrons that strict observance of these rules is necessary to maintain the system to be secured for the best interest of the pupil, as well as for the best interest of the school.

If any have not catalogues, they can be had by notifying the Principal or calling at the Sentinel office.

We would be further assisted if some merchant would keep in stock at least such books and material as are used in the Calera High School, and we hope that through your assistance, some one will be induced to add that much to the convenience of the school at once.

Thanking the Board for its kind and ready responses to the needs of the school; and also friends and patrons for their kind words, I am yours very respectfully,
C. C. STATION,
Principal.

Death of Miss Bessie Oden.

Died, in Prattville, Ala., on Saturday evening the 30th ult., of yellow fever, Miss Bessie Oden, of Childersburg. Miss Oden was the music teacher in the Prattville Male and Female Academy, and was a young lady of lovely character. Attractive in person and charming in disposition she made friends with all. She passed through this place about six weeks ago in the full flush of health and maidenly beauty. None who saw her then dreamed that the death angel would so soon claim her as his own. She was a daughter of the late Mr. Joshua Oden, and Mrs. Laura Oden, of Childersburg. She leaves many relatives and friends to mourn her early death. The Sentinel extends sympathy to the sorrowing mother and other relatives.

Yellow Fever Germs

breed in the bowels. Kill them and you are safe from the awful disease. Cascariets destroy the germs throughout the system and make it impossible for new ones to form. Cascariets are the only reliable safe-guard for young and old against Yellow Jack. 10c, 25c, 50c, all druggists.

A Card of Thanks.

Through the columns of the Sentinel we desire to thank the people of Calera for the many kindnesses shown us during the recent illness and death of our mother. Mr. & Mrs. F. M. VANCE.

Died, at her home in Anniston on Sunday morning, Mrs. J. C. Kieth. The Hot Blast in its announcement of Mrs. Kieth's death says: "Mrs. Kieth was a pure, noble, Christian woman, and it can be truly said that the world has been made better by her life. Her life has been largely one of sacrifice to what she conceived to be her duty and loved ones. Before her marriage there was no sacrifice too great for her to make to discharge a duty to parents or church, and after her marriage she was a loving and faithful wife and mother. She leaves a bereaved husband and three children."

Mrs. Kieth was a daughter of Judge and Mrs. J. W. Lapsley and cousin of Mrs. G. B. Dean, and at one time resided, with her parents, in this county where the family still have relatives and many acquaintances.

Estimates show that the gold production of the present year will be the largest by far in the history of the world.

Gen James Longstreet, of Ga., the famous Confederate General, was on last Friday appointed Commissioner of Railroads by President McKinley to succeed Gen'l. Wade Hampton, resigned.

The Anniston Hot Blast of the 31st ult. says: "Yesterday was pay day with the Illinois Car and Equipment company, the Anniston Pipe Foundry company, the Anniston Manufacturing company and several other industries and considerable money was turned into the trade channels."

When Mr. Bryan passed through Ohio recently did he recall his trip there of a year ago when he predicted dire results if the the people of the country should reject the free coinage of silver? The people of the country, as will be seen from a glance at the election returns of last November, did reject the free coinage of silver as well as Mr. Bryan, and yet this year that gentleman finds much greater prosperity in the State than existed a year ago.

The largest cast iron pipe ever moulded, was made in Bessemer on last Saturday. Its dimensions are given in the Sunday Age-Herald as follows: "72 inches in diameter, inside measurement; 12 ft. six in. long, and 2 in. thick and weighed 20,900 pound—made for the New Orleans and Northeastern railway, to be used as a culvert under the track." The company that made this mammoth piece of piping ship pipe to all parts of the world. The firm employs 565 men and the plant covers sixty-eight acres of ground and turn out 300 tons of pipe daily, shipping it to Japan, England, France, all parts of the United States, and may before a great while sell in South America. This pipe company—Howard-Harrison—immense as it now is, has been but a little over six years old, and is a striking illustration of what can be accomplished in the iron district of Alabama.

GROVER A HAPPY MAN.
Son and Heir is Born to Ex-President Cleveland at Princeton.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 28.—A son was born to the household of Grover Cleveland, the former President of the United States, at 12 o'clock today.

It is said that the new-comer resembles his parents in point of good health but neither Mr. Cleveland nor the three family physicians will say anything in regard to the new-comer other than he is getting along nicely and is a fine boy.

All afternoon Mr. Cleveland has received at his home the many callers who wished to pay their respects to him in honor of the occasion. A great many telegrams of congratulation were received. Among the first to proffer congratulations by wire were Joseph Jefferson and former Secretary Carlisle.

Princeton undergraduates have taken a great interest in the new Princetonian. The fact that a Cleveland heir was born was announced during the varsity practice this afternoon. There was a large gathering of undergraduates on the field watching the varsity and scrub teams practice. When the announcement was made three Princeton cheers were given for the boy, three for the mother and three for the father. On the college bulletin board in front of Remmon Hall was posted this notice:

"Grover Cleveland, Jr., arrived at 12 o'clock and will enter Princeton with the class of 1916 and will play center rush on the championship football teams of '16, '17, '18 and '19."

The new baby's sisters are Ruth, Esther and Marion, whose ages are 7, 5 and 3 years.

WOMEN IN COTTON MILLS.
Birmingham Age-Herald
The Chattanooga Times urges the erection of a cotton mill in its city, partly because it would afford employment to women and girls who are unemployed. Two hundred operatives who earn $5 a week means $1,000 a week in the trade of a town. It also means much comfort and independence and right thinking instead of privation and dependence and bitterness. When two hundred women have accounts in savings banks, or money for such purchases as they may wish to make, instead of being dependents upon the earnings of other people, a social revolution goes on in a quiet, healthy way, and the entire community is benefited.

In this respect a cotton mill differs from a furnace or other factory in which the work is beyond the strength or endurance of woman. Much of the work in a cotton mill is of as light a nature as domestic employment, some of it even lighter; and it is to the cotton mill that many women who need employment look. A cotton mill thus becomes a social factor in a town, as well as a moral and physical benefit. The truth is a cotton mill is a good thing, however you look at it, and there are needed not one only, but several additional ones in this section of the country. Have we not some enterprising citizen who will start a movement that will result in the employment of two hundred women and girls? Consider the comforts that such a mill would bring to deserving people, while at the same time it was bringing additional comforts to its stockholders; for no well managed mill can fail to earn dividends where steam coal is worth less than a dollar a ton.

THANKSGIVING DAY.
First Proclamation Issued By President McKinley.

Washington, Oct. 29.—President McKinley today issued his first Thanksgiving Day proclamation as follows: "In remembrance of God's goodness to us during the past year, which has been so abundant, let us offer to Him our thanksgiving and pay our vows unto the most high." Under His watchful providence industry has prospered, the conditions of labor have been improved, the rewards of the husbandman have been increased and the comforts of our home multiplied. His mighty hand has preserved peace and protected the nation. Respect for law and order has been strengthened, love of free institutions cherished and all sections of our beloved country brought into closer bonds of fraternal regard and generous co-operation. For these great benefits it is our duty to praise the Lord in a spirit of humility and gratitude and to offer up to Him our most earnest supplications. That we may acknowledge our obligations as a people to him who has so graciously granted us the blessings of free government and material prosperity, I, William McKinley, President of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the 25th day of November, for National Thanksgiving and prayer, which all of the people are invited to observe with appropriate religious services in their respective places of worship. On this day of rejoicing and domestic reunion let our prayers ascend to the giver of every good and perfect gift for the continuance of His love and favor to us, that our hearts may be filled with clarity and good will and that we may be ever worthy of His beneficent concern. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the City of Washington, this 29th day of October, in the year of Our Lord, 1897, and of the Independence of the United States the 122d. By the President, WILLIAM McKINLEY.
JOHN SHERMAN, Secretary of State.

"The worst cold I ever had in my life was cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes W. H. Norton of Sutter Creek, Cal. "This cold left me with a cough and I was expectorating all the time. The Remedy cured me, and I want all of my friends when troubled with a cough or cold to use it, for it will do them good." Sold by Dial Bros.

Death of a Mother in Israel.
Died, at the residence of her son, Mr. F. M. Vance, in this city, on Tuesday morning the 2nd inst., at half-past eleven o'clock, Mrs. Mary A. Vance, aged 89 years. The deceased was a native of Edgefield District, South Carolina where she was born on the 20th of August, 1808. She was united in marriage with Mr. Joseph Vance in South Carolina in 1834, whom she survived a long number of years. One son, Mr. F. M. Vance, of this city, who survives her, was the only fruit of the marriage. She united with the Methodist church about fifty-four years ago and was a consistent member and communicant of this church up to the day of her death. She was no doubt the oldest communicant of this church in this circuit and perhaps in this section of the state. She moved to Alabama about sixty years ago and has resided in this state, the greater portion of the time in Dallas county, ever since. She came to this place about fifteen years ago where she has resided with her son continuously since. She was in many respects a most remarkable woman, of strong and vigorous nature physically and mentally, and she retained in a wonderful degree her mental faculties unimpaired up to her decease. Her life was a long and useful one, but her work here is done, her labors ended and she has gone to her reward. The funeral services took place at the Methodist church on yesterday afternoon, conducted by Rev. C. L. Herring assisted by Rev. J. P. Word, after which the remains were laid to rest in the city cemetery, a large concourse of relatives and friends attending to pay the last tribute of love and respect.

School was suspended Wednesday and Thursday of this week, in order to complete arrangements for heating the school rooms. This intermission was a source of regret to both pupils and teachers. But every effort was made to take such advantage of the same, that there might be no future break in the work. There will be in all five heaters. Prof. Slaton personally supervised the work and he certainly sought to secure the comfort of his pupils.

J. M. Thirswend, of Grosbeck, Tex., says that when he has a spell of indigestion, and feels bad and sluggish, he takes two of DeWitt's Little Early Risers at night, and he is all right the next morning. Many thousands of others do the same thing. Do you?—Dial Bros.

It now looks like a constitutional convention or no convention will be the main issue in the next campaign in this state.

The three year old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place; and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by Dial Bros.

Hottest Place on Earth.
Three or four districts claim the unenviable distinction of being the hottest place on earth. They are all either situated in deserts or in localities where desert winds are prevalent during a portion of the year. The cities on the Red Sea, both to the east and west of that body of water, are subject to very high temperatures in summer. At Mas-sowah, when the southwest wind blows, traversing as it does 1,000 miles of arid sand, the heat becomes unendurable, the thermometer during the daytime frequently rising to a point between 180 and 145, and in the sun going to 170. The wind bears with it clouds of sand and dust from the Sahara, rendering it dangerous to be in the open air, and in spite of the heat the inhabitants are forced to shut themselves up in their houses, stopping every chink through which the wind and dust may enter. The Valley of the Euphrates is another place of high temperatures. At Bagdad the southwest monsoon occasionally sends the thermometer up to 115 or 120. The lower valley of the Ganges is intensely hot, the daily temperature during the summer season being from 105 to 112. The hottest places in the United States are the sandy valleys of Western Arizona, the temperature frequently rising to 110 or 115.

The McPherson (Kan.) Republic says: "The only excitement in town yesterday was the appearance on the public streets of a young man wearing white pants." That should be exciting enough for one day.

A Virtue and a Vice.
Vanity and a proper regard for the feeling of others should both urge you to get rid of that disgusting skin disease. Cure it so it will stay cured, too. 50 cents a box at drug stores, or by mail for 50 cents in cash or stamps from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

ALABAMA NEWS ITEMS.

Happenings of a Week Throughout Our Commonwealth.

Fever at Prattville.

There was one death from yellow fever at Prattville Saturday. There are no new cases.

Supreme Court Convenes This Week.

The supreme court of Alabama will convene in Montgomery November 6 despite the fact that yellow fever is prevalent in that city.

Along in the World.

Centerville citizens served notice to the postmistress there not to receive the mail from the horseback carrier, who brings it from Randolph, on the Selma branch of the Southern railway, and people of that town are hearing nothing from the outside world.

Senator Morgan Improving.

United States Senator John T. Morgan who is in San Diego, Cal., is slowly regaining his strength. He has been free from fever for over thirty-six hours, but must remain quiet for some days yet. His trouble is due to an injury to his knee which he received while in Hawaii.

To Operate Gold Mines.

The Alabama-King Mining company has been reorganized with a capital of $100,000 and headquarters in Atlanta. This company will mine for gold at Jackson's Gap, Tallapoosa county, where it owns the Bonner-Terrell properties, containing 200 acres. Three development shafts have been sunk and several open cuts have been made. Assays of the ore have run as high as $80 per ton.

Selma People Encouraged.

The yellow fever situation at Selma continues to improve. There have been no new cases for several days, and all fever patients have been discharged. There is not a serious case of sickness of any kind in the city. In fact, the health of the city was never better. Quarantine restrictions against all infected localities have been re-established. Dr. Mullins offers a reward of $1,000 for a trace of yellow fever in Selma, and says there has been none there since 1853.

Removing to Anniston.

The machinery of the United States Rolling Stock company's plant at Decatur is being moved to Anniston, where it will be combined with the company's plant there. It is claimed the removal will cost the company less, as they are under an ironclad contract with the Decatur Land company not to move any of the plant. An attempt was made some time ago to remove it, but it was stopped by injunction. Since then the company made a heavy bond and is now going head doing the thing they were enjoined not to do.

Harsh Words Produced Death.

Last week at Huntsville Bert Hubert noticed that his 3-year-old daughter and her grand-mother's snuff box and instructed her to put it away. A delay in executing his specific request angered the father, and giving away to is temper he scolded the child in a violent manner. From a playful and happy expression the child's face became livid with conflicting emotions; her eyes suddenly gave forth a meaningless stare, and it reeled to the floor senseless. Efforts at resuscitation were fruitless, and a physician was summoned, but the child died soon after his arrival.

Fatal Accident at Gate City.

An accident at the Alabama rolling mills at Gate City Thursday morning resulted in the death of Lindsey Dorkins and William Washington, both negroes. A big band wheel in the gauge mill burst while going at the rate of one hundred revolutions per minute, smashing another wheel nearby, tearing down rafters about the building and flinging heavy pieces of iron in all directions. One piece of the wheel, over 1,000 pounds in weight, was thrown into the yard where Lindsey Dorkins and Wm. Washington, two colored men, were loading iron and both men were caught by the heavy missile with the result above stated.

BRIEFLY NOTED.

John Goff, a negro miner, was murdered and robbed near Johns last week.

Dr. Charles Whelan, a prominent citizen of Birmingham, died of Bright's disease last Thursday.

John Johnson, a negro painter, fell from a scaffold in Birmingham Saturday and was instantly killed.

On a plantation two miles from Pickensville, Bill Taylor shot and killed Jim Clark. Both were negroes.

Tom Brown, the oldest colored man in North Alabama, died at Veto, or State Line. He was 101 years of age. He left in all, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, the large number of 357.

In an altercation between Bessie Thomas and Ella Barnes, both colored, at Birmingham last week, the latter picked up a lighted lamp and struck her antagonist with it, igniting Bessie Thomas' dress, which blazed up in a second and literally cooked the woman to death.

Hon. Augustus Barnes, one of the most brilliant members of the Alabama bar, and one of the leaders of the Bryan democracy in Alabama, died at Opelika Wednesday of typhoid fever, after an illness of seven days. Mr. Barnes was twice mayor of Opelika and once a prominent candidate for congress from that district.

At Bessemer while Ernest Chappell, an operator of the Western Union Telegraph company, was going home on his bicycle, he collided with Millard Harthan, who was also on a wheel, and both were seriously injured, Chappell perhaps fatally. The young men met in a dark street on the outskirts of the town, and came together at full speed.

Atlanta is flooded with 25 cent counterfeit pieces.

A Work of Art.

An evidence of genuine enterprise and liberality is shown by the publishers of the Youths' Companion, Boston, Mass., in giving all new subscribers to their publication an art calendar for 1898—a gem of beautiful color-work far in advance of anything of the kind previously produced. Also, a magnificent illustrated Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's double number of the magazine—each a prize—which will be preserved by thousands of art lovers. By sending a coupon out from the advertising columns of the local paper of this week or last week, and following its instructions, these artistic and valuable productions can be secured.

Carlist Leader in New York.

Count Henry De Penalosa, one of the leaders in Paris of the Carlist movement, was a passenger on the White Star liner Germanic, which arrived at New York from Liverpool Thursday. Count Penalosa is one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the pretensions of Don Carlos to the throne of Spain. While he would not admit it in words, the count gave a decided impression that his visit here has some connection with an attempt to be made in Don Carlos' interest.

Gov. Atkinson Condemns Lynching.

Mob law was severely condemned by Governor Atkinson in his message to the Georgia legislature in Atlanta the past week. He advocates stringent legislation against mobs and insists that the legislature pass a law laying every county wherein such a crime is committed subject to a large indemnity to the relatives of the mob's victim. The governor is in favor of arming the prisoners and allowing them to protect themselves from mobs.

Carnegie Grows Generous.

Andrew Carnegie says he has offered the Carnegie armor plate works to the United States government. If the offer is not accepted the firm will sell them abroad.

He says that he only took up the armor plate business from a sense of duty to his country, and that the works have never paid.

Reforms for Cuba.

The following reforms for Cuba, it is understood, have been formally passed upon and approved by the Spanish cabinet:

The Cuban chamber of deputies is to consist of between forty and fifty members, a deputy for each 40,000 inhabitants. The governor-general is to choose from this chamber five members to form an executive committee, consisting of a president and ministers of the interior, finance, justice and public works.

The governor-general of Cuba is to have the right to veto legislation.

Wants a Postponement.

Long cable messages have been received by United States Attorney General McKenna in the matter of the Union Pacific Railway sale on behalf of the Coates syndicate, making offers that meet the objections raised. The syndicate claims that its bid would produce $20,000,000 more to the government than any other bid, and urges that the sale be adjourned until Dec. 15, to enable congress to determine as to the advisability of the acceptance of bonds in part payment.

An Edison Success.

Thomas A. Edison has succeeded in recovering by electrical means the iron contained in low grade ore. The inventor's experiments have been carried on during the past six years at the old Ogden iron mines, a few miles from Dover, N. J. His process, in brief, consists in pulverizing the ore. The powder is then allowed to fall in close proximity to electro magnets, which deflects the iron to one side, and the non-metallic matter falls to the other side by gravity.

Saturday's Fever Record.

The yellow fever situation in the infected cities and towns shows very little change for the past few days. Following figures gives the new cases and deaths for Saturday: New Orleans, 35 new cases, 9 deaths; Mobile, 9 new cases, 2 deaths; Montgomery, 9 new cases, 1 death; Biloxi, 6 new cases, no deaths; Memphis, 5 new cases, 1 death; Nitta Youma, 2 new cases, no deaths; Clinton, 2 new cases, no deaths; Selma, 1 new case, no deaths; Edwards, 1 new case, no deaths; Prattville, no new cases, 1 death. Total, 71 new cases, 14 deaths.

Gustave Behring has put in an appearance at Chicago. He claims that he is a son of the late George M. Pullman and wants his share of the estate.

The Paris Eclair publishes a remarkable article to the effect that three French missions are now on their way to Khartoum by forced marches, as a result of an understanding with the Mahdi, reached in 1896, by which France recognizes the Sudan as independent state under the suzerainty of the Sultan of Turkey, in return for certain concessions.

AMERICAN MUSICAL PRODIGY.

Miss Augusta Cottlow Among the World's Foremost Musicians.

Miss Augusta Cottlow, the American musical prodigy whose home is in Shelbyville, Ill., is said to be one of the foremost musicians in the world. Although not yet out of her studies, she has managed to amaze and delight the leading musicians of Europe with her superb performances on the piano. For the past two years she has been studying under Herr Tappert and Professor Busoni. The latter, when asked by Miss Cottlow for the amount of his charges, replied: "Gussie, there can be no talk of business between artists. You are an artist. Your music delights me. If I can be of any help to you in your career I shall do all in my power for you. You may take my aid as a courtesy from an older artist to a younger one." Miss Cottlow began her musical studies at 3 years of age. At 5 she made her debut in public. From that time she was in demand. At 9 she was placed in charge of Professor Wolfsohn of Chicago and began her studies in harmony and counterpoint under Professor Gleason. She plays the most difficult music from memory. She won New York musicians with her performances of Beethoven's concerto in C, which she played with the Thomas orchestra three years ago. She has lately turned her mind to composition. Her first piece, "A Romanza" for violin and piano, was bought and published in Germany.

The London papers are telling an amusing incident of the Prince of Wales' visit to Canada thirty-seven years ago. On his journey through the provinces a large number of petitions and addresses of welcome were presented to him from every class and society. One address sent by the lumbermen and raftsmen of the Ottawa Valley concluded with the words: "Long may you remain Prince of Wales!"

This very doubtful compliment was no slip of the pen, for when the foreman of the raftsmen was questioned on the subject, he declared that the address meant exactly what it said:

"We are perfectly satisfied with the queen, and want her to remain on the throne as long as she can."

In view of the queen's jubilee, this former raftsmen, Mr. Alan Manson, wrote the other day to the prince, reminding him of the incident, and received the following reply:

"His royal highness perfectly remembers the incident to which you refer. His royal highness greatly appreciates and thanks you for your kind and loyal sentiments, and he will not fail to make them known to the queen."

An Unfortunate Admission.
Husband (shaving)—"Confound the razor!" Wife—"What's the matter now? You're dreadfully cross-tempered." Husband—"The razor is so abominably dull!" Wife—"Dull? Why, I ripped up an old skirt with it yesterday and it cut beautifully!"—Tad-Bits.

The Minneapolis Journal editorially remarks: "We have just presented an ultimatum to Peru, who owes us $50,000." If Peru knows what is best for her she will lose no time in settling with that Minneapolis editor.

THE FARTHEST YONDER.

Oh, friend of other years,
Do you remember
Those glorious autumn days
When distant hill-sides flamed
In all their splendor?
I whispered, "Speed us, love,
To beauty yonder."

Your voice was low and sad:
"Those hills of splendor
Are far and given, my own;
The light will hide, ev'ning;
And darkness gather,
And we shall yearn for rest
This side the yonder."

The years have swiftly flown;
Alone with wonder
I gaze upon the hills
A Master's brush has touched
With newer splendor;
My eager eyes would search
Beyond the yonder.

And you in higher realms,
You do remember:

BRISTOWE'S RUSE.

Pah! another bungler snapped Bristowe, that dry old stick of a detective, throwing down his newspaper. If that man had had a smattering of science at his fingers' ends he could have done the trick. Yes, you can all see it now. Ah, I ought to know. It was a bit of science that once helped me to net £500, get at the root of as queer a mystery as ever I tackled and possibly to save a gentleman's life into the bargain. Yes, I can tell you just how it happened. I wasn't on the spot till after the crime, of course, but I know exactly what took place. My word!

It was Sir Gavin Grey's case, if you remember—Grey, the great London banker. He had a fine old place down at Wimbledon that his niece, Kate—as sweet and lovable a girl as ever walked this earth—used to keep for him. Old bachelor, you know. They say, and I believe, that that girl might have married any man she liked; but, of course, it so happened that the lucky fellow who crept into her heart was only a cashier at her uncle's bank—Leo Markhouse by name. The old gentleman was staggered at first, but at the finish he gave way on the condition that they waited till the young fellow proved himself fit for a partnership and for such a wife, and things went smoothly enough for a time. Then came a deadly crash.

Would you believe it, this Markhouse was fool enough to go and make use of a check that ought to have gone into the bank, and somehow or other it was found out before he could pay it back. It wasn't in Sir Gavin's possession; at any rate, he called him in, dared him to show his face there again and sent him about his business, with an alternative of prosecution. And one evening, a week later, when the old gentleman got back to his Wimbledon house the first thing he heard was that Markhouse had been there and that Miss Kate had gone off with him—gone for good. Pretty romance, eh?

Now for the mystery. It seems that for some days Sir Gavin was absolutely crushed and never left the house. He used to go up to the girl's room to make sure she was gone, and then he would go and sit in his study for hours at a stretch, hardly moving all the time, they said. Well, there was a glass door opening on a sort of balcony, and one night, when he was sitting there so, that door opened, and a man walked in. Burglar? No; it was Markhouse, come there with his wife to ask for one chance to redeem his backsliding. He said afterward they had meant to go boldly up to the front door, because Miss Kate was sure only one contrite word was needed to go straight to the old gentleman's heart; but, as luck would have it, he had seen the light in the sandy and chose that way.

There was a fine dramatic scene; they say the noise of it could be heard half over the house. Markhouse, he pleaded hard and tried to explain things, but the old gentleman was hard as granite. At the finish (I'm telling you just what I had from Markhouse himself and from Silverley, Sir Gavin's man servant, who, being privileged, was listening outside the door the whole time) he dragged open a drawer and threw a packet on the floor.

"There," he says, "you've wasted your time and eloquence. Your wife's mother left her at death £200 and some jewelry. There it is and there the way out, and I never wish to see either of you again."

Markhouse swears he never once thought of touching the packet, but simply stood still for a time, dazed by the prospect and the other man's bitterness. Then he pulled the glass door to and went down the balcony steps and along the avenue to where Kate was standing in a tremble, staring at that light from the study. It was queer she should say to him:

"Leo, you never threatened him! I heard your voices, but I was too frightened to move. Leo, don't harden your heart so—wouldn't you be bitter in his place?"

"Perhaps," was all he said. "The air of this place suffocates me."

Well, they had got to the end of the avenue when there came after them a hoarse scream, unnerving enough in the circumstances. Just the one word—"Murder," and nothing more. But the worst of it was that the sound came from the house he had just left.

Of course, he stood staring at the girl incredulously, and the next thing he knew was that she had broken from him and was flying back up the avenue. He followed mechanically, and instinct took him back to that study window. And, by Jove! across the carpet in there, sure enough, lay a still figure; his wife hung over it with clasped hands, and the servants were buzzing and whispering behind. Murder? Well, the old gentleman had been struck sideways, it seemed, as he sat. There was a purple mark on his right temple, and there was his own heavy ebony ruler lying near by. And the man? Well, Markhouse suddenly woke up to the fact that they were pointing at him and that the buzzing had stopped.

"There he is!" says some one. "Don't let him go!"

"What?" He couldn't believe his own eyes, of course. They were all shrinking back from him—even his own wife, he thought. "Is everyone mad?" he asked. "Kate, what does it mean?"

"Mean?" says Silverley, stepping up, "why, it means murder, Mr. Markhouse, and you mustn't leave this house yet. Accuse you?—all of us. You came here for money, stealthily; I was in the hall, and I heard every word of your quarrel. When you had gone I knocked several times, but the door was locked. I called the others, and we broke in to find him lying—no, Miss Kate, you can't!"

She had caught those words and grasped what they meant. Woman-like, her first thought was for her husband's safety; she got hold of Silverley's arms and held him back by main force, imploring Markhouse to go, to escape, and leave the rest to Providence. Of course, he ought to have stood his ground, but the thought that she believed him guilty fairly paralyzed him, it seems. At any rate he turned and went off without another word—as bad a thing as he could have done.

For the next two days it was all chaos. People who called to sympathize found Kate wandering about like a ghost, and everyone was whispering of her as a widow already. It seemed clear enough: Markhouse had struck the blow in a temper and was missing; his best friends could only hope that he had got ahead of the hue-and-cry. Two days; then came the news that Markhouse had been arrested easily a few miles away, simply remarking that he cared not a jot whether they brought him in innocent or the reverse.

Miss Kate, she heard it about 7 o'clock that evening, and it seemed to put new life into her. She stood staring at space, they said, for about five minutes and then sent a man galloping off with a telegram. That telegram was addressed to me, and it simply said: "Come instantly, upon a matter of life and death."

I happened to be away from home that night, but I took a train for Wimbledon about 10 the next morning and found that the inquest was afoot. The jury had just been to view the body, and most of the servants were making ready to return with them and give evidence. In the general excitement I had plenty of time to look about, while I mournfully smoothed a crape band around my hat. In 15 minutes I had heard a good deal. Silverley was my best man. I managed to buttonhole him, introduced myself as the undertaker's man and asked how true it was that this Markhouse had something to gain by Sir Gavin's death.

"Don't ask me," he says, distractedly. "That's the dreadful part of it—that everyone knows his wife comes in for her uncle's money. I've to go and give evidence against him! I wish to heaven I'd never spoken!"

It was all very hazy. I thought for a bit and then sent up a card with the word "Bristowe" only upon it, and I didn't waste time. When presently she comes down, with a pitiful white face and dragging steps and looked to see why the study door was open, she gave quite a piteous cry at sight of me down on my hands and knees between the desk and window there.

"Mr. Bristowe! You—you know all, then?"

"A good deal, madam; the newspapers and the servants, you know." I told her cheerfully. "Er—of course this room has not been disturbed in any way? H'm, I find morsels of earth and dry leaf just by the window, but none near that desk. But that's nothing, perhaps. I want you to be quite calm and tell me all you know."

She did so almost lifelessly. "Oh, you are clever, I know!" she ended, a fair study in supplication. "If you think—you'll never say so! You'll go and leave it to the police!"

"Just one thing," I said: "A full light from this jet ought to reflect on that gravel path, and Mr. Markhouse was between it and the window. You may safely tell me whether you saw the shadow of a lifted arm from where you stood—so, H'm!" She had whispered her "N—no!" with dry lips and hesitation; he had raised his arm once. "Leave it to me," I told her. "In an hour I'll come and tell you what I think."

She understood and went. Well, I puzzled and puzzled over the thing and could make nothing of it. The door had been locked, you see, and he was found dead five minutes after Markhouse had stepped out on the balcony. I had a vague idea, but the facts would not seem to fit in at all, and I suppose the hour went by, for presently I saw her standing in the doorway, her eyes wide with terror.

"You—you didn't come. You—you think—" the rest died off in her throat. If it had only been for her sake I should have tried my level best.

"I think nothing yet," I told her. "It's complicated, simple as it seems. You see, the motive was scarcely robbery, as the packet was found there afterward. I'll be plain with you: If it was not your husband, it was someone within this house, and there's no clew so far. Having nothing to go upon I'm going to concoct something. You must be patient and give me time."

She did try, but I shan't forget her face when, an hour or so later, she came to tell me that her husband had been committed on the coroner's warrant. I had a plan in my head by that time, but I felt certain, if nothing came of it, there was not much chance for Leo Markhouse.

About 8 o'clock that evening the drawing room at the Wimbledon house presented rather a dramatic sight. All the household, from Silverley down to the scullery maid, had filed in there at my request and formed a gaping, excited group. When, after giving them plenty of time for a whispering, I walked in, carrying a black bag, you could have heard a pin fall.

"All here?" I began, very impressively. "Very good." A queer pause. "Now, I wish to tell you all something. Up till two hours ago, I confess, I could find no possible loophole in the net that at this moment surrounds Mr. Leo Markhouse. I have called you all here to tell you that now I fancy there may be one." Another breathless pause, as I fetched out a square of cardboard. "All hangs upon this," I said, "a photograph of the deceased gentleman's eyes, taken after death. Two hours back I made the accidental discovery that there was in those eyes the indelible reflection of a face, a face all but recognizable at sight, and then I remembered something. By tomorrow morning, if there is any basis for the well-known scientific theory that the eyes of a person meeting death by foul play often catch and retain a likeness of the assassin's features, we may be in possession of the truth. Is this the face of Mr. Leo Markhouse? I am not at all certain of it; I am going straight away now to have this snap shot of mine enlarged tenfold and then— In the meantime, I will ask you not to let the matter go beyond the house."

A shiver and then a craning of pale faces to catch a glimpse of the photograph, but I was gone before they could fully grasp what I said. I had motioned to Kate, and she followed me to the hall door like one groping in a dream.

"Will you—will you save me?" I recall her whispering. "You have discovered this, you suspect some one, and yet you warn them all. You—it is false! Show me that photograph, or I shall scream out!"

"Sh! you're too sensible," I said. "The photograph! It is a blank card; see! Mrs. Markhouse, I've simply played a card I don't possess, that's all. Time is precious. Now, listen. They think I'm off to town; you will let me in by the drawing room window in ten minutes from now. Goodbye. First train in the morning!" I added, loudly, and the big door clanged.

Four hours later, when everything was quiet, I heard someone creeping along the passage leading from the servants' quarters and up the stairs. I had been waiting in the drawing room; I was out in a jiffy. A man—yes, he was standing at the top of the flight, as if afraid to go on. I had him! Up I crept. He went straight along to that room and tried the handle. When it gave he jumped back and almost saw me. Another second—then in he went. I heard him striking a match. I was there. He had lit a candle and was turning this way and that a drawn, white face that bore the marks of the four hours' suspense. It was Silverley, for years the valet of the man lying behind those white hangings, and it seemed that my bit of a bluff was going to have results. Holding the candle high, he drew back the hangings and stared hard at the poor old gentleman's eyes.

They were closed, of course, and would never open again. He had waited four hours in a fever for nothing at all.

A click behind him did the rest. I was pulling the door to, and he sprang across in a fair frenzy—just too late. I managed to lock it on the outside, and his nerves weren't proof against that second shock. He gave a sort of choking scream, and then all was quiet. Down I ran and woke one of the servants. However, when we opened that door there was no need to use force or even to ask questions. He was on his knees there and gasped out the truth on the spot.

"I—I did in itself—defence! Let me out—only let me out! They'll never hang me—they couldn't! You think! It was all quiet in there. I ran through the drawing room and along the balcony, and he was sitting with his head down so, and the packet was lying there—anyone's property! I—I thought he was in a fit and found my hand on the packet before I knew it. He saw me and snatched at my throat, like this, in a passion. He was mad and would have strangled me, and I—I had to do it! Then I was frightened and ran back. I never meant to let Mr. Markhouse in for it till I—I—Oh, heavens! I didn't! What have I said?" A bit more than I'd expected. Enough, at any rate, to get him penal servitude.

Eh! What did you say? That scientific theory was exploded long ago! Well, it wasn't when I went to school, and it helped me to unravel this mystery when everything else had failed. —Tit-Bits.

THE EL DORADO MYTH.

How the Term Came to Be Applied to Sources of Uncommon Riches.

El Dorado is the term now heard on every side in connection with the placer mines of Alaska and the north-west territory of Canada. Its derivation is of interest. In the fifteenth century it was rumored that there existed in the northern part of South America a city of great wealth called Manoa, whose king, El Dorado by name, was periodically smeared with oil or balsam and was then powdered with gold dust, until his whole body had a gilded appearance. It was said that on these occasions he threw gold, emeralds, and other precious metals and gems into a sacred lake, in which he afterward bathed.

Beginning in 1532 the Spaniards sent many large expeditions to search for this phantom city, and most of them ended disastrously, hundreds of lives being lost. One explorer, Orellana, asserted that he found El Dorado in his voyage down the Amazon in 1540. This was disproved, but the search was continued down to the eighteenth century. Some of the results were the conquest and settlement of New Granada, the making known to the world of the mountain region of Venezuela, the discovery of the noble rivers, the Orinoco and the Amazon, and the exploration of the vast forests west of the Andes. About the end of the sixteenth century an English expedition either sent out by or under the personal leadership of Raleigh penetrated into Guiana, thereby obtaining a claim on that country which has resulted in the acquirement of the modern British colony of that name.

It has been supposed that the origin of this fable arose from the yearly celebration of a tribe of Indians near Bogota, whose chief on these occasions was gilded with gold dust. But this ceremony was never witnessed by the Spaniards, and the story may simply be another version of the El Dorado myth.

The name El Dorado was commonly used to describe the city or country which was the object of the search, but a later usage of the term has been its figurative application with regard to any region of more than common richness. El Dorado county in California, was the scene of the famous gold finds of '49, and since then the expression has been used to describe many gold camps.—Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

Grievous Trophies of Congo State Soldiers.

A final paper made up from the journals of the late E. J. Glave, who died after crossing Africa a couple of years ago, appears in the Century, under the title of "Cruelty in the Congo Free State." Mr. Glave says:

Mr. Harvey heard from Clarke, who is at Lake Matumba, that the state soldiers have been in the vicinity of his station recently, fighting and taking prisoners; and he himself has seen several men with bunches of hands signifying their individual kill. These, I presume, they must produce to prove their success! Among the hands were those of men and women, and also those of little children. The missionaries are so much at the mercy of the state that they do not report these barbaric happenings to the people at home. I have previously heard of hands, among them children's, being brought to the stations, but I was not satisfied of the truth of the former information as of the reports received just now by Mr. Harvey from Clarke. Much of this sort of thing is going on at the Equator station. The methods employed are not necessary. Years ago, when I was on duty at the Equator without soldiers, I never had any difficulty in getting what men I needed, nor did any other station in the old humane days. The station and the boats then had no difficulty in finding men or labor, nor will the Belgians if they introduce more reasonable methods.

NO DIMINUTION YET.

Uncle Sam's Pension Roll Grows Larger, as Seen by the Report.

The first annual report of Commissioner of Pensions H. Clay Evans to the secretary of the interior was made public Friday.

There were added to the rolls during the year 50,101 new pensioners, and there were restored to the rolls 3,971 pensioners who had been previously dropped, a total of 54,072. Losers were 3,960 by death, 1,074 by remarriage of widows and mothers, 1,145 by legal limitation (minors), 2,683 for failure to claim pension for three years and 360 for other causes, an aggregate of 41,122.

The whole number of pensioners on the rolls June 30, 1897, was 976,014. The net gain over the previous year was 5,336. It will thus be seen that the pension roll has not yet begun to show any diminution. Seven widows of revolutionary soldiers and nine daughters of revolutionary soldiers are still on the rolls.

The amount disbursed for pensions by the pension agents during the year was $139,799,242.12, and the amount disbursed by treasury settlement was $150,475.23, a total of $139,949,717. This exceeds the amount disbursed during the fiscal year 1896 by the sum of $1,854,480.

NEW YORK'S PATRONAGE.

Second Only to That of the President of the United States.

More than 55,000 persons will directly or indirectly draw pay from the city in the first administration of the mayor of Greater New York. The salaries of 33,000 of these whose names will be actually on the city's pay roll will aggregate $33,000,000. Part of this amount represents the salaries and patronage of the other officers elected on Tuesday, but this is comparatively small, most of the total representing the patronage of Greater New York's first mayor, Robt. A. Van Wyck.

Second only to the president of the United States, in the value of his patronage, the first mayor of the greater city is first in the significance of this patronage. With his colleagues-elect, of the same political party as himself, Mr. Van Wyck can lead an army of office-holders, and those indirectly employed by the city, as great as the Army of the Potomac.

Tragedy at Galatin, Tenn.

The Dismukes-Rhodes affair at Galatin, Tenn., a few days ago, has at last resulted in a tragedy. Thursday afternoon John Rhodes was standing in the public square, when Martin Dismukes came out of the court house and fired at Rhodes with a double-barreled shotgun. Rhodes ran a few steps and fell. Bystanders rushed in and prevented Dismukes from firing again. The gun was loaded with buckshot. One ball struck Rhodes in the shoulder and another entered just under the heart, inflicting probably fatal wounds.

The shooting was the outcome of an attack upon ex-Senator Dismukes by the Rhodes boys a few days ago. Martin Dismukes tried to kill Rhodes on the day of the attack on his father, firing once at him, but striking a bystander

Chief Justice Fuller announced the courts conclusion but made no remarks in doing so, save to cite a few authorities on which the court based its decision.

Ex-Governor Boies of Iowa still insists upon speaking his mind against 16 to 1 proposition of the democracy, and all efforts to bush him up have been unsuccessful. He is out in another letter insisting that free coinage in the United States cannot bring gold and silver to a parity at the 16 to 1 ratio the world over, and that as the commercial ratio did not correspond with the legal ratio established in the United States, no gold would be coined at our mints, and the effect upon our business and commerce would be very disastrous.

THE SUNNY SOUTHLAND.

The Sunny Southland announced in its last week's issue that it would suspend publication; that it had disposed of its plant to parties in Ohio and that the same would be shipped at once. Mr. Whitaker has been engaged during the past several days in packing up the outfit preparatory to shipment.

Mr. C. N. Whitaker the editor and proprietor, came down from Iowa about two months ago and established the Sunny Southland at this place with a view of promoting emigration from the Northwest to this section of Alabama. He was induced to come here by the Calera Development Company and he has given a most excellent publication in the interest of immigration.

It seems, however, that notwithstanding the fact that he met all the requirements and fulfilled all the obligations entered into with the Company the Company failed to comply with its part of the agreement, and as Mr. Whitaker, under the circumstances, was running the paper at a financial loss, he decided, very naturally, to stop its publication.

Mr. R. H. Whitaker, a brother of Mr. C. N. Whitaker, the editor and proprietor, has been in charge of the paper during the entire time of its publication. He is a first-class practical newspaper man, as the live, clean cut and well printed paper he published attested, and besides he is a most pleasant and agreeable gentleman and made many friends among the people here. He has accepted a position with a leading Daily of Houston, Texas, and will go to that city to enter upon his duties as soon as the yellow fever situation will permit with safety.

The relations of the Sentinel with the Southland during its short sojourn here, were of the most pleasant nature and we regret that circumstances were such as to force its suspension and departure from our town. The presence of such paper, conducted so admirably as it was and on so high a plane, is a benefit to any community and its loss is to be lamented. The Sentinel wishes the Southland's publisher success wherever his lot may be cast.

The largest item of increase was a gain of $11,933,892 in treasury notes of 1890. Almost as large was the circulation of gold coin, which amounted to $11,175,200. Standard silver dollars showed an expansion of $3,051,008. Subsidiary silver showed an increase of $2,257,514, an United States notes a growth of $7,201,454. The decreases comprised $4,540,000 in currency certificates of 1872, $1,781,380, in silver certificates, $1,327,872 in National Bank notes, and $84,450 in gold certificates. The statement shows that on Nov. 1 the circulation of the United States amounted to $1,706,732,904, which was a net increase over the amount on Nov. 1, 1896, of $79,677,290. This is a surprising and remarkable growth.

During the past twelve months there has been a decided increase in the circulation of standard silver dollars, and on November 1, for the first time since August, 1893, the number of those in circulation exceeded 60,000,000. The amount of subsidiary silver in circulation on that day was $63,432,920, a gain of more than $3,000,000 during the year.

The per capita circulation, estimating our population at 73,461,000 was on November 1, $23.33, all in money as good as gold.

BIRMINGHAM STEEL.

Richmond Times.

One of the committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Richmond, who visited Washington to present to the armor plate factory board advantages of Richmond as a site for these proposed works, had a personal interview with Chief Engineer James Perry, of the United States Navy, who is a member of the board, about the manufacture of steel in Birmingham, Ala., the board having recently visited that city.

Mr. Perry said that the steel works of Birmingham had been begun right, and were successful, and would certainly enlarge; that there was absolutely no reason why as good steel could not be made in the State of Alabama as anywhere in the world, and that it could be marketed with ease, as laboratory tests had, in a large measure, taken the place of special brands, and Birmingham steel could meet the requirements. It would seem from this and from other well known facts that the iron and steel industry of Birmingham is in its infancy.

MR. TAYLOR'S CARD.

He Ratifies the Statement That He Alone is Responsible for His Statements.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Hannis Taylor, ex-Minister to Spain, tonight made the following statement:

To the Associated Press:—As certain journals have deemed it necessary to assert that the present administration is in nowise responsible for my acts as a private citizen I deem it my duty to ratify that statement. The recent publications signed by me, and based upon data accessible to everybody, were made upon my sole responsibility from a grave sense of public duty which I cannot doubt is fully appreciated by the people as a whole, who were entitled to my testimony. I am sure that the present administration is doing its entire patriotic duty and I have for it no adverse criticism whatever. On the other hand, I cannot believe that any one authorized to speak for it has ventured to criticise me in any particular, as all know that I have discharged every obligation due to it, whether personal or official, with punctilious fullness.

NORTHERN PEOPLE COMING, Sunny Southland,

Mr. S. M. Lyons, who it will be remembered, was in Calera in August, and who contracted with the Calera Development Company for 160 acres just south of the city, writes the Sunny Southland that himself and two brothers-in-law with their families, will leave Iowa for Calera early in December—as soon as they get their corn crop gathered. He also says four more families will leave his neighborhood for this section early in the springtime, as soon as their leases expire for the farms upon which they are now living. The Lyons party will bring with them two carloads of stuff—household goods, horses, cows, pigs and chickens. It is their intention to engage in truck and fruit raising. They are practical farmers, and will turn their attention to the raising of "a little of everything." Being personally acquainted with Mr. Lyons, having known him for several years, we have no hesitancy in saying that Calera and vicinity gains a good citizen and we have reason to believe the same of those who are coming with him. He is a pusher, a worker, and we predict that he will be a money-maker.

In closing his letter, he says: "The Sunny Southland is a welcome visitor, and I have distributed those you have sent me each week. A neighbor to whom I had given a copy said to me a few days ago: 'Lyons, that must be a grand country down there, or that editor is a magnificent liar.' I told him that it was all you had represented and more, too."

In its descriptions of this country the Sunny Southland has endeavored to be scrupulously truthful, not desiring nor making any attempt to mislead any one, as dissatisfaction will follow misrepresentation in every case. To induce immigration to come to Alabama the truth only need be told. We have been enthusiastic because we think the country worthy of enthusiasm.

The Delineator is the woman's favorite magazine, and is issued by the famous fashion publishers, the Butterick Publishing Co. at 7 to 17 West 13th street, New York at the low rate of $1.00 for a year's subscription or 15 cents per copy.

The three year old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place; and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by Dial Bros.

By giving a "chewing gum tea" an Ohio woman has established a social precedent. The facts concerning this innovation are as follows:

The hostess sent out cards for 4 o'clock and there were a large number of personal responses. Great was the surprise when a maid entered with a salver piled high with bars of chewing gum. Each bar was tied with a piece of delicately colored ribbon. The callers looked at each other in astonishment when asked by the hostess to select sticks of gum of the flavors most congenial to their tastes. They had to obey and soon forty fair jaws were moving in a rhythmic manner amid perfect silence. The faces of the chewers were expressions that combined sheepishness with mortification and amusement. After fifteen minutes the hostess called a halt, and each caller was handed a finger-bowl half full of water and a small plate. The gum chewers were then directed to moisten their fingers in the water and to mold their masticated chunks of gum into what forms their imaginations might suggest. The lady who proved herself to be the best molder received a handsome prize.

A Runaway.

late Monday evening a runaway team, a pair of horses attached to a buggy, came dashing through the business portion of town, causing some little excitement for a time. It turned out to be the property of Dr. E. G. Givhan, of Montevallo. The Doctor, a short time previously, had driven to the vicinity of the livery stable and leaving the buggy turned the team over to a little negro boy to hold. A passing train frightened the horses and the boy seeing that he could not control them jumped out of the buggy and gave them full rein. They dashed around the corner at Bristow's store and came down Montgomery avenue at full speed. When in front of Holcomb's store they ran into a shade tree, upsetting the buggy, breaking harness etc., and setting themselves free. The horses continued their flight. The buggy, while considerably disfigured, was not as badly injured as appearances at first indicated. One of the horses, it is thought, was perhaps injured by running against the shade tree. It was fortunate that no one was in the buggy when the tree was struck. As it was no one was hurt. Some young ladies who were at the post office, near the scene of the disaster, were considerably exercised and gave vent to their feelings in the usual expressive manner.

Death of Mr. J. A. Franklin.

Mr. J. A. Franklin, of Atlanta, Ga., the venerable father of Mrs. S. Stein and Miss Pearl Franklin, of this place, while on a visit to his daughters here last week, was taken ill and continued to grow worse until Friday morning when he peacefully breathed his last. He was past the three score and ten years mark and had been in feeble health for some time. All that medical skill and gentle nursing could do was done, but without avail. The machinery had run down and the physical frame had lost its vigor and power of recuperation and the end came. The remains were taken on Saturday morning, via the Southern railroad, to Atlanta, Ga., for interment. Two sons of the deceased, one from Talladega and the other from Atlanta, and Miss Pearl accompanied the remains. The Sentinel joins with many friends in sympathy with the stricken household.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

First Proclamation Issued By President McKinley.

Washington, Oct. 30.—President McKinley today issued his first Thanksgiving Day proclamation as follows:

"In remembrance of God's goodness to us during the past year, which has been so abundant, let us offer to Him our thanksgiving and pay our vows unto the most high. Under His watchful providence industry has prospered, the conditions of labor have been improved, the rewards of the husbandman have been increased and the comforts of our home multiplied. It is mighty and preserved peace and protected the nation. Respect for law and order has been strengthened, love and free institutions cherished and all sections of our beloved country brought into closer bonds of fraternal regard and general co-operation. For these great benefits it is our duty to praise the Lord in a spirit of humility and gratitude and to offer up to Him our most earnest supplications. That we may acknowledge our obligations as a people to him who has so graciously granted us the blessings of free government and material prosperity, I, William McKinley, President of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the 25th day of November, for National Thanksgiving and prayer, which all of the people are invited to observe with appropriate religious services in their respective places of worship. On this day I rejoice in domestic reunion, let our prayers ascend to the giver of every good and perfect gift for the continuance of His love and favor to us, that our hearts may be filled with charity and affection and that we may be beneficiaries of His beneficent concern. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and the seal of the United States at Washington, this 30th day of October, in the year of our Lord, 1897, and of the Independence of the United States the 122d year."

DEATH OF MR. ISAAC W. JOHNSON.

Died at his home at Highland, in this county, on the 7th inst., after a lingering illness of Bright's disease, Mr. Isaac W. Johnson, in the 67th year of his age. The deceased was well known throughout this section of the state, and the news of his death will be received with regret by hosts of friends. He was, we believe, a native of this county, and had resided in the neighborhood where he died all of his life. He was a gallant Confederate soldier, and came up to the full measure of duty during the trying times of war. After the war he returned to his home at Highland and engaged in farming, the calling he followed through out his life. He married Miss Rebecca Russell of this county, with whom he lived happily. Six sons blessed their union, all of whom are grown, and all of whom, with their mother survive him. He was a thoroughgoing, energetic, practical farmer, hospitable and generous, a kind and obliging neighbor, an indulgent husband and father, a steadfast friend, and a good citizen. He was a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, and died in that faith. His remains were laid to rest on Monday the 8th inst., in the Johnson cemetery near Highland. The Sentinel joins in sympathy with the stricken household that mourns the loss of husband and father.

DR. PORTER AS DICTATOR.

Tampa Times:
The Birmingham Age-Herald editorially suggests that the states of Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas come together and select an executive officer who shall have charge of the quarantine system of the entire gulf coast. The Age-Herald then nominates the man as follows:

"The man, it seems to us," to take charge under the general authority of the five state boards, is Dr. Porter of Florida. Look at Florida, serene and happy, although one end of the state is thrust almost into Havana's foul, disease breeding harbor. Dr. Porter has kept Florida securely free from the dread fever. He could do as much for the rest of the gulf coast. He would need to control, however, as the agent of each state, not only the quarantine stations, but also the entire coast district from Key West to the Rio Grande and when he said to a fifth little village or a frontier town of greater pretensions to do this or that, his order must be obeyed within the time he might name. A dictator he would be, but one of our own choosing. We need a competent energetic despot on the gulf coast.

Whence Mr. Bryan's Comfort?

Richmond Times.
We have been waiting for fuller returns to see where Mr. Bryan has found so much comfort and encouragement in the late election.

Surely his comfort does not come from New York, where Trimmany won without Mr. Bryan's platform, aid, or sympathy.

It does not come from Maryland, where the Republicans and Independents have beaten Gorman and Gormanism.

It does not come from Kansas, lately the hot bed of free silver and Populism, which shows up with large Republican gains.

It does not come from Iowa, the home of Uncle Horace Boies, which gives Shaw sixteen thousand more votes than the highest republican candidate for Governor had before received.

It does not come from Nebraska Mr. Bryan's own State, which, in spite of his vigorous canvass, returned a decreased plurality for the fusion candidates.

The fact is the farmers of the West have seen it practically demonstrated that Mr. Bryan's pet theory about wheat and silver is nothing but theory, and has been knocked sky-high by dollar wheat and a forty cent silver dollar.

There is no comfort to the silverites in the late election. There is, however, encouragement, and much encouragement to those who believe that if the Democratic party will only discard free silver and Populism the forces of Democracy will be reunited and will march with banners to victory in 1900.

BRETHREN.

After all, we're brethren—no matter where we be—
We folks that coax the soil to life, or you that sail the sea;
Don't matter where they place us—don't matter where we roam,
This world—for all its trials—is still our home—our home!

I mean, while we're a-livin' here—on this here mortal side—
And so, when night is fallin', let's throw the windows wide
And let the lamps shine out! Because, wherever we may roam,
This world, until we reach the next, is still our home—our home!
—F. L. Stanton, in Atlanta Constitution.

Capt. Blake's Home-Coming.

"It's you that's cruel, Teddie Blake!"

"Cruel, Nellie, dear—Nellie, you little demon! Why, I wouldn't touch a hair of your head, barring the bit I want to cut off to carry with me to India, and you're teasing the life out of me with your contrariness and making it much harder for me to go than even you dream of!"

"And what do you want to go for? leaving your home and your regiment that you were so proud of and the people that know you and the girl—" here Miss Nellie breaks down with a little sob, and it is all Teddie can do to remember his promise to her father and keep his two arms from going round her.

"And the girl—what?" he says, huskily; for the life of him he can't resist that much.

"That was brought up with you and has been a sister to you all your life," chokes Nellie O'Malley.

"I'll tell you what it is, Nellie," the poor, young soldier says, pulling himself together and speaking much more severely than he really feels, "you must try to understand my position, and then we'll say no more about it, if you please, once and for all. My uncle's dead (heaven rest his soul), and he's left the old place to me, but it's up to the chimney pots in debt, and unless I let it to this English fellow I'll never be able to clear it all my life. Then, if I don't exchange for India, I can't keep my place in the service at all, and besides, Nellie, with the old regiment quartered at Thomastown, it would be mighty hard for me to see another man fishing my salmon and shooting my birds and sitting in my chimney corner every day of the week, with his great ugly face looking over the pew at you on Sundays! I couldn't do it, Nellie, not even to remain near—near the friends I've known ever since I was a baby. So that's all about it, and you mustn't make it harder for me than I can bear—do you see?"

It was a good thing that Aunt Ellen called them in to supper at this moment. Nellie had one of her teasing fits on her, trying by this means to hide her heart-break at Teddie's departure, and her perversity tried poor young Blake sorely. He had promised her father, the rector, that he would not, by word or act, reveal his feelings toward her. They had been children together, almost brother and sister, for nearly 20 years, since Teddie first came to Moyliscallan, and this state of things must be maintained, Mr. O'Malley decided, till Teddie's fortunes should be closer and more satisfactory inspection. Perhaps a few years of Indian soldiering, while the old castle was let to a rich English tenant, might put the said fortunes on their feet; meanwhile, lingering in the old rectory garden was a dangerous occupation, and Aunt Ellen did wisely to ring the supper bell out of the window.

Presently the parting came. It was Sunday evening, and the rectory kept early hours. Supper was over, and the O'Malleys were making their farewells to Teddie, the almost son of the house, for he had to get back to Thomastown that night and start for England next morning.

"There's something I want to take with me," he announced, stoutly, before them all, "a lock of your hair, Aunt Ellen, and another of Nellie's. You know you two are the only woman-kind I have or ever have had. Give me each a bit of a curl, and I'll have them put in a locket together and wear it on my chain, and you won't be sorry to think I've got it when I'm away from you."

He looked at the rector as he spoke. It was all open and above board, and the old gentleman nodded and reached down a pair of scissors from the mantelshelf, which he handed to his sister. Aunt Ellen cut her little lock carefully, as befits a lady of five-and-forty, whose hair is still abundant and ornamental, if not so bright as it has been. Nellie whisked her bunch of curls over her shoulders and snipped off a thick brown ringlet. Teddie twisted them together in his pocket-book and said, with a feeble attempt at a joke: "They'll go with me everywhere and bring me back to Moyliscallan. Don't let me find you've been, either of you, flirting with Strangeways while I'm away, or putting him in my place."

Then he kissed the two ladies, as he had always done on great occasions, at New Year or on birthdays, ever since he was three years old, shook hands with the rector twice over and hurried off to Thomastown and thence to India. And oh dear! it was dull at Moyliscallan without him.

Five years later Captain Edward Blake was coming home on sick leave.

It had been a "near squeak," as he said himself. That wound on the head, at the Burroo Pass affair, had set all Europe talking about him, but had nearly done for him all the same. Then came weeks of fever and the weary journey to Bombay; the relapse on the road, which, but for Mrs. Diamond's nursing, must have finished him; the almost miraculously accomplished move on to shipboard, which the doctor allowed was an experience of kill or cure.

And now he was steaming home as fast as the P. & O. line could do it, and every day some fresh sense of power in mind or body was reborn in him; one day he could arrange his own pillow, the next he could read a few lines of the paper. A little later he asked Mrs. Diamond if she could find him paper and pencil, as he wanted to write a note "home." Life was worth living again with Moyliscallan drawing nearer day by day. Mrs. Diamond was a little widow lady, who, since her husband's death, had been keeping house for a brother in the civil service. "The Judge," as she called him, had fallen a victim to the charms of an 18-year-old schoolgirl, fresh from England, and Mrs. Diamond's services were required no longer. Coming down country she had stumbled upon Teddie Blake, fever-stricken and virtually alone, and it was undoubtedly to her care that he owed his recovery from the relapse, which had been worse than the original attack. She had deferred her own plans to the convenience of the patient, had superintended his transfer to the steamship from the Bombay hotel, which she had hardly dared to hope he would reach alive, and was a witness of his convalescence on board ship, as day by day his strength and spirits returned. So it was not wonderful that Teddie turned to her for paper and pencil on the very first occasion that he felt he could scrawl a line, and imperiously demanded that he be allowed to write "to his people."

"Are you sure you can do it?" Mrs. Diamond asked, producing her writing board, but not giving it over to him unconditionally.

"Quite sure—that is, not a bit of it—but I'll try."

"I thought you said you had nobody belonging to you?"

"No more I have—no real relations—but an adopted family that is the dearest in the world—not a mere accident of birth like other people's families. I must write them just a few words to say I'm alive and coming home, and it'll be ready when an opportunity comes for posting it, though it can't reach Moyliscallan more than an hour or two before I do myself."

"Moyliscallan," repeated Mrs. Diamond, "what do you know of Moyliscallan? I only heard of the place for the first time a month ago, and now it turns up again!"

"It's my home," Blake said, painfully scrawling the date at the top of his sheet of paper. "The castle belongs to me, only I've never been able to live in it. My people live at the rectory—it is to Mr. O'Malley, the rector, that I'm writing. And what did you hear about Moyliscallan, the sweetest place on all the earth?"

"Why," cried Mrs. Diamond, excitedly, "this is the oldest thing! My cousin, George Strangeways, rented the castle from some one some years ago—from you it appears—and now he is engaged, married probably by this time, to one of the rector's girls, Ellen O'Malley, a daughter, I suppose, of this very old gentleman you're writing to. I had the letter just before I met you at Rahmednuggar and had scarcely given it a thought since."

One of the rector's girls!

Teddie Blake had seen death glaring at him from a wall of black Afghan faces; he had looked fever in the eyes more than once; but he had never known what despair meant till Marcia Diamond told him her little story of odd coincidences sitting on the steamship deck, halfway through their homeward voyage. For a moment he repeated the words, "Ellen O'Malley; there is only one daughter at the rectory;" and Mrs. Diamond, whose eyes were on the silk sock she was knitting, went on cheerfully: "Oh, then, that's the girl. I did not hear from George Strangeways direct; the news came through my brother, but, of course, it is the same—the young lady at the rectory. Fancy old George succumbing to an Irish girl's fascinations after going all over the habitable world unscathed till now!"

"Is he a good fellow?" Teddie asked.

Something in his voice made Mrs. Diamond give a swift glance at her companion, and in that glance she understood everything.

"He is a very good fellow," she answered, a little more seriously than she had hitherto spoken; "any girl will be happy and tenderly treated by him, though he is an elderly man—55, I should think—and a little eccentric and old-fashioned in his ways. You will find letters telling you all about it when you reach England, you may be sure. Don't you think you had better let me take that writing board downstairs again? It will be time enough to write when there is a chance of posting your letter."

He let her lift the writing things away, only putting out a feeble hand to crumple up the sheet on which he had begun his letter. Then he lay back with his eyes shut, and her tact took her a little apart, for the struggle which he had to go through now must be fought out alone. By and by his servant came and helped him downstairs, and Mrs. Diamond saw him again no more that day.

Moyliscallan woods in September! How often Teddie Blake had pictured his home-coming through the green glades that stretched between the castle and the rectory. Those sylvan aisles were the rally place of all his favorite dreams, for did not Nellie cross them day by day, and would it not be here that he would bring her to tell her the secret which he thought she must have guessed long ago. Rector O'Malley would let him speak at last, for the long waiting had borne its fruit in recouping the Blake coffers, while Teddie knew that the Burroo Pass affair, of which he himself thought and spoke so modestly, was not likely to be forgotten when his name came up at the Horse Guards. A thousand times he had gone over all this in imagination, fingering, meanwhile, the little flat locket that hung at his watch chain—and now—and now, he was creeping back to Moyliscallan like a thief, having given no word of warning either to the rector or to his agent at the castle—creeping home just to see Nellie's face again once more and then to go away anywhere and die. He was still weak and wan from the fever. Mrs. Diamond had tried hard to persuade him to remain a little time in London for a consultation with a first-rate doctor, but the determination to see Nellie at Moyliscallan once more was the only desire that remained to him in life, and till it was accomplished his shrewd little friend saw that there was no good talking of anything else. So he hurried over to Ireland and had reached Thomastown the evening before. Today he had taken a car over to the village (in the old days it was the shortest and pleasantest four miles ever known) and, leaving the driver asleep in the sun at the cross roads, had turned into the wood that is a short cut to the two principal houses in the parish. He had no very definite idea of the plan to pursue. Now that he had reached his journey's end, it seemed as if all power had left him. Perhaps somewhere among the trees, crossing from the castle grounds to the rectory side, he should see Nellie passing by, and he would slip down upon his knees among the fern and look at her—George Strangeways' wife—and oh, this faintness! Merciful God! is that Nellie?

"Teddie, is it really you?" Teddie was on the moss, stretched flat, save that Nellie's arm was under his head; Nellie's little, bare, sunburned hand unfastened his collar—he could only look and smile. The green Moyliscallan leaves were overhead, dancing against the blue, Nellie's face was very close, and he thought he must be in heaven.

"How could you come like this and take us by surprise, and you so ill, Teddie," the girl went on, reproachfully; "if I hadn't been going across to the castle this morning, early and come on you lying here in a heap!"

"Going across to the castle?" Teddie found time to utter, his eyes on Nellie's left hand. "Don't you live at the castle now altogether?"

"And what should I go and live at the castle for, when I've a good home of my own, intruding on newly married people, as if I didn't know better? Besides, Aunt Ellen isn't home from her honeymoon yet, and Uncle George—what are you able to sit up? Take care or you'll—"

She could not finish the sentence, for Captain Blake was sitting up with a vengeance, and to steady himself he had got his arm around her waist.

"So you never thought of Aunt Ellen?" said Nellie, by and by; "well, you wouldn't have been an Irishman if you hadn't made a mistake somewhere! Only if you'd ever seen Uncle George I don't think you'd have doubted me, Teddie dear. Oh! they have been so funny courting one another these five years! and if I hadn't been so well amused I think I must have died, for you kept me a long time waiting without a word!"—Boston (England) Guardian.

A Pertinent Question.

"If I had my life to live over," said the man who adopts a solemn tone, "there are lots of mistakes that I wouldn't have made."

"That's just like a man," his wife rejoined. "Always discontented. Suppose you didn't make the same mistakes; have you any reason for supposing those you made in place of 'em would be a bit more satisfactory?"

EXPERT GUITERAS' REPORT.

A Summary of the Doctor's Observation in the Recent Epidemic.

SAYS IT CAME FROM THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

Declares Microscopes Cannot Establish Diagnosis of the Disease—Will Spread More Rapidly When Dengue Fever Exists—Insists Upon Report of First Case.

Dr. John Guiteras, professor of oxygenal pathology in the University of Pennsylvania, has made a report to Surgeon General Wyman, of the Marine Hospital Service, of the result of his investigations of yellow fever during the recent epidemic in the South. The report is largely technical in character, but also contains some observations of general interest in connection with the development of the disease.

Dr. Guiteras says that the conditions existing in Cuba during the early part of the past summer made it very probable that yellow fever would extend from the island to this country.

Discussing the general subject of yellow fever diagnosis, Dr. Guiteras holds that during life the microscope could not establish a positive diagnosis of the disease. He speaks of this in connection with the statement that an erroneous belief has prevailed throughout the South, especially among physicians who were not practical microscopists, that the instrument should be an important aid in the diagnosis of the disease. It is pointed out that even with the assistance of post mortem examinations, Sanreil, the yellow fever expert, was able to discover his bacillus in 56 per cent only of the cases examined.

Dr. Guiteras says as far as our present methods go it would be impossible to distinguish between a drop of yellow fever blood and blood from a healthy man. Reference is made to the prevalence of a widespread mild epidemic fever during the present outbreak of yellow fever, many of the cases of which Dr. Guiteras thinks were types of dengue. Yellow fever appears to spread more rapidly when there is an epidemic of dengue prevailing. All evidence goes to show that a previous attack of dengue does not protect against yellow fever and the former must be looked upon as an entirely distinct disease.

Dr. Guiteras thinks the cause of yellow fever epidemics is to be found in the introduction into a community of cases that are not suspected to be the disease, which occurs probably most frequently in connection with colored people, who usually have the fever in a mild form. The importance of the diagnosis of the first case of yellow fever in a community is strongly insisted upon.

In concluding Dr. Guiteras speaks of the interference with his movements by the fears of communication that he might convey the disease from place to place, fear, he says, which was in part genuine and due to ignorance, but was also in part a pretended fear by those who knew better.

A DEATH-DEALING ENGINE.

Two Men Are Instantly Killed in a Saw Mill Disaster.

In White's saw mill at Elkmont Springs, Tenn., Thursday, a terrible accident occurred, which cost the lives of Simon Whit, owner of the mill, and George Cook, the engineer, and the complete demolition of the mill property. The trouble was caused by a belt slipping off and striking the small belt of the governors. This was displaced and the machinery ran wild. The large fly wheel, unable to resist the terrible speed, began to part and sections of it were thrown over the room. Cook was struck by a piece of the wheel and instantly killed. Mr. Whit ran in to see what was the matter and received a death blow. The mill was completely wrecked and there was little left of the engine when steam was finally shut off.

Durrant Granted a Respite.

William Henry Theodore Durrant, who was sentenced to be hanged at San Quentin, Cal., last Friday, for the murder of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams, was granted a respite by the supreme court of California a few hours prior to the appointed hour, on a writ of probable cause.

Closed Their Work.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy ended their fourth annual convention at Baltimore. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Mrs. Kate Cabell Currie, Dallas, Tex., president; Mrs. D. G. Wright, Baltimore, first vice-president; Mrs. Helen C. Plane, Atlanta, Ga., second vice-president; Mrs. J. P. Hickman, Nashville, Tenn., senior secretary; Mrs. Annie W. Duncan, Vicksburg, Miss., corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. Jefferson Thomas, Atlanta, treasurer.

The convention adjourned to meet next year in Hot Springs, Ark.

POST-EPIDEMIC CRUSADE

Will Be Inaugurated by the Marine Hospital Service.

Now that the yellow fever epidemic in this country has been brought practically to an end by the appearance of cold weather the marine hospital service is preparing to begin a post-epidemic crusade for the purpose of preventing a recurrence of the contagion next year. The officials of the bureau will co-operate with the health authorities of the various states affected in conducting a thorough disinfection of the districts in which the fever gained a foothold. The cleansing of all infected cities will be urged and each house in which there was a case of fever will be thoroughly fumigated. It is believed that by pursuing this course the country can be protected against another yellow fever epidemic in 1898.

Montgomery Clear.

No new cases of yellow fever and no deaths were reported at Montgomery Friday. Only five cases have been reported the past week, and almost all of the patients have practically recovered.

New Orleans Almost Free.

The number of new cases of yellow fever at New Orleans Friday was 7; deaths, 2. Total cases of yellow fever to date, 1,790; total deaths from yellow fever to date, 559.

At Mobile Friday three new cases and one death was reported.

All other towns infected are free from new cases, and the end of the epidemic is at hand.

NO BLUFF IN THIS.

Germany Orders a Warship to Port au Prince to Defend Her Honor.

The German warship Gefion is under orders to sail for Port au Prince, Hayti, this month, in order to insist upon redress for the arrest there of Herr Lueders, a German subject, and his unlawful imprisonment, for which Count Scherwein, the German minister at Port au Prince, has demanded an indemnity. Lueders is now believed to be in Germany, having been released from prison in order to avoid further complications, the natives of Port au Prince having threatened to mob the German legation and lynch Lueders. The fitting out of the warship is being hastened as much as possible. The officials of the German foreign office do not believe the matter will be adjusted for some time to come, because the Haytian government has assumed a stubborn attitude.

A dispatch from Berlin says: "The United States is credited here with offering its intervention in the difficulty between Germany and Hayti, but the German government is waiting for the arrival of Herr Lueders and the report of Count Scherwein, due by the next mail packet."

A PASSENGER TRAIN BURNED.

A High Wind Overturned a Car and the Train Rushed Into It.

A passenger train on the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis road was derailed and entirely consumed by fire Thursday morning near Lewisport, Ky. No lives were lost, and, so far as is known, no one was seriously injured.

The accident was attributed to the freak of the high wind, which overturned a box car standing on the Lewisport siding. The car fell directly across the main track and near a sharp curve in the road. It was not seen by the engineer of the passenger train until it was too late to stop the engine, and the train rushed into the obstruction, caught fire and before anything could be removed was entirely consumed.

To be Protected—Gen. Blanco Issues an Order to Allow No Molestation.

Captain-General Blanco has issued a circular announcing that he has decided to furnish all the necessary protection to bring about a general resumption of planting, harvesting and reconstruction throughout Cuba, especially in the way of the sugar crop. He sets forth that all the officials are to lend unstinted assistance to the owners of plantations and farmers in their efforts to gather their crops and tend their cattle. They are instructed to encourage to the utmost those who are apprehensive of grinding sugar cane and to offer them assurance and the necessary military forces.

Receiver Asked For.

A bill for receiver and injunction has been filed in the United States federal court against the Southern Home Building and Loan association, of Atlanta, Ga. The bill was brought by stockholders of the association who reside in Alabama, and who claim that the association cannot pay its withdrawal stock and that it is being conducted at a great loss to the stockholders. The charge is also made of insolvency, and the court was asked to name a receiver to take charge of the association's business and hold the assets subject to the future orders of the court.

The eruption of Mount Vesuvius, which began on Monday last, is increasing in activity. The spectacle is grand. Columns of smoke and tongues of flame are belching forth from the central crater, while showers of cinders are falling.

King Oscar and a number of private persons have contributed sufficient money to insure the dispatch of a Swedish polar expedition in 1898, which will be led by Professor Nathorst, the geologist. The cost of the expedition is estimated at 70,000 crowns.

While watching the Pawnee mill Company load their stock at Girardville station, Pa., Enoch Davis, aged 19; Henry Jones, aged 21; Edward Davis, aged 22, and Frank Grady, aged 24, were struck by an engine. Enoch Davis and Henry Jones were killed, and the last two seriously injured.

By an almost unanimous vote the Georgia house of representatives agreed to appropriate $500 for the painting of a life-sized picture of the late Charles F. Crisp, to be hung in the state capitol. The original bill called for an appropriation of $1,000, but passed with an amendment making it $500.

The expert who has been engaged for several months in examining the books and accounts of ex-State Treasurer Bartley, of Nebraska, submitted his report of the legislative investigating committee showing Bartley's shortage to be $870,000. Bartley is now in the Douglas county jail under a twenty-year sentence in the penitentiary.

THE CALERA HIGH SCHOOL.

The Calera High School is a free school, and is the pride of our city. Under the able management of Prof. C. C. Slaton and his accomplished assistants it is attracting wide spread attention, although it has been in operation only about two months. Pupils from Bibb, Chilton and other counties are already upon its roll and others are expected to enter soon. The enrollment up to this date has reached one hundred and twenty-three, and every week adds to the number. Prof. Slaton has secured the services of Prof. W. R. Trimble of Tallapoosa county as adjunct teacher, and the entire faculty is an exceptionally good one. The school building is comfortable and commodious, and is well equipped with neat and convenient modern school furniture, and the school well supplied with apparatus and other conveniences and facilities for imparting instruction. It is indeed up to date in all its appointments and facilities, and students can here enjoy advantages equal to those offered by any High School in the state. The Sentinel is pleased to note that the pupils are appreciating and improving the opportunities they enjoy. The semi-monthly entertainments that have already been given by the school demonstrate beyond question to the most casual observer the excellence of work being accomplished. The beauty of these entertainments is that they not only add greatly to the interest in the school on the part of parents, teachers and pupils but they stimulate and keep awake the interest of pupils in the daily curriculum of the school. The Sentinel congratulates Prof. Slaton upon the success that is crowning his efforts, and also congratulates Calera upon its splendid school.

The remarkable increase in gold production has been pointed out by ex-assistant Secretary of the Treasury Upton in a recent statement, in which he shows the following remarkable facts.

1. The average annual production of gold and silver in the civilized globe per 100 of population during the ten years from 1820 to 1830 was $10.62.

2. The average annual production of gold and silver in the civilized globe per 100 of population during the ten years from 1830 to 1840 was $13.01.

3. The average annual production of gold alone in the civilized world per 100 of population during the year 1895 was $32.72 and $40.08 during the year 1896.

In a word, the production of gold per capita during the year 1896 was three times the production per capita of both gold and silver during the decade from 1820 to 1830.

This absolutely refutes the whole theory of bimetalists that the demonetization of silver has reduced prices by reducing the amount of basic money.

A communication appearing elsewhere suggesting Mr. J. L. Peters for Circuit Judge meets with the hearty endorsement of The Sentinel. Mr. Peters is a lawyer of ability and a gentleman of unimpeachable integrity—and would hold the scales of justice with an impartial hand. The Sentinel believes he would be a strong candidate before the people if he would consent to enter the race. We have not heard of any candidate as yet from Shelby for judicial honors but we have heard of aspirants for this position in Talladega and Calhoun. It seems to The Sentinel that it is about time for Shelby to put in her claim, and we hope Mr. Peters may see his way clear to bear Shelby's banner in this contest.

The Calhoun County Fair was a decided success in every particular. The Hot Blast, as well as the county is to be congratulated. The Hot Blast of yesterday says:

All the accounts of the Calhoun County Fair Association have been audited and the association will pay dollar for dollar on all premiums offered and on all debts contracted, and all improvements made will remain on the ground to be used by the fair next year.

The Usual Way.

The New Democrat Advertiser says:

The Louisville & Nashville railroad, with its accustomed generosity, has paid its school tax for this year to the amount of $417. It is little matters like this that endear this line to the hearts of the people. The money could not legally be collected from them, but they paid it from a sense of justice and to show their good will to the community.

Paying Off.

The Louisville & Nashville pay car for this visit is paying off today in the city. Tomorrow they go around the Mineral and the next day down the line towards New Orleans. The last trip they were unable to pay Montgomery, but went through to Pensacola and the trip prior to that they were not able to get into New Orleans—Birmingham Ledger.

Gave Him a Silver Gavel.

Washington, Nov. 16.—At the regular monthly meeting of the South-eastern Passenger Association here today Col. W. A. Tuck, General Passenger Agent of the Southern Railway was presented with a solid silver gavel in honor of his recent election to the presidency of the American Association of Railway Passenger Agents. Col. Almore, General Passenger Agent of the L. & N., made the presentation speech.

The Chattanooga Southern.

The Cherokee Sentinel says:

Messrs. W. S. Hoskins, manager of the Chattanooga Southern, and Hood Tucker, civil engineer, were in town Tuesday night. They came over from Round Mountain and left Wednesday morning for Montgomery through the country. A committee of the citizens of Centre met Mr. Hoskins at the Alabama House and discussed railroad matters with him. He assured them that the Chattanooga Southern would be extended to Montgomery, but would not say positively that it would come by Centre. However, he spoke rather encouragingly and said he was favorably impressed with the route.

They are Coming South.

Philadelphia Record.

A number of the New England cotton manufacturers who were lately in session in this city have been prospecting in the southern field, and a dispatch from Asheville, N. C., says: "They will visit Spartanburg, Greenville, Columbia and Charlotte, Concord and other towns in North Carolina. The manufacturers are looking over this territory with a view to removing their plants from New England to the South, or of engaging in the cotton mill business here independent of their northern holdings." It is worthy of note that while the cotton industry is menaced with ruin in England, it is making arrangements for more extensive ramification than ever in this country.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

Conforming to a well established custom, I hereby designate Thurs. day, November 25, 1897, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer to Almighty God for the blessings we have enjoyed in the past and for his protection in the future.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State at the Capitol, this 16th day of November, A. D., 1897. Jos. F. JOHNSTON, Governor.

"The whole South," says The Augusta Herald, "is aroused over the necessity of establishing such a sanitary system as will prevent another epidemic of yellow fever." The Charleston News and Courier says "It ought to be. Whether it is somewhat doubtful. The lessons of calamities usually pass out of mind with the calamities." The Georgia Legislature now has before it a proposition looking to a national quarantine system, and it will go a long way towards influencing favorable action in Congress if it should pass that body.—Advertiser.

Its richly tinted color-plates illustrate the charming possibilities of Fashion's latest discoveries, the Russian Jacket and the Flare Skirt, as well as current fancies in Dress Goods, Trimmings, Millinery, etc. The recognition of the season of good cheer includes Agnes Repplier's appreciative paper on "Christmas Literature," Lucia M. Robbins' story of how a gloomy Southern Christmas was changed into a very happy one. The Delineator is the woman's favorite magazine, and is issued by the famous fashion publishers, the Butterick Publishing Co. at 7 to 17 West 13th street, New York at the low rate of $1.00 for a year's subscription or 15 cents per copy.

J. P. WORD.

THE CONFEDERATE VETERAN

With next month completes its fifth year. It has had remarkable success for a "class" magazine. S. A. Cunningham its founder and proprietor, started it in January 1893, with a subscription-list of forty-seven names, has forged to the front with extraordinary zeal, making each succeeding issue as much better as was practicable.

The June, 1897, number of 100 pages, issued just before the great reunion at Nashville, is the most elaborate yet published, and the subsequent issues have contained a largely increased reading department. The liberal offer to supply all of these back numbers and the two following years—to the end of the century—for $2 is maintained, and it is certainly most liberal.

The Veteran has attained the greatest prominence of all similar publications in history, and being broadly patriotic and with finest work in quality, it is highly respected North and ardently sustained at the South. The proprietor spares neither labor or expense to maintain and to strengthen it. The aggregate circulation, next month's issue included, will have been seven hundred and twenty-four thousand, weighing over one hundred and eighty thousand pounds!

A liberal commission is paid to agents and a superb prize of a fine $450 piano or $200 in gold coin is offered the person who secures the largest number of new subscribers by December 31. Although this offer has been out for two months, twenty six subscribers would now secure it.

Mr Cunningham has been ever diligent in his worthy public enterprise to erect a monument to Sam Davis, whose record in the manner of sacrificing his life for principles is unexampled, and he has raised more than two thousand dollars already for that purpose. The most pathetic of all the thrilling tributes on that subject appears in the November number from one of his executioners, who contributes $10 to the fund.

November 27 is thirty-fourth anniversary of the hero's death on the gallows. And Mr Cunningham appeals to every one who has the heart and has not yet done so, to send at least the popular amount of one dollar to the fund. The Veteran for July, 1897, containing the history, including the account of the circumstances furnished the Veteran by Gen. G. M. Dodge, the Federal commander (who contributes to the fund) will be sent complimentary to any who contemplate subscribing. Address S. A. Cunningham, Nashville, Tenn.

School Entertainment.

The semi-monthly entertainment at the Calera High School given on last Friday evening was a delightful affair and reflected much credit upon teachers and pupils alike. The primary department held the boards on this occasion and the little folks acquitted themselves most handsomely indeed, carrying out the program from start to finish without halt or pause like trained soldiers. They were upon the stage at one time thirty little girls and forty little boys. A prettier picture than they presented is rarely if ever seen. They were the jewels of the hearts and homes of Calera. The program was quite an entertaining one, consisting of readings, recitations, dialogues and songs by the chorus classes. The bright, happy faces, the speaking eyes and cheery voices of the children and their systematic, orderly movements betokened their enjoyment in the exercises as well as the careful and painstaking training they had received at the hands of their teachers. Where each and every child performed its part so well invidious comparisons are out of place, but the Sentinel feels confident that all the little folks will allow us to compliment Master Leo Byrd on his beautiful little speech and its splendid delivery. A large audience of interested friends and patrons of the school greeted the little folks on this pleasant and most interesting occasion and it affords the Sentinel pleasure, not only on its own account but in behalf of the friends and patrons of the school to congratulate Prof. Slaton and his accomplished assistant upon the work that is being accomplished as is so satisfactorily demonstrated by these semi-monthly entertainments. The next one will take place on next Friday night week, at which time the children of the more advanced grades will entertain. And right here the Sentinel would say to all those who have not heretofore enjoyed the privilege of attending these entertainments to be on hand if they wish to spend a pleasant and profitable evening as well as to encourage the teachers and pupils, and thereby advance the interests of the school.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

We are requested by Mr. A. P. R. Dahl, City Engineer, to ask parties owning lots in the city to look up their deeds to same and allow him to see them in order to facilitate the work he is now engaged in of making a survey of the city. By complying with his request he will be greatly assisted in locating streets and lots.

Mr. S. H. Gist, one night this week heard commotion among his chicken and went out to the chicken house to ascertain the cause. He found that the disturber of the chicken quietude was a big fat opossum. He immediately made war upon his highness with a stick and succeeded in effecting his capture. Mr. 'Possum was thereby defeated in his purpose to obtain a good chicken supper and instead, furnished a good square meal himself the next day accompanied of course by "livers."

Prof. W. R. Trimble, of Camp Hill, Tallapoosa county, has accepted the position of assistant teacher in the Calera High School, and entered upon his duties this week. He comes highly recommended both as a gentleman and a teacher and will be a valued addition to the school. The Sentinel welcomes him to Calera.

Manufacturers of and Dealers in Disraeli and Gladstone.

In a recently published book Reginald Brett of England says that Queen Victoria once impatiently remarked: "I am no longer Queen, Mr. Gladstone is King." The Grand Old Man always had an air of aloofness about him, even when he was in the presence of royalty. Being a Jew, on the other hand, was always welcome at Windsor. The Queen didn't like him at first, it is true, but he gradually won her over. How? "In trifles Disraeli never forgot the sex of the sovereign. In great affairs he never appeared to remember it."

Old-Time Scotch Obituary.
The following death notice appeared in the Edinburgh Weekly Magazine of March 2, 1775: "Feb. 12—At: New Reay, in the county of Caithness, much regretted, Francis Taft, parochial school master there, in the one hundred and second year of his age; a man of an athletic form, of a saturnine complexion and his size about six foot. He lived chiefly upon vegetables, was a favorite of the muses and at times drank freely. He was no less distinguished for his piety than for the good order he observed in his school, for his easy method of teaching and for infusing into his pupils a laudable spirit of emulation. He retained his senses to the last."

Over Half a Million for a Book.
The highest price ever offered for a single volume was tendered by a number of wealthy Hebrew merchants of Venice to Pope Julius II. for a very ancient Hebrew bible. It was believed to be an original copy of the Septuagint version of the scriptures, translated from the Hebrew into Greek in 277 B. C. The sum mentioned to Julius was $600,000, but the Pope declined the offer.

"Say, aren't those woolen clothes worth this kind of a day?"
"I don't know; I haven't asked them. If they are like me they are, though."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

A Nonsensical Notion.
Some folks actually believe that they can cure skin diseases through their stomachs. It's absurd on its face—absurd on the face of the man who believes, too, because his disease stays right there. Stays there till he uses Tetrazine. It's the only safe and certain cure for Tetrazine, Ringworm, Eczema and other Itchy irritations. Good for dandruff, too. At drug stores, 50 cents, or by mail from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

Rudyard Kipling

The Companion's yearly calendars are recognized as among the richest and most costly examples of this form of art. Why Not Grow Beets?
Germany has 1,000,000 acres of land in sugar beets, and France has 1,700,000. Ten or twelve tons of beets can be grown to the acre and will yield a ton of sugar. One million acres of sugar beets give a crop worth $50,000,000. One million acres in corn at present prices give a crop worth $8,250,000. Why not grow sugar beets?—Leavenworth Times.

Rome's Cemetery.
The most extensive cemetery in the world is that at Rome, in which over 6,000,000 human beings have been interred.

Electric Light on Battlefields.
Special attention is being given by the French military authorities to the questions of succoring the wounded on battlefields when night comes on after a great battle. Experiments have been made with powerful electric arc lights, but the apparatus has conditions. At length it has been practically determined that the ambulance corps men shall wear little incandescent glow-lamps in their hats, just like ladies of the ballet in a spectacular extravaganza. Each man is to carry a little primary battery in his pocket for the production of the current. The wounded in need of succor will look out for the little moving lights, and if possible drag themselves toward them.—Paris letter.

Number of Foreign Cardinals.
Cardinal di Rende's death, according to the Tablet, has made the number of foreign Cardinals greater than that of the Italian for the second time within twelve months. There are now thirty-one of the former to thirty of the latter, a state of things which, until within a few years, had not occurred for many centuries.

Not Very Cleanly.
The natives of Alaska never change their clothes, unless they are worn out. They are considered the filthiest race of beings on the earth.

CHICAGO'S VETERAN POSTMAN.

Abram D. Jones Thirty Years a Letter Carrier in the Windy City.

Letter carriers are now wearing their service stripes. Each stripe is indicative of five years of service. The greatest honor to be conferred, that of six stripes, was awarded to Abram D. Jones.

CHICAGO'S OLDEST LETTER CARRIER.

Jones, the veteran letter carrier of Chicago. It was in 1867 that Jones received his appointment. At that time General Frank S. Sherman was postmaster. Jones had come here from New York a more lad and gained his position through the influence of Judge Henry Fuller. He has remained in continuous service ever since, a period of thirty years, in which the veteran letter carrier has never paid the penalty of a single day's suspension for blunders. He has served at the central station, says the Times-Herald, since the day of his appointment, and has passed through all the various vicissitudes of the growth of the postoffice. In May, 1895, he was transferred at his own request to the Englewood station, where he is now in active service. Of fifty-one carriers appointed simultaneously with him in 1867, he is the only one who still remains. He is the only man among 1,500 postal clerks who wears six stripes.

Destructive Bullets.
Lee-Mefford bullets were made effective during the recent Benin expedition through the soldiers shaving off the tops. This caused the case to drop off when the rifle was discharged, and enabled the leaden inner part to inflict a wound severe enough to stop the onset of attacking parties.

ALABAMA GLEANINGS.
Pertinent Paragraphs of the Late News of the State.

Big Contract Let.
The Anniston Pipe & Foundry Company let the contract Thursday for the brick and carpenter work necessary in rebuilding the big shop to Mr. W. W. McAfee, formerly of Anniston, but now of Atlanta. The contract for the steel roof will probably be let next week.

A Young Lady Drowned.
While attempting to ford the river near Tusculum, Miss Barrett and two companions were thrown from their wagon. They landed on an island and were picked up in a boat by a negro. The boat capsized shortly after all got into it, and Miss Barrett was drowned. The others escaped.

Greenville is the Fever Line.
Governor Johnston, acting under advice of a majority of the board of health, issued a proclamation Saturday removing quarantine on Alabama mails and freight and exempting all points in the state excepting those south of Greenville from quarantine regulations on and after Tuesday morning.

Sixteen Damage Suits Settled.
Sixteen of the suits against the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, growing out of the Cahaba river wreck of December 27, were compromised Wednesday, and will be dismissed from the docket in the United States Court. It is probable that the remaining suits will be compromised.

Orphans' Home for Colored Children.
The Alabama Colored Orphans' Home is the name of a new association to be formed by Birmingham ministers. The home will be opened November 26 for the reception of orphans and other destitute colored children. It is proposed to secure a tract of thirty or forty acres of land near the city and erect suitable buildings thereon.

A Strike in Walker County.
Fifty miners employed in the Mountain Valley mines, in Walker county, are out on a strike. The men were given an increase of five cents on the ton a short time ago, and everything ran smoothly for a few days, when, it is alleged, the mine operators increased the price of all goods in the commissary to correspond with the increase in wages. This caused the strike.

Arresting Postal Law Violators.
Postoffice Inspector Warren, of the Chattanooga division, has succeeded in breaking up and arresting a big gang of postal crooks in North Alabama. During the past week he has arrested not less than fifteen men, all on the charge of using the mails to defraud. The field of operation seems to have been the neighborhood around Attalla, Weaver's Station and Union Grove. The particulars of this successful raid have not been given out yet.

Grading in Rapid Progress.
The work on the grading of the Selma & Atlanta Air Line has been going on despite the yellow fever scare and the quarantine. About two miles and a half have already been graded, including two large fills. Friday a car load of new scrapers, which have been in quarantine, arrived and were put to work with about fifty more mules. Contractor Carson states that in a few days a level stretch of country will be reached and rapid progress will be made.

Profitable Gold Mining.
A piece of ore taken from a mine in Cleburne county recently, assayed $1,000 to the ton in gold. This was an exceptionally rich piece of ore. The general ores, as taken from mines in this locality, run from $5 to $150 per ton, and where the ore is not too refractory from $3 to $5 per ton makes very profitable mining operations. The Royal mine at Tallapoosa is working $3 to $4 surface ore at a cost not to exceed $1.25 per ton, is running 100 tons daily and intends shortly to increase the capacity of its mill to 200 tons.

Forming a Union Label League.
A labor organization is now being formed in Birmingham which may play some part in the local political affairs, and especially in the next general election. The new organization will be known as the Union Label League, and will have for its chief purpose the encouragement of the use of the union label and the furtherance of the interests of organized labor in general. Its doctrine will be to encourage home merchants and manufacturers to use the union label and employ union help, and it will endeavor to elect to office such men as are friendly to organized labor.

Mortgages Non-Taxable.
The court of Madison county commissioners has delivered a ruling on the subject of taxation of chattel mortgages which will result in a great loss to the state treasury if the courts of other counties make the decision. In reporting assessments on escaped property, Tax Commissioner Turner assessed chattel mortgages in Madison county to the amount of nearly $300,000. The tax assessor entered these on his books and delivered them to the collector. A number of mortgagees holding crop and chattel mortgages decided to contest the right of the county officers in making these assessments, with the result that the commissioners, on the advice of Judge Richard Walker, an ex-judge of the supreme court, decided the mortgages to be non-taxable property.

News has been received from Helena, Ark., announcing the death of Judge M. T. Sanders. Judge Sanders was a native of Greene county, and had many friends in Alabama.

Ben Thrasher, a brother of the notorious Bart Thrasher, has been arrested and is being held at Morris, on the charge of robbery. An alleged accomplice, Ben Smith, is also in custody.

While Wade Childree, a resident of Valley Grove, Covington county, was sitting in his house, Saturday night, reading his Bible, some one slipped up in the dark and shot him in the back of the head, killing him instantly.

Contractor Smith, of the Mobile, Jackson and Kansas City railroad construction department, states that the work is progressing rapidly, and that the construction camp of his firm would be removed on Monday to near the Pascagoula river.

James R. Sovereign, who has been general master workman of the Knights of Labor for the past four years, was relieved of his office Friday by the general assembly, which has been in session in Louisville, Ky., since Monday last. The bubonic plague is raging in the districts of Poona, Shotapur and Suri, India. It has also appeared at Kota, near Karachi in Sindh, and at Jand Kawal, in Junnadhun district. Near Hardwar a colony of monkeys have been attacked by the disease. The authorities are destroying and isolating the diseased animals.

In an interview the president, Mr. Haas, said: "The company has decided, as a result of the meeting just held, to develop the brown ore finds at Leeds. How extensively we will develop them or where we shall begin has not been decided upon. To raise the money necessary for this and other purposes of improvement the company voted an increase of its capital stock. The amount it was increased to will be made known later on."

To Develop Their Properties.
Visiting stockholders and directors of the Sloss Iron & Steel Company have been in Birmingham for several days. The last day of their visit they spent on a tour of the properties of the company, winding up at Leeds, where they took a look at the brown ore finds on Oak and Pine Ridges, of which so much has been said. All the visitors admitted that they were very favorably impressed with the showing and they freely gave it out that a general development of the properties of the company had been determined upon as the result of their visit.

Will Prepare Two Vessels.
The Madrid correspondent of a London paper says: Finding it impossible to raise the sum of 3,000,000 pounds by loan or tax to carry out its original naval plans, the government has decided to build two cruisers only. They will be of 2,000 tons each. It is intended to summon the courts as soon as possible in order to obtain credits to build more men of war and then place more powerful guns on existing vessels. The Spanish navy is already superior to the American navy.

Cattle For Cuba.
Vice Consul Springer has sent to the state department the governor-general's decree permitting, from the 10th instant, the importation of all horned cattle into the island of Cuba free of import or other duties. The decree will remain in force until January 10, next. The actual importation of cattle at this time is 1,000 head per week.

The mandate granting autonomy to Cuba will be formally gazetted on November 23.

Fire at Mouse Creek, Tenn., a small station on the Southern railway, destroyed almost the entire village. All the stores and several residences burned, together with the building in which the telephone station was located. The loss is not yet estimated, but the village is reported to be wiped out.
Ex-Congressman Frank W. Mondell, of Wyoming, was appointed assistant commissioner of the general land office Monday. Judge Emory F. Best, of Georgia, whom he succeeds, in all probability, will be appointed an assistant attorney-general in the interior department.

Song of the Thanksgiving Bird

Let poets sing the lark a-wing,
The thrush's silvery suing,
The mocking-bird to rapture stirred,
The robin's rhythmic wooing;
Aye! let them praise in lyric lays
The blue-jay pert and perky,
But O for me each time, perdie,
The plump Thanksgiving turkey!

Fair Madge may pet her parakeet
As word'rous wise and wary,
And Mistress Maud may loudly laud
Her cunning young canary;
Content am I as days slip by,
And skies above grow murky,
If it's my luck to hear—"cluck! cluck!"—
The plump Thanksgiving turkey.

Then let prevail the love of quail,
Ye skilled men of the cartridge,
Give meed profuse to grouse and goose,
To woodcock and to partridge!
Faith, naught I care how others fare,
If sour they look or smirky,
When hot for me is served, perdie,
The plump Thanksgiving turkey.
—Harry Delouze.

A THANKSGIVING SACRIFICE.

LEASE God we shall all of us eat our Thanksgiving dinner at home this year.

The bleak November day might have been blue and glittering with the sunshine of an Italian morn, to judge by Captain Ross' face, as he hurried aft; and the two passengers who leaned over the rail of the Forest Queen, watching the foamy crests of the waves, looked after him.

"A good fellow that," said Mr. Aymescourt. "Well, I, for one, shall be glad to hear the church bell in the old square steeple at home. And you, Mr. Dayrel?"

"Home!" repeated the gentleman addressed, a tall, dark, Spanish type of individuality. "It may sound odd, but now you mention it, I have no home!"

Mr. Aymescourt looked quickly up at his gleaming eyes.

"But I suppose you had one once?"

"Homes are not immortal, any more than people!" answered Dayrel.

"Is his a riddle for me to guess?"

"No; it is hardly worth the trouble—unless you cared to listen to the eternal self-repeating story of human life."

"Human nature is the worthiest study to which I can aspire," Mr. Aymescourt answered. "And if you deem me worthy of becoming your confidant—"

"Here it is, then," interrupted Dayrel almost impatiently. "I was betrothed to a girl as beautiful as an angel, and, as I believed, true. Well, I had occasion to take such a journey as this one has been. When I returned she was engaged to another man."

"And—"

"And she married him. Why do you look surprised? The fickleness of woman is no such new development, I suppose? But then I belong to an unlucky family. The Dayrels seldom succeed in fortune, and they always die sudden and violent deaths."

"It is not possible that you are so superstitious as to—"

"Not superstitious, Mr. Aymescourt. Call me a fatalist, if you will; I only report the unerring record of the past. Since the time I mention, I have been a sort of wanderer to and fro on the face of the earth. I hear other people talk of homes; to me it is the merest catchword."

"But—"

"Stop a minute," said Dayrel, lowering his voice, and laying his hand lightly on his companion's arm. "Do you see that young man by the cabin door? the tall, handsome man, who has a smile for everyone?"

"Yes."

"That is he—the man who married Mary Armitage."

"Does he know—"

"That I am his defeated rival? No. He has talked to me of his wife at home—of the two little children counting the days till his return—of the bright hearthstones where the Thanksgivings fires are all ablaze; and I have listened, and answered him 'Yea' and 'Nay' with the calm philosophy of a stoic. After all, there is a certain grim humor in the game called Life."

Aymescourt looked sadly into the stern face.

"And does all this please you?"

"Please me? Yes—about as much as it pleases the writhing hospital patient to feel the surgeon's knife. I could have murdered that man more than once and felt it no sin. You need not start; the Cain-like impulse has passed away. I am quite harmless now. Only you cannot expect a man to feel kindly toward him who has ruined his whole future."

And Dayrel turned away and resumed the slow, measured walk up and down the upper deck, which his casual meeting with Aymescourt had interrupted.

And all this time the Forest Queen was plowing the yeasty tides nearer and more near home.

Captain Ross had calculated that the brisk little craft would ride into the rock-bound harbor of the Maine port to which they were consigned early on Thanksgiving morning.

"It'll be a close run," said he; "but somehow I don't like the idea of spending my Thanksgiving on ship-board. It isn't orthodox, as Deacon Posey would say." And the captain laughed.

And just at the gray break of dawn, when they could almost hear the church bells ring through the fog and darkness, there went a thrill and quiver through the Forest Queen from stem to stern—a sudden pulse, like the beating of a heart. Guy Dayrel started up in his berth and tapped at the board partition which separated his sleeping quarters from those of his nearest neighbor.

"Aymescourt!" he cried, "wake up! There is something wrong!"

Aymescourt started from his dreams.

"Wrong! What is it?"

"We have run aground somewhere, or struck a rock. Stop—don't ask any more questions. Keep your breath and strength; they will both be needed. Dress as quickly as you can."

When Aymescourt came on deck, amid the darkness and chill and confusion, he could learn only one fact—that the ship had struck a rock, and was fast leaking away her life.

"But you needn't be so alarmed, ma'am," said the captain, to a pale young mother, who was kneeling on the floor of the deck, with her arms round both her children. "We can't be far off Wayne's Beach, and our sailors would know the way through these shoals if you were to blindfold 'em. We have two good life-boats. It's only leaving the Queen to go down by herself."

The captain rubbed his shaggy sleeve lightly across his eyes as he spoke, and then turned away to issue the necessary orders.

The ruddy shine of sunrise was tipping the waves with crests of carnelian, when the first life-boat rode off, manned by true hands and fearless hearts.

"Make haste!" the captain called to the men who were preparing to launch the last. "She's filling fast."

"How long do you think she will last?" asked Guy Dayrel calmly.

"Half an hour perhaps—not longer."

The passengers crowded into the boat with the headlong haste of those who are fleeing from death, and she was full, while two men yet stood on the deck of the fatal vessel—Captain Ross and George Vassar, the man whose bright eyes had stolen Mary Armitage away from her first lover.

An old sailor started up from his oar.

"Captain! Captain! this musn't be! Take this oar! I'm not such a lubber as to save myself and see you perish!"

"Sit down, sir!" roared the captain. "Do you suppose discipline isn't discipline now, just as much as ever it was? I am captain of this craft, and I mean to stand by her to the last. Only," turning to Mr. Vassar, as the discomfited old salt dropped down into his seat. "I'm sorry for you, sir! I have always expected some such end as this; but you—"

George Vassar had become deadly pale—he clasped his hand to his eyes. "May God have mercy on Mary and the little ones," he uttered.

With a sudden movement, Guy Dayrel swung himself past Aymescourt once more, on to the deck of the fast-sinking ship.

"Mr. Vassar," he said quietly, "take my place. You have a wife and children. I have no one to care whether I perish or not. Don't stop to thank me—go at once. And if your wife should ask you who it was that recked so little of his life, tell her it was one Guy Dayrel!"

There was a crash and splintering of the timbers, as Dayrel almost pushed Vassar into the boat. The Forest Queen settled lower and lower, and went down in the very sight of the horror-stricken survivors.

George Vassar sat at his Thanksgiving board that afternoon, with red and white chrysanthemums decking the feast, and wreaths of autumn leaves rivaling the coral shine of the red embers on the hearth—sat with wife and little ones at his side, and warmth and brightness all around. Four or five miles below, washed ashore by the cruel rush of the waves, with his white face turned up toward the darkening autumn sky, and seaweed in his wet locks, lay the corpse of Guy Dayrel.

But perhaps there was no night ever to overshadow his Thanksgiving Day!

A Thanksgiving Dinner, Hard, Though Pleasantly Earned.

Day was certainly behind time. There we sat craning our necks to locate the glorious bird, but it was too dark to see them in the foliage of the magnolias. When the sky began to clear up we took standing positions, and made our necks ache by looking upward. I was the first to see the game, and this one was directly over my head; and it was only a few moments more when each, except the boy, was sighting along his gun barrel waiting for the word "Ready." All of us pointed out a splendid shot to him, but his eyes were stubborn and he could not see the turkey we had selected for him. One moment he would see him, and when we were all ready, he would say "Wait," in a stage whisper. The turkeys had discovered that something was wrong, and were sounding their signals of alarm in shrill "pits" and "puts."

We were especially anxious for the boy to bag a turkey, as he had never killed one. When we did get ready to shoot, my neck was almost broken. As the four reports rang out in concert, two fine turkeys, a gobbler and a hen, fell to the ground, the victims of my brother and nephew. The rest of the flock flew away in the wildest alarm.

Everybody has seen a gobbler strut, but the pride of the male turkey was surpassed by my nephew that morning, as he shouldered his first turkey.—Outing.

Plum Pudding as the English Make It.

For English plum pudding clean, wash and dry one pound of currants; stone one pound of raisins. Mix the currants, raisins, one pound of suet, chopped fine, three-quarters of a pound of stale breadcrumbs, a quarter of a pound of brown sugar, the grated rind of one lemon, half a pound of minced, candied orange-peel, a quarter of a pound of flour, half of a grated nutmeg. Beat five eggs: add to them half a pint of orange juice, then pour over the dry ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pack into greased small kettles or moulds. This will make about six pounds. Boil for ten hours. Serve with hard sauce.—Ladies' Home Journal.

THANKS GIVING

For what are we thankful? For this:
For the breath and the sunlight of life;
For the love of the child, and the kiss
On the lips of the mother and wife.

For roses entwining,
For birds and for bloom;
And hopes that are shining
Like stars in the gloom.

For what are we thankful? For this:
The strength and the patience of toil;
For even the joys that we miss—
The hope of the seed in the soil.

For souls that are whiter
From day unto day;
And lives that are brighter
From going God's way.

For what are we thankful? For all
The sunshine—the shadow—the song;
The blossoms may wither and fall,
But the world moves in music along!

For simple, sweet living,
The Love that doth teach it,
A heaven forgiving,
And faith that can reach it!
—F. L. Stanton.

FIRST THANKSGIVING DINNER.

Indian Chiefs Were Hospitably Entertained by Pilgrim Fathers.

The first Thanksgiving was appointed by Governor Bradford, at Plymouth, Massachusetts, in 1621, the year following the landing of the Pilgrims, in order that the Colonists in a more special way could rejoice together at having all things in good and plenty, writes Clifford Howard, in the Ladies' Home Journal. In preparation for the feast "gunners were sent into the woods for wild turkeys, which abounded there in great numbers; kitchens were made ready for preparing the feast—especially the large one in Dame Brewster's house, which was under the immediate direction and charge of Priscilla Molines, she who afterward became the wife of John Alden—while a messenger was dispatched to invite Massasoit, the chief of the friendly tribe, to attend the celebration.

"Early on the morning of the appointed Thursday—about the first of November—Massasoit and ninety of his warriors arrived on the outskirts of the village, and with wild yells announced their readiness to enjoy the hospitality of their white brethren. The little settlement, which now consisted of seven dwellings and four public buildings, was soon astir with men, women and children, who gave the Indians a hearty welcome as they filed into the large square in front of the Governor's house. Soon the roll of a drum announced the hour of prayer, for no day was begun without this religious service. Then followed a holiday of feasting and recreation, which continued not only that day but during the two succeeding days. The usual routine of duties was suspended; the children romped about in merry play; the young men indulged in athletic sports and games in friendly rivalry with the Indians; the little American army of twenty men, under the leadership of Miles Standish, went through its drill and manual of arms, to the great delight and astonishment of the natives, while the women busied themselves in the careful preparation of the excellent meals, which were eaten in the open air."

The Pumpkin Pie.

Oh, on Thanksgiving Day, when from east and from west,
From north and from south come the pilgrim and guest;
When the hair-haired New Englander sees
The old broken links of affection restored;
When the care-worn man seeks his mother once more,
And the worn matron smiles where the girl smiled before—
What moistens the lips and what brightens the eye;
What calls back the past like the rich pumpkin pie?
—Whittier.

A Thanksgiving Day.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The political situation in the state is evidently assuming an interesting form, and many rapid changes appear to be taking place in the heretofore contemplated plans of the enemies of the democracy. In the very recent past, it is reported, ex-Chairmen Moseley and Vaughn of the Republican forces have harmonized, and every thing is now lovely in the family. Since Congressman Howard, upon whom the eyes of our Populist friends were turned as their candidate for Governor, has declined the honor of leading their forces at this time, preferring to gather more laurels in the Congressional field, they are casting about for another leader, and it is believed that their choice will fall upon Mr. W. F. Aldrich, and that upon his shoulders they will endeavor to place gubernatorial honors. In that event they must have a successor to Mr. Aldrich in the congressional race in this district, and it is stated that this matter is also virtually settled, and that Mr. Aldrich's successor as the Populite candidate for congress is to be Mr. Stephen Noble of Anniston. In the event that Mr. Aldrich is selected as the Populite candidate for Governor in the coming August election, it remains to be seen what course will be pursued by the republicans. Some of them at least do not seem to be very favorably disposed to Mr. Aldrich and do not regard him as a republican, as is evidenced by the resolutions adopted by the Republican executive committee of the 4th congressional district which met in this city on last Thursday and called a district convention to meet at Calera, Tuesday March 8, 1898, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for congress. These resolutions it seems were adopted by the unanimous vote of the committee, and condemned Mr. Aldrich as being a free silver populite, and not a republican, and as not being recognized by the republican party of the district as a republican, and protest against the appointment of populites to office in the district as has been done under the auspices of Mr. Aldrich, and ask that the republicans of the country would not hold the republican party of this district responsible for the appointment of any except republicans, either in this district or in the state, deprecate the fact that through some unknown influence the present administration is permitting Mr. Aldrich to control the various appointments made in this district in the interest of the populist party and to the detriment of the republican party and the friends of the administration. If the populites should make Mr. Aldrich their standard bearer and the republicans harmonize with them as their Chairman and ex-Chairman have done with each other, they will give Gov. Johnson a lively race in August.

Politics appear to be warming up at a rapid rate in different sections of the state already, and the indications are that we are to have lively times during our state campaign next year. In the eighth district Judge Wm. Richardson has decided to contest congressional honors with Gen. Joe Wheeler, the present member of Congress. In the sixth district Hon. Elbert Willett, of Pickens, and Hon. John Rogers, of Sumter, it is stated, propose to make things lively for Hon. John H. Bankhead, the present incumbent. In the fourth district the probability is that several candidates will contest for the democratic nomination. Among those mentioned are Hon. Geo. M. Caldwell and Mr. R. P. Thomason, of Calhoun, and Hon. Thos. S. Plowman, of Talladega, the present congressman. No doubt in the other congressional districts the heaven is also working in the democratic fold, and from all indications, our friends the enemy are wide-awake in the same direction.

Calhoun is prolific of candidates this season. She has a candidate for State Superintendent of Education, Prof. John W. Abercrombie; for Circuit Judge, D. C. Blackwell, Esq.; two for chancellor, Hon. R. B. Kelly and E. H. Hanna, Esq., and probably two for Congress.

The political situation in Shelby is very quiet as yet. Candidates are somewhat backward in announcing.

The Selma Mirror will issue a large special edition next week.

The travel southward these days is reported heavy by the railroads.

Congress will meet now at an early day. The President has informed the cabinet that his message is practically ready.

John Ryan, Sr., a pioneer citizen and merchant of Atlanta, and one of the richest men in the south, died at his home in that city on the 22d inst., aged 71 years.

The plans have been prepared for the armor plant and will be submitted to congress by the special board. The cost will be $3,000,000, and the capacity 600,000 tons of armor per year. The board will suggest advertising for bids for its construction for use in estimates.

Theodore Durant, the noted California prisoner, it now appears, has another chance to escape the gallows. A letter has been found and is now in the hands of his attorneys, which it is stated was written by a man by the name of Blanthor Forbes who committed suicide while confined in the Meridian, Texas, jail the 2nd of March last year, in which he stated that he and not Durant murdered Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams. The letter was written to a fellow prisoner by the name of Pitts, who was arrested on some minor charge and occupied a cell adjoining that of Forbes. The long delay in producing this letter, it is stated, was caused by the fact that it was hidden in the lining of Pitts' coat, having worked through a hole in the pocket.

Sid Jones is working up interest in it, and Col. J. M. Green, of Chicago, is its western agent. There were eighteen men in this party.

Two parties of fifteen each came in from the west for Anniston and Fruit-hurst. A party of eighteen, bound for Fitzgerald, Ga., was also among the arrivals.

Mr. Jones states that the tide of immigration will be lively from now on, the quarantine being removed.

WORD & WEST,

The following paragraphs are copied from the Anniston Hot Blast:

Anniston is now in better condition than she has ever been, and if she could secure two new railroads during the next few months she would blossom as the green bay tree. In other words, she would take a long step towards the front line among the towns of Alabama.

The Washington correspondent of the Montgomery Advertiser says that it is pretty generally understood in Washington that W. F. Aldrich will succeed in his contest and will be given the seat occupied by Capt. Plowman, the regularly elected congressman from this district. This opinion no doubt is due to the fact that Aldrich has been recognized by the administration by allowing him to name the most of the postmasters of the Fourth district. There is no doubt about Capt. Plowman having received a majority of honest, fair ballots over Aldrich and it will be a shame if he is robbed of the place to which the people have elected him.

The supper given by the ladies of the Baptist church at the Vanderbilt last Friday night was a success in every particular and the ladies realized a nice little sum. Every day strengthens the belief of eminent physicians that impure blood is the cause of the majority of our diseases. Twenty-five years ago this theory was used as a basis for the formula of Brown's Iron Bitters. The many remarkable cures effected by this famous old household remedy are sufficient to prove that the theory is correct. Brown's Iron Bitters is sold by all dealers.

Glass Bangles.
Both Hindoo and Mussulman women wear glass bangles, and in the Northwest Provinces they are regarded as sacred objects. If a glass bangle be accidentally broken, its pieces must be gathered together and kissed three times. Every Hindoo woman wears these ornaments until her husband dies, when she breaks them with a brick or a stone, and substitute gold or silver ones, the sign in the north of India that the wearer is a widow. Thus it is that the demand for glass bangles is never-failing.

Oldest German Newspaper.
The Magdeburg Gazette, probably the oldest newspaper in Germany, last month celebrated its 250th anniversary. It is still conducted by representatives of the Faber family, which founded it in 1647, just at the close of the Thirty Years' War. The present heads of the venerable journalistic dynasty are the two brothers, Robert and Alexander Faber, perpetuating a line almost a century and a half older than that which rules over the London Times, the greatest if not the oldest of newspapers. Magdeburg took on the decorations of holiday in honor of its venerable Gazette, which well deserved them.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.
as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by E. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure to get the genuine. It is taken internally, and is made in Toledo, Ohio, by E. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle. Happenings of a Week Throughout Our Commonwealth.

Teachers' Fund Sent Out.

State Treasurer Ellis Friday sent out the money due the public school teachers for the fourth quarter ending September 30. The amount due the teachers was $109,957.62. This amount is considerably smaller than previous quarters.

Cotton Warehouse Burned.

Wednesday fire broke out in the cotton warehouse of A. G. Henry & Co. at Guntersville. The warehouse and 100 bales of cotton were consumed. Loss $25,000; no insurance. Origin of the fire supposed to be incendiary.

Will Apply for a Charter.

The coal miners are organizing local assemblies at the various collieries in the state, and will in a short time have enough assemblies to apply to President Hatchford, of the United Mine Workers of North America, for a charter as a district.

Inviting Them South.

The chamber of commerce of Huntsville is in correspondence with the mercantile clearing house of Boston with the view of having representatives of New England cotton mills come to Huntsville and see the advantages offered by the city as a cotton manufacturing center. Very favorable replies have been received.

Opening New Colonies.

A new colony that has sprung up practically of its own accord at McDonalds, Morgan county, but bids fair to excite some interest before long. Here a number of sturdy Germans have settled and will plant vineyards. Bismarck, another proposed German colony near Decatur, has been lagging on account of quarantines, but bids fair to reawaken. The town has been laid out and it is ready for settlers.

Union Labor League Organized.

A Union Labor League was organized in Birmingham last Friday, the intent of which is to strengthen and aid union labor. The following officers were elected: R. L. Russell, president; W. S. Lopez, vice-president; W. G. Turner, secretary; J. H. F. Moseley, treasurer. Only union men are eligible to be elected to fill the offices, but the membership is open to all persons in sympathy with the movement.

Birmingham as a Cotton Market.

The vast strides that Birmingham has made in the past few years as a cotton market has placed her fifth in receipts among the interior cities of the south—Memphis, Atlanta, Augusta and Montgomery alone receiving more. From 8,000 bales a few years ago, the receipts will this year reach 110,000. This change has been wrought by the cotton buyers who have located in Birmingham and created a market for the fleecy staple.

Reward Offered for Murderer.

About two weeks ago Mr. Wade Childree, one of the best citizens of Covington, a gentleman of high character and respected of all the good people, was assassinated about 8 p. m. while sitting in his own room and reading the Bible. He is not supposed to have had an enemy and no cause can be assigned for his murder. The solicitor has made diligent efforts to ascertain the assassin and failed. The family have offered a reward of $250 and the governor ordered a like reward to be paid by the state for the arrest and conviction of the assassin.

Live Times in Danville.

The people of Danville and vicinity are in earnest over their new railroad project. There will be an immense gathering ten miles from Danville Saturday. They will have an old-fashioned picnic and barbecue. Speakers will be imported from abroad to address the assembled multitude.

There will also be done some practical railroad building. They will have miners and prospectors and iron workers there. The miners will dig the coal and iron out of the ground, and the iron workers will smelt the ore in the presence of the assembled people.

M. A. O. Surveying a Line to Birmingham.

The Mobile and Ohio railroad is now seeking an entrance into Birmingham. For several weeks a large corps of engineers have been at work surveying the route. They are now at work between Blocton and Bessemer. The country in that vicinity is the very wildest imaginable and considerable time will be necessarily consumed in selecting the route and surveying small parts of it. The road is expected to use the line of the Birmingham, Bessemer and Powderly road as an entrance into Birmingham.

Has Fired His Last Engine.

E. P. Bishop, engineer on the first section of freight train No. 25, on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, shot and killed Wiley Clay, his negro fireman, Thursday night, near Oxmoor, while the train was in motion. The negro was told to fire the engine, but insolently refused to leave his seat. Clay was again told to stir up the fire, and it is said that he sulkingly got off his seat and drawing his pistol, fired one shot at Engineer Bishop, and then attacked him with a knife, severely lacerating his left breast. Engineer Bishop struggled with the negro and striking him with his gun he fired one shot, striking the negro in the breast, killing him instantly.

Some Sample Crops of Cotton.

The cotton crop in the section around Uniontown continues to be wonderful. Mr. Sid Knight claims that he will make 350 bales, an average on one plantation of eighteen bales to the acre. On last Friday from four and a half acres that had been picked over once he gathered 8,500 pounds of seed cotton. Mr. W. B. McKnight reports that he will make thirty-three bales with two mules. Mr. W. H. Munford, the most successful farmer in this section, besides making a fine crop of everything, including a big crop of hogs, will make 450 bales of cotton. He says he has one man who will make twenty bales with one mule. He says he has numbers of them who will make from fifteen to eighteen bales to the mule.

Canada's Representative in Birmingham.

Canada has sent a representative to the Birmingham district to investigate the report that iron was being extensively made in this district by convict labor. Her majesty's government has a very rigid law against anything entering its domains which has been manufactured by the aid of convict labor.

Alabama pig iron has in the past year been gaining quite a foothold among the manufacturers of her majesty's dominion. The fact that convict labor is employed in some of the coal mines of the state has become known across the border, and Mr. Atkinson was sent here to investigate and make a report.

This is entirely a new phase of the convict question in Alabama.

Thomas M. Wadsworth was killed near Dismal recently while repairing the floor of a neighbor's house. He made a misstep and fell through between the sleepers, a distance of about six feet, to the bottom of a cellar, falling on his head, and he only lived a few hours.

Major A. M. Wynn, one of Huntsville's oldest and most honored citizens, died last week at the ripe age of 74. While state senator from Limestone county he was an honored and influential member. He also served for a number of terms as treasurer of Madison county.

A dynamite explosion at Des Moines, Ia., killed Charles Barton and fatally mangled John Walters.

Governor Johnston, of Alabama, issued his proclamation Monday setting aside November 25 as a day for Thanksgiving.

State Normal College.

In spite of the scare from pestilence and quarantine, the State Normal College at Troy went on the even tenor of its way with a good attendance, and as good work as the state ever had done for it by any institution.

Troy enjoys the distinction of being 596 feet above sea level, and yellow fever has never come within fifty miles of it, and it is not believed by those well informed that the disease can spread at such altitude, if health measures are carefully observed.

Out of the several thousands of students in the State Normal College there in the ten years past, only two deaths have occurred at the college, and these from pneumonia and measles.

The college never had brighter prospects, and many new students are expected at the new term to open December 7. President Eldridge has calls for trained teachers from every direction, and the demand is above the supply. As school officers learn the value of teacher training they will insist more and more upon it. The State Normal College at Troy delights to serve school officers, schools and teachers.

MORGAN TALKS ABOUT HAWAII.

NEED HAVE NO FEARS OF FOREIGN OPPOSITION.

Since His Return He Favors Annexing the Island Stronger Than Ever.

Senator Morgan, of Alabama, member of the committee on foreign relations, has reached Washington on his return from Honolulu, where he went to post himself on the annexation question. For the first time, he submitted himself to an interview on the result of his trip, and in part said:

"My conclusions, based on my observations, are only a full confirmation of what I had previously believed, that it is our national duty, and will be in every way advantageous to all concerned, to annex Hawaii to this country. I have studied the questions from the most authentic and reliable sources. The establishment of an outpost of the United States within the tropics, and 2,200 miles from our coast, challenges the inquiry whether such action is necessary to our national welfare. Our northwestern possessions on the Pacific along the Aleutian Archipelago, are over 1,000 miles west of Honolulu. This gives us control of practically the entire American coast of the north Pacific. The intervention of the British possessions from the straits of Foca to the northern boundary of Alaska creates a powerful reason for our occupation of Hawaii. Without imputing to Great Britain any other motive than to extend her national policy of commercial conquest, it seems very obvious that if she should acquire dominion of Hawaii and open and fortify Pearl harbor, her military fortress at Esquimaux, on the island of Vancouver, co-operating without, would cut our coast line in two and would leave us incumbered with a mass of territory in Alaska, whose defenses would be almost impossible, and the enormous advantages of which would be lost to us. The Vancouver coal fields would give the British navy almost irresistible advantages in case of war and virtual dominion of commerce in time of peace.

"There would not be the slightest difficulty in the character, condition or wish of the 31,000 native people of Hawaii. They are far better adapted to American citizenship than many millions of those whom we have welcomed here from southern Europe and better adapted than the Indians, Mexicans and native Alaskans.

"Except among the few who expect personal favors and advancement from re-establishment of the royal government, the general body of the Hawaiian population will rejoice in the honor, safety, peace, and prosperity which annexation will bring. Morally and practically, the silent invasion of Hawaii from the orient (the Japanese) violates all the declared policy and often expressed purposes of the United States, to protect those people against foreign interference. The island as a national possession would richly reward us for expenditure of a hundred millions. The annexation would cost us nothing and will not at present excite the open opposition of any nation."

A SINGULAR MISTAKE.

In Attempting to Capture a Murderer One Officer Shoots Another.

News of a singular mistake, which came near having a tragic ending, comes from Uhlend, Ala., near Columbus, Ga., while the sheriff with a posse of men were endeavoring to capture a negro murderer, who was located by the officers in a house near Uhlend. The building was immediately surrounded. The sheriff and Frank Peppers, one of the posse, went to the back of the house to prevent the desperado escaping in that direction. For some reason the sheriff sent Peppers around to the front of the house again. As Peppers turned the corner of the house he was perceived by Gus Farrows, another member of the posse, who, thinking it was the negro who was trying to escape, blazed away at his brother officer with a double-barreled shotgun. Peppers fell to the ground, and Farrows was about to pour a load of buckshot into him if he attempted resistance, when he happened to perceive his mistake.

Most of the shot lodged in Peppers' arms, and although he is seriously wounded he will probably recover. The sheriff, hearing the shot, rushed around the house, thinking that the negro was escaping. In the midst of the confusion the negro slipped out the back door and escaped.

Steamer Bluff City Burned.

The magnificent Anchor Line steamer Bluff City, one of the finest and newest boats on the Mississippi river, which left St. Louis Wednesday bound for New Orleans with forty passengers and 1,000 tons of miscellaneous freight on board, burned to the water's edge at Chester, Ill., Thursday.

All passengers and the crew escaped to land without injury, but nothing on board was saved. The total loss will aggregate $100,000. A number of valuable race horses, being taken to New Orleans for the races there, lost their lives.

The Spanish steamer Montserrat, which left Havana on Sunday, October 31, with General Weyler on board, reached Spain Friday. As soon as possible after the Montserrat was signalled crowds of people flocked to cheer the deposed chieftain.

C. W. Woodall, superintendent of the Miami (Fla.) Transfer Company, was probably fatally injured while blasting stumps on the grounds of the company Friday. A falling rock or piece of the stump struck him on the head just above the left ear, lacerating his head in a most frightful manner.

A New "Ad" Scheme.

Advertising threatens to break out in a new place. Many barber shops in this city have recently received from a corporation, offered with men of distinguished surnames, a circular proposing an ingenious enterprise. The company writes to obtain the privilege of posting advertisements on the walls and ceilings of barber shops at such points as shall come within the range of vision of persons that submit themselves to the hands of the barber and his assistants. It is the hope of the company that the barbers will yield up their wall space in return for so many shares of stock per chair in the company, and the glittering hope is held out that when the business is once well established the stock at a par value of $10 will pay dividends of 50 per cent. annually. It is announced that the business is already established in 3,000 barber shops in Philadelphia.—New York Sun.

GEORGIA LADIES

HATE SHAMS:

Nervous Depression of Women.
A woman will often without knowing it commit slow suicide for her family. She will think toil and worry for her children. Too often they do not appreciate it. Her tired nerves and weary body at last reach a stage when she is almost powerless for any kind of mental or physical work, and she is depressed and worried over the consciousness that she is unable to perform her accustomed duties. Her organs of digestion are disordered and although there is a constant disposition to rest, wakefulness and loss of power to sleep are serious indications of nervous depression. What she needs is a course of Dr. Simmons' Squaw Vine Wine to restore a healthy functional activity and give tone and vitality to her nervous system. At the same time the stomach, liver and kidneys would be stimulated with Dr. M. A. Simmons' Liver Medicine.

Dr. A. C. Gore
Ball Ground, Ga., writes:
I have known Dr. M. A. Simmons' Liver Medicine 20 years, and that it cures La Grippe, Headache and other complaints. I think it is stronger than "Zellin's Regulator" and "Black Draught," and that it gives better satisfaction.

Pains in Lower Back.
After reaching maturity, and especially after passing through the experience of maternity, most women find their health seriously damaged, if not entirely impaired. The painful and weary dragging and bearing down sensation in the back almost every woman has at times experienced. Sometimes these are from uterine displacement, but often they are simply from weakness. Women who have to deal with such troubles, undergo severe fatigue or to endure crushing disappointment, are subject to this and many other diseases. We cannot too strongly recommend the use of Dr. Simmons' Squaw Vine Wine, the great female tonic and regulator.

REBELS FIRING UPON HAVANA.

A Band of Insurgents Making It Lively for the Spanish.

On Sunday morning, for the first time in the history of the Cuban war, rebel bullets sought the palace in Havana, according to a dispatch from Havana. The shots came from Casa Blanca, six hundred yards across the entrance to the harbor, and while nobody was hurt, the palace with its numerous lights, was a shining mark, and must have been hit. The Spanish authorities attempted to make light of the affair, but at the same time a reporter for La Lucha, who was on the spot, attempted to publish the facts and was arrested and is still incommunicado.

The attack on Casa Blanca was made by Brigadier General Rafael Cardenas and fifty rebels. They entered town shortly before midnight on horseback, and at the end of four hours each man led out of town a horse with one extra he had appropriated laden with clothing, provisions, silver plate and considerable money. Before they left they fired two volleys across the narrow harbor entrance at the palace and then coolly retired to a friend's house inside the Spanish lines and took supper, previously ordered. All this was done under the guns of Castle Moro.

It is learned from an insurgent source that the object of the rebels was to effect the release of Gen. Ruiz Rivera and hand a citizen named Fumerio, who is known as a Spanish spy. They failed in the first only because of some misconception regarding the appointed time on the part of the confederates inside the prison, with whom arrangements had been made to admit the raiders into the fortress. Fumerio managed to escape across the harbor.

DOORS CLOSED AGAINST WOMEN.

Methodist Minister Refused to Let Mrs. Harris Preach.

Mrs. Harris, a female revivalist, has concluded a revival at Hillsboro, Ala., a few miles east of Courtland. Large congregations attended the services, including many from the adjacent counties, going forty and fifty miles to hear her.

The meeting was commenced in the Methodist Episcopal church, South, by authority of the board of stewards, but Rev. Anson West, presiding elder of the Decatur district, learning of the use of this church by a female revivalist, went to Hillsboro and overruled the action of the board, interrupted the proceedings and caused a considerable flurry by officially closing the doors of the church to women preachers.

Mrs. Harris a widow of the late Robert Lee Harris, a noted evangelist of his time in this State.

Tougaloo University Burned. Fire broke out in the dormitory of the Tougaloo (Miss.) University Wednesday night, and despite the heroic work of the department the building was destroyed. Forty-three students and six teachers lost their entire personal effects. The loss is estimated at $20,000. The amount of insurance is not known.

Two Young Ladies Drowned.

Misses Mary and Katie Seaman were drowned last week at Middleton, O., and their mother is in a dangerous condition as the result of a runaway. They were driving across a bridge, when their horse became frightened and plunged over the sideguard of the structure into fifteen feet of water. The ladies went down with the horse and the spring wagon. Their screams brought help to the scene, but not in time to save the daughters, whose dead bodies were recovered. The mother was resuscitated with great difficulty and is still in a serious condition.

CALL TO COTTON GROWERS.

President Lane, of the American Cotton Growers' Association,

ISSUES A STIRRING ADDRESS TO MEMBERS

Calling Them to Meet in Convention at Memphis, Tenn., December 20, to Devise Ways to Meet and Combat the Present Industrial Condition.

Hon. Hector D. Lane, of Alabama, president of the American Cotton Growers' Protective Association, has issued an address to the cotton growers of America calling a meeting of the association at Memphis, December 20. President Lane's address is as follows:

"In response to the earnest request of a large number of the most prominent cotton growers of the South, representing nearly the entire cotton belt, I am again induced to call the cotton growers of the South to meet in convention for the purpose of and with the hope that through mature deliberation we may arrive at intelligent conclusions as to the best procedure to meet and combat the industrial conditions that now confront us.

"It is the opinion of the best minds of your country that this consummation can only be reached by a resolute, continuous and systematic rule of action laid down by authorized representation, and adhered to by the masses of the cotton growers.

"I shall not waste space by indulging in arguments of the necessity of this action. Five cent cotton and its natural effect is its own most potent pleader in this cause, and the sounding adjectives of the orator and the well-rounded sentences of the journalists are not necessary to awaken the south to the sad realization of our condition and what is to follow without remedial action on these lines. The importance of the situation addresses itself to our common country.

"There is no one interested in the material prosperity of the south who will not have to bear their pro rata of this burden. Upon the part of the American Cotton Growers' Protective Association I appeal to all of our people to join us in a patriotic, systematic and conservative effort to cure these ills that now afflict us. All agricultural societies are requested to send representation. We respectfully invite the presence of bankers, commission men, merchants and all those directly or indirectly interested in cotton growing."

TRESTLE GIVES WAY

And Twenty-three Loaded Cars Plunge Downward, Killing Two Men.

Saturday, as a heavy freight train, bound north, on the Kentucky Central branch of the Louisville and Nashville road, was passing over a wooden trestle near Winchester, Ky., the structure gave way, precipitating twenty-three coal laden cars to the rocks, 65 feet below. The engine and tender passed over safely.

A number of bridge carpenters were at work at the bottom of the trestle when it fell. Most of them made their escape. James Harris and Warren Burch, however, were not so fortunate, and were killed. Their bodies lie buried under hundreds of tons of coal, lumber, etc. The monetary loss is not known at present, but it will be heavy.

WAS IT SUICIDE?

Coroner's Jury Says Mason Payne Hung Himself, But There is Doubt.

The dead body of a negro was found swinging to a tree near the northern limits of Meridian, Miss., last week. The police were notified, and persons living near the scene identified the body as that of Mason Payne, a negro, about 17 years of age, who lived in that vicinity.

A coroner's jury was empaneled, and after a short investigation a verdict of suicide was rendered. The death of the negro was peculiar, and the theory of suicide is not accepted by his relatives, or wholly by the authorities.

He was found with his feet touching the ground, and a slight twine cord, doubled several times, had been used to accomplish his death, which was evidently due to strangulation.

DON'T HEED RUSSIA'S WARNING.

Turkey Will Invest 1,500,000 Marks in Large Cannon.

In spite of the protest of the Russian government which recently intimated to the porte that if any considerable part of the indemnity paid by Greece should be devoted to the extension of the Ottoman armament the Russian government would insist upon a payment of the arrears of the Russo-Turkish indemnity, long overdue. Turkey has placed with Herr Krupp, the great German gunmaker, an order for 150 large cannon at a total value of 1,500,000 marks.

VICTORY OR DEATH.

Manifesto is Sent Out to All Cuban Sympathizers.

The Cuban constituent assembly, which met recently at Camaguey to remodel the constitution and elect a new president, issued a manifesto which reached the office of the Cuban junta in New York Friday.

The document is dated at Layaha, October 18, 1897, and is signed by Domingo Mendez Capote, as president of the assembly. The manifesto is addressed "by the representatives of the Cuban people to all those who have the independence and future welfare of Cuba at heart."

The document says that the assembly before adjourning deemed it its duty to proclaim, among other things:

"No special laws, no political reform or autonomy, nothing, in short, that the Spanish government may be willing to grant that means Spanish sovereignty over Cuba shall be accepted by the Cubans as a settlement of the war.

"Independence or death is and shall be the unalterable and sacred motto of the Cubans.

"The Cubans have not resorted to arms in order to obtain any political measures which does not once and for all solve the Cuban question. That is the reason we will accept nothing short of absolute independence.

"It is our purpose to constitute an independent state, orderly, prosperous and happy, over the ruin of a worn out colony.

"We are firmly determined to carry on war until victory or death crowns our efforts."

EXPLOSION OF NITRO-GLYCERINE.

Almost Wipes Chesterfield, Ind., Off the Map.

Chesterfield, Ind., was almost wiped off the map at an early hour Friday morning by an explosion of eighty quarts of nitro-glycerine which had been brought overland from Montpelier and placed in an open field half a mile from town. Marion Mansey and Sam Maguire were working in a gas well near by when the explosion occurred. Mansey was thrown fifty feet, but not fatally injured. Maguire was also thrown a hundred feet in the air and badly lacerated, but will recover.

James Gold's house, 300 rods distant, was blown to pieces. The explosion tore a hole in the ground down to the water line, and, so far as can be learned, was spontaneous. A three-ton engine was torn to fragments, and every living animal near by was killed instantly. The little town of Chesterfield is a mass of ruins, every house being moved from its foundation.

WEDDED TO PELAGIC SEALING.

Canada Declines a Proposition Looking to a Suspension for a Year.

A reply has been prepared by the dominion government of Canada, and forwarded to Washington, in respect to the negotiations which are now going on between the countries. The government will not say what the reply is until it reaches Mr. Foster, at Washington, but it is understood that it is a refusal to stop pelagic sealing for a year, as the United States requested. The whole question depended upon this, and therefore it would appear that the negotiations are to fail in their object. However, there is a report that the Canadian government has proposed an alternative proposition for the consideration of the United States, which could be laid before congress at its next sitting and passed in time to deal with pelagic sealing and the questions of dispute next season.

MCKINLEY IS CAREFUL.

Has No Recommendations for Action Relative to Cuba.

It is understood that the President in his message, will suggest to congress that it would be inadvisable at present to take any action which would complicate the situation in Cuba. It is said that he will suggest that the passage of resolutions recognizing belligerency or independence would be inexpedient while the measures of reform proposed by Spain and to be carried out by Gen. Blanco, are being introduced. The release of the Competitor and other American prisoners, will be referred to as gratifying, and as relieving the United States from the necessity of intervention upon the ground of the protection of American life and property.

Minister of foreign relations, Dr. Grique de la Riva-Aguero, of the former cabinet.

Minister of justice, Dr. Jose Antonio de la Vallee Y Pardo.

Minister of war and navy, Col. Jose Rosa Gil.

Minister of the treasury, Signor Ignacio Rey, of the former cabinet.

Minister of public works, Dr. Ricardo L. Flores.

WHEAT EXPORTS ARE HEAVY.

The Demand For Goods From the South Much Larger for the Week.

AS A WHOLE NO IMPROVEMENT NOTED.

Competition of Southern Mills, Overproduction by Manufacturers of a Single Staple Underlies Existing Large Stocks and Heavy Prices.

Bradstreet's financial review for the past week says:

Although speculation has been mainly in the hands of traders, an undertone of strength was apparent throughout the week's transactions on the stock exchange. There was no very severe pressure, and it is the general impression that stocks are in strong hands.

The approaching meeting of congress is regarded as the next speculative factor of importance, and it is concluded that large financial interests are waiting till the session begins and the attitude of the national lawmakers on the currency and Cuba is developed.

So far as the administration is concerned, the "street" at large has been favorably impressed, both by the pacific disposition that has characterized the negotiations with Spain and by the current reports that the President's message will deal largely with the currency and take a position satisfactory to sound money sentiment.

There was an absence of unfavorable development throughout the week, and more attention was paid to the continued increases in railroad earnings and to circumstances affecting the speculative position of particular properties.

London has not been a factor of any importance in our market, though the selling from that source has been larger than purchasing.

Notwithstanding the appearance of a demand for holiday specialties at some points in the South, at Chicago, St. Louis, and in sections tributary thereto, general trade throughout the country has shown no general improvement this week.

The Eastern cotton goods industry continues depressed. Consumers evidently do not intend to buy extensively until they believe the price of raw cotton is ready to advance. Competition from Southern mills, more particularly overproduction by manufacturers who produce a single staple, underlies existing large stocks and the heaviness of prices. Converters and manufacturers of cotton yarns are situated relatively more favorably.

Other lines reporting seasonable distribution are manufacturers of woollens, clothing, shoes and jobbers of fancy groceries.

Iron and steel have not been in as active demand as expected, and are lower, notwithstanding furnaces and mills are supplied with orders sufficient to carry them well into next year. A favorable feature is found in advances in wages of operatives in various industrial lines.

Wheat exports, affected almost entirely in the holidays, showed considerable decrease from last week's total. The aggregate exports of wheat (four included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and from Canada this week are 5,465,153 bushels, against 6,653,000 bushels last week, and 3,513,000 bushels last year.

Corn exports also would have been larger but for this reason, amounting to 2,869,000 bushels, against 3,309,000 last week, and 2,920,000 last year.

There are 235 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, compared with 235 last week, and 296 in the week a year ago.

TO DESTROY THE EMPIRE

Is Alleged to Be the Purpose of the Austrian Social Democrats.

A special from Vienna says: Friday the Reichswehr declared that the uproar in the lower house of the Reichsath has no connection with the campaign against the language ordinance, but was due to the action of the International Social Democrats, who considered that the time has arrived to complete their destructive work against the state and empire. Continuing, the Reichswehr says that in view of this fact the state cannot and will not yield.

Repetition of '49 Predicted.

J. W. Wilson, general manager of the Alaska Commercial company, of San Francisco, has just returned from Alaska, having made many trips to that country during the past few years. Mr. Wilson says the rush to the gold fields of California was nothing to what the wild stampede to the Klondike will be the coming spring. Already thousands of people in every state are getting ready for the trip. His advice to these prospectors is that they go prepared to withstand the rigors of the following winter, especially as there will be no reason to fear a scarcity of food.

MCKINLEY IN GOLD.

Scheme of Wealthy Capitalists to Make a Statue of the President.

Ada Rehan in silver is to be outshone by William McKinley in gold. The added fame which the actress acquired by posing for the Montana statue of solid silver, exhibited at the World's fair in 1893, is to be approached, if not eclipsed, by the president of the United States, who will furnish the figure for a life-sized statue of solid gold.

Mr. F. D. Higby, of Chicago, who has been commissioned by several wealthy capitalists to furnish such a statue for exhibition at the Paris exposition in 1900, is on his way to Washington to get the consent of President McKinley to pose for the figure.

"This statue, from the base up, will contain bullion to the value of $1,050,000," said Mr. Higby. "While it was designed primarily to place the statue on exhibit in Paris in 1900, the projectors of the Pan-American exposition to be held on Cayagua island, Nicaragua river, in 1899, are anxious to have it completed in time for exhibition there first.

SENATOR JAMES K. JONES.

He is Opposed to the Annexation of Hawaii.

Senator James K. Jones, of Arkansas, chairman of the democratic national committee, has expressed his opinion of the Hawaiian annexation scheme, as follows:

"I am opposed to it:

"1. Because I am unalterably opposed to extending our territorial limits beyond this continent.

"2. Because the Hawaiian Islands are so remote from our coast line. Our defense in the event of war would be enormously expensive and troublesome to us.

"3. Because they do not comprise sufficient area to make a state, and their maintenance as a territory would violate the intent of the constitution.

"4. Because it would be almost impossible for congress to devise a government for them that would not result in confusion and failure.

"5. Because of the unfit and undesirable character of the population. No matter how favorable surroundings for improvement might be made, the large percentage of the population would remain unfit for citizenship.

"These reasons seem to me to be self-evident and convincing."

STAGE LINE TO KLONDYKE.

This is the Latest Proposed Mode of Getting to the Gold Fields.

An English company will establish a fast stage line from Great Falls, Mont., to Dawson City. The route is an entirely new one, and will be less than 1,200 miles. A portion of the route will be along the Mackenzie river. The line will be in operation early next spring, and the trip will occupy less than twenty days. They have purchased 600 horses, and engaged a superintendent for the line. The taverns for the accommodation of passengers and relay stations will be erected along the route, and an effort will be made to establish town sites. The company they represent is capitalized at $2,000,000.

Pension Rolls of Two States.

Georgia has this year upon its state pension roll the names of 10,437 men and women entitled to its privileges. They include 3,803 widows of Confederate soldiers, 3,381 invalid soldiers, and 1,373 old Confederate soldiers who are indigent. The widows are cared for by an annual appropriation of $240,000, the invalids get $190,000 and the indigents $150,000, making a total of $580,000.

In round numbers the pension list of Mississippi for this year amounts to 4,400. They get $17 each, except in a few instances where they receive $75. The pension list is steadily growing. The number of women (widows) drawing the pension greatly exceeds the men.

Mississippi's Convict Cotton Crop.

Hon. John D. McInnis, railroad commissioner, and member of the board of control, has been inspecting the convict farms and state crops. He is confident the state will make 4,000 bales of cotton and says he never saw such a crop of cotton in his life. He declares that land which was under water until the middle of June and then seeded to cotton will make one and a half bales to the acre.

A Record Cargo.

The British steamship Monarch, hence for Liverpool, went to sea Friday with the largest cargo ever floated, consisting of 22,535 bales of cotton, 60,000 bushels of corn, 11,200 sacks of cotton seed meal and 29,068 oak staves, being equivalent to 28,000 bales of cotton.

THE CIRCUIT JUDGESHIP.

We clip from the Hot Blast of Sunday the following on this subject:

It is said that Shelby county will furnish two candidates next year for circuit judge. It is understood that one of these will be Hon. A. P. Longshore, who will run on the populist ticket, and the other Mr. J. L. Peters, The Chronicle, of Columbiana, interviewed Mr. Peters this week and he stated that he was not a candidate, but the Chronicle after the interview had the following to say editorially:

The Chronicle, replying to the article quoted elsewhere from the Sentinel, takes the responsibility of nominating J. L. Peters for circuit judge, notwithstanding the refusal of that gentleman to enter the race. We have been looking for just such a man, and having found him we are going to run him, with the help of his other friends in this county. This circuit, all circuits, need a judge that owes no favors because he has asked none. Of his fitness we have spoken, sufficiently for the present, in our news columns. His qualifications are known to all his admirers in Shelby county, they will be presented in due time to the other counties. We make this announcement on our own responsibility, and are ready for the help of our friends to make it win.

The Sentinel endorses what the Chronicle says in reference to the candidacy of Mr. Peters. He is not a candidate, it is true, of his own volition, but he is the candidate of the democratic people of Shelby. He is the very man that they have been looking for, the man who is not seeking the office, but whom the office is seeking.

The Sentinel is not informed as to Mr. Longshore's candidacy. It may be that he will be the populite candidate but this makes no difference Mr. Peters is the candidate of Shelby's democracy and they want him to win and will exert themselves to the accomplishment of so desirable a result.

TRUE OF BOTH RACES.

At the recent meeting of colored Presbyterian ministers in this city, the Rev. L. J. Washington, while making a strong plea for the education of his race, said:

"The negro has the power of the ballot in his hand. With this power and uneducated, the negro race is a curse to the country. An ignorant man has no more business with the ballot than has a monkey with the Word of God."

This is a golden utterance and it should be kept before the people. It is not applicable to the blacks alone; it applies with equal force to the whites. It is a disgraceful farce to allow hundreds of thousands of men in this country to vote when they cannot read their ballots. It is dangerous, folly to allow the vote of an illiterate negro or white man to kill the ballot of an educated and patriotic citizen.

Corrupt men and demagogues will always control the votes of the ignorant, whether they are white or black. Washington is right. The ballot in the hands of an ignorant man is a curse to the country. When intelligent negroes admit this, it should cause the whites to make an effort to reform the evil.—Age-Herald, 30th.

Will not the state press of Alabama help to secure a state convention of the probate judges and county commissioners of this state in Anniston at an early date to consider the question of securing better roads? The press of the state can certainly do no better work than to help in an effort to secure good roads, and if the commissioners of Alabama will come to Anniston and see the roads in Calhoun and learn of the workings of the road law in this county it will most assuredly do great good in securing better roads in this state.—Hot Blast.

A good suggestion.

The trustees of the Girls' Industrial School will hold a meeting in Montevallo on tomorrow, the 3rd inst. They meet for the purpose of reviewing the workings of the school, as well as to transact the regular business of the board. Gov. Johnston and other distinguished citizens of the state will be present.

DEATH OF CAPT. WOODLEY CAMPBELL.

Capt. Woodley C. Campbell, of Montgomery, died in the city of Atlanta on Thursday the 25th ult., aged about 44 years. Captain Campbell went to Atlanta about a month ago for medical treatment.

He was one of Montgomery's most popular and highly esteemed citizens. He was the coroner of Montgomery county, was the captain of one of the military companies of the city, was a prominent member of the Masonic and other fraternal orders and was a member of the City Council. He was most highly esteemed and was universally popular.

He was reared in Montgomery county and had lived in the city of Montgomery nearly all of his life. He was a son of the late Judge David Campbell, of Montgomery, and a younger brother of Postmaster Jno. A. Campbell of this place.

His death is profoundly regretted by all who knew him and filled Montgomery with sorrow. There he numbered his friends by scores. There his true worth was known and appreciated. The Advertiser in speaking of his death, among other things, said; "It is the universal comment that never did a community lose a warmer hearted or more loyal citizen than Woodley Campbell, who was indeed one of nature's noblemen." His remains were laid to rest in Oakwood cemetery at Montgomery, a large concourse of citizens attending. He was buried with military and civil honors.

DEATH OF HON. JNO. L. COBBS.

Hon. John L. Cobbs, a prominent citizen of Montgomery, died at his home in that city on the 25th ult. He was widely known throughout the state and was at one time State Treasurer. He was a most excellent man in every particular, an exemplary and honored citizen, a christian gentleman. His death is a loss not only to Montgomery but to the entire state.

An Old Idea.
Every day strengthens the belief of eminent physicians that impure blood is the cause of the majority of our diseases. Twenty-five years ago this theory was used as a basis for the formula of Brown's Iron Bitters. The many remarkable cures effected by this famous old household remedy are sufficient to prove that the theory is correct. Brown's Iron Bitters is sold by all dealers.

APPLICATION TO SELL LANDS.
The State of Alabama, Probate Court, Shelby County, Nov. 18, 1897.
Estate of Willie Byrd, Jessie Byrd, Beecher Byrd and Lee O'N. Byrd, minors;
This day came Sallie Byrd, Guardian of said estate, and filed her application in due form and under oath, praying for an order of sale of certain lands described therein, and belonging to said estate, for the purpose of maintenance and education, upon the ground that their income is not sufficient for said purpose. It is ordered that the 20th day of December, 1897, be appointed a day for hearing such application, at which time all parties in interest can appear and contest the same, if they think proper.

Uncle Sam Behind.
It is strange that while this country is so far advanced in electric railways it should be behind Europe in the pneumatic tube system of transmitting messages and small packages. Some of the large cities in Europe, such as London, Birmingham, Paris and Berlin, have been provided with pneumatic tubes for messages for forty years, and they carry an immense business.

"You men are a covet-us set," said a young lady.

Rainmakers in this country have been apparently inactive this season, but a drought would have revived interest in their plans and theories. In Europe their experiments have attracted more attention. Germany offers a reward of $2,500 to any one who can produce a downpour of rain at moderate expense. It is suggested that inventors in this line should also discover how to stop excessive rains, with resulting floods. The favorite device for rainmaking thus far are cannon explosives, balloons that burst at an elevation, compressed gasses and electric connections between the clouds and the earth.

To Remove Tan and Freckles.
The juice of cucumbers pressed out with a lemon-squeezer is one of the most effective and simple remedies known for removing sunburn.

For removing freckles take one cup of milk and two spoonfuls of grated horseradish, and let it stand for one hour; then strain and bathe the face and hands in it.

A half a pint of rosewater and one spoonful of lemon juice is considered excellent for bathing the face in to remove tan.

A complexion wash, which is very highly recommended and removes freckles, is made of a quarter pound of oatmeal soap, shaved fine into one quart of soft, boiling water; stir until it is smooth and cool; then add a half pint spoons of wine and a quarter ounce of oil of rosemary.

The danger that lies in the inflammable hair washes, and which has already manifested itself in the death of two women in the city of London, has induced so eminent a scientist as Lord Kelvin to write a letter upon the subject, which was regarded of enough importance to be published in the London Times. The washes that have been responsible for these disasters are composed chiefly of gasoline or benzine, and are used by hairdressers to remove the natural oil that will collect in the hair of a healthful person. During such cleaning process explosions have followed and death has in two notable instances resulted. Lord Kelvin says that the explosion was due to an electric spark generated by rubbing or handling the hair. All persons are familiar with the experiment of producing electric sparks by stroking a cat's back, and Lord Kelvin holds that the evaporation of the benzine forms, with the air, an explosive gas that may be easily ignited by an electric spark. He says: "Ignition of vapor of benzine by electric spark is well known to dyers in their process for cleaning silks and other fabrics by boiling in large cauldrons of liquid benzine. When the goods are taken out of the cauldron and spread out to dry on a table explosions have often taken place, and I believe it is quite certain that an electric spark, caused by some slight friction between dried and partially dried portions of the fabrics, is the incendiary." Since the absence of a flame or a fire in a room does not insure immunity from these terrible accidents the ladies had better resort to the use of some other agent for cleaning the hair than those, the basis of which is an inflammable liquid that generates a gas easily exploded by an electric spark.

ALABAMA GLEANINGS.

Pertinent Paragraphs of the Late News of the State.

Hon. John L. Cobb Dead.
Hon. John L. Cobb, ex-state treasurer of Alabama, died at his home in Montgomery Wednesday night. He was 56 years old and had been prominent in business circles for years.

Cotton Gin and Lumber Yard Burned.
Fire at Hartselle recently destroyed the cotton gin and lumber yard belonging to Robert Sobatka. The loss was total. Forty bales of cotton and 30,000 feet of lumber comprised the principal loss outside of buildings.

Hon. Woodley C. Campbell Dead.
Hon. Woodley C. Campbell, city alderman from the first ward in Montgomery, coroner of Montgomery county, captain of a Montgomery cavalry company and a prominent business man, died at 7 o'clock Thursday morning in Atlanta. He had been here several weeks under treatment of specialists. He had been in failing health for more than a year, as a result of an abscess on his liver.

Men at Work on New Extension.
The Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad now has a force of 150 men at work near Cluttsville on the extension of the Middle Tennessee and Alabama. They are putting three miles of track to make a "Y" between Cluttsville and Madison "X" Roads. The line as surveyed, leaves Huntsville to the left. The contractors say that as soon as spring opens the line will be completed from the "Y" on through to Decatur.

Working for Armor Plate Plant.
Congressman Underwood, of the ninth Alabama district, the leader of the movement for the location of a government armor plate plant in the southern states will endeavor to have a provision attached to either the naval appropriation or to the sundry civil bill for the erection of an armor plate plant to be located at Birmingham.

He has been in correspondence with numerous western and southern members of congress and says he finds that a vast majority will support a measure of this kind. Mr. Underwood is very sanguine of success in his undertaking.

Acknowledges That Fever Existed.
Greensboro, Hale county, has acknowledged at last that yellow fever has prevailed in that city. Dr. Geddings, the government marine hospital surgeon, who has been in Selma disinfecting and fumigating the nine houses in Selma wherein existed yellow fever, received a telegram from Surgeon-General Wyman stating that the mayor and the board of health at Greensboro requested that someone be sent there to investigate and fumigate the houses. In the telegram Dr. Geddings was ordered to go at once to Greensboro and report to Mayor Randolph.

Seeking an Independent Organization.
A conference to organize an independent colored Presbyterian church in the United States is in session at Birmingham. The colored Presbyterians in the South have ever since the war affiliated with the Southern Presbyterian assembly, but gradually they have been showing a disposition to flock to themselves, until the idea of organizing an independent church has finally taken shape in the conference which is now in session. The proposed church is to have national jurisdiction. The Southern Assembly is represented at the meeting by its committee on colored evangelization, of which Dr. A. L. Phillips, of Tuscaloosa, is secretary, and the Northern Assembly also has prominent members present to counsel the ministers and elders.

Iowa Farmers Locating in This State.
J. E. McMichael has just arrived in Morgan county as an advance guard for a large party of emigrant Iowa farmers, consisting of eleven families, who, he says, are traveling overland with all their stock, wagons and personal property, headed for Decatur. The distance they will cover is more than 800 miles. McMichael came on first in order to make certain essential arrangements. The large party will arrive here in a few days. McMichael says they are only a small number compared to the exodus that will come here a little later on, as soon as they can complete their arrangements to get away. This first party have obtained three large fertile farms about six miles west of Decatur, where they will locate.

Alleged Systematic Robbery at Huntsville.

The committee of aldermen, who have in charge the construction of city sewers at Huntsville, has made the startling allegation that the city has been systematically robbed for several weeks past, and right under their noses at that. The discovery was that a number of negroes, who have at some time been employed in the trenches, and since discharged, have been drawing money regularly every Saturday night for a week's work without having worked at all.

All of these negroes belonged to gang superintended by C. M. Tardy. Investigation of the matter begun Monday morning with a called meeting of the city council. The sewer committee was instructed to make a thorough investigation. A closed meeting of this committee was held, and several of the laborers, who have drawn money to which they are not entitled, were placed on the witness stand, and testified that they have been paid a small amount each week to answer their names at roll call and to make application for their wages on pay day.

The city council held a special meeting, and Alderman J. D. Humphrey, paymaster in the sewer construction corps, resigned his position and demanded that his books be thoroughly investigated.

LETTER FROM WILSON.

Commissioner Culver Receives a Communication from Agricultural Department.

The following interesting communication has been received by Commissioner of Agriculture Culver, from Hon. James Wilson, secretary of the national bureau of agriculture:

"I will not have time to make speeches in Alabama, except at the technical institutions at Tuskegee and Auburn, and these will be only informal. I would be pleased to meet your farmers and spend a good deal of time with them, but my duties here are exacting, and my purpose in visiting the south is to study the conditions and consult with gentlemen like yourself, who are familiar with these conditions. I want to learn more about the south, so as to make this department as useful as possible to our people. This will be my business down there, and I must do it as rapidly as possible. I cannot be longer than four or five days in your state.

"I wish to meet the fellows in the field with their coats off and see what their greatest difficulties are. I would like to see what you have done to the soils of Alabama, to what extent they are used, what recuperative methods are used on the depleted soils, etc. I will make inquiry into the dairy industry of the state. During my stay here I intend making repeated visits to the south. This will be my first visit to Alabama, but I hope it will not be my last."

APPROACHING COMPETITION.

Trains on the M. & O. Extension Will Soon be Running.

The Mobile and Ohio railroad will be operating trains within ten days. The trains will be running from Tuscaloosa to Columbus, Miss. The road is complete in every detail to within ten miles of Tuscaloosa. The contractors, by using their new track-laying machine, complete two miles daily. The false work on all of the bridges between Tuscaloosa and Columbus has been finished. On the bridge across the Warrior river the cross-ties and rails are being laid. The iron work for the permanent bridges is on hand in Columbus, and will be shipped by the first train over the line. The building of this extension has broken all records for quickness.

The grading from Tuscaloosa to Montgomery is almost complete. All that remains to be done in this line is the completion of the trestling. The rails for this end are in Tuscaloosa, having been taken there by the Alabama Great Southern road.

The corps of engineers at work between Birmingham and Blocton continue their surveying to Bessemer. On account of the extreme ruggedness of this part of the country the progress is very slow.

BRIEFLY MENTIONED.

Fire destroyed six houses at Elyton last Thursday, entailing a loss of $4,000.

The Alabama Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, meets in Union Springs on the 15th of December.

The annual convention of the Alabama Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association will convene in Birmingham, Dec. 2, and will continue two weeks.

R. A. Smith, of Fayette, has been justice of the peace for a longer period, perhaps, than any man in the state. He has held that office for nearly forty years with but few breaks.

Mrs. C. M. Wright has been commissioned to take charge of the post-office at Leighton. Her husband, who was first appointed under McKinley, has been appointed deputy United States marshal by Hon. D. F. Cooper.

At the State Health Department at Montgomery Clerk Brassell has gone sufficiently into the matter to ascertain that the total cost to the state of quarantine will be about $9,000. Only a few more of those employed in the service are to be settled with.

Thursday night the Methodist church at Oak Bowery, near Opelika, was completely destroyed by fire, together with all the furniture, carpet and organ. The building has been standing there in a magnificent grove of massive oaks for nearly half a century.

State Normal College.

In spite of the scare from pestilence and quarantine, the State Normal College at Troy went on the even tenor of its way with a good attendance, and as good work as the state ever had done for it by any institution.

Troy enjoys the distinction of being 596 feet above sea level, and yellow fever has never come within fifty miles of it, and it is not believed by those well informed that the disease can spread at such altitude, if health measures are carefully observed.

Out of the several thousands of students in the State Normal College there in the ten years past, only two deaths have occurred at the college, and these from pneumonia and measles.

The college never had brighter prospects, and many new students are expected at the new term to open December 7. President Eldredge has calls for trained teachers from every direction, and the demand is above the supply. As school officers learn the value of teacher training they will insist more and more upon it. The State Normal College at Troy delights to serve school officers, schools and teachers.

Permanent Paste.
Soak an ounce of refined gelatine in cold water for an hour, then drain off and squeeze out the water as much as possible. Put the gelatine in a jelly-pot and place the pot in a pan of hot water over the fire. When the gelatine has melted stir in slowly two and one half ounces of pure alcohol. Put in a wide-mouthed bottle and cork tightly. This glue or paste will keep indefinitely, and can be melted for use in a few minutes by setting the bottle in a basin of hot water. As it contains a very small percentage of water, it affects the gloss of the prints but little and dries almost immediately.—Harper's Round Table.

Fortunes in Laces.
Large sums of money are represented by fine old laces. It is said that the Astors own lace worth $3,000,000, and that the Vanderbilts value theirs at $4,000,000. The pope is content with only $75,000 represented in lace, and the Princess of Wales boasts a collection worth $250,000.

TO THE FRONT FOR TRUTH.

Mr. J. E. Simon

Ranger, Ga., writes: Twelve years ago I had Hemorrhoids, Kidney Disease, Constipated Bowels, Glimmering Before my Eyes, Belched up Gas, and other troubles. Was completely run down and in bed most of the time. Had a Doctor attending me, but nothing would do me any good until I quit everything else and used Dr. M. A. Simmonds Liver Medicine, which completely cured me. I have tried "Black Draught," but think Dr. M. A. Simmonds Liver Medicine is ahead of that or any other medicine.

Palpitation of the Heart.

Whenever one becomes sensible of the beating of their own heart, they are liable to be frightened and imagine they have some form of heart disease. If they really have palpitation, Dr. Simmonds' Squaw Vine Wine is a certain cure for it, but in the majority of cases the trouble arises from some form of gastric difficulty. The stomach, distended with food and gases, will derange the heart in some persons, while indigestion with its many so-called heart troubles. The digestive organs need to be stimulated by the use of Dr. M. A. Simmonds Liver Medicine, when the general health will improve and the heart renew its normal action.

Athens, Ga., writes: In 1872 I had a cure for years from Bilious Headache, Dizzy Spells, with Black Spots before my eyes, B. A. T. & Co. I a mouth, very little appetite. Two Packages Dr. M. A. Simmonds Liver Medicine cured me, and for 10 years I never had an annoying symptom. From living on river I contracted a disease, which it is now curing. I have used Zellin's "Red Z" and "Black Draught" and found such a difference between them and M. A. S. L. M. that I did not like them at all.

Spread the News. Tell it far and wide that a medicine composed of cheap material and improperly compounded is a dangerous thing to fool with; the old proprietors of the article now called "Black Draught," and J. E. Zellin & Co., proprietors of the article now called "Simmonds' Liver Medicine," both have injunctions against them, enjoining them from using the words composing our trade name, but we learn those articles have been sold in the same old name, while neither of the proprietors in their advertisements claim theirs to be the same as ours.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO CONGRESS.

Greater Part of the Document Taken Up With Currency and Cuban Questions--Larger Issue of National Bank Notes Urged.

OPPOSES THE RECOGNITION OF CUBAN INSURGENTS.

Speedy Action is Wanted With Regard to Hawaiian Annexation--

Further Time is Needed to Test the Tariff's Value--Expresses Hope that the Wolcott Commission Will

Yet Prove Fruitful--All Other Subjects

President McKinley's annual message was transmitted to congress Monday. It is a document of about 14,000 words.

The president begins by congratulating the country upon the return of prosperity, and expresses satisfaction at the growing feeling of fraternal regard and unification. He says that questions of foreign policy, of revenue, the soundness of the currency, the inviolability of national obligations and the improvement of the public revenue appeal to the individual conscience of every citizen.

The Tariff.

On the tariff, the president says that while its full effect has not yet been realized, what it has already accomplished assures us of its timeliness and wisdom. To test its permanent value he declares that further time will be required, and that the people satisfied with its operation and results are in no mind to withhold from it a fair trial.

Currency.

The tariff question, the president says, having been settled, the next question for consideration is the currency. He says:

"The work of putting our finances upon a sound basis, difficult as it may seem, will appear easier when we recall the financial operations of the government since 1866. On the 30th day of June of that year we had outstanding demand liabilities in the sum of $728,868,447.41. On the first of January, 1879, these liabilities had been reduced to $443,889,495.88. Of our interest-bearing obligations, the figures are even more striking. On July 1, 1866, the principal of the interest-bearing debt of the government was $2,332,331,208. On the 1st day of July, 1893, this sum had been reduced to $585,037,100, or an aggregate reduction of $1,747,294,108. The interest-bearing debt of the United States on the 1st day of July, 1897, was $847,365,620. The government money now outstanding (December) consists of $346,681,016 of United States notes; $1,793,280 of treasury notes issued by authority of the law of 1890; $384,963,504 of silver certificates, and $61,280,761 of standard silver dollars.

Currency Revision.

"With the great resources of the government, and with honorable example of the past before us, we ought not to hesitate to enter upon a currency revision which will make our demand obligations less onerous to the government and relieve our financial laws from ambiguity and doubt.

"The brief review of what was accomplished from the close of the war of 1893 makes unreasonable and groundless any distrust either of our financial ability or soundness, while the situation from 1893 to 1897 must admonish congress of the immediate necessity of so legislating as to make the return of the conditions then prevailing impossible. There are many propositions as a remedy for this evil. It is not that our currency of every kind is not good, for every dollar of it is good--good because the government's pledge is out to keep it so, and that pledge will not be broken. However, the guaranty of our power to keep the pledge will be best shown by advancing toward its fulfillment.

Evil of Present System.

"The evil of the present system is found in the great cost to the government of maintaining the parity of our different forms of money; that is, keeping all of them at par with gold. We surely cannot be longer heedless of the burden this imposes upon the people, even under fairly prosperous conditions, while the past four years have demonstrated that it is not only an expensive charge upon the government, but a dangerous menace to the national credit.

Against Bond Issues.

"It is manifest that we must devise some plan to protect the government against bond issues, for repeated redemptions. We must curtail the opportunity for speculation, made easy by the multiple redemptions of our demand obligations or increase the gold reserve for their redemption. We have $900,000,000 of currency, which the government by solemn enactment has undertaken to keep at par with gold. Nobody is obliged to redeem in gold but the government. The banks are not required to redeem in gold. The government is obliged to keep equal with gold all its outstanding currency and coin outstanding, while its receipts are not required to be paid in gold. They are paid in every kind of money but gold, and the only means by which the government can with certainty get gold is by borrowing. It can get it in no other way when it most needs it. The government, without gold revenue, is pledged to maintain gold redemption, which it has readily and faithfully done, and which, under the authority now given, it will continue to do.

Gold Reserve.

"The law which requires the government, after having redeemed its United States notes to pay them out again as current funds, demands a constant replenishment of the gold reserve. This is especially so in times of business panics and when the revenues are insufficient to meet the expenses of the government. At such times the government has no other way to supply its deficit and maintain redemption, but through the increase of its bonded debt as during the administration of my predecessor when $262,315,400 of 4 1/2 per cent bonds were issued and sold and the proceeds used to pay the expenses of the government in excess of the revenues and sustain the gold reserve. While it is true that the greater part of the proceeds of these bonds were sold to supply deficient revenues a considerable portion was required to maintain the gold reserve.

"With our revenues equal to our expenses there would be no deficit requiring the issuance of bonds. But if the gold reserve falls below $100,000,000, how will it be replenished except by selling more bonds? Is there any other way practicable under existing law? The serious question then is: 'Shall we continue the system that has been pursued in the past, that is, when the gold reserve reaches the danger line, issue more bonds to supply the needed gold or shall we provide other means to prevent these recurring drains upon the gold reserve? If no further legislation is had and the policy of selling bonds is to be continued then congress should give the secretary of the treasury authority to sell bonds at long or short periods, bearing a less rate of interest than is now authorized by law.

Redeeming Notes.

"I earnestly recommend as soon as the receipts of the government are quite sufficient to pay all expenses of the government that when any United States notes are presented for redemption, or are redeemed, in gold such notes shall be set apart and only paid out in exchange for gold.

Gold for Export.

"In my view it is of the utmost importance that the government should be relieved from the burden of providing all the gold required for exchanges and export. This responsibility is alone borne by the government without any of the usual and necessary banking powers to help itself. The banks do not feel the strain of the gold redemption. The whole strain rests upon the government and the size of the gold reserve in the treasury has come to be with or without reason the signal of danger of security. This ought to be stopped if we are to have an era of prosperity in this country. With sufficient receipt for the expenses of the government we may feel no immediate embarrassment from our present currency, but the danger still exists and will be ever present, menacing us so long as the existing system continues. Besides it is in times of adequate revenues and business tranquility that the government should prepare for the worst. We cannot avoid without serious consequence the wise consideration and prompt settlement of this question.

Gage's Plan.

"The secretary of the treasury has outlined a plan in great detail for the purpose of removing the recurrence of a deficit in the gold reserve and save us from embarrassment on that account. To this plan I invite your careful consideration.

"I concur with the secretary of the treasury in his recommendation that national banks be allowed to issue notes to the face value of bonds which they have deposited for security, and that the tax on circulating notes required on deposit of such bonds be reduced to 1 per cent per annum. I also join him in recommending that every opportunity be given for the establishment of national banks with a minimum capital of $25,000. This will enable the smaller villages and agricultural regions of the country to be supplied with currency to meet their needs.

National Bank Notes.

"I recommend that the issue of national bank notes be restricted to the denomination of $10 and upward.

"If the suggestions I have herein made shall have the approval of congress, then I would recommend that national banks be required to redeem their notes in gold."

Cuban Question.

The president next takes up the Cuban question, which he says is the most important problem pertaining to our foreign relations with which this government has to deal and, after reviewing previous relations on the islands, takes up the present insurrection and in part says:

"The present insurrection broke out in February, 1895. It is not my purpose at this time to recall its remarkable incidents or to discuss its tenacious resistance against the enormous forces massed against it by Spain. The revolt and the effort to subdue it, carried destruction to every quarter of the island, devolving wide proportions and defying the efforts of Spain for its suppression. The evilness of the period was regarded no less so by the Spaniards than by the Cubans. The existing conditions cannot but fill this government and the American people with apprehension. There is no desire on the part of our people to profit by the misfortunes of Spain. We have only the desire to see the Cubans prosperous and contented, enjoying that measure of self-control which is the inalienable right of man, protected in their right to reap the benefit of the exhaustless treasures of their country.

Cleveland's Offers.

"The offer made by my predecessor in April, 1896, tendering the friendly offices of this government, failed. Any mediation on our part was not accepted. In brief, the answer was: 'There is no effectual way to pacify Cuba unless it begins with the actual submission of the rebels to the mother country; then only could Spain act in the promised direction of her own motion and after her own plans.' The cruel policy of concentration was initiated in February, 1896. The productive districts controlled by the Spanish armies were depopulated. The agricultural inhabitants were herded in and about the garrison towns, their lands laid waste and their dwellings destroyed. This policy the late cabinet of Spain justified as a necessary measure of war and as a means of cutting off supplies of the insurgents. It utterly failed as a war measure. It was not civilized warfare. It was extermination.

Our Protest.

"Against this abuse of the rules of war I have felt constrained on repeated occasions to enter the firm and earnest protest of this government.

Americans in Cuba.

"For the relief of our own citizens, suffering because of the conflict, the aid of congress was asked in a special message, and effective aid has been given to American citizens in Cuba; most of them, at their own request, have been returned to the United States. The instructions given to our new minister to Spain before his departure for his post directed him to impress upon that government the sincere wish of the United States to lend its aid towards ending the war in Cuba by reaching a peaceful and lasting result just and honorable alike to Spain and to the Cuban people.

Woodford's Instructions.

"These instructions recited the character and duration of the combat, the widespread losses it entails, the burdens and restraints it imposes upon us with constant disturbance of national interest and the injury resulting from an indefinite continuance of this state of things. It was at this juncture that our Government was constrained to seriously inquire if the time was not ripe when Spain of her own volition, moved by her own interests and every sentiment of humanity, should put a stop to this destructive war and make proposals of settlement honorable to herself and just to her Cuban colony. It was urged that as a neighboring nation with large interests in Cuban we could be required to wait only a reasonable time for the mother country to establish its authority and restore peace and order within the borders of the island, that we could not contemplate an indefinite period for the accomplishment of this result.

No Humiliation for Spain.

"No solution was proposed to which the slightest idea of humiliation to Spain could attach and indeed precise proposals were withheld to avoid embarrassment to that Government. All that was asked or expected was that some safe way might be speedily provided and permanent peace restored.

Spain's Reply.

"The reply to our note was received on October 23. It was in the direction of a better understanding. It appreciates the friendly purpose of this government. It admits that our country is deeply affected by the war in Cuba, and that its desires for peace are just. It declares that the present Spanish government is bound by every consideration to a change of policy that should satisfy the United States and pacify Cuba within a reasonable time.

"To this end Spain has decided to put into effect the political reforms heretofore advocated by the present premier, without halting in any consideration in the path which, in its judgment, leads to success. The military operations will be continued, but will be humane and conducted with all regard for private rights, being accompanied by political action leading to autonomy to Cuba, while guaranteeing Spanish sovereignty.

"This, it is claimed, will result in vesting Cuba with a distinct government. The island is to be governed by an executive and by a local council, or Cuban parliament, reserving to Spain international arrangements, the army and navy and judicial affairs. According to this the government proposes to modify existing legislation by decree, leaving the Spanish cortes, with the aid of Cuban senators and deputies, to solve the economic problem and properly distribute the existing debt.

Give Spain a Chance.

"In advance of the declaration of measures the government intends to take, and in order to carry out its tender of good effects, it suggests that Spain be left free in its military operations and municipal reforms, while the United States for the present enforce its neutrality obligations and cut off the assistance which it is asserted the insurgents receive from this country. The supposition of indefinite prolongation of the war is denied. It is asserted the western provinces are already well nigh pacified, that the planting of cane and tobacco therein has been resumed, and that by force of arms and ample reforms very early and complete pacification is hoped for.

"The immediate amelioration of existing conditions under the new administration of Cuban affairs is predicted, and, by removal of the disturbances, terminate all occasion for change of attitude on the part of the United States.

Spain's Charge is False.

"Discussion of the international duties and responsibilities of the United States as Spain understands them, is presented with apparent disposition to charge us with failures in this regard. The charge is without any basis in fact. It could not have been made if Spain was cognizant of the efforts this government, at the cost of millions and the use of the naval machinery and judicial authorities, to do its full duty under the circumstances. That it has successfully prevented the departure of a single military expedition or armed vessel from our shores in violation of our laws, would seem to be a sufficient end.

Courses Open to Us.

"In view of all these horrors, and the dangers to our own peace, this government has never in any way abrogated its sovereign prerogative of reserving to itself the determination of its policy and course according to its own high regard of right and consonant with the dearest interests and conscience of our own people, should the prolongation of the strife so demand. Of the untried measures there remain only four, recognition of the independence of Cuba, neutral intervention to end the war by proposing a rational compromise between the contestants, and intervention with one of them as party.

No Annexation.

"I speak not in support of annexation. By our code of morality it would be criminal aggression. The recognition of the belligerency of the Cuban insurgents has also been canvassed as a possible but not inevitable step. I am not unmindful that congress, in the spring of 1896, expressed the opinion by concurrent resolution that a condition of public war existed, demanding or justifying the recognition of the existence of a state of belligerency in Cuba, and during the extra session the senate voted a joint resolution of like import, which, however, was not brought to a vote in the house.

"In the presence of these significant expressions of sentiments of the legislative branch it behooves the executive to properly consider the conditions under which so important a measure must rest for justification. It must be seriously considered whether the Cuban insurrection possesses the essentials of statehood. Possession in short of the essential qualities of sovereignty by the insurgents and the conduct of the war by them as regards to the code of war are no less to be considered in the problem of belligerency than the consequences or usages upon the international policy of recognizing a State."

The president then reviews the atterances of President Grant in his memorable message of December 7, 1875, regarding recognition of the insurgents, applying the word to the present conflict. He says:

"For this reason I recommend the recognition of the belligerency of the Cuban insurgents as now unwise and therefore undesirable. Should that state become wise as a measure of duty the executive will do its duty. Action on humanitarian grounds has been frequently suggested and has not failed to receive my most anxious and earnest consideration. But should a step now be taken when it is apparent that concession has supervened in the policy of Spain towards Cuba?

"A new government has taken office in the mother country. It is pledged in advance to the declaration that all the world cannot hope to maintain peace in Cuba by the bayonet; that vague promises of subjugation form no solution of the problem; that with the change in commanders must come a change in the system of warfare for one in harmony with a system which shall no longer aim to drive the Cubans to the horrible alternative of taking to the cities or succumbing in misery. Reforms have been instituted in accordance with the needs of the island, and these reforms, while designed to create virtually an entire and separate administration, reserving the sovereignty of Spain by a just distribution of power and burdens upon a mutual agreement, affords a fresh expediency.

The First Step.

"The first step has been taken in this honorable path. The policy of cruel rapine and extermination, that shocked the universal sentiment so long, and inhumanity, has been reversed. Now through the new commander clemency is proffered. Measures have already been set on foot to relieve the horrors of starvation. The powers of the Spanish army, it is said, is not to be used for devastation and spoilage, but for the protection of peaceful agricultural pursuits and profitable industries. That past methods are futile to force a peace by subjugation is freely admitted and that ruin without conciliation must inevitably follow for Spain the fidelity of a contented dependency. Decrees in application of the foreshadowed reforms have already been promulgated.

If Pacification Fails.

"If pacification fails other means will have to be resorted to. When that time comes that action will be determined in the line of indisputable right and duty. It will be faced without misgiving or hesitancy in the light of the obligations this government owes to itself and the people who have committed to it the protection of their interests and honor and to secure the right of keeping free from all offense ourselves, actuated only by rightful and patriotic decisions and no selfish design.

"The government will continue its watch over the rights of life and property of Americans, and will abate none of its means to bring about by peaceful agency a peace which shall be honorable and enduring. If it shall hereafter appear to be a duty imposed on ourselves, to humanity and civilization to intervene, it shall be without fault on our part and only because the necessity for such action will be so clear as to demand the support and approval of the civilized world."

Hawaiian Annexation.

The president next takes up the Hawaiian annexation treaty, and, after calling attention to his message of June 16, regarding the treaty signed by representatives of both countries, says:

"Congress must determine by legislation if the actual union should be accomplished, as I believe it should be. While consistently disavowing from a very early period any policy of absorption in regard to the Hawaiian group, a long series of declarations through three-quarters of a century has proclaimed the vital interest of the United States in the independent life of the islands and their commercial dependence upon this country. At the same time it has been repeatedly asserted that in no event could the entirety of Hawaiian statehood by the assuming of the islands under the dominance of any other power than the United States be maintained. Under these circumstances the logic of events required that annexation be offered, but declined, should in the ripeness of time come about as the natural result of the strengthening ties that bind us to those islands and be realized by the free will of the Hawaiian state.

"Complications arising between Hawaii and Japan on account of the immigration of Japanese labor to the islands are in a satisfactory state of settlement by negotiations.

Nicaragua Canal.

"A subject of great interest to our country is the completion of the great highway of trade between the Atlantic and Pacific known as the Nicaraguan Canal. Its value and utility to American commerce is universally admitted. The commission appointed under date of June 24 last to complete the supervision and examination, made by authority of congress, of a suitable route and as to the feasibility of the construction of the canal, with the object of forming a ship canal, is now pursuing its duties. I hope shortly to transmit thereport of this commission, making then suggestions as may seem practicable.

Wolcott Commission.

In regard to the commission appointed to seek an international agreement respecting bimetalism, the president, in part, says:

"They have been diligent in their efforts to secure the concurrence and co-operation of European powers in the interest of an international settlement of the question, but up to this time have not been able to secure an agreement contemplated by their mission."

He expresses his gratification at the action of France joining this country in the attempt to reach an agreement with the chief nations of Europe, and hopes that efforts yet to be made will result in bringing about an international agreement to coin both gold and silver on such terms, as money, as will secure to both metals the largest share of use as will not result to the injury of any class of our citizens.

Arbitration.

"International arbitration must not be omitted from the list of subjects commanding our attention. Events have only served to strengthen the views impressed in the address on my inauguration. Treaties covering this humane purpose on broad lines without in any way imperiling our interests or our honor shall have my constant encouragement.

Armor Plates and Navy.

"The present year viewed the construction of two battleships of the first-class, two second and four other vessels ranging from the armored cruisers to the torpedo boats. There are under construction five battleships of the first-class, sixteen torpedo boats and one submarine boat. No provision has yet been made for the armor of five of the new battleships, as it is impossible to obtain it at the price fixed by congress. It is of great importance that congress provide this armor, as until then the ships are of no fighting value. The present naval force, especially in view of its increase by ships now under construction, while not as large as that of a few other powers, is a formidable force, its vessels are the very best of each type and with the additions that should be made to it from time to time in the future, and careful consideration to keep it in a high state of efficiency and repair, it is well adapted to the necessities of the country.

"The great increase in the navy which has taken place in the last few years was called forth by the national demand for defense. The time has come when this increase to which the country is entitled for some time to come should take the form of increased facilities commensurate with the increase of our naval vessels."

The president then urges the building of three or four docks on the Atlantic and one on the Pacific coasts to meet the needs of the government.

Yellow Fever.

"The prevalence of yellow fever in a number of places in the south and southwest has seriously interfered with commerce, and necessitates such amendments to our quarantine laws as will make the regulation of the national quarantine laws paramount. The secretary of the interior, in his report relative to the operation of the marine hospital service, calls attention to the defects in the present quarantine laws, and recommends laws which will give this department authority to prevent evasion of them and shutting out diseases from foreign countries, and in times of danger like the past, such additions as will add to the protection of the people with the least possible restriction of congress. I concur in his recommendation.

"A further effort to prevent the invasion of the United States by yellow fever, the importance of the discovery of the exact source of the disease is obvious, and to this end a systematic bacteriological investigation should be made. I therefore recommend that congress authorize the appointment of a commission by the president, to consist of four expert bacteriologists, one to be selected from the military experts of the marine hospital service, one from civil life and two to be details from the medical officers of the army and one from the medical officers of the navy.

Union Pacific Sale.

"The Union Pacific main line was sold under the decree of the United States Court for the District of Nebraska on the 1st and 2d November, this year. The amount realized consisted of the principal of the subsidy bonds $37,297,512, and the accrued interest thereon $21,151,711.73, making the total indebtedness $58,448,223.73. The bid at the first was for the mortgage lien and entire mortgages of the government, principal and interest. The sale did not include the Kansas Pacific main line, on which the government holds a second lien, which has been postponed until December 16, 1897. * * * I shall direct the secretary of the treasury to make the necessary deposit as decreed by the court to qualify as a bidder at the sale, to at least protect the sum owed to the government."

Civil Service.

"That branch of our government

The Shelby Sentinel.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

This paper is entered in the Calera Post-office as second-class matter.

N. A. GRAHAM, EDITOR.

CALERA, ALA., DEC. 9, 1897.

Congress convened last Monday and is getting down to the work of saving the country.

Gov. Joseph F. Johnston, State Superintendent of Education J. O. Turner, and other distinguished citizens of the State were in attendance upon the meeting of the Board of Trustees at the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo, last Friday.

In a late geological report, Dr. Eugene A. Smith refers to a deposit of baryta about two miles from Calera. As this commodity might be utilized the SENTINEL will be glad to procure a specimen of it, and will thank any landowner to bring samples to this office. Baryta is a heavy, white mineral, very similar in appearance to white quartz.

The Board of Trustees of the Girls' Industrial School held a business meeting in Montevallo on last Friday and also reviewed the workings of the school. We learn that the members were well pleased with the successful progress that is attending this splendid institution. Judge J. J. Banks, of Birmingham, also visited the school at the same time and delivered his famous lecture on Friday evening before the literary societies of the school.

The Fourth district Republican committee has called a convention to meet at Calera on March 8, 1898, and nominate a Republican candidate for congress. This is a little early and we are afraid the nominee will be pretty tired before the race is over.—Bridgport News.

So thinks Hon. W. F. Aldrich, who is now trying to get Capt. Plowman's seat in congress. The Republicans in the Fourth have two executive committees and two chairmen, and it is the Knox-Wilson committee which has called a convention in March. The Aldrich committee thinks the date fixed by the Knox-Wilson committee too early, and Aldrich and his committee will be heard from later.—Hot Blast.

The Guntersville Democrat gives the following interesting item of eleven bales of cotton made from eleven acres of land by an old farmer and his two little girls:

Marion Powell, of McVile, has made eleven bales of cotton again this season from eleven acres of land. His 77 years were aided in the work by his two younger daughters, 9 and 12 years old. These three did all the work says Uncle Marion. He does not use commercial fertilizer, but makes his compost from stable manure, and cotton seed. All the barnyard manure is saved, and in March, two weeks before planting time, he makes a compost heap by layers of cotton seed alternating with layers of manure. In ten days this is ready for use. Then he drills it into the cotton row a few days before planting. Twelve consecutive years of this treatment on the same land gave him a bale to the acre each year.

The President's message is a lengthy document but does not seem to be regarded as a very able state paper. On the contrary, it is being pretty severely criticised, both at home and abroad, as a very weak document. One criticism that seems to be a very popular one, is that it reads just like its object was not to offend any one. The policy outlined in regard to the Cuban question is pretty generally criticised, and scathingly condemned by ex-Minister to Spain, Hon. Hannis Taylor. The President is opposed to recognizing the Cuban patriots as belligerents and thinks Spain should be given more time to enforce or put in operation the proposed autonomy policy that the Spanish government now talks about giving the Cubans. The sentiment of the American people, however, is opposed to this "do nothing policy" on the part of our government in this matter, and wants early, prompt and decided action taken. The general opinion, it strikes the Sentinel, is very much in accord with Mr. Taylor's view, that the Cuban patriots deserve recognition and Uncle Sam should no longer delay to give it to them and to take the necessary steps to put an end to the inhuman war that Spain is waging upon them. The Sentinel may refer to other portions of the message later on.

ALABAMA FARMERS.

Commissioner Culver is none too strenuous in his appeal to the farmers and land owners of the state to meet by their representatives at Montgomery in January for the purpose of organizing the state agricultural society. It is proposed to have a live, working society, one that will be useful rather than ornamental. The commissioner touches the real vital reform when he says such a body is needed in order to induce farmers to stop planting their best land in cotton to the neglect of all other crops. They must, says the commissioner, be induced to give more attention to the cereals, grasses, vegetables and fruits.

If co operation of the nature proposed by the commissioner of agriculture will promote the raising in Alabama of home supplies, of bread and meat for the farmer and his family, his help and his animals, no better or more important work can be undertaken. The trouble in the agricultural districts of the state is not so much the price of cotton, as it is the small amount of the price left in the hands of the farmer after he has paid his bills for supplies.

By all means, then, let the people have a state agricultural society and all other means of discussion and agitation, to the end that every farmer may be induced to grow his own supplies. Unless they raise something of what they eat at home, to use Commissioner Culver's own words, there is no hope for the betterment of the farmers of the state. Let every county, then, send some of its best men to Montgomery in January. Organization has in past times accomplished a great deal, and there is no reason why it cannot awaken the intelligent farmers of the state to the need of a change in the selection of crops.—Age Herald.

ARP'S PHILOSOPHY.

We enjoy the letters of Bill Arp. He is a philosopher, and under a quaint style says many good things. Writing from Charlotte, N. C., he states that there are no less than 210 cotton mills within a radius of one hundred miles of that city, and that leads him to ruminate on the advantages of these mills—small though some of them are—to the people among whom they are located. He says:

Suppose that every township in Georgia had a cotton mill and that all its earnings were spent and scattered in the community, then we wouldn't feel so bad over the low price of the great staple. We would indirectly share in the profits of manufacturing.

This is a subject about which not enough is said or known. True, a large cotton mill costs much money, but there are hundreds of locations in Alabama where water power is cheap, convenient and plentiful, where small mills could be built with a comparatively small capital. These mills could be operated by home labor, and thus almost all the expense would be paid to the home people. Then, though the profits might be small, and the farmer might get a low price for his cotton, the money would be distributed and would circulate among the relatives and neighbors of the producers. The idea is certainly a feasible one, and we can see no reason why it should not eventually be profitable.—Advertiser.

An Old Idea.

Every day strengthens the belief of eminent physicians that impure blood is the cause of the majority of our diseases. Twenty-five years ago this theory was used as a basis for the formula of Brown's Iron Bitters. The many remarkable cures effected by this famous old household remedy are sufficient to prove that the theory is correct. Brown's Iron Bitters is sold by all dealers.

"My, that made me jump!"

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Turpin arrived at home on Tuesday evening from Florence, Ala., where they attended the meeting of the North Alabama Conference.

Mr. John T. McMillan, of this place, was in Montgomery the first of the week, attending the Masonic Grand Lodge.

Since our last issue we had three days of rain and two or three heavy frosts and freezes. The late water famine in this vicinity is a thing of the past, for this winter at least.

Rev. Alexander, a young Cumberland Presbyterian divine, of the Spring Creek neighborhood, has, we learn, been called and accepted the pastorate of the Calera church.

Will some of our rural subscribers bring us a couple of turkeys for Christmas—one for myself and one for our foreman? If so, we will give them credit for a year's subscription.

Mr. A. C. Wade is behind the counter at Powers & Co. He is a familiar figure in that store as he merchandised in that same building for several years in the recent past.

Rev. T. M. Wilson, the new pastor of the Methodist church here, was in town yesterday. He was returning from the North Alabama Conference to Columbiana, where he has served the church for several years past.

"Jim Garner," east Clinton's prominent "silver" democrat, was, as is always the case, a pleasant visitor to the Sentinel office Monday morning. Jim says he wants the campaign to open up early this year, for his hat is nearly worn out.

Through a verbal report from a worthy citizen of that neighborhood, the Sentinel learns that there will be another brilliant wedding at Concord church today, the contracting parties being Mr. John Letcher, of Stanton, Ala., and Miss Laura Reynolds, daughter of Rev. Job Reynolds, of Dry Valley.

Mr. Thos. J. Hoskins, of Aldrich, passed through the city yesterday on his return from Montgomery, where he attended the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Masons.

Mr. W. D. Hays, an excellent farmer, who has had the Dinkins place leased for the past two years, has, we learn just renewed his lease for four years, and has also leased for the same length of time the farm near town belonging to Mr. H. C. Moss.

J. A. Perkins, of Antiquity, O., was for thirty years needlessly tortured by physicians for the cure of eczema. He was quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve the famous healing salve for piles and skin diseases.—Dial Bros.

MARRIED.—At the residence of the bride's brother in Selma, Ala., on Wednesday, December 1, Mr. W. W. Hayden, of this place, and Miss Mattie Wilson, of Selma. The newly wedded couple arrived in the city Thursday last and will make this place their home. The SENTINEL extends congratulations.

Mrs. Stark, Pleasant Ridge, O., says, "After two doctors gave up my boy to die, I saved him from croup by using One Minute Cough Cure." It is the quickest and most certain remedy for coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles.—Dial Bros.

Rev. W. B. Carter, pastor of the Baptist church, filled his regular appointment on Sunday last, preaching interesting and instructive sermons both morning and night. He was listened to with marked attention throughout both services. For good order on the part of the congregation attending church services, Calera can well be proud, but on last Sabbath the good order and attention was superb.

Mr. C. M. Dixon, a well known merchant of Pleasant Ridge, Fulton county, Pa., has a little girl who is frequently threatened with croup, but when the first symptoms appear his wife gives her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which always affords prompt relief. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Dial Bros.

One of the handsomest suits The Sentinel has seen in a long time was made by a tailor in Louisville, Ky., out of jeans woven by Mrs. W. P. Gilbert of Coalville in this county. If this country was filled with such ladies as Mrs. Gilbert, the Silver and Tariff questions would soon cease to be an issue in this country and the men and boys would be clad in warmer, more durable garbs.

H. G. McCall, Alabama's Commissioner to the Tennessee Centennial, has returned home. He is justly proud on having captured the gold medal for Alabama's fine lumber and agricultural exhibit.—Advertiser.

The editor acknowledges the receipt of an invitation to be present at an entertainment to be given at Aldrich on tomorrow, Friday, night, for the benefit of the Aldrich Academy by the dramatic club of that place. The programme accompanying the invitation gives promise of a most delightful evening to all who attend. "The Turn of the Tide" or "Wrecked in Port," a nautical and temperance Drama in three acts will be presented, and there will be excellent music. A good attendance should greet the club on this occasion. We hope to be on hand.

Yellow Fever Prevented.

There is only one sure way of preventing yellow fever. Destroy the germs of the disease by using cascates, candy cathartic, and keep the system clean by continuing their use. The tried and tested safe-guard against yellow fever is to place your faith in cascates, 10c, 25c, 50c, all druggists.

It is easy to catch a cold and just as easy to get rid of it if you commence early to use One Minute Cough Cure. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and all throat and lung troubles. It is pleasant to take, safe to use and sure to cure.—Dial Bros.

CALERA HIGH SCHOOL.

The semi-monthly entertainment given by Calera High School on last Friday evening was a success in every particular. A large audience composed of the patrons and friends of the school was in attendance. The exercises consisted of readings, recitations, dialogues and songs by the chorus classes. The larger and more advanced pupils of the school alone participated in this entertainment. The selections were excellent and all were well rendered. Several of the pupils displayed considerable dramatic talent. These entertainments are doing much to arouse an enthusiastic interest in the work and progress of the school among parents, pupils and teachers as well as proving very beneficial, especially to the pupils. The school continues to grow in numbers and in interest. The next entertainment will take place just before Christmas.

Prosperity comes quickest to the man whose liver is in good condition. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are famous little pills for constipation, biliousness, indigestion and all stomach and liver troubles.—Dial Bros.

CALERA COLORED SCHOOL.

Calera's school interests are all in a most encouraging and satisfactory condition at this time. The colored school under the management of Prof. A. T. Thomas, is we are pleased to learn, progressing most favorably. The enrollment of pupils up to this date is seventy three, and the indications are that the number will be increased to the neighborhood of one hundred at an early day. The discipline is reported good and the pupils are taking a lively interest in the work. The daily average attendance is between fifty and sixty. Monthly written examinations for the more advanced pupils are held, and those already held show good progress. The primary pupils are reported as doing well. Prof. Thomas reports that the greatest trouble he has to contend with is the irregularity in attendance on the part of some pupils, and he requests The Sentinel to urge upon his patrons to see to it that their children are prompt and regular in their attendance at school. Prof. Thomas informs The Sentinel that the school is now preparing to give a concert during the holidays or just before Christmas.

Don't be persuaded into buying liniments without reputation or merit—Chamberlain's Pain Balm costs no more and its merits have been proven by a test of many years. Such letters as the following, from L. G. Bagley, Hueneme, Cal., are constantly being received: "The best remedy for pain I have ever used is Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and I say so after having used it in my family for several years." It cures rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. For sale by Dial Bros.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olague Ind. Ter. Chief.

This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and la grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Dial Bros.

News of the failure of the crop in a large part of the European wheat belt and also in Argentina and other parts of the South American wheat producing section is the first piece of good fortune the American farmer has had for years. His season has been all that could be asked for and his yield is bountiful. One recognized European authority estimated the shortage a month ago at 144,000,000 bushels of wheat. Since then he has learned of the failure of the crop in Russia, India and Argentina, and has more than doubled his estimate.

Examineth Gun Casting.

The largest gun casting ever made in this country was cast at the ordnance department of the Bethlehem Iron Company Thursday morning. The casting is for the tube of a sixteen-inch gun for the United States Government. It is nineteen feet six inches long, octagonal in shape and seventy-four inches in diameter.

More than 100 gross tons of metal were used in its manufacture. Three furnaces, two of forty tons' capacity each and one of twenty tons, were used to prepare the metal in. The casting, which is the first and largest of its kind ever made, was a success in every way. The jackets for the big gun will be cast later.—Washington Star.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

known as the civil service, has been a subject of discussion, and of late years has resulted in increased executive and legislative approval. During the past few months the service has been placed upon a still firmer basis of business methods and personal merits. * * * Much more remains to be done before the system reaches a plane demanded by our needs. There are places now in the classified service which ought to be exempted and others not classified that might properly be included. I shall not hesitate to exempt cases which I think have been improperly included in the classification service or include those which best, in my judgment, will promote the public service. The service is provided for the benefit of the people and it will be my aim to look into it carefully."

Minor Matters.

The relations of our government with Central American republics form a subject for discussion. The president says that Minister Merry has been instructed to present his letters of recall. Honduras objected to him and Nicaragua objected because Honduras did.

The president tells of the reception accorded our commissioners to the Paris exposition and urges the importance of a suitable exhibit by the United States.

Alaska.

Early and prompt attention by Congress, he says, should be given to the territory of Alaska. Material changes in the laws are needed, because of the influx of population. Civil authority in the territory should be extended. A military force is also needed to protect life and property. The message then adds:

"The startling reports, though perhaps exaggerated, from the Yukon valley of a probable shortage of food to the number of people wintering there without means of leaving, have concerned the authorities to investigate the matter and bring it before Congress. However, should these reports of the suffering of our fellow citizens be further verified every effort, at any cost, should be made to carry them relief."

Seal Question.

The seal question is touched upon, the recent conferences being reviewed briefly. The president says as to the conference with Canada and Great Britain:

"The result of this conference was an agreement on important facts concerning the condition of seal herds heretofore in doubt, which should place beyond controversy and the duty of both governments to adopt measures without delay for the protection and preservation of the herds. Negotiations to this end are now in progress, the result of which I hope to be able to communicate to congress at an early date."

The Indians.

Conditions in the Indian Territory are reviewed, together with the work the Dawes commission. The president says:

"I concur with the secretary of the interior that there can be no relief from the evils in the Indian Territory except by the removal of the government that creates them."

One Union.

The message, in conclusion, says: "I am compelled by the length of time and the importance of affairs that congress will have to deal with at this session to discuss some of them at length. The reports of the heads of the several departments will, I am sure, have your careful scrutiny."

"While congress may not find it an easy task to reduce the expenses of the government, it should not encourage their increase. These expenses will, in my judgment, admit of a decrease in many branches without injury to the public service. It is a commanding duty to keep the appropriations within the receipts of the government, and thus avoid a deficit. [Signed] WILLIAM McKINLEY. "Executive Mansion, Washington, December 6, 1897."

Fire Adds to Distress.

News has been received of a terrible fire which occurred at Jaruco, a town of about 10,000 inhabitants, in Havana province. About 110 houses were destroyed, with nearly all their contents. No accurate estimate of the amount of damage can be made. Hundreds of families have been rendered homeless and the situation at Jaruco is very distressing. The fire originated in an accident.

Dauntless Lands a Big Cargo.

The filibustering steamer Dauntless arrived in port at Jacksonville, Fla., Friday, after having successfully landed another expedition in Cuba. The Dauntless is reported to have landed a large cargo, in which was a twelve-pound Hotchkiss gun. A large quantity of quinine was also landed for the insurgents.

An Opera Company Stranded.

The Atlantic City Theatrical Company went to pieces at Augusta, Ga., last Saturday.

Slight earthquake shocks were distinctly felt in Kansas Thursday.

France Stirred.

At Paris all political and social interests continue to be merged in the case of Alfred Dreyfus, the former captain of French artillery, who is alleged to have been unjustly sentenced to imprisonment for life on the charge of having sold important plans of the French war department to agents of a foreign power.

INTERNAL REVENUE FIGURES.

Over Two Thousand Illicit Distilleries Destroyed During the Year.

In his annual report to the secretary of the treasury Mr. Foran, commissioner of internal revenue, estimates the receipts from all sources for the current fiscal year will aggregate at least $55,000,000, an increase over 1897 of about $8,300,000.

A comparative statement of the receipts during the last fiscal year is given in part as follows: Spirits, $82,008,542; license over 1896, $1,338,472.

Tobacco, $30,710,297, decrease, $1,231.

Fermented liquors, $32,472,162; decrease, $1,312,072.

The cost of the collection of the revenue during the last fiscal year was $3,848,469.

During the year 2,241 illicit stills were destroyed and thirty-two were removed, 1,892 persons were arrested, one killed and three wounded. Of the stills seized and destroyed 228 were located in Alabama, 841 in Georgia, 463 in North Carolina, 149 in South Carolina and 182 in the Sixth Virginia district. During the last year ten officers were killed and sixteen wounded by moonshiners.

WOMEN GOING KLONDYKE.

Mrs. Hannis Gould, of Macon, Ga., Will Lead Females to the Gold Fields.

Mrs. Hannis S. Gould, a prominent Georgia woman, will undertake next spring to lead a colony of one hundred women in the Klondyke regions of Alaska.

It seems that Mrs. Gould has not determined, however, to take the women to the Klondyke with a view to making a fortune by digging gold. She has set out for the sole purpose of planting a woman colony there, and it is her plan to find employment for the women as cooks, seamstresses, trained nurses and housekeepers. Of course if any of them want to take up the pick and shovel and go to digging gold, it is not at all likely that Mrs. Gould will prevent them from this work.

DESTITUTION IN PINAR DEL RIO.

Thirty-four Thousand Concentrados Now on the Charity of Spain.

Senor Canalejes, the special commissioner of the Spanish government, has returned to Havana from his visit to the province of Pinar del Rio. He says there are 34,000 "concentrado" peasants gathered in that country and in the neighborhood of towns for protection from insurgents or to prevent them from joining the enemy, and that they are all in want. Of this number 15,000 are orphans and the majority are children of tender years. The municipal authorities, the commissioner says, are without resources, and therefore unable to do anything to relieve the destitution.

Germany's Demands Upon Hayti.

The exact nature of Germany's demands on Hayti became known for the first time Thursday. The demands are as follows:

1. An indemnity of $20,000 (American) for Emil Lueders.
2. The promise that Mr. Lueders may return to Hayti, and there sojourn without danger of any kind.
3. A letter to my government in which you will express apology for the proceedings towards the German government in the whole transaction.
4. That the president of Hayti shall graciously receive the German charge d'affaires at Port au Prince.

It was also announced that if indemnity was not given a warship would be sent or diplomatic relations be broken.

Medical College Burned.

Friday the Tennessee Medical college, located near Knoxville, was discovered on fire, and on account of poor protection it burned slowly to the ground. The college was one of the best institutions in the South and was well attended. The building cost $25,000, and was comparatively new. The owners, who are physicians, claim that the contents were worth $125,000. The insurance carried was only $10,000.

Justice Field is Out.

Justice Field's retirement from the supreme court, of which he gave official notice to the president last April, took place Thursday. If Justice Field had continued in office until next Tuesday he would have seen forty-four years of continuous service.

Atlanta's New Paper.

An application has been filed in Atlanta for the incorporation of the Phoenix Publishing Company. Among the incorporators are G. S. Appleton, of the Appleton Publishing Company, of New York, and D. R. Morgan, of the same city. The capital stock is placed at $200,000, with the privilege of increasing it to $1,000,000. They ask the privilege of publishing an afternoon, Sunday morning and weekly newspaper in Atlanta. They ask the right, it is deemed advisable, to publish a daily morning paper, and to establish agencies and branches in other places in Georgia and in other States.

Cuban President and Cabinet Elected.

Consul-General Lee has informed the state department that the insurgents in Cuba elected and installed, at Yaya, Porto Principe, on October 20, the following officers: President, Bartolo Masso; Vice-President, Domingo Mendez Capote; Secretary of War, Jose B. Aleman; Secretary of the Treasury, Earnest Font Sterling; Secretary of Foreign Affairs, Andres Moreno de la Torre; Secretary of Interior, Manuel R. Silva; General in Chief, Maximo Gomez; Lieutenant General, Calixto Garcia.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS MEETS.

Promptly at Noon the Leaders of Both Houses Called the Bodies to Order.

At noon Monday the first regular session of the Fifty-fifth Congress was launched upon the unknown seas of legislation.

Simultaneously at both ends of the capitol, Speaker Reed in the house and Vice-President Hobart in the senate, dropped their gavels and called to order the respective bodies over which they preside.

The ceremonies attending the opening of congress, though comparatively of a routine character, is a spectacle which in some respects is regarded as the greatest official event of the year at the national capitol. The weather was propitious. The sun shone brilliantly from a cloudless sky, making a glorious, bright, dry day.

The roll call showed the presence of 301 members. There were five vacancies from death or resignation during the recess, and the credentials of the members-elect were read by direction of the speaker, who then administered oaths of office to them.

On motion of Mr. Hopkins, (rep.) of Illinois, the clerk was directed to notify the senate that the house was ready for business, and on motion of Mr. Dingley, the floor leader, a resolution was adopted for the appointment of a committee of three to join the committee of the senate to wait on the president and inform him that congress was ready to receive any communication he desired to make.

The house then recessed until 1:40 to await the reception of the president's message.

When the house reconvened the committee appointed to wait upon the president came down the center aisle and Mr. Dingley reported that the committee had performed its mission.

"The president," said he, "was pleased to send to the two houses his respectful salutations, and to inform them that he would communicate in writing."

The message of the president was presented to the house, which, by the direction of Speaker Reed was read at the clerk's desk.

The message was listened to with great earnestness and especially the portions dealing with the question of revising the currency legislation and about the attitude towards Cuba. The reading consumed an hour and twenty minutes.

On motion of Mr. Dingley, the message was referred to the committee of the whole and ordered printed. Adjournment then followed.

THE CRAZE FOR GOLD.

Rush to California and South Africa to be Eclipsed Next Year.

Consul Smith, at Victoria, B. C., in a report to the state department, discusses the subject of the Klondyke fields. The advices received at Victoria indicate that the rush in 1849 to California, and later to South Africa, will be eclipsed by the gold seekers headed for the Yukon in the early months of 1898.

Agents from England have been at Victoria, making arrangements for 3,000 or 4,000 gold seekers. Merchants there have secured great supplies of outfit goods, and the transportation companies have made arrangements sufficient to make daily lines between that port and St. Michaels, Dyea, Skagway and Fort Wrangle.

PLEASED WITH THE SOUTH.

Eastern Capitalists Investigating Its Resources for Cotton Manufacture.

The distinguished party of New York bankers, merchants and manufacturers who have been making a tour of the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee, have returned home.

One of the party, S. M. Milliken, of New York, said, speaking of the result of their investigations: "We have found the south a very inviting field for investment in the matter of cotton affairs. You have the cotton at your very doors, and your labor is not so well employed as in the east. Besides this, your labor is the home article, and therefore more contented, more tractable, and we have found, too, that your labor is willing to work for reasonable pay."

Mr. Milliken thought the result of their visit would be more money expended in cotton mills in the states visited.

CUBANS TAKE GUIA VILLAGE.

Their Artillery Destroyed Several Block Houses.

The insurgent generals, Rabi and Salvador Rios, besieged the village of Guia, about fifteen miles from Bayamo. Their artillery destroyed several block houses, killing the military commander and one lieutenant. The garrison, after having lost fifty soldiers killed and wounded, surrendered.

The insurgents plundered the stores, securing rich booty, two months' supplies, a good quantity of ammunition and two hundred rifles. The Spanish have sent re-enforcements to retake the town.

A bill has been introduced in the Georgia legislature to save Mrs. Elizabeth Nobles, a white woman, now under sentence of death, from the gallows. The measure was introduced at the suggestion of Governor Atkinson, indicating that he will pardon or commute Mrs. Nobles.

Three young farmers—Seth Lowe, Will Phillips and John Howard—living near Huntsville, Ark., loved the same girl. The three met at prayer meeting and retired to a spot a short distance away to discuss the situation. A general fight ensued with pistols, resulting in the fatal wounding of all.

Georgia Poetry.

A Georgia farmer has a son who writes verse, but is too modest to submit it for publication. One day, when the farmer was going to town, he took a bundle of poems along with him and handed them to an editor.

"They're pretty fair," said the editor. "His rhyme is all right, but there's something wrong with his feet."

"Well," said the farmer, "I won't deny it; he has got corns."

Washington Post: When a bank is wrecked hundreds of innocent persons are affected, many of them ruined. Suicides often follow, the savings of years are lost, the inheritance of widows and children is dissipated and the villain who is responsible for these disasters gets a few years in the penitentiary and is then pardoned and put into position to prey on the public again. The pleadings of influential citizens, or of a loving and persistent wife or daughter, will effect a pardon and the criminal walks the streets a free man. Such men are far more dangerous to a community than a known robber, and deserves less consideration.

Omaha Bee: The price of live stock has advanced 1/4 of a cent a pound within the last few months. The retail price of beef has been raised from 2 to 6 cents a pound. If anybody can explain why this discrepancy in price exists the people of Omaha would like to hear from him.

ALABAMA'S BRAVE WOMEN.

J. J. Leslie

Children bid husband and wife more closely than the wedding ceremony itself. One-half of married misery is due to the growing physical weakness of women, which makes child-bearing a dreaded burden and prevents those close relations between husband and wife, without which happiness cannot exist. How important then is it that the woman be brought to as perfect a condition of health, of which she is capable, so that she can give to her offspring out of her abundant life and spirits. Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine will do this; it will purify her blood, tone up her nervous system and give her courage and assurance of safety to go through the ordeal of childbirth.

W. A. Collier

Ashland, Ala., writes: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 10 years for Colds, Diarrhoea, Summer Complaint with children. It gives better satisfaction than "Thedford's Black Draught," or "St. Joseph's Regulator," or anything we can get.

Where the trouble is functional and arises from some constitutional derangement or debility, such as torpid liver or inactive kidneys, producing a morbid condition in the organism, constitutional treatment with Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine will produce the happiest results. When caused by prolonged nursing, excessive sexual indulgence, abuse of stimulants, the excessive use of the eyes, or bright or too minute objects, too much sleep or other circumstances which produce determination of blood to the head, Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine quickly cures.

A case of smallpox has developed in Rock Hill, S. C., where there are 450 young women from all over the state attending Winthrop college, and considerable anxiety is felt.

The indications are that the holiday recess of congress will extend from Saturday, December 18, to Monday or Tuesday, January 3 or 4. Speaker Reed, it is understood, favors these dates.

A meeting of manufacturers of wire nails held in New York may have important results. It was held in furtherance of a plan to consolidate the interests in the line named throughout the country. The interests involved are said to aggregate $50,000,000.

Monday last two soldiers in the imperial service at the Yildiz Kiosk, the palace of the sultan, made an attempt on the life of the sultan. This was frustrated by the attendants of the sultan. A sensational statement comes from Paris, the substance of which is that the Dreyfus agitation is the outcome of an international plot to divert France's attention from events abroad, adding that an international syndicate with this object in view, backed by foreign gold, commenced operations in Belgium and developed them in Germany.

Evidence of a startling nature, which indicates that a murder has been committed somewhere between Chicago and Denver, on the Chicago and Alton railway, was found Friday on top of the front trucks of a Pullman sleeping car shortly after its arrival in Chicago. It was a human foot, apparently that of a man, and a long, slender spike penetrated the large toe.

The undertaking is fashioned after that of Fitzgerald, Ga.

DEFY THE LAW.

Arkansas Miners Said To Be Entrenched in Their Shafts.

The report is received from Jenny Lind, Sebastian county, Ark., that the miners at Bonanza have acknowledged their participation in the lynching of Constable Murray.

It is said they have sent word to Sebastian officers that if they wanted to arrest any of their number to come down into the shafts of the mines and get all they wanted. They are well supplied with dynamite, and it is known that their purpose is to blow up the mine if an effort is made to apprehend them.

The mine is surrounded by a strong posse, the sheriff being in command. He says he will force them to capitulate, even if he has to fire the mine. There are about 300 miners said to have had a hand in the lynching, and blood-shed is expected to follow the apprehension of the culprits.

REBELS CAPTURE A TOWN.

Several Spanish Guerrillas Have Joined the Insurgents.

It has been officially announced from Spanish headquarters in Havana that a "group of rebels" had entered Caimanera, near Guantanamo "favored by the treason of an officer." Caimanera, in the port of Guantanamo, is situated fifteen miles by rail from the latter place. Caimanera is on the bay of Guantanamo, otherwise Cumberland harbor.

The insurgent force, the official report adds, consisted of forty guerrillas, volunteers and natives of Cuba. They are alleged to have plundered a store and to have carried off the sum of $30,000, that was on a wharf, and which had recently arrived at Caimanera from Havana. It is also said that the insurgents killed the police inspectors and two gendarmes on duty and seriously wounded a Spanish paymaster named Jose Vigil. More Spanish guerrillas, the official announcement concludes, have joined the insurgents.

In the skirmishing of the last ten days the insurgents have lost 113 killed and 35 taken prisoners. Eight chiefs and officers and 53 armed privates have surrendered to the Spanish. The Spanish column in the same period has lost five officers and twenty-two soldiers killed, with eleven officers and 110 soldiers wounded.

Premier on Possible Intervention by the United States.

At a cabinet council held in Madrid, the queen regent presiding, the premier, Senor Sagasta, outlined the opinions of the European press regarding President McKinley's message to congress, the majority of which, the premier said, were favorable to Spain. He further declared that in the event of the United States wishing to intervene in Cuba, it would find the government prepared to defend the rights and honor of Spain. As to the military operations in Cuba, the premier informed the cabinet that the results obtained were satisfactory. The premier also said he did not attach much importance to "the attitude of certain senators."

HEAVY BUSINESS EXPECTED.

Advance in Prices Generally Attributed to Manipulation.

MEETING OF CONGRESS HAD NO EFFECT.

Railroad Earnings Are Much Larger Than a Year Ago—Exports of Wheat and Corn Continue Enormous—Demand For Wool Improved.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

The opening of congress, with the annual message and reports, have not discouraged business, as some predicted, but all speculative markets are stronger than a week ago.

The productive industries, even in the season usually about the duller of the year as to new orders, met a definite improvement in demand for products presumably the fruit of a prevailing conviction that new business will begin to crowd the works after the new year starts.

The sudden rise in December wheat at Chicago to $1.09 would do harm were it not based on avowed contracts to ship some millions of bushels to Europe. That fact, and the continued foreign demand in spite of such contracts, has helped a rise of 1 1/2 cents here.

Western receipts for the week were 5,578,771 bushels, against 3,691,374 last year, and Atlantic exports (including flour) 4,312,137, against 2,975,651 last year, and so great is the foreign shortage that the outgo of corn last year, far greater than ever before, is again exceeded—5,313,086 for the week, against 3,088,357 a year ago, with the price nearly 1 cent higher for the week.

Cotton is a sixteenth stronger in spite of estimates ranging from 10,100,000 to 11,000,000 bales by well known authorities.

A strike in English mills is no longer threatened and the possibility of one at Fall River has little weight.

The demand for woolen goods has clearly improved. While some grades have been sold largely at prices lower than a month ago, quotations are generally maintained.

There is more demand for iron and steel products in preparation for railway work, bridges and buildings next year and on contracts call for 25,000 tons, and Chicago works are figuring on numerous contracts for 5,000 railway cars.

The formation of the American Steel and Wire company is expected to strengthen prices and cause much buying.

While Bessemer at $10 and Grey Forge at $9.15 are slightly lower at Pittsburgh, prices are stronger at Chicago, and in all quarters heavy business is expected after the new year.

Failures for the week have been 312 in the United States, against 380 last year.

THE DEMOCRATS TO CAUCUS.

Will Have Four Important Matters to Discuss When It Meets.

Chairman Richardson, of the democratic caucus, Friday issued a call for a caucus of democratic members and delegates of the house of representatives on Tuesday evening next.

The caucus will consider the four subjects of Cuba, Hawaii, finance and bankruptcy, these subjects being specified in the call. As to the action on these a pretty general understanding has been reached among democratic leaders.

On the question of Cuba the sentiment is pretty unanimous for a resolution recognizing Cuban belligerency, and the caucus is likely to give expression to this sentiment.

On the subject of finance the caucus will probably take a position against the several plans of financial reforms reported by Secretary Gage.

There is no present purpose to consider the silver question, as that is not at issue in the scheme contemplated by the republican party. Opposition to the bankruptcy bill is also contemplated by the caucus.

On the question of Hawaiian annexation it is stated by those who have canvassed the feeling on the democratic side that it is generally against annexation either by treaty or legislation.

CHATTANOOGA CONFEDERATES.

Belonging to Forest Camp, Resolve in Behalf of Cuba.

At the meeting of the chamber of commerce of Chattanooga, Colonel Tomlinson Fort, commander of the N. B. Forrest Camp, Confederate veterans, offered a resolution asking congress to take steps to at once compel Spain to declare the war in Cuba at an end, and in the event Spain refuses to do so, to declare the republic of Cuba a free and independent nation of the world. The presentation of the resolution was greeted with terrific applause.

SPAIN URGED TO ACTION.

Weyler Declares She Need Not Fear War With the United States.

Madrid, Spain.—The Imparcial publishes a strong article in which it asserts that Spain will not accept the right of President McKinley to intervene in Cuba in case the war is prolonged and demands that the government adopt the same energetic attitude towards the United States as Germany adopted towards Hayti, because President McKinley's message was equal to questioning the right of Spain's sovereignty in Cuba.

Continuing, the Imparcial says that Spain must prepare for all eventualities and augment her navy "by organizing a subscription in which the whole nation, from the queen to the most humble subject, should participate."

Weyler Urges War.

Lieutenant-General Weyler has asked the government to submit to the chamber the correspondence exchanged with the United States in regard to President McKinley's message to congress. He declares that with the elements in Spain and the heroic conduct of her soldiers she need not fear war with the United States.

NICARAGUA CANAL.

Delegates to Go From Alabama to the Kansas City Convention.

The "Walm Passons club" is an organization in Kansas City, which devotes itself to the development of trade relations between the west and the gulf. The club has called a convention to meet in Kansas City on January 17, for the express purpose of devising ways and means to push forward the building of the Nicaragua canal. The matter is pending in congress and the convention is designed to uphold the friends of the canal in that body. The club has asked Governor Johnston to appoint delegates and if any good citizen of Alabama wishes to go and assist in this most important work, the governor will be glad to hear from him.

City Grand Jury Report.

The report of the Montgomery city court grand jury has been given out. It shows that 265 cases were examined by the jury and 118 indictments were found. Many cases brought before the jury were ignored on account of the trifling nature of the charges.

The bonds of the Montgomery officers were declared to be insufficient, some or them having been weakened on account of the deaths of certain signers. C. A. Allen, clerk to the board of revenue; J. J. Hunter, county superintendent of education; B. B. Carter, notary public, and Thomas W. Donaldson, constable.

The jail and poor house are reported to have been kept in good condition, but it is recommended that the inmates of the latter be restrained from begging on the streets.

The books of the board of revenue show the county to have on hand $30,348.39 in cash.

Germany Wins.

A special from Pekin says: The German-Chinese difficulty is practically settled. The Germans refuse to discuss the occupation of Kiao Chou bay. The governor of Shan Tung province has been removed from office, but will not be any further degraded. No monopoly of mines and railroads is conceded to Germany, but that country is given preference. Finally the area immediately surrounding Kiao Chou bay has been set apart exclusively for Germany. China yields on all other points.

To Assemble in Birmingham.

The members of the state executive committee of the people's party in Alabama are called to assemble in Birmingham, at the Metropolitan Hotel, on Thursday, December 30, at noon, for the purpose of arranging the necessary preliminaries incident to the opening of the state campaign of 1898. Representative men of the party in the state, and the chairman of the respective county committees, have been requested to attend and confer with the committee.

They Must Leave the Country.

The three negroes arrested in the Monticello neighborhood, near Wesley, Miss., in conjunction with Charles Lewis, the negro lynched for the quintuple murder of the Smith family, were, after a long trial, declared not guilty, but given until Monday to leave the country.

Vast Solar Disturbance.

Professor William R. Brooks, of Smith observatory, Geneva, N. Y., reports the observation of a great group of sun spots approaching the center of the sun's disc. The group is visible to the naked eye through smoked glass and may be well defined with small telescopes. Measurements made by Professor Brooks show this vast solar disturbance to be 100,000 mile in length.

By the Hand of an Assassin.

At Amite City, La., Sunday evening, S. B. Mullen, of Harrisburg, Miss., was shot to death while standing on the hotel steps by unknown parties. Why he was killed is a mystery.

THE SOUTH'S ADVANTAGES

For Cotton Manufacture Pointed Out by a New Englander.

RELATIVE CHEAPNESS OF SOUTHERN LABOR

Is the Key to the Serious Situation—The Southern Mills Have Every Natural Advantage, and Are Not Hampered by Legislation.

The action taken by men prominently connected with cotton manufacturing in the East, at a meeting held in Boston, Mass., the past week, shows how surely the South is taking the lead in the manufacture.

Although Boston is the center of the cotton mill business of New England, the men prominently connected with the trade would have little to say concerning the action of the Fall River manufacturers in voting to reduce the wages of 27,000 operatives, beginning January 1. The treasurer of one of the Fall River mills, who was willing to discuss the matter, said he regarded this cut as the beginning of a serious time, not only for the Fall River print mills, but for all the cotton mills in New England.

The key to the whole situation, he said, is the relative cheapness of Southern labor, which could not be better shown than by the fact that it costs a mill in Georgia or North Carolina 3 1/2 cents to produce a pound of material and in New England 6 cents.

With this fact in mind it is evident that the cut of 10 per cent is not going to help matters much, and the only thing that will do any good at present will be a radical cut of, say 20 or 25 per cent. This would inevitably bring on a strike; but, with a cut of 10 or 11 per cent, he says, there would be little likelihood of a strike, as the operatives are well acquainted with the conditions and know that a reduction of some kind is necessary. Even this would still leave a difference of about 25 per cent in the cost of labor in favor of the Southern mill, too great a difference to struggle against successfully.

In the first place, says this treasurer, the southern mills have every natural advantage; they have cheaper cotton and less burdensome taxation. Some of the big mills in Fall River, for instance, had a yearly payment of $10,000, $15,000 and even $20,000 in taxes to make, whereas in Georgia and North Carolina the mills are in many instances exempted from taxation for ten or twelve years.

It is in labor, however, the great difference lies, according to the official quoted, for the labor in the south is as good as it is north, and taken as a whole, is about 33 per cent cheaper. The southern laborers have had about ten years training in mills started by experienced cotton manufacturers, and attend as many machines and turn out just as good work as operatives in the best New England mills. Another great advantage the southern mills have is not being hampered by legislation. In Massachusetts the hours of laborers are limited to fifty-eight a week, while in the south they are unlimited.

The only hope for the New England mills, according to the speaker, is either in the improvement in the print cloth market, or in a general evening up of conditions between the north and south.

AN IMPORTANT BILL.

Looking to More Effective Quarantine, Offered in Congress.

Senator Caffery, of Louisiana, has introduced a bill for the revision of the quarantine laws, the distinctive feature of which is placing quarantine regulations exclusively in the hands of the national authorities.

The secretary of the treasury is asked to make regulations to prevent the introduction of infectious or contagious diseases into one State from another and such regulations to be enforced by the sanitary authorities of the States or of municipalities when these authorities will undertake to enforce them, but when they fail the President is given authority to execute and enforce them and to adopt "such legitimate measures as in his judgment shall be necessary to prevent the introduction or spread of such diseases."

Representative Hepburn, of Iowa, introduced a similar bill in the house.

In Florida Waters.

The United States drill squadron, it was given out at the navy yards, will be on its way south by December 15th. Some of the largest and most powerful vessels of the navy are now stationed at the naval yard in New York. Among them are the New York, Brooklyn, Iowa, Texas, Massachusetts, Helena and Terror. The monitor Puritan left the station Wednesday. The warships will sail for Hampton Roads as soon as they are in readiness, where they will be joined by the Indiana, Maine and other vessels. When all are gathered the annual winter cruise south will begin.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS MEETS.

The Senate—Wednesday.

Mr. Davis, of Minnesota, reported from the committee on foreign relations a bill prohibiting the killing of fur seals in the North Pacific ocean, asking immediate consideration. . . . Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, presented a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the senate that congress should, with all due and convenient speed, acknowledge by act the political independence of Cuba. Mr. Allen said he had long urged the United States to recognize the independence of the Cuban insurgents. He would not be content with the recognition of belligerency, but would insist upon the acknowledgment of absolute political liberty. . . . Senator Pettus introduced a bill to provide for the purchase of a site for a postoffice and custom house in Selma, Ala. The same is to cost not more than $100,000.

Senator Jones is preparing to take the lead in the fight against the annexation of Cuba, while Morgan will be one of the leaders in the fight in favor of the measure, and will take a very prominent part in discussions.

No other matters of importance coming up, the senate at 12:15 adjourned.

In the House.

The session of the house today lasted only fifteen minutes. Mr. W. A. Stone, republican, of Pennsylvania, reported the pension appropriation bill, the first of the appropriation bills. The committee on elections and the committee on banking and currency were given leave to sit during the sessions of the house.

The Senate—Thursday.

In the senate today Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts, presented a petition signed by 21,259 native Hawaiians, protesting against the annexation of Hawaii. . . . Mr. McBride, of Oregon, secured the passage of a resolution asking the secretary of war for such information concerning the needs of the Alaskan miners in the Yukon valley as he might have in his possession. . . . The senate began the consideration of private pension bills under the special order. During the hour allowed forty-five bills were passed, the majority of them being for increases to pensions now received. . . . The bill providing for the taking of the census of 1900 will be taken up Monday. . . . Adjourned till Monday.

The House.

The house today entered upon the consideration of pension appropriation bills and stirred up a debate that promises to continue for several days. Private John Allen, of Mississippi, who lead the assault in a speech characteristic of his humor, attacked the system. It was admitted on both sides of the house that the $140,000, carried by the bill for pensions would not cover the expenditures.

The contest of Crowe against Representative Underwood, in the Ninth Alabama district, will be called for Dec. 15. The case of W. F. Aldrich, of the Fourth Alabama district, who has entered a contest for this seat, now held by T. S. Plowman, has been set for hearing before the elections committee No. 1 on Dec. 17.

The House—Friday.

At the opening of the session of the house today it was agreed that when the house adjourned today it be to meet on Monday. . . . On motion of Mr. Foss (rep., Ills.), Saturday, December 18, was set apart for paying tribute to the memory of the late E. D. Cooke of Illinois. The house then resumed the consideration of the pension appropriation bill which was debated yesterday, and after a spirited debate passed without amendment. The amendments offered by the democrats to correct alleged existing abuses were all ruled out on the point of order that they were new legislation. As passed, the bill carried $141,263,880. . . . Mr. Hitt, chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, asked unanimous consent for the passage of the bill reported by his committee to prohibit the killing of fur seals. He explained the necessity for the immediate passage of the act owing to the diplomatic negotiations now pending. The house then adjourned till Monday.

Haytian Ministry Resigns.

Advices from Port au Prince says: The entire Haytian ministry has resigned. As yet the composition of its successor has not been definitely settled, but several well-known names are mentioned that will command the confidence of Haytians and foreigners alike. Sunday morning, after attending mass at Notre Dame, President Simon Sam made a circuit of the city on horseback, escorted by his staff of officers, but without special military display.

At Amite City, La., Joseph A. Reed, Esq., was murdered by four assassins at Franklinton last Friday. Mr. Reed had just finished his argument in a case that had attracted much attention, and had left the court house and stepped from the building when two men opened fire on him, and were joined immediately by four others, and the fourth shot did the deed.

The Shelby Sentinel.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

This paper is entered in the Calera Post-office as second-class matter.

N. A. GRAHAM,.....EDITOR.

CALERA, ALA., DEC.. 16, 1897.

Judge McClellan, of the Supreme Court, is reported to be quite ill in Montgomery.

The Alabama Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South is in session at Union Springs this week. Bishop Galloway is presiding.

The Southern Cotton Growers and the Southern Bankers are holding conventions in Atlanta this week. It is earnestly hoped that their deliberations may result in much good to this southern section.

The Cotton Grower's Convention which is in session this week in Atlanta, urges a reduction in acreage. The Birmingham News says: Four cent cotton is a condition and not a theory, and reduced acreage should become a reality instead of a dream.

Commissioner Culver has called a meeting of farmers at Montgomery on the 12th of January. The purpose of this convention is a reorganization of the State Agricultural Society and a discussion of the general farming situation. This convention should be largely attended.

The Alabama Baptist State Convention is in session at East Lake. The attendance is reported to be large and the session will no doubt be very interesting. The Whittitt matter appears to be attracting considerable attention among the delegates. Tomorrow has been set apart for the discussion of the subject.

Mrs. Nancy McKinley, the venerable mother of President Wm. McKinley, died at her home in Canton, Ohio, on Monday morning last. The sympathy of all goes out to President McKinley in this affliction. Numerous letters and telegrams of sympathy have been received from all sections of this country and from foreign countries.

Congressman Private John Allen, of Mississippi, has been having some fun, as well as making some telling hits, at the expense of the federal pension grabbers. Private John has a way of bringing out in his droll, humorous manner some very stubborn facts that are not very highly relished by his republican associates in the halls of Congress.

The proposition of the Hot Blast to hold a convention looking to the adoption of methods to improve the public roads is receiving the unanimous endorsement of the press of the state. Good roads are badly needed and there is no subject that could be presented to the people that is of more importance or in which they are more directly interested. By all means let the convention be held. Good will be accomplished.

FREE TRANSPORTATION.

For a number of years the Louisville and Nashville railroad has shown an interest in securing better public highways in Alabama, and in keeping with its usual liberality, it comes up to the full measure of its duty in an effort to help make a success of the Good Roads convention to be held in Anniston by offering free transportation over its line to all who attend the convention.

This liberal offer on the part of the L. & N. comes from Hon. J. M. Falkner, of Montgomery, and he in a letter to the editor of The Hot Blast states that he finds pleasure in cooperating to this extent in helping to make the Good Roads convention a success.

This is indeed a clever act on the part of Maj. Falkner and the L. & N.—Hot Blast.

ALABAMA CONTESTS.

Fourth and Fifth District Cases Will Be Fought Hard.

The Washington correspondent of the Atlanta Constitution, in speaking of the contest election cases in the House, says:

"First, however, a word about the cases closest home. Two of the Alabama cases which still remain on docket have been abandoned. These are the contests filed against Congressman Clayton and that against Congressman Stallings. Little, if any, trouble is anticipated from the contest of Crowe against Underwood, but the Aldrich-Plowman case and that of Goodwyn against Brewer will be stubbornly fought. Some sensational testimony is promised in the case against Plowman; and while the Republican friends of Colonel Aldrich seem to think he will win, there are other Republicans here who have studied the case and who take the opposite view.

"Colonel Brewer thinks he has a good case, but nobody can tell or predict with any certainty the fate of a contest case."

Reynolds of Montevallo president of the Girl's Industrial School, is here to push his grant for 25,000 acres of public lands for the benefit of his school. The bill, which failed at the last congress, was introduced into the senate by Senator Morgan and into the house by Mr. Plowman today.

Death of a Little Daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Smith.

A special from Union Springs to the Montgomery Advertiser of the 15th inst. says: Last night about half past seven o'clock the 2-year old daughter of Professor and Mrs. H. K. W. Smith died after a few days lingering with membranous croup. The little girl was the life of the home and the pet of all who knew her. This blow is one of the most severe grief to the bereaved parents, and the entire community feel the deepest sympathy for Professor and Mrs. Smith.

A Companion for All Ages.

A gentleman who used to read The Youth's Companion when a boy, and reads it with the same interest now that he is a middle-aged man, was asked the other day if he had not outgrown The Companion. "I don't believe," said he, "that I can ever outgrow it. I find in it not only the cheery, hopeful spirit of youth, but the wisdom and experience of age. I like it just as much as when I was a boy, though perhaps in a different way. But I know that it is the same Youth's Companion with which I grew up for my boys and girls like it as well as ever I did. It is a good paper to grow up with."

The ladies of the Baptist church will give an oyster supper at the Vanderbilt Hotel on tomorrow, Friday, night. Let all who can, attend and help the ladies in their good work.

A New Bakery.

Mr. T. A. Best has opened a bakery at Montevallo and is now prepared to furnish the best, nicest and lightest bread to all who desire same. This bread can be found at the store of Mrs. A. E. Finley. A trial is all that is asked.

Rev. J. F. Smith, of the Protestant Episcopal church, filled his regular appointments here last Sabbath at Black's Hall, preaching interesting sermons both at the morning and afternoon services. This venerable minister, who has seen the frosts of nearly four score years, is still actively engaged in ministerial work—a true and faithful christian soldier under the leadership of his great Captain.

Mrs. M. B. Ford, Russell's, Ill., suffered for eight years from dyspepsia and chronic constipation and was finally cured by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pill for all stomach and liver troubles.—Dial Bros.

Dr. Frank McLean, of McGee's Switch, Montgomery county, passed through the city last Friday en route to Montevallo on a visit to his daughters, who are pupils in the Industrial School.

Mr. Ned F. Seale, of Simpson Spring, having purchased the Hathaway residence, will soon remove to Calera. Mr. Seale once before lived in Calera and served our people faithfully as an Alderman.

Miss Allie Hughes, Norfolk, Va., was frightfully burned on the face and neck. Pain was instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which healed the injury without leaving a scar. It is the famous pile remedy.—Dial Bros.

Several fine porkers have been slaughtered in the city during the past week. In one or two instances pigs ten and eleven months old have tipped the beam at 200 pounds.

The Sentinel learns that Dial Bros. have sold their drug store to Messers Boyd and Privett. The New proprietors have taken charge and will continue the business.

Prosperity comes quickest to the man whose liver is in good condition. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are famous little pills for constipation, biliousness, indigestion and all stomach and liver troubles.—Dial Bros.

The January number of The Delineator is called the Winter Holiday Number and begins the New Year with such an attractive display of fashions and literary matter that it will easily hold its place as the Woman's Favorite Magazine. The Winter styles are exceedingly becoming and are handsomely illustrated in colors and black. Lady Jeune's review of London Society is at once a picture of its salient features and a defense of its essential kindness. The Delineator is issued by the famous fashion publishers, The Butterick Publishing Co., at 7 to 17 West Thirtieth Street, New York, at the remarkably low price of $1.00 for a year's subscription or 15 cents per copy.

Mrs. Stark, Pleasant Ridge, O., says, "After two doctors gave up my boy to die, I saved him from croup by using One Minute Cough Cure." It is the quickest and most certain remedy for coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles.—Dial Bros.

At a regular meeting of the City Council held on Dec. 2, several important matters engaged the attention, and among them was the license schedule for the ensuing year. In regard to the license of retail liquor saloons the Council decided to submit the matter to the voters of the city, and called an election to be held on the 20th inst., at which time the citizens of the city will have an opportunity to give expression to their wishes on this subject.

It is easy to catch a cold and just as easy to get rid of it if you commence early to use One Minute Cough Cure. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and all throat and lung troubles. It is pleasant to take, safe to use and sure to cure.—Dial Bros.

The receipts of cotton at Montevallo so far this season have been far in excess of that of several years past. The estimated receipts up to this time are about 3,000 bales.

Read advertisement by W. L. Lawler, Jeweler and Watchmaker, and give him a call when needing any work in his line.

Mr. H. C. Moss and family have moved into the city from their plantation and are occupying a residence on Gardner st.

Two or three real estate transactions have taken place in this place and vicinity during the past week.

Maj. Jno. W. Pitts, of Columbiana, was in the city yesterday and gave the Sentinel a pleasant call.

Mr. Newton Eddings, of Montevallo, was a pleasant visitor to the Sentinel office yesterday.

Mr. G. G. Fletcher, of Chattanooga, a former resident of this county, was in the city this morning.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olague Ind. Ter. Chief

This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and a gripe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Dial Bros.

After hearing some friends continually praising Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, Curtis Fleck, of Anaheim, California, purchased a bottle of it for his own use and is now as enthusiastic over its wonderful work as any one can be. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Dial Bros.

Don't be persuaded into buying liniments without reputation or merit—Chamberlain's Pain Balm costs no more and its merits have been proven by a test of many years. Such letters as the following, from L. G. Ragley, Hueneme, Cal., are constantly being received: "The best remedy for pain I have ever used is Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and I say so after having used it in my family for several years." It cures rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. For sale by Dial Bros.

CUBAN RELIEF cures Colic, Neuralgia and Toothache in five minutes. Sour Stomach and Summer Complaints. Price, 25 Cents.

ANNIE AND WILLIE'S PRAYER.

'Twas the eve before Christmas; "Good-night" had been said, And Annie and Willie had crept into bed; There were tears on their pillows and tears in their eyes, And each little bosom was heavy with sighs, For to-night their stern father's command had been given That they must retire precisely at seven. Instead of eight; for they troubled him more With questions unheard of than ever before. He told them he thought this delusion a sin. No such a thing as "Santa Claus" ever had been, And he hoped, after this, he should never more hear How he scrambled down chimneys with presents each year. And this is the reason why two little heads so restlessly tossed on their soft, downy beds.

Eight, nine, and the clock on the steeple tolled ten— Not a word had been spoken by either till then; When Willie's sad face from the blanket did peep, And whispered, "Dear Annie, is you fast asleep?" "Why, no; brother Willie," a sweet voice replied, "I've tried in vain, but I can't shut my eyes; For somehow it makes me so sorry because dear papa had said there is no Santa Claus; Now we know there is, and it can't be denied.

For he came every year before mamma died; But then I've been thinking that she used to pray, And God would hear everything mamma would say, And perhaps she asked him to send Santa Claus here. With the sacks full of presents he brought every year." "Well, why can't we pray just as mamma did then, And asked him to send him with presents again?" "I've been thinking so, too," and without a word more Four bare little feet bound out on the floor, And four little knees the soft carpet pressed, And two tiny hands were clasped close to each breast.

"Now, Willie, you know we must firmly believe That the presents we ask for we're sure to receive. You must wait just as still till I say amen, And by that you will know that your turn has come then— Dear Jesus, look down on my brother and me, And grant us the favor we're asking of Thee: I want a nice book full of pictures, a ring, A writing desk, too, that shuts with a spring. Bless papa, dear Jesus, and cause him to see That Santa Claus loves us as much even as he: Don't let him get fretful and angry again At dear brother Willie and Annie, amen!" "Please, Jesus, let Santa Claus come down to-night, And bring us some presents before it is light. I want he should give me a bright little box, Full of acrobats, some other nice blocks, And a bag full of tummy, a book and a toy. Amen, and then, Jesus, I'll be a good boy." Their prayers being ended, they raised up their heads, And with hearts light and cheerful again sought their beds; They were soon lost in slumber—both peaceful and deep, And with furies in dreamland were roaming in sleep.

Eight, nine and the little French clock had struck ten Ere the father had thought of his children again. He seems now to hear Annie's half-smothered sighs, And to see the big tears standing in Willie's blue eyes. "I was harsh with my darlings," he mentally said, "And should not have sent them so early to bed. But when I was troubled—my feelings found vent, For bank stock to-day has gone down ten per cent. But of course they'd forgot their troubles ere this, But then I denied them the thrice asked for kiss. But just to make sure I'll steal up to the door, For I never spoke harsh to my darlings before."

So saying he softly ascended the stairs, And arriving at their door heard both of their prayers. His Annie's "bless papa" draws forth the big tears And Willie's grave promise falls sweet on his ears. "Strange, strange, I've forgotten," said he with a sigh, "How I longed when a child to have Christmas draw nigh. I'll atone for my harshness," he inwardly said, "By answering their prayer, ere I sleep in my bed."

Then he turned to the stairs and softly went down, Threw off velvet slippers and silk dressing gown, Donned hat, coat and boots, and was out in the street— A millionaire facing the cold winter sleet; He first went to a wonderful "Santa Claus" store (He knew it, for he'd passed it the day before.)

And there he found crowds on the same errand as he, Making purchase of presents, with glad heart and tree, Nor stopped he until he had bought everything. From a box full of candy to a tiny gold ring. Indeed, he kept adding so much to his store That the various presents outnumbered a score! Then homeward he turned with his holiday load, And with Aunt Mary's aid in the nursery 'twas stowed.

Miss Dolly was seated beneath a pine tree, By the side of a table spread out for a tea; A writing desk then in the centre was laid, And on it a ring for which Annie had prayed; Four acrobats painted in yellow and red Stood with a block house on a beautiful sled; There were balls, dogs and horses, books pleasing to see And birds of all colors were perched in the tree; While Santa Claus, laughing, stood up in the top, As if getting ready for more presents to drop; And as the fond father the picture surveyed He thought for his trouble he had amply been paid; And he said to himself as he brushed off a tear, "I'm happier to-night than I have been for a year, I've enjoyed more true pleasure than ever before. What care I if bank stock falls ten per cent. more! Hereafter I'll make it a rule, I believe, To have Santa Claus visit us each Christmas Eve."

So thinking he gently extinguished the light, And tripped downstairs to retire for the night. As soon as the beams of the bright morning sun Put the darkness to flight and the stars one by one, Four little blue eyes out of sleep opened wide, And at the same moment the presents were laid. Then out of their beds they sprang with a bound, The very gifts prayed for were all in them found; They laughed and they cried in their innocent glee, And shouted for papa to come quick and see. What presents old Santa Claus had brought in the night (Just the things they had wanted) and left before light.

"And now," said Annie, in a voice soft and low, "You'll believe there's a Santa Claus, papa, I know!" While dear little Willie climbed up on his knee, Determined no secret between them should be; And told, in soft whispers, how Annie had said, That their dear, blessed mamma, so long ago dead, Used to kneel down and pray by the side of her chair, And that God, up in heaven, had answered her prayer! "Then we dot up and prayed dust as well as we could, And Dad answered our prayers; now wasn't it good?" "I should say that He was if He sent you all these, And knew just what presents my children would please (Well, well, let him think so, the dear little elf, 'Twould be cruel to tell him I did it myself.)"

Blind father! who caused your stern heart to relent? And the hasty word spoken so soon to relent? 'Twas the being who bade you steal softly up stairs, And made you His agent to answer their prayers.

—Sophia P. Snow.

LEGEND OF THE MISTLETOE.

BY FLAVEL SCOTT MINES.

I GHT merrily blazed the yule log in the square open fire place, and the dark oak panels of the little room caught and threw back again in softer color the red light of the flames. The room was filled with the rosy glow, and black shadows danced in time to the flickering firelight on the floor and walls. At times the fierce wind outside blew down the chimney a shower of snow which fell with a sizzle upon the crackling log, but the flames only burned the brighter as though determined to outdo the Christmas storm, and the noise of the gale was lost in the merry splutter and crack of the fire.

Before the log sat a youth and maiden, and for a little time they sat in silence reading their future in the red coals; and though neither told the other of their dream each felt that their futures were the same. Suddenly the young man turned toward the girl. "I bought a bit of mistletoe to-day," he said; "do you know the origin of its use? Shall I tell you the story?" She looked at him dreamily. "Yes," she answered, her lips scarcely moving. "And will you promise not to interrupt?" "Y-es," was the low reply. He laid the green spray with its crimson berries upon her brown curls, and bending near her began: "Baldur, the son of Odin, the old Norse god, was called the Good because of his kind and loving nature, and wherever he went among the gods or men he was received with the kiss of peace." The young man hesitated a moment, then he caught sight of the green spray that crowned the fair face of the girl and he was emboldened. "Like this," he whispered. He waited a moment and then seeing the brown eyes turned inquiringly toward him he continued, "But Baldur in his dreams was warned that his life was in peril, so he called the gods together and giving them the kiss of peace—the gods were numbered by the score," he explained, "and you promised not to interrupt. He told them of his fears and they resolved to do all in their power to prevent the calamity. Frigga, the wife of Odin, made all things on earth swear not to injure him, but she overlooked the mistletoe, which she thought too puny. She did not know its power as I do. All right, I'll continue. After this Baldur used to supply all the fun for the gods, who would throw all sorts of things at him and improve their aim because they knew he could not be harmed. And Baldur used to return a kiss for each blow, and if he got hit six times he would give six—like this. But Loki, that unpleasant fellow whom no one used to ever kiss, (like this) learned that the mistletoe had taken no oath, so he got a little spray and sharpened it and then went to watch the fun. There was an old blind god called Hodur who couldn't hit Baldur because he couldn't see him, and Loki went up to him and whispered, 'Don't you want to hit Baldur and get a kiss?' (like this) and Hodur said 'Yep.' So Loki gave him the mistletoe and guided his throw and Baldur was pierced through and he fell dead and he couldn't kiss anybody any more, (like this) and everybody was stricken with sorrow. So after trying to get back his life they gave up the job and laid him on his ship, placed a spray of mistletoe over his head and all the Valkyrs, a lot of pretty girls who used to be messenger boys for the gods, came and kissed him, (like this—and this) and that is why on Christmas eve anybody can kiss anybody else (like this) if they only have a spray of mistletoe over their head."

"What has Christmas Eve got to do with it?" asked the maiden, reaching for the spray in her hair. As she said it she started. "Oh, Tom!" she cried, "these berries are red! How could you make such a mistake? All your time wasted and—"

The young man looked perplexed. How had he failed, he wondered? The results of mistletoe could not have been different. He was about to ask when the girl started to her feet and like a frightened spirit passed through the portieres. Was she displeased, and was this his dismissal? As he pondered thus a hand thrust aside the curtains and a face that was rosy as the glowing coals looked shyly through. "Tom," she faltered, "you know that holly didn't count—holly never does. It wasn't fair, so—so—I've got a piece of real mistletoe. Now tell me all about Baldur."—Munsey.

The Yule Log.

When the yule log burns upon the hearth, With carol, chime and Christmas cheer, A fire should kindle in each soul To gladden all the coming year; A flame to brighten hearth and home, And shine as well for other eyes, Fed by good deeds which still glow on When dim and cold the yule log lies.

No life so poor but it may know A spark of this divinest fire. No life so beautiful and rich, But still, flame-like, it may aspire. Then kindle yule logs far and wide To burn on every happy hearth, Fit symbols of the faith and love That purify and bless the earth. —Louisa M. Alcott.

Growth of American Christmas Customs.

America has welcomed and adopted the Christmas tree with cordial affection and treated it as if it were a product of her own inventive brain. Transplanted to the United States by the early Dutch settlers of New York and by the Germans who established themselves in Pennsylvania, it grew and flourished as it did in its native soil. Its advance was slow, but in 1830 the Christmas tree had become a fixed factor in the holiday celebrations, not only in families of direct German descent, but among that composite population called American. Small cedar trees were first used, and were called "Christmas bushes." They were decorated with rosy apples, paper flowers, a few small candles, gilded nuts and "Christmas cakes." This last confection seems to be entirely out of date. It took the form of small horses, dogs, cows, hearts and diamonds, and was a combination of flour and water paste and white and colored sugar frosting. Even by those who recall the Christmas cake with fondest recollection it is admitted to have been rather a delight to the eye than a joy to the palate or the digestion.

As years went on, and the young nation grew older and richer and the life of the people more luxurious and complex, the "Christmas bushes," with their paper flowers, and "Christmas cakes," developed into a tree, which is often an elaborate and expensive affair. But it is not in civilized or Christian lands alone that this wonderful Christmas tree grows. Missionaries have planted it in China, in Japan, in India, Africa, in the islands of the sea, so that yellow, brown and black faces, as well as white, gaze up at it with delight.—New York Mail and Express.

Torturing the Tortoise.

The beautiful tortoise shell, from which combs and hatpins are made, is not, as is generally supposed, the shell proper from the turtle, but the scales which form its covering. The turtle whose shell is valued in commerce is the small variety known as the hawksbill, which is found on the coral islands of the Southern seas. During the night the turtles leave the water to deposit their eggs in the sand, and it is then that they are captured by the watchful turtle hunters. They are turned on their backs and left in this helpless condition until morning, when the work of loosening the scales begins. This is the repulsive part of the business. The turtles are not killed, as this would soon lead to their extermination.

They are fastened by pegs to the ground in their natural position and a fire of dry leaves lit upon their backs. The heat is not great enough to injure the shell, but merely to cause it to separate at the joints. A large blade, very similar to a chemist's spatula, is then inserted horizontally between the laminae, which are gently pried from the back. Great care must be taken not to injure the shell by too much heat, and yet it is not forced off until it is fully prepared for separation by a sufficient amount of warmth. The operation is the extreme of cruelty, and many turtles do not survive it.

A Misunderstanding.

"I notice Jenks doesn't speak to you. What's the matter?" "I can't help it. I started to talk to him about Christmas decorations the other day, and he thought I referred to the black eyes he got in a broil with a mutual friend recently."

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

The Senate—Thursday.

Mr. Allen's resolution calling on the president for information about the instructions given to the international monetary commission and the report made to him by the commission came up, to which Mr. Wolcott, chairman of the commission, replied that he would soon make a detailed statement of the commission. The resolution went over until January 15. Mr. Pritchard, chairman of the committee on civil service, delivered a speech concerning the general features of the law. Mr. Frye, of the commerce committee, favorably reported and the senate passed a bill directing the secretary of the treasury to purchase or construct a suitable vessel for revenue cutter service on the Yukon river, Alaska, to cost not to exceed $40,000. Mr. Allison reported favorably the house joint resolution providing for a recess of congress from December 18, 1897, to January 5, 1898. The resolution was adopted. Mr. Hawley reported the resolution of Mr. McBride, for the relief of American miners and other sufferers in the Yukon valley, Alaska. The committee struck out all but the enacting clause and amended the resolution by appropriating $250,000, which is to be used by the secretary of war for the purchase of subsistence and supplies, and for their transportation and distribution. The resolution was adopted. A resolution was passed directing the secretary of the treasury to furnish the senate the names of the revenue cutters employed on the coast of Florida to prevent filibustering; how many such expeditions were thwarted; what vessels were captured; what armed expeditions were taken, and by what authority of law the secretary of the treasury acted in the matter. The bill went over to a future date. Adjourned.

The House.

The house today passed a bill appropriating $175,000 for the relief of the people of the Yukon river country, and also the bill passed by the senate yesterday to prohibit pelagic sealing by American citizens. In the course of the debate over the latter bill there was some exceedingly caustic criticisms of the course of our Behring sea negotiations, past and present. After further debate, the bill was passed, yeas 148, nays 78. At 5 o'clock the house adjourned.

The Senate—Friday.

A spirited debate was precipitated in the senate today by the submission by Mr. Platt, of Connecticut, of the report of the special joint committee of the senate and house of representatives, appointed to investigate the use of alcohol in the arts. It developed that a wide divergence of opinion exists among senators as to the practicability from the point of view of government revenue of reducing the present tax upon alcohol used in the arts. Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts, who favors such a reduction, expressed the opinion that if congress would lay aside political considerations and deal with the liquor question courageously and honestly by the imposition of an additional tax of a dollar a barrel on liquor and beer the government revenue would take care of itself. Mr. Vest, of Missouri, strenuously opposed any additional tax on beer. Under a special order eighteen private pension bills were passed. At the suggestion of Mr. Hawley, chairman of the military affairs committee, the bill passed by the house for the relief of the miners in the Klondike was taken up at once. The senate bill was substituted for that of the house and a conference ordered, with Senators Hawley, Carter and Cockrell as conferees. After the debate on alcohol used in the arts had run some time, Mr. Allison deprecated any attempt to raise the question at present. At 4:25 p. m. the senate adjourned until tomorrow.

The House.

The house today completed the consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, excepting the paragraph relating the civil service. By agreement, the debate on this latter paragraph will go over until after the holidays. The bill as reported abolishes the assay office at New Orleans. The house then went into committee of the whole and resumed the consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial bill. On Mr. Cannon's motion, the senate amendment to the bill for the relief of the miners on the Upper Yukon was disagreed to and its committee agreed to a conference. Messrs. Cannon, of Illinois; Northway, of Ohio, and Sayers, of Texas, were appointed conferees. The debate drifted into a financial discussion. Mr. Cox, of Tennessee, submitted that Secretary Gage's testimony, given before the house banking committee, was a frank statement of the position of the government. He had voted his adherence to the gold standard as against bimetalism, and his whole bill was designed to uphold and perpetuate that standard. Adjourned.

The Senate—Saturday.

Today's open session of the senate was brief, the time being consumed in the introduction of bills and resolutions, several of the latter calling for information from various departments being passed. A joint resolution was passed providing for the expenditure of $10,000 more than originally intended upon the government building at the Trans-Mississippi exposition at Omaha, Neb.; that $2,500 be appropriated for a building at the exposition for a display of the life-saving service and that the cost of the government display be reduced from $150,000 to $137,500, the entire cost of the government buildings at the exposition to $62,500. Mr. Platt, of Connecticut, secured the adoption of a resolution, calling upon the secretary of the interior to report to the senate the present status in the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations in the Indian Territory. The senate, at 12:40 p. m., went into executive session. After the executive session the conference report upon the bill providing relief for the Klondike miners was received and adopted. The bill appropriates $100,000 to be expended under the direction of the secretary of war to relieve the suffering people in the Yukon valley and gold-bearing regions of Alaska, providing the consent of the Canadian government can be obtained to the transportation of such supplies through Canadian territory. At 2 p. m. the senate adjourned until Wednesday, January 5, 1898.

The House.

The conference report to the emergency relief measure for the Klondike country was presented and agreed to. It compromises the amount of the relief fund at $200,000; provides securing the consent of Canada to extending the relief to the Canadian side, and authorizes the use of the army to carry out the relief measures. It also provides that the supplies must be purchased instead of being donated. A house bill was passed confirming certain cash entries of public lands. At 12:30 Mr. Boutelle, of Illinois, offered resolutions of profound regret on the death of Mr. Cooke, of Illinois, and eulogies were begun. Those who paid tribute to the deceased member were Messrs. Boutelle, Foss, Henderson, Belknap, Boyce, Mann, Hopkins, Dinwiddie, Graff, Moody, Prince and Peters. At 2:10 the house adjourned to January 5.

ALABAMA'S PRIDE.

The Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo Doing a Great Work.

The Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo, under the guidance of Capt. H. C. Reynolds, is doing the greatest work of any school in the South. Pupils in the dress-making department are actually making money, besides carrying on their studies. Over 325 pupils are enrolled and there is still room for a few more. We learn fifty-eight dollars pays all expenses from the 1st of January. This is one of the few state institutions where the people get the direct benefit from appropriations. The rich, the poor, the high and the low, all patronize it and are satisfied. Captain Reynolds has just returned from Washington where he has been for some time working in the interest of a land appropriation for the school.

Leather Unlucky at Christmas.

Christmas being the period in which gifts are numerous it seems rather curious that it should be thought unlucky to bring shoes or leather articles into the house at this period, but such things are forbidden in an English county. In another it is counted unlucky to bring any holly into the house before Christmas Eve, and in London it must all be burned on Twelfth Day morning.

A Natural Mistake.

Signor Franchesi, the rag-picker (meeting Santa Claus in the early morning)—"Hello! How's business?"

The most prodigious power of muscle is exhibited by fish. The whale moves with a velocity through a dense medium of water that would carry him, if continued, round the world in something less than a fortnight, and a swordfish has been known to strike his weapon clean through the oak plank of a ship.

CALERA, ALA., DEC. 23, 1897.

Forced to the Wall.

Mr. Thos. J. Martin, of Harpersville, one of the oldest and best known merchants in this county, made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors on the 17th inst. Assets, about $62,000; liabilities, about $29,000. The stringency of the times and inability to make collections was the cause. Mr. E. V. Caldwell of Harpersville is the assignee. Mr. Martin has been merchandising at Harpersville for the past thirty-two years, and during all that time has held a proud place in the mercantile world. His failure will be heard of with much regret and many friends everywhere will sympathize with him in the misfortunes that have forced this result upon him. Enterprising, generous and big hearted, he has, during all his mercantile life, been a tower of strength to Harpersville and all that section of country; indeed to this whole county. There is no man in this county who is more highly esteemed and who has more friends. A high toned, honorable, gentleman, an enterprising business man, and a most useful citizen that he is, deserved the continued smiles of fortune and not her frowns. The Sentinel, with many friends, sympathizes with him and hopes that he may be able to make such advantageous terms with his creditors that he may be able at an early day to resume business.

HYMENEAL.

The Birmingham News of yesterday contained the following notice, which will be of interest to the Sentinel's readers:

Miss Lottie Duran and Mr. Thos. J. Baldridge were married at the First Methodist church at 11:30 o'clock this morning. Rev. G. C. Kelly, pastor of the church, officiating. There were a large number of the friends of the happy couple in attendance at the ceremony uniting their lives and fortunes. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Baldridge left on a honeymoon trip to Nashville and West Tennessee. They will be gone ten days or so. Returning they will be at home to their friends at 2205 Fourth avenue. Mr. Baldridge is manager of the J. T. May Loan Company. The fair bride is the niece of Mr. W. S. Meroney, Superintendent of the Mary Lee Coal Mines. The couple have the best wishes for much happiness from a large circle of friends and admirers.

Miss Lottie was reared in this county, and has many friends and relatives here who wish her much happiness in wedded life.

Miss Leila Herbert Commits Suicide.

Miss Leila Herbert, the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Ex-Secretary of the Navy Hilary A. Herbert, of Alabama, committed suicide by jumping from a third story window of her father's residence in Washington city on the morning of the 21st inst., while temporarily insane. The sudden and tragic death was a great shock to her relatives and friends. Her father, Secretary Herbert was absent and at the time was en route to Washington from his recent visit to Alabama. Miss Herbert was one of the loveliest and most accomplished of her sex, and was widely known and much admired. The many friends of Colonel Herbert throughout Alabama sympathize deeply with him in this sore affliction. The news of the tragic death of his daughter brought sadness to many homes in this her native state. The remains will be brought to Montgomery for interment.

Jasper Nabors Captured.

Jasper Nabors, who it will be remembered killed his uncle A. B. Payne, postmaster at Longview in this county, on the 19th of December, 1895—just two years ago—at Longview and made his escape, was captured a few days ago in Tuskalooosa county, by Deputy Sheriff Kyle of that county. Nabors, it is stated, was at the time making his way to Montevallo. Nabors, in charge of the officers, passed through this place on Monday evening en route to Columbiana jail, where is now confined. He claims that the killing was done in self defense.

ALDRICH.

EDITOR SENTINEL: Nothing has occurred to break the dull monotony of our social circles so much in a twelve months, as the play given last Tuesday evening by the Dramatic Club in this place, entitled the "Turn of the Tide."

Owing to the approach of Christmas and its numerous draughts on pocket books for Santa Claus and Turkeys, the people of Aldrich did not turn out as they should, but Montevallo did, with a large and appreciative audience, representing the elite, the beauty and chivalry of her generous and whole-souled citizenship. The receipts were fair and the play just splendid. Mr. Chas. T. Robbins, the hero of the drama, is in his element on the stage, and as Jonas Aldrich, his portrayal of the abandon and debauchery of the inebriate was only equalled by his matchless ideal of the reformed gentleman in the last act. The "Sailor Song and Dance," in which he was ably supported by Mr. A. F. Hutchins, showed his wonderful versatility as an actor, and marked them both as favorites of the footlights, worthy of any audience.

Mr. Joseph Hoskins, as "Captain of the Pirates," was the very picture of handsome manhood perverted to ignoble deeds, and he threw his whole soul into the last struggle, in which he lost his reckless life.

Mr. A. F. Hutchins excelled his former reputation as "Capt. Morris," which he played to perfection, and at times rose to sublimity and grandeur of a star of no mean proportions.

Mr. G. B. Monroe as "Pepper," brought down the house frequently with his happy delineation of the negro character and dialect.

The ladies were equally felicitous in their respective parts. Miss Malissa Fancher, although only a school girl of fourteen summers, made a model old woman; and as "Aunt Becky," brought up a strong support. Mrs. Hutchins as "Frisky," set the house to roaring, and soon had the audience in full sympathy. Miss Bessie Hoskins as the "Ocean Waif," was simply superb; and at times her touching soliloquy would move to tears. Mrs. Pratt as "Clyde's Deserted Wife," threw pathos and expression into every sentence, and redeemed the plot, in her final acceptance of Colonel Ellsworth.

Mr. Chas. Hoskins and O. W. Tinney were indeed pirates, and were weird, wild and wanton in their robbery act. Prof. Carpenter made a veritable patrician as Col. Ellsworth; and the character suited him to perfection; and he may not be reafter dread "grey hairs" as much as bachelors generally do.

The play was fine and all did well and every one went away glad that they came.

We regret very much that we were deprived of the vocal music of Mrs. Pratt who was suffering too much from hoarseness to render her duet with Miss Hoskins, entitled "Golden Chairs." Those who have heard her in this are enthusiastic in their encomiums. Miss Bessie Hoskins, however, substituted a solo, which she sang with remarkable sweetness.

The only error made was the failure on the part of the management to provide instrumental music of some kind between the acts.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olague Ind. Ter. Chief.

This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Dial Bros.

After hearing some friends continually praising Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, Curtis Fleck, of Anaheim, California, purchased a bottle of it for his own use and is now as enthusiastic over its wonderful work as any one can be. The 25 and 50 cents sizes for sale by Dial Bros.

Strange Death of Three Brothers.
At Clomera, in France, three brothers named Mose, all over 80 years old, have just died on alternate days in a very strange manner. The first was found Monday in a cellar half eaten by rats. The second was found Wednesday in a stable under a heap of potatoes, and the eldest, living at Flavac, was discovered two days later dead under his bed.

Three of the most valuable products of the mine have been found in Alaska—gold, petroleum and coal. All of these minerals are found there in abundance. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. EXPORTS ARE VERY HEAVY.

All Records Probably Surpassed by This Year's Figures.

WHEAT THE BACKBONE OF FOREIGN TRADE.

Bleached Cotton Goods Are Selling at the Lowest Point Ever Reached—Imports Show a Falling Off—Failures for the Past Week.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Close to its annual holiday and half the business of the year is surprisingly large. Payments through banks are 2.5 per cent larger than in 1892, heretofore the year of greatest prosperity; the production of iron and woollens, boots and shoes is larger than ever before; shoes eclipse all past records, and failures for two weeks have been the smallest for corresponding weeks in five years. The most weighty news of the week is the excess of merchandise exports over imports by $116,630,200 in November, the excess or exports in four months being $229,212,401, while in half of December exports are nearly as large and imports $2,500,000 smaller than last year, when the excess of exports was $58,205,366.

The output of pig iron December 1 was the greatest ever known, 226,024 tons, against 213,159 November 1, 1896, and 217,306 in November, 1895, the highest point heretofore. Unsold stocks also decreased in November 29,352 tons, indicating consumption of nearly 250,000 tons during the month. Bessemer declined in the face of such production 10 cents and grey forge 25 cents at Pittsburgh.

Wheat is just now the back bone of foreign relations, and Atlantic exports in two weeks have been, flour included, 7,880,942 bushels, against 5,453,677 last year, while receipts rose to 12,060,122 bushels, against 6,625,382 last year. The price gained a fraction in spite of the speculative demand in Chicago.

The cotton manufacture is in difficulty, due to production last year far in excess of demand and to partial transfer of the demand to southern mills. While domestic and export sales have been large they are behind a production exceeding that of the best previous years, northern and southern included, and the effort to straighten things by a reduction of wages, presumably involves a strike and reduction of output. Goods are generally weak, and the range of prices are the lowest ever known, the reduction in bleached goods, prints and wide sheetings having caused considerable demands.

The demand for woolen goods is increasing and some mills are in the market providing for a greater production.

The wool market is generally dull, sales at three chief points being 15,307,100 pounds, against 18,100,100 last year.

Failures for the week have been 329 in the United States, against 387 last year, and 28 in Canada, against 41 last year.

TO CARE FOR SOUTHERN GRAVES.

Gov. Taylor Makes Several Suggestions to the Veterans.

In an interview at Tallahassee, Tenn., Gov. Robert L. Taylor suggested that there should be organized for the whole south a confederate cemetery association to raise funds and supervise the care of confederate cemeteries, many of which are reported to be neglected.

Gov. Taylor suggests further that a branch of the association should be formed in each southern state, and that general headquarters for the association be established at some city centrally located. Gov. Taylor pledged himself to place his services at the disposal of such an association and would deliver a number of lectures for its benefit.

The plan will be presented to the annual reunion of confederates at Atlanta next year.

At San Francisco, Theodore Durrant has been sentenced to hang on January 7 next for the murder of Blanche Lamont. This is the fourth time he has been sentenced.

TELLS THE SENATE HE IS RIGHT.

Secretary Gage Shows Cause for His Use of Revenue Cutters.

Secretary Gage has sent to the senate his reply to Senator Cannon's resolution inquiring about the use of revenue cutters to prevent filibustering expeditions.

The McLane, Winona, Bontwell, Colfax and Forward have been used for this purpose on the Florida coast and the report shows that the course adopted by the treasury department was in compliance with President Cleveland's proclamation and with numerous sections of the revised statutes which Secretary Gage quotes.

CAPITAL SIXTY MILLIONS.

Bill to Incorporate an Alaska Railway Company Introduced.

Senator Faulkner has introduced a bill in congress incorporating the Cook's Inlet, Taunna & Yukon Railroad company, authorizing the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from Cook's Inlet to the Alaskan boundary and Norton sound. The capital stock of the company is fixed at $60,000,000. Ex-Senator Squire of the state of Washington is one of the incorporators. This land contains valuable mineral deposits.

SPANIARDS ANGRY.

Generals Engineering a Protest Against the President's Message.

A special from Biarree, France, says: Mail advices received from Madrid (telegrams and telephone messages on this subject being forbidden) say the Spanish military journals, especially the most important, the Correspondencia Militar, declare that twenty generals have come to an agreement to engineer a protest against President McKinley's message to congress, which is considered insulting to the Spanish army. It is added that a certain marshal was asked to co-operate, but merely replied that he would consider the matter. General Weyler answered a similar request, saying he desired in the first place to learn the opinion of certain personages, the law not allowing military men to send a collective petition to the minister for war.

Political circles are much excited at rumors of a manifesto to the country, which is said to be in course of preparation.

GEORGIA LEGISLATURE.

Resume of Work Done by That Body During the Past Session.

The state legislature expired by limitation at midnight Thursday. The principal business during the session was to provide a new penal system to take the place of the old lease system.

While convicts will still be hired out under the new system, it looks ultimately to the entire breaking up of hiring convicts to civilians and to their employment by the state.

The passage of a resolution calling upon senators and congressmen to support an amendment making United States senators elective by the people at large was the principal expression in national issues.

The legislature also declared in favor of a national quarantine.

The anti-foolbill bill was passed by the legislature, but fell through under gubernatorial veto.

Very little active legislation reached a final passage.

JAPAN'S HAWAIIAN POLICY.

No Objection to Annexation, But Will Protect Japanese Interests.

The steamer Doric, which arrived at San Francisco from Japan Friday morning, brought the following news:

It is reported that as the cabinet found that the absolute protest against Hawaiian annexation was of no avail, it concluded that it would be advisable to yield a point, and, while not objecting to annexation itself, to make an effort to insure the protection of Japanese interests. The United States government will be asked to guarantee that the annexation of Hawaii shall not interfere with the advantage hitherto possessed by Japan in the islands. This will constitute the scope of Japan's policy, even should congress approve of annexation.

FOUR MURDERED IN ARKANSAS.

An Aged Farmer, His Wife and Two Sons Killed by Robbers.

A special from Russellville, Ark., gives details of a terrible murder near Clinton, in Van Buren county. An aged farmer named Patterson lived on Culpepper mountain. With him lived his wife and six sons, one of whom was married and had a small family. While the entire household was seated at the supper table two white men, wearing masks and heavily armed, suddenly sprang into the dining room and leveling their weapons at the heads of the assembled family commanded them to remain quiet and commenced shooting, when a general fight ensued. When the desperate battle ended, it was found that the old farmer, his wife and two of the sons had been killed. Robbery was the intent of the murderers.

Big Gain in Exports and Imports.

The exports of domestic merchandise during November last amounted to $114,608,301, a gain of nearly $7,000,000, as compared with November, 1896.

The imports of merchandise were $52,352,331, of which over 50 per cent was free of duty. The gain for the month in the imports of dutiable merchandise was over $5,300,000.

The exports of silver during November amounted to $4,979,277, and the imports $1,544,305. For the nine months the exports of silver amounted to $52,551,963 and the imports $11,017,012.

SPANISH REVOLUTION.

Menacing Attitude of the Populace Indicates Trouble Ahead for the Don.

According to the St. James Gazette private letters received from Madrid say that General Weyler's reception there was most significant, and that the government is so alarmed by the menacing attitude of the populace that artillery has been stationed at concealed points commanding the main thoroughfares. The gunners, however, can be relied upon.

The wildest rumors are current, says the letter in question, with reports that preparations are making for the flight of the royal family to France at the first sign of a revolution.

Asked to Co-Operate.

The Atlanta Clearing House Association held an important meeting Friday at which resolutions were adopted urging all chambers of commerce, clearing houses and bankers' associations of the southern states to take prompt action looking to carrying out the plans recently proposed at the bankers' convention held in Atlanta, to send a delegation to Washington to co-operate with those who are seeking a reformation of the currency and banking system.

TAKE NO AGGRESSIVE ACTION

House Will Not Carry Out Declaration in Regard to Cuba.

CAUCUS TO SHOW THE POLICY OF MINORITY

New Ministers and Consuls—Men Who Will Represent Uncle Sam in the Courts Abroad—Treasury Statement—Other Capitol Notes.

Leading Democratic members of the house of representatives say no aggressive action is anticipated to carry out the declarations of the recent democratic house caucus on Cuba, finance and bankruptcy. The caucus will be allowed to stand as showing the policy of the minority. It is said, however, that it would be useless to force the Cuban question before the house, as the rules would not permit the minority to bring the question to a vote. The senate Cuban resolution, which was endorsed by the caucus, reposes in the committee on foreign affairs and there is no power under the rules to get it from that committee.

Representative Livingston, of Georgia, has suggested that a resolution be presented directing the foreign committee to report the Cuban resolution at once. But this procedure would be ineffective, as the resolution directing an immediate report would be referred to the committee on rules. It is not doubted that this body, representing the majority, would not act favorably on a motion of this character. All parliamentarians on the democratic side concede that it will be impossible for the minority to force an issue on Cuba. They are more hopeful of giving expression to the caucus action on finance. The majority will doubtless bring forward financial measures on the lines suggested by the president and Secretary Gage, and the democratic caucus policy will be given effect by the casting of the solid democratic vote, numbering 125, against the measure.

On the bankruptcy question, it is expected, that the minority will frame a bankruptcy bill calculated to meet the caucus declaration for a "wise and just" measure of this character. The bill when framed will be offered as a substitute to the one to be urged by the committee on judiciary after the holidays.

NEW MINISTERS AND CONSULS.

Names of Men Who Will Serve Their Country Abroad.

The president has sent the following nominations to the senate:

State—Wm. W. Thomas, Jr., of Maine, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Sweden and Norway; Hamilton King, of Michigan, to be minister resident and consul general of the United States to Siam; James C. McNally, of Pennsylvania, to be secretary of legation and consul general of the United States at Bogota, Colombia; Edgar O. Achorn, of Massachusetts, to be secretary of the legation of the United States at St. Petersburg, Russia.

Carolina Convict Problem.

While the legislatures of several of the Southern states have been wrestling with the convict question, the South Carolina board of directors of the penitentiary has just ordered the sale of 1,100 bales of cotton on hand. The expectation is that the penitentiary will have 2,500 bales to offer before the season closes. All of this cotton was made on the several state farms with convict labor. The farms will this year turn in at least $10,000 to the state treasury.

England's Great Actor Assassinated.

William Terris, the well known actor, was assassinated, being stabbed with a knife, as he was entering the stage door of the Adelphi theater, London, Thursday night. The murderer rushed at the actor as he was stepping across the pavement from his cab and stabbed him just below the heart. As the actor fell his murderer was seized by people who were outside the theater. The wounded man expired in fifteen minutes. The name of the murderer is given as Archer.

Cause of Much Misery.

Of all microbes the animalcule of la grippe is the ugliest to look upon. Magnified to the size of the picture here shown, this microbe has the appearance of a new kind of bug—all legs and body. Suffering mortals who have been sneezing, sniffling and mopping watery eyes will be interested in a GRIPPE MICROBE, to see the cause of their trouble. This microbe is industrious, if not pretty, and he will continue to be much in evidence unless all present indications fail.

A New Jersey paper prints a picture of a young woman who was bitten nearly to death by mosquitoes. We cannot escape the impression that these mosquito-eaters sometimes display very poor taste.

ALABAMA'S BEAUTY TALKS SENSE.

Miss Alice Ralston

Jenifer, Ala., says: "I have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 15 years, and I know it cures Sick Headaches and Constipated Bowels. I think it has more strength and action than either 'Black Draught' or 'Zellin's Regulator'."

Parturition.

Childbirth, when natural, should be easy, and it is always easy when the right preparations are made. Nature never intended that woman should be tortured when doing the one thing that makes her wholly womanly. To fear or shrink from childbirth is a crime—not by the laws of society, but by the laws of heredity—for the mother's condition reacts upon her offspring. Every child has an inalienable right to be born on purpose, and the right to be the product of the best manhood and best womanhood of its parents and the consummation of their life's joys. To secure this condition, the best tonic that can be used is Dr. Simmons' Squaw Vine Wine; it is perfectly safe and harmless to use at all times and under all circumstances in the doses prescribed. It assists nature in softening, relaxing and expanding the muscles and ligaments involved, thereby decreasing labor pains and shortens labor. Rapid, safe and comparatively painless delivery follows its continuous use.

J. J. Ingram

Hatchett Creek, Ala., writes:

I have known Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine all my life, and have used it 15 years. Think it far superior to 'Zellin's' medicine, and that it excels 'Black Draught' to a large extent. It cures Sick Headache and Wind Colic.

Too Frequent Menstruation.

When the monthly flow occurs at the proper period and is otherwise strictly natural, the patient suffers little or no pain, but if it occurs too often, continues too long or too profuse, it induces a feeble pulse, cold extremities, weak respiration and general debility. In treating this disease, moderate exercise and fresh air are most essential; the digestive organs should be regulated with Dr. Simmons' Squaw Vine Wine, and the happiest results will follow the use of Dr. Simmons' Squaw Vine Wine in strengthening the system so that too frequent menstruation resulting from debility will be corrected.
